POTHOLES IN STREET PLAN?

The Cellar?

Arts Center Tenants Eyed

The Cellar was suggested Saturday as a possible tenant for the planned downtown Arlington Heights community arts center.

Leasing part of the cultural arts building to the teen center, or a similar youth club, could provide substantial income, Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson said.

Hanson made the suggestion regarding The Cellar at a joint meeting of park commissioners, village trustees and John Lobenhofer of Village Theatre. Among those present to discuss plans for the proposed downtown community cultural center was Village Pres. John G. Woods, back in action after a long bout of virus penumonia.

Officials from both taxing bodies stressed at their meeting that the proposed village arts center must be self-supporting—that it must provide enough income to pay off any village-backed construction loan.

At Saturday's joint meeting, park commissioners and trustees also were briefed on the Arlington Heights Historical Society's progress toward establishment of a museum.

Hanson told the group that Historical Society leaders are confident they can raise enough money to finance and maintain a historical museum, provided "official recognition" is given the project by village trustees. A village board resolution was suggested as a means of doing this.

Hanson said income from a youth club lease was one of three possible sources of revenue for the proposed cultural arts center.

OTHER income sources, he told the joint meeting, might be:

—Rentals for use of the theater, display arts space and meeting rooms.

—Revenue from commuter parking.

Hanson suggested that a metered commuter lot be provided on part of the unselected block-square downtown parcel on which the cultural center will be built.

PRESENT rentals paid by four area arts groups—Village Theatre, Best Off Broadway, the Countryside Art Center and Music on Stage—were given trustees by Lobenhofer.

He added that they should expect rental revenues from the proposed community arts building to be much greater.

"All the groups I checked with want to do more but can't, now, because of lack of facilities," Lobenhofer commented, adding, "For example, none of them do any work during the summer."

The Village Theatre representative cited Peoria and Western Springs as examples of communities with thriving community arts buildings. Trustee Roy Bressler added Flint, Mich., to the list, saying that he'd just returned from a three-day trip to that city and had been most impressed with the cultural center there.

THE CELLAR was suggested as a way of providing a place in the building for teen-agers. Woods, Hanson and the trustees were frank to add that they would like to see that teen club relocate in Arlington Heights.

The youth center has indicated it may move to Palatine after vacating the old St. Peter Church building, where it has operated successfully for some time.

Supt. Clabaugh Receives $1,000 Increase in Salary

The District 25 school board Monday night raised to $25,000 the annual salary of R. E. Clabaugh, superintendent of the Arlington Heights district.

The new salary represents a $1,000 increase over what Clabaugh is now earning. The proposal to raise Clabaugh's salary came at a regular meeting during which board members waded through numerous business items ranging from salary schedules for non-certificated employes to the school calendar for next term.

The district superintendent's position is the only job in the district not subject to a prescribed salary range.

IN OTHER action, the board raised by $200 the base salary for non-certificated employes. The salary hike was accompanied by reduction of one year from the number of years required to reach the top of salary schedule. Highest paying positions of the three classes of non-certificated employes may now be attained with only four instead of five years' experience.

Over-all cost to the district from the base salary increases and schedule change will amount to $300,200, as compared with $280,600 for the current school year. This figure will increase by more than $31,000 with the employment of six new workers next term.

The salary hike brings to $5,000 the base annual salary for custodians. The second group, which includes head custodian, maintenance-grounds workers, delivery men, relief custodian and receiving clerk, will receive a starting salary of $5,300 annually. Junior high school head custodian, head maintenance man and head groundsman will receive $5,500 a year.

A regular hourly wage of $2.50 for building attendance was approved with $3 allowed for work on Sunday and holidays.

THE BOARD rejected a request by the custodial workers union that a minimum of four hours wages be paid to employes called back after regular working hours. Board members did allow, however, a minimum of two hours' pay.

Requests by the union that a hospitalization plan be provided and that a payroll deduction for their credit union be taken from custodial employes' wages were approved by the board.

The board also okayed equipment requests totaling more than $57,000. The money will go

Judge to Speak At Jaycee Banquet

Arlington Heights Junior Chamber of Commerce completed plans this week for its Distinguished Service Award banquet with the selection of Circuit Judge Robert L. Hunter as featured speaker.

Judge Hunter, who presides over divorce court in Cook County, will be featured on the program March 26 along with eight past winners of the service award.

The award is presented each year to an outstanding person under 35 who has made a significant contribution to the village. The banquet will be held at Chevy Chase Country Club in Wheeling. Jaycee officials announced that for the first time an invitation has been extended to the public. Reservations may be made by calling 392-6980 or 392-2782.

Hearing Set For March 30

by Dan Baumann
News Editor

First of a series

Public hearings on Arlington Heights' new thoroughfare plan will be started by the plan commission March 30.

Most dramatic aspect of the plan—which is tied to the downtown development plan—is a recommendation that Northwest Highway and the North Western Railway tracks be depressed with bridges carrying traffic across key downtown streets.

Most immediate impact of the plan, however, will be on residents of Kennicott Avenue, between Northwest Highway and Oakton Street. Their street classification is increased from a local street to an "intermediate collector" under the plan.

A second recommendation laden with possibilities of conflict is that the combination of Ridge Avenue south of the tracks and Walnut Avenue north to Oakton be retained in their previous categories as collectors, with a jog at the tracks for a new railroad crossing from Ridge to Walnut.

THE IMPROVEMENT of Kennicott and Walnut has been before the board of local improvements (BOLI) for the past year. In both cases, residents opposed widening under the proposed designation.

BOLI has postponed action on both projects pending adoption of a new thoroughfare plan.

The plan commission members should have little difficulty among themselves agreeing on the plan; a special thoroughfare subcommittee of the commission, headed by Fred Ainslie, dictated much of the new thoroughfare map. Textual material supporting the map was drafted by Tec-Search municipal plan consultants, who prepared the downtown report.

But the commission may encounter technical difficulties: glaring conflicts appear between the map and text of the report; the most likely points of controversy—the neighborhood collectors and intermediate collectors—are unsupported by textual comments; and traffic counts on which the recommendations are based are now up to two years old.

THE NEW thoroughfare plan will replace one seven years old —included in the 1959 village master plan.

The commission had originally planned to schedule hearings last September but did not receive the thoroughfare report

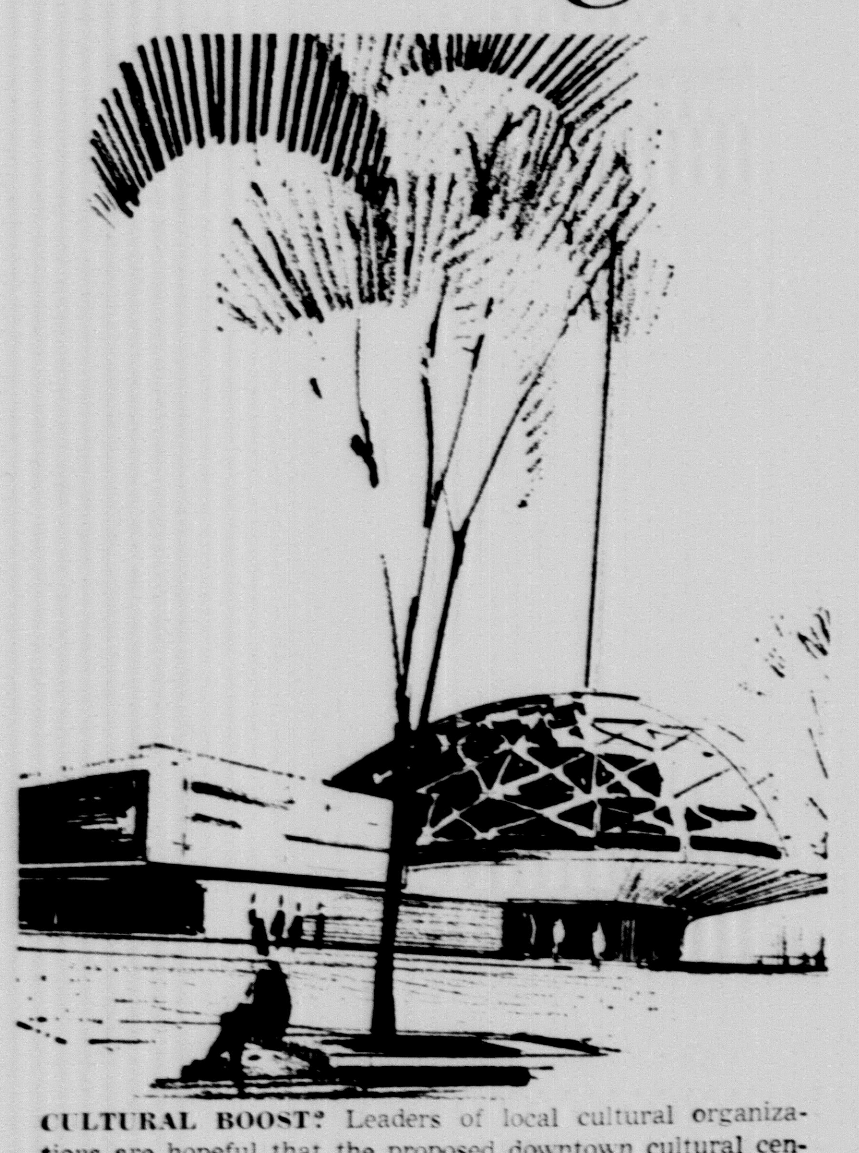
Growing Cultural Interest a Promising Trend



CULTURAL BOOST? Leaders of local cultural organizations are hopeful that the proposed downtown cultural center will stimulate interest in Arlington Heights towards the fine arts. Shown here is an artist's conception of the cultural center. Sketch is from Tec-Search report on downtown revitalization.

Arlington Heights may be suffering from a so-called "culture lag," but at least something is being done to overcome it.

Village cultural leaders agree that the increasing interest in local concerts, plays and art shows is a promising trend. This idea is underscored by village officials' hope to build a cultural center in the downtown area.

But at the same time, leaders of local cultural organizations point out that much needs to be done to attain a higher level of appreciation in the fine arts.

COMPETITION WITH NUMEROUS cultural events in Chicago, says Mrs. Betty Brooks, president of Village Theatre, Inc., is one of the main problems confronting her group's efforts.

"I feel the interest is very high," she emphasizes, "but people are going downtown. We've got to break them of this habit." Despite this factor, the response to locally produced plays has been very good and should get better, according to Mrs. Brooks.

She says each of the four plays Village Theatre produces every season always draws from 1,500 to 2,000 persons. Mrs. Brooks cites the increasing number of student plays as another indication that the community is moving up the cultural ladder.

THAT TEENAGERS CAN BE challenged by cultural impact of drama is being demonstrated more and more by the enthusiasm with which Arlington High School students produce some of the better-known plays.

Drama teacher Lyovonne Trad says that during her eight and a half years at Arlington, she has witnessed a marked increase in student drama participation. More plays are produced annually than in previous years, she notes.

"I think generally speaking there is increased interest in the arts among teenagers," she asserts. The cultural level at the school is quite high and would even be higher if the demands of studies were not as great, according to Miss Trad.

THE GROWING MEMBERSHIP of the Community Concert Association, now over 1,000, is cited by Mrs. Thomas Grisell, the association's concert manager, as a firm indication of higher interest in cultural activities.

The response has not been only from adults, says Mrs. Grisell. Attendance by youngsters older than 10 and by teenagers has steadily gone up.

The upsurge of attendance may be a promising sign for the association, but it is posing some problems in providing adequate space for the larger audiences. Currently, concerts are held in the Arlington Theater, which has good surroundings and acoustics. However, Mrs. Grisell stresses, the theater may soon prove inadequate to accommodate future concert audiences, which may force limiting the number of membership subscriptions sold.

Mrs. Grisell describes the association as catering to "the highest taste in the community." Such music appreciation has brought to the village groups like the St. Louis Symphony and the Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra. Coming performances include the Norman Luboff choir, the De Cormier Singers and vocalist Theodore Uppmann.

THE COUNTRYSIDE GALLERY, headed by Mrs. William Stull, is perhaps one of the most forceful influences on local cultural life. Located at 10 W. Miner St., the gallery serves the entire northwest suburban area and is part of a larger organization known as the Countryside Art Center.

The success the organization has enjoyed since its feeble beginnings about 10 years ago, says Mrs. Stull, is a testimony to local interest in the fine arts.

Mrs. Stull disagrees with the argument by many artists that Arlington Heights and other suburbs are "cultural deserts." Though the average suburbanite still prefers conventional realistic art, there is a growing interest in modern, abstract works, she asserts.

She admits, however, that many suburbanites are not "art oriented" and that currently the center is attempting to evaluate its own role in promoting the fine arts.

"Most of us are capable of appreciating art," she emphasizes. But the big problem, she adds, is to raise this potential to an understanding of painting and sculpture.

IT'S BEEN TOUCH AND GO for the Arlington Civic Symphony, which has been plagued with organizational and membership problems during its few years of existance. Symphony director Mel Kasen is optimistic that the problems soon will be overcome.

But Kasen does not let his optimism obscure what he considers to be a real cultural need in Arlington Heights. Agreeing with Mrs. Brooks, Kasen says the fact that local cultural activities must compete with Chicago performances has hindered attainment of a higher cultural level.

The village's character as a commuter town has created a kind of "divided allegiance," asserts Kasen. He notes that he is encouraged by the increased interest in community concerts but stresses that there is a definite need to upgrade cultural appreciation.

"I hope it simply means educating these people," he adds. He says he thinks efforts need to be made to develop a "local ethnocentrism."

Kasen, who conducts orchestras at Miner, South and Thomas Junior High Schools, indicates that he has witnessed a growing enthusiasm among youngsters towards orchestra music.

He also suggested the possibility of forming a local choral group. He said he knows many fine choral directors and singers who live in the area.

THE DEPARTURE OF THE local radio station, WNWC, from the classical music programming which is typical of FM broadcasts, might be described by music purists as an indication that local taste is on the decline. But station manager Wayne Smith contends that programming is a matter of economics.

"The FM market is pretty well saturated (with classical music)," he asserts. "We could go on a classical music format all day and be doing nothing that another station in Chicago isn't doing." The current format of popular and rock 'n roll music is part of an effort to give the station local identity, especially with the teen set, explains Smith.

Panel to Discuss Minority Problems

Four panelists will discuss "The Problems of Local Spanish-Speaking People" at the Arlington Heights Human Relations Committee next general meeting.

The public meeting has been set for Friday, March 25, at 8 p.m. in the St. James Junior High building, 800 N. Arlington Heights Road.

Present to discuss problems faced by local Latin-Americans will be Virgil Bass, vice chairman of Norwesco; George Theodore, director of High School District 214's Neighborhood Youth Corps; Miss Mary Stypul, nursing supervisor of the Cook County Department of Health, and Mrs. Charles Baker, a volunteer worker from the First Methodist Church.

The panelists will be introduced by Mrs. William Dempsey, new program chairman for the human relations group.

Mrs. Dempsey will also tell committee members of the National Council of Christians and Jews workshop, "Rearing Children of Good Will," which will be sponsored in this community in April by the village human relations committee.

Interested couples and individuals may make arrangements to attend by calling her at 392-3564.

Trustees to Face Lengthy Agenda

A report on costs of a garbage survey, a request for refund of downtown parking funds, bids and building and zoning requests will be on the agenda of the Arlington Heights Village Board when it meets Monday.

The meeting will be at 8 p.m. in the Municipal Building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Road.

The village manager has been asked to report on the kind of survey the village could make for $200. Trustees want to sample village attitudes toward the present back door garbage pickup service.

THE REFUND of $4,800 in funds contributed to the downtown parking fund in 1959 will be sought by Howard Faber. Faber recently received a variation from the zoning board of appeals, relieving him of the obligation to provide four off street parking spaces. The money was contributed in lieu of those spaces. The board is not expected to return the contribution.

Bids for 3,000 tons of ground stone for road maintenance will be presneted to the board. The bids were to be opened in the manager's office Wednesday.

PROBABLY the most controversial matter coming to the village board from the plan commission will be its report on zoning for the Pingel-Hindebrandt farms south of the Nike base. Developers have indicated they will ask the village board to reverse part of the plan group's recommendation on the site (see separate story).

Six amendments to the comprehensive zoning ordinance, of concern mainly to larger developers, will be discussed by trustees. They also will consider the final subdivision plat for Evergreen Court Apartments on the village's south side and the final plat of unit 1 of Brandenburry Park apartments on Rand Road.

Thomas PTA to Hear Talk on Smoking, Cancer

"Smoking and Cancer" and its effect on children will be discussed by Dr. Ralph C. Greene, director of pathology at Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines, at the March 22 meeting of Thomas Junior High PTA, Arlington Heights.

The meeting will be held at 8:15 p.m. at the school.

Dr. Greene's discussion will include the showing of two movies on the subject.

Election of PTA officers will also be held at the meeting.

Bob Paddock Is Rotary President

Three local businessmen, a utility representative and a member of the clergy will direct activities of the Arlington Heights Rotary Club next year, starting July 1. Complete slate of officers was elected last Thursday, and announced by current president, Ray Raines, owner of the Beauty Bar in Arlington Market.

Bob Paddock, vice president of Paddock Publications, and former president of Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce, will take over the president's job in Rotary July 1.

HELPING HIM during the coming year will be:

First vice president, Richard Leider of Northern Illinois Gas Co.

Second vice president, John Bowen of Bowen Hardware, and retail chairman of the local Chamber of Commerce.

Secretary, Dr. William Jones, minister of Southminster Presbyterian church.

Treasurer, Donald Morton of Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan.

Touring Actors to Give Lenten Play

The play, "Sacrament and Sacrifice" will be presented by Our Saviour's Lutheran Church, 1234 N. Arlington Heights Road, Arlington Heights, at 8 p.m. Saturday, March 19, as part of its Lenten observance.

The drama will be performed in the church chancel by a touring company of the Chicagoland Lutheran Council under the sponsorship of Tri-M, the adult fellowship of the congregation.

"Sacrament and Sacrifice" is based on the words of Christ used in the institution of the Lord's Supper. The whole redemption story from the birth of Christ to His ascension is developed and its message related to the attitudes and conditions of the present. The drama is presented in modern dress to give a sense of immediacy to the gospel events.

THE PLAY was written by the Rev. Robert Clausen, director of the Chicagoland Lutheran Theatre and author of over a dozen religious plays.

Planners of the program, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Roggenbuck, Roselle, and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Anderson, Arlington Heights, will host a coffee hour following the drama. Adult members and older children of the congregation are invited to attend.

An offering will be received to defray production costs of the play. (A

The public meeting has been set for Friday, March 25, at 8 p.m. in the St. James Junior High building, 800 N. Arlington Heights Road.

Present to discuss problems faced by local Latin-Americans will be Virgil Bass, vice chairman of Norwesco; George Theodore, director of High School District 214's Neighborhood Youth Corps; Miss Mary Stypul, nursing supervisor of the Cook County Department of Health, and Mrs. Charles Baker, a volunteer worker from the First Methodist Church.

The panelists will be introduced by Mrs. William Dempsey, new program chairman for the human relations group.

Mrs. Dempsey will also tell committee members of the National Council of Christians and Jews workshop, "Rearing Children of Good Will," which will be sponsored in this community in April by the village human relations committee.

Interested couples and individuals may make arrangements to attend by calling her at 392-3564.

The only business planned by the committee for this meeting, the president, Nicholas Shuman, said, is election of a nominating committee. (A

Community Concerts

COMMUNITY CONCERTS WEEK has been proclaimed for March 21 through 26 by Village Pres. John G. Woods, shown with Mrs. L. W. Zonsius, membership chairman of the Arlington Heights Community Concerts Association. The association will hold its annual campaign for members during the week. Purpose is to assure a series of concerts here by world famous artists during the coming season. Woods said the association helps living in the community "a more rewarding experience" and provides residents "an advantage of inestimable value." (Staff photo) (A

Trustees to Face Lengthy Agenda

A report on costs of a garbage survey, a request for refund of downtown parking funds, bids and building and zoning requests will be on the agenda of the Arlington Heights Village Board when it meets Monday.

The meeting will be at 8 p.m. in the Municipal Building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Road.

The village manager has been asked to report on the kind of survey the village could make for $200. Trustees want to sample village attitudes toward the present back door garbage pickup service.

THE REFUND of $4,800 in funds contributed to the downtown parking fund in 1959 will be sought by Howard Faber. Faber recently received a variation from the zoning board of appeals, relieving him of the obligation to provide four off street parking spaces. The money was contributed in lieu of those spaces. The board is not expected to return the contribution.

Bids for 3,000 tons of ground stone for road maintenance will be presneted to the board. The bids were to be opened in the manager's office Wednesday.

PROBABLY the most controversial matter coming to the village board from the plan commission will be its report on zoning for the Pingel-Hindebrandt farms south of the Nike base. Developers have indicated they will ask the village board to reverse part of the plan group's recommendation on the site (see separate story).

Six amendments to the comprehensive zoning ordinance, of concern mainly to larger developers, will be discussed by trustees. They also will consider the final subdivision plat for Evergreen Court Apartments on the village's south side and the final plat of unit 1 of Brandenburry Park apartments on Rand Road.

Thomas PTA to Hear Talk on Smoking, Cancer

"Smoking and Cancer" and its effect on children will be discussed by Dr. Ralph C. Greene, director of pathology at Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines, at the March 22 meeting of Thomas Junior High PTA, Arlington Heights.

The meeting will be held at 8:15 p.m. at the school.

Dr. Greene's discussion will include the showing of two movies on the subject.

Election of PTA officers will also be held at the meeting.

County Building Department Investigation Is Overdue

by DAN BAUMANN
News Editor

Election year is probably as good a time as any to bring it up—the apparently widespread dissatisfaction of building contractors with the Cook County Building and Zoning Department.

BAUMANN

If only a fraction of what builders say about the department is true, there's scandal brewing.

A building inspector was charged a few weeks ago in Wheeling for allegedly soliciting and accepting a $50 bribe in exchange for permitting two signs to be erected outside Wheeling—and outside the limits of the county zoning code. The courts will decide the legal merits of the charge.

Seymour Simon, county board chairman, suspended the inspector pending outcome of the court case and announced he, too, would investigate.

More interesting would be an investigation, by Simon, the Better Government Association, Republicans or anyone else in the mood, of the innuendos being passed by builders about the building department.

One contractor I met several months ago started to talk about what he insisted was widespread palm greasing in the building department. When he learned I was a reporter, he looked embarrassed, took my card and promised to send me a list of contractors who could testify to personal experiences with bribery.

I haven't heard from him.

Another contractor, after I assured him his name was "off the record," said bribe taking in the county department is widely known.

"Usually it involves the guy who wants to make money fast" by violating zoning or building standards, he said.

"But I've found that $10 will help speed up an application. It's one of the costs we have come to assume."

Why are these burly tradesmen so reluctant to talk about wrongdoing, if there is any truth behind their talk? In the case of paying a bribe to get an illegal job approved, the answer is obvious.

Where they claim they have to pay to prevent their project getting burried in red tape, it's simply a matter of passing the cost along to the buyer. They don't lose, except in the area of self respect.

"A guy who does a lot of building in the county has to live with it," the second builder said.

I wonder whether the rest of us should be expected to "live with it." I took a tour around the periphery of Arlington Heights last summer specifically to see whether a noticable difference exists in enforcement by the county and the village.

Although the borders of the village zig-zag all over the map, it isn't hard to tell where the village ends and Cook County controlled territory begins. Look for jumbles of billboards, junk autos and other signs of decay.

County officials maintain, and to some degree rightly, that they have a vast territory to cover. We taxpayers, however, have not been selfish about supporting their work.

The building and zoning department's budget last year was $910,000, with the bulk of that devoted to the salaries of 93 employes. By comparison, the Arlington Heights building and zoning department had 6½ employes and a total budget of $60,000. Arlington's level of new building is about half that in the unincorporated areas supervised by Cook County.

An investigation appears to be in order, either to clean up a civic mess or to answer the allegations being made by builders.

Fast Freight Hits Caboose, Two Die

65 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK

The Herald, March 16, 1901

Two men died and six were injured in a rear-end collision between two stock trains on the Chicago and North Western Railway in Arlington Heights last Tuesday. It was the village's worst railway wreck.

A stock train was standing on the southbound track at this station while picking up a car of cattle to be shipped to Chicago when a fast freight came thundering down the grade.

The engine collided with the caboose, throwing it into the air and smashing it into kindling. There were eight men in the caboose. Two were killed and six injured. The dead are Edward F. Schmidt of Palatine and a Wisconsin man, Gust A. Bock.

50 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK

The Herald, March 17, 1916

John Adam Klehm, one of Arlington Heights' oldest citizens and founder of Klehm's Nurseries, died Thursday at the age of 81.

He was born in Germany in 1834. In 1851, his mother and her two sons came to America. They lived in Seneca and in Buffalo, N. Y., until 1855 when they moved to Jefferson Park, Ill. Two years later they moved to Arlington Heights (then called Dunton) where John Klehm lived ever since—59 years.

25 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK

March 14, 1941

J. D. Flentie is retiring as mayor of Arlington Heights and will not be a candidate for re-election next month.

Flentie's record of public service began when he was elected town clerk in 1904 at the age of 22. He held that position until 1915. He was a village trustee from 1909 to 1913, township collector from 1920 to 1921, and mayor since 1931.

Among major achievements of his administration are:

—replacement of gas street lights with electricity;

—erection of additions to the village hall and library;

—new municipal water supply with two new wells, a water tower and large mains around the village.

10 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK

The Herald, March 8, 1956

A special census just completed shows the population of Arlington Heights to be 19,150. In August, 1953, the count was 13,380. Since the state returns $5 a year in motor fuel tax funds for each resident, the increase will bring an additional $28,850.

OK Street Paving Private Contract

Property owners along a portion of Kaspar Avenue between Northwest Highway and Oakton Street in Arlington Heights were authorized by the board of local improvements (BOLI) last Thursday to have their part of the street paved by a private contractor.

They are the ones between 732 and 948 N. Kaspar on the west and from the south boundary of Kaspar on the east.

The remaining Kaspar Avenue property owners between Northwest Highway and Oakton Street will have their part of the street paved through special assessments.

PROPERTY OWNERS involved in the project to pave Kaspar were given the option of letting the street be paved through special assessments or of proceeding on their own to have it done by private contractor.

Those using a private contractor were to have deposited in escrow a sufficient sum to cover the cost of their share of the project by last Thursday's BOLI meeting.

But only 41 property owners, about half the total, had their deposits or bank statements of credit in.

Two more deposits reached the village finace manager since Thursday but they had no effect on the length of the segment to be paved by private contractor.

In the segment where paving by private contractor was approved by BOLI, property owners who got their deposits in were bunched together and represented a continuous stretch of street.

They will find paving costs some 20 to 30 per cent less than those who wait for special assessments because their paving bills will not include the legal costs necessitated by special assessments. (A

Engineer Answers Objection to Sewer

Sanitary District opposition to the installation of storm sewers in an improvement project on Olive Street in Arlington Heights is expected to disappear, according to Charles McBride of Consoer, Townsend and Associates, consulting engineers to the board of local improvements (BOLI).

He told BOLI on Feb. 24 that the Sanitary District officials had denied a permit for the project because they believed the storm sewer would drain into an existing combined sewer.

REACHED BY telephone Monday, McBride said that William Cadigan, Consoer, Townsend associate, had investigated and found that the existing sewer was in fact not combined.

He said that the Sanitary District denial would be appealed and that he expected that a permit would be granted once the misconception is cleared up.

Joe Lohr is the pharmacist and his wife, a trained beautician, handles the cosmetics end of the business. Pharmacist Joe Lohr Marks His 25th Year

Twenty-fifth anniversary as a pharmacist in Arlington Heights is being marked this week by Joe Lohr, owner of Lohr Pharmacy, 210 W. Northwest Highway. His is the oldest existing pharmacy in the village.

Arlington Heights was a town of 5,800 when Lohr started here in 1941. He had previously worked in pharmacies in Cicero for 10 years.

The first Lohr Pharmacy was located at 22 E. Northwest Highway, where he bought the former Wendt Pharmacy. He stayed at that location almost 20 years, going through numerous remodeling cycles.

ON LABOR DAY, 1960, Lohr Pharmacy was moved to its present location in a new building. It was formerly the site of St. Peter's Lutheran Church.

In his 25 years in Arlington Heights, Lohr has noted profound changes in the drug business, changes for the better. Along with the phasing-out of the soda fountain has come the development of newer products, the steroids and antibiotics which are the result of years of research and scientific preparation.

Lohr Pharmacy is a family business, and working with Joe Lohr are his wife, Josephine and his brother, Ray Lohr. Each is prepared to handle a different facet of the business.

LOHR graduated from the University of Illinois in 1932 with a degree in pharmacy. His brother Ray is also a University of Illinois graduate but with a B.S. degree in accounting.

Mrs. Lohr's training rounds out their combined background and experience: she is a graduate beautician of the American School of Ethical Beauty Culture, Chicago.

Active in professional organizations in his field, Lohr three years ago was president of the Northwest Community Pharmaceutical Council. He is also a member of Illinois Pharmaceutical Association and the National Association of Retail Druggists. (A

February Fire Loss Was $6000

Fire loss in Arlington Heights for February was estimated at $6,000, according to the monthly report of village Fire Chief Harvey Carothers.

Carothers reported that the department responded to 22 fire calls, eight emergency calls and 13 inhalator requests last month. Included in the fire loss figure was $4,400 worth of damage inflicted on the northside fire station Feb. 8. The blaze started in a hose drying tower because of a faulty unit heater, Carothers reported.

The report also showed that 381 building inspections were made from Jan. 1 to the end of last month, compared with 469 inspections conducted in the same period last year. (A

Slichenmyer Estimates Federal Aid at $663,400

High School District 214 may use as much as $663,400 in federal funds during the coming year.

That estimate was given to the board Monday by Supt. H. L. Slichenmyer.

The figure covers programs ranging from outright grants for the cooperative Instructional Materials Center, to matching aid for purchase of science equipment, to subsidization of vocational teachers' salaries.

Business Mgr. Frank Coleman is using the $663,400 total in working out the proposed 1966-67 budget for the school district.

FEDERAL AID in the past has provided about 9 to 10 per cent of the high school district's total revenue, Coleman says. He did not say he expected this year's percentage to be much different.

The federal funds are the equivalent of a local tax of 13 cents on each $100 of assessed valuation, the report said. This is lower than the 21 cent tax figure given the board by Supt. H. L. Slichenmyer in February as an estimate of local taxes needed to replace federal funds.

Some of District 214's federal monies will go for continuing projects, while others will require formal board approval at a later date.

Among these is an estimated $94,000 grant, to cover 75 per cent of the cost of the high school district's Work Orientation Program to aid potential dropouts.

THE SCHOOL district plans to seek:

—National Defense Education Act funds of $76,000, to cover partial costs of equipment and materials used in teaching science, mathematics, English, reading and social studies in the five high schools that will be in operation next year. Total cost of the equipment will be $176,000.

—A total of $232,000 to cover partial costs of the district's vocationally-oriented programs. This includes the Work Orientation Program.

—SOME $280,000 available under P.L. 89-10. the elementary and secondary education act. About $235,000 of this would go for the Instructional Materials Center and any application for the remaining funds must have the high school board's approval.

—Some $75,000 for the Neighborhood Youth Corps — assuming it is continued.

Not included in Coleman's figures are amounts received by the district for its school lunch program. In January — a high month for the lunch program — $2,200 was claimed for "Type A" meal reimbursement and another $4,000 for a federal milk subsidy. (ACM-E

Novotny Announces Campaign Leaders

Thomas W. Novotny, candidate for Republican committeeman of Wheeling Township, has announced the first of a series of appointments to positions in his campaign organization.

Fred R. Ainslie will serve as general chairman of the citizens' group, "Republicans for Novotny."

Ainslie was campaign chairman for the Arlington Heights Caucus Party in 1965. He is a member of the Arlington Heights Plan Commission, a former president of the Holy Name Society of Our Lady of the Wayside Catholic Church, and a former Republican captain of township Precinct 6.

As chairman of his businessman's committee, Novotny has named Robert Cagann, who was elected Wheeling Township auditor last year. He is a Republican captain and is program chairman of the Wheeling Township Regular Republican Club. He was recently appointed general manager of F-B-K Inc., Realtors.

CAMPAIGN MANAGER for Novotny will be H. F. "Pete" Bunnelle of Arlington Heights. He is vice president of the Wheeling Township Regular Republican Club and was its program chairman last year. He has served as Republican captain of Precinct 34 since 1961.

CAGANN

Novotny also released a letter to members of the Wheeling Township Women's Republican Club. In it he noted that he had accepted an invitation to speak to the club but stated that "my opponent refuses any joint appearances."

"It is most unfortunate that the selection of an officer as important to the party as committeeman cannot receive the widest attention," Novotny commented in the letter.

Novotny said he was "very pleased" with the reaction to his candidacy and that "many people" had called to volunteer their help. He asked that others call him at CL 5-3494 or Bunnelle at CL 5-2297.

Novotny charged there are, "so many good party workers and supporters locally who have been alienated in the past few years that it is obvious why the slump in Republican party fortunes has developed here. We are enlisting these people in our campaign and intend to make them an active force in the party again.

"The local Republican party will no longer be an exclusive club." (ACM

Township Officials To Speak Wednesday

Wheeling and Elk Grove township electors who must approve township budgets April 5 can hear accomplishments of this year's township government at a public meeting next Wednesday, March 23.

Mrs. Ethel Kolerus, Wheeling Township auditor, and David Regner, Elk Grove Township auditor, will be speakers at the 8 p.m. meeting in Pioneer Park Fieldhouse, 500 S. Fernandez, Arlington Heights.

Richard Cowen, moderator of the past four Wheeling Township annual meetings, will appear on the program to explain rules of town meeting conduct and statutory powers of electors.

COWEN, A YOUNG Arlington Heights lawyer, was recently appointed Wheeling Township attorney.

The public meeting is sponsored by the local 100-member League of Women Voters as a citizen service. In charge of the program is Mrs. Ernest Beal, Mount Prospect.

The LWV is currently conducting a study of Wheeling and Elk Grove Township governments and budgets. Directing the study is Mrs. Herbert Andersen of Wheeling.

An earlier LWV study of township government led to league adoption of a position favoring "economical and effective budgeting and wise expenditures of Wheeling Township income."

To help its members, and other interested citizens, become informed on the two townships' proposed 1966-67 budgets, the league will sponsor a workshop on Monday, March 28. Proposed budgets, and past budgets and expenditure figures, will be available for inspection at the workshop.

ARRANGEMENTS to attend may be made by calling Mrs. Andersen at 537-4117.

The workshop date was chosen because it is one day before the two townships' annual budget hearings, set for Tuesday, March 29, at 8 p.m. in the Wheeling and Elk Grove Township halls.

The Wheeling town meeting will take place Tuesday, April 5, at 8 p.m. in the Miner Junior High School gymnasium. The Elk Grove town meeting will be that same time at their township building. (ACM-E

College for Your Kids

Few things in life are more gratifying than seeing your kids carve out college careers—perhaps earning a Phi Beta Kappa key that you missed ... or getting the college education that you yearned for.

But college means money—lots of it. More youngsters are denied college for lack of dollars than for lack of brains.

Now is the time to set up a College Fund Account and keep it apart from other family finances. This is a joint project the youngsters will gladly join—by part-time and summer jobs and by more careful management of the money they now handle.

You'll be happier when the College Fund Account matches the growth of your youngsters.

High School District 214 may use as much as $663,400 in federal funds during the coming year.

That estimate was given to the board Monday by Supt. H. L. Slichenmyer.

The figure covers programs ranging from outright grants for the cooperative Instructional Materials Center, to matching aid for purchase of science equipment, to subsidization of vocational teachers' salaries.

Business Mgr. Frank Coleman is using the $663,400 total in working out the proposed 1966-67 budget for the school district.

FEDERAL AID in the past has provided about 9 to 10 per cent of the high school district's total revenue, Coleman says. He did not say he expected this year's percentage to be much different.

The federal funds are the equivalent of a local tax of 13 cents on each $100 of assessed valuation, the report said. This is lower than the 21 cent tax figure given the board by Supt. H. L. Slichenmyer in February as an estimate of local taxes needed to replace federal funds.

Some of District 214's federal monies will go for continuing projects, while others will require formal board approval at a later date.

Among these is an estimated $94,000 grant, to cover 75 per cent of the cost of the high school district's Work Orientation Program to aid potential dropouts.

THE SCHOOL district plans to seek:

—National Defense Education Act funds of $76,000, to cover partial costs of equipment and materials used in teaching science, mathematics, English, reading and social studies in the five high schools that will be in operation next year. Total cost of the equipment will be $176,000.

—A total of $232,000 to cover partial costs of the district's vocationally-oriented programs. This includes the Work Orientation Program.

—SOME $280,000 available under P.L. 89-10. the elementary and secondary education act. About $235,000 of this would go for the Instructional Materials Center and any application for the remaining funds must have the high school board's approval.

—Some $75,000 for the Neighborhood Youth Corps — assuming it is continued.

Not included in Coleman's figures are amounts received by the district for its school lunch program. In January — a high month for the lunch program — $2,200 was claimed for "Type A" meal reimbursement and another $4,000 for a federal milk subsidy. (ACM-E

Private Contract Sought for Paving

A large portion of the paving project on Belmont Avenue north of Oakton Street under consideration by the Arlington Heights Board of Local Improvements (BOLI) may be done by private contract rather than by special assessments.

The project involves paving Belmont Avenue to a 28-foot width from the end of the existing pavement at 280 feet north of Oakton to the south boundary of Olive School and Greens Park where a cul-de-sac would be installed.

At last Thursday's BOLI meeting, formal public hearings on the project were continued until 8:30 p.m. March 24 to give property owners a chance to act on the option of having the work done by private contractor rather than by special assessment.

BOLI MEMBER Harold Klingner Saturday met with homeowners along the section of Belmont where improvements are being considered. He reported that all on the west side and the northernmost homeowners on the east side have indicated an interest in having the work done by private contractor.

It presumably would cost considerably less to put the project through by private contract rather than by special assessments. Special assessment proceedings involve the added costs of legal and engineering fees.

On a segment on the east side of the street, the improvement will have to be done by special assessment, because condemnation proceedings will be necessitated.

This is because a one-foot-wide sliver of land separates the property owners from the dedicated right-of-way. It may be the result of surveying errors and is termed a "no-man's-land." It will have to be condemned before the project can proceed.

There are two estimates of the cost of the improvement: $31,000 and $33,000. The difference lies in the type of material used for the road base.

ONE RESIDENT, Joseph Hoffman, 1208 N. Belmont Ave., questioned the project on two points Thursday. He wanted to know why a cul-de-sac was necessary and why motor fuel tax funds couldn't be used to pay for the improvement.

To the first question, Klingner explained that many parents of Olive School children drive up Belmont to the south boundary of the school to pick up and leave off their children.

He also noted that it is a village policy to have no dead-end streets.

Orderly movement of traffic was the major consideration when BOLI decided in favor of a cul-de-sac at its Feb. 10 meeting at which the Belmont improvement was discussed.

To Hoffman's second question, it was explained that motor fuel tax funds can be used only to cover the extra costs for "public benefit" involved in making a street wider than 28 feet. Since Belmont is to be exactly 28 feet, it will not be eligible.

Class in Religion Opens for Retarded

A community religious class for retarded children has been started by Faith Lutheran Church, 431 S. Arlington Heights Road, Arlington Heights.

The class, a non-denominational approach to religion, will be geared to the individual child's ability to comprehend. First session Saturday had an enrollment of three, and the church would like to expand that.

Genesis of the program was "a concern we've had for some time for the retarded children of the community," said the Rev. Edgar H. Behrens, pastor. Officials of the church's council for religious education met with Byrn Witt, executive director of Clearbrook School for Mentally Retarded Children, to discuss the program.

THE CHILDREN will sing simple songs, learn the Bible story in simple terms and do coloring. While the basic planning will be done by classroom teachers, some material willl be used from the Lutheran church committee on mental retardation.

Instructors are Mrs. Vernon Boman, Mrs. Jered T. Spears, a former teacher, and Anna Marie Basik, a counselor at Arlington High School.

The classes are held Saturday mornings for about an hour, starting at 9:30.

FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS

By C. D. Smith

Do Parents Complain Too Much About Teenagers

WHY DO PARENTS ALWAYS COMPLAIN ABOUT TEENAGERS?

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "We are two girls, each 14 years old and would like to know why parents consider it a crime for girls and boys, 14 to 16 years old, to meet at the show and just "goof off." I can see nothing wrong with it, as the girls go their way after the show, and the boys go their way. Only two of the boys drive and only boys ride with them. They don't allow girls in the car and we are all agreed that we don't want to ride with them anyway. If you are mature enough, why shouldn't you be allowed to go to the show with a boy at fourteen — if your parents take you there? Why is it that parents are always complaining about teenagers? Seems to me it is their own fault if they don't raise a child they can trust!"

OUR REPLY: The problem may not be that you go to the movie, but that you spend too much time there—as you put it, just "goofing off" instead of seeing the movie and then coming home.

Parents need to know where their children are, and what they are doing. This is the only way it is possible for them to raise children they can trust.

You are right when you say that parents complain about teenagers. Most of them do. And, it is annoying to have parents remind them that things were a lot tougher and "stricter" when they were children. Yet, there is some truth in what they say. Times have changed somewhat. It helps, though, if the teenager can remember that being a parent is not always an easy job.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, COMMUNITY AND SUBURBAN PRESS SERVICE, FRANKFORT, KY.

Salary Increases Approved by Board

for classroom and office facilities in Dunton, Greenbrier, Ivy Hill, Olive, Patton and Thomas schools as part of phase one of the current building program.

Almost half of the money, $25,174, will go for equipment in Thomas Junior High. More than half of this figure came from the proposed purchase of 80 special science laboratory tables costing $159 each.

Earlier, the board voted to provide six new 72-passenger school buses under a three-year contract with Ritzenthaler Bus Lines, Inc. The bus company submitted the lowest bid of $41,485.

A LETTER from the Arlington Teachers Association was read in response to the board's action last week boosting teacher's salaries and providing extra benefits. The letter praised the board action but criticized the base salary increase as inadequate and asked for further consideration. It also expressed disappointment over the fact that ATA officials did not meet with the board before a vote was taken.

Board pres. Harold E. Sorter responded by saying, "My position is that our payment for teaching represents one of the best salary schedules in the Chicago area." The board refused to reconsider its teaching salary schedule, but members agreed that a meeting with ATA officials next year would be desirable.

The panel game is seen on WMAQ-TV, Channel 5, at 3:30 p.m. weekdays. The show Baumann is to appear on was tentatively scheduled for March 23. However, network broadcasting of the Gemini space shot this week could preempt the Letter Game two days. If so, the panel will appear March 25.

Letter game host is Jim Hutton, a resident of Prospect Heights. Appearing with Baumann will be Miss Ann Gerber, managing editor for Lerner Newspapers, and Dave Logsdon, a reporter for the Southwest Messenger. (A

Apartments Requested On 52-Acre Farm Land

A petition for rezoning the Pingel and Hildebrandt farms on the southwest side of Arlington Heights will be presented to the village board Monday.

Robert Haskins, representing developers Bennett P. Trapani and Robert T. Ryan, will ask that a large portion of the 52 acres of farm land be rezoned from R-3 single family to R-5 multiple family. He will also ask that other portions be rezoned from R-5 to B-2 general business.

The farms, annexed by the village last June, are north of Algonquin Road, east of the present Wilke Road, and southwest of the Nike base. Trapani and Ryan are buying this land on contract.

LAST WEEK the plan commission voted to recommend the requested zoning west of the proposed relocated Wilke Road. It also voted to deny the zoning sought for the portion east of the new road.

In the western part of the land, developers want 2.8 acres of B-2 rezoned R-5 and about 3 acres of R-3 rezoned R-5. They are also asking that a 2½-acre strip along Algonquin Road be rezoned B-2. The rest of the tract lying west of the new Wilke Road was zoned R-5 and B-2 upon annexation to the village.

East of the proposed Wilke Road, the land is now zoned R-3, with a 6½-acre strip along Algonquin Road zoned R-5. Developers are asking that the R-3 area be changed to R-5 and that the 6½-acre strip be rezoned B-2.

HASKINS TOLD the plan commission that this plan, which would yield 10 additional acres of R-5, would be one "we think we can live with." He added, "We will suffer a land loss by the rerouting of Wilke Road."

The developers plan to dedicate about 3.2 acres for the new Wilke Road right of way.

Harold Carlson, plan commission chairman, noted that the requested zoning would reduce the present 24 acres of R-3 land to 10 acres. At the original hearing last month, he said he would like Arlington Heights to retain its image as a single-family village.

Other plan commission members appeared to agree. They suggested that the developers work out a new plan for the eastern portion of the land.

Charles Bennett, plan commission member, said he felt "the area east of the new Wilke Road should be kept as free of apartments as possible."

MORE THAN A year ago, owners of the two farms petitioned to annex to Arlington Heights. The village board took no action, and the developers petitioned Cook County for all apartment zoning.

Trapani said that when he contracted for the land he understood it to be in an unincorporated area. Several weeks later (June 1965), he said, it was annexed by Arlington Heights. This annexation was on the basis of the original petition.

A disannexation suit was then started by one of the owners. It challenges the annexation on the basis of the time elapsed between the petition and the annexation.

IN FEBRUARY, Haskins told the plan commission that litigation would be dropped if the desired zoning was obtained.

According to Haskins, water and sewers in the area will be a joint venture of Tech Associates, Trapani, and Joseph Bernstein. Bernstein owns the land just north of the Pingel farm.

The developers would like to build 608 apartment units on the land. According to architect Robert Babbin, they would be attractive garden-type apartments similar to those in Timberlake Village. His sketches showed two-story and four-story buildings. (AF

Street Plan Hearing Scheduled

Like the 1959 plan, the new plan retains a traffic "loop" around the downtown core, using Eastman on the north, Vail on the west, Sigwalt on the south and Evergreen on the west. Dunton Avenue, as on the previous map, is designated mainly for local traffic between Sigwalt and Eastman.

In the downtown plan, Tec-Search recommended development of a wide pedestrian walk along the east side of Dunton, with through traffic discouraged.

ANOTHER significant change affecting downtown and other areas of the village is a recommendation that Arlington Heights Road designation be upgraded from the second category to the top one making it a "major arterial."

Tec-Search estimated widening of that thoroughfare to a uniform width of 44 feet through most of the village would cost between $66,000 and $88.000.

Other cost estimates made by the planning firm for street improvements included:

—Euclid Street, widened to 44 feet (four lanes) from Walnut east to Rand Road, $250,000 to $350,000.

—KENSINGTON Road, widened to four lanes from Northwest Highway east to the village limits, $145,000 to $220,000.

—Kirchoff Road, four lanes from Wilke to Central, $120,000 to $180,000.

—Wilke, widened to four lanes south of Euclid, with a relocation to line up the street south of Central, $220,000 to $300,000.

Large parts of those thoroughfares are under state or county control, and presumably those agencies would bear a major portion of the financing.

An engineering firm has estimated it would cost between $16 and $22 million to depress the railroad and build bridges at major cross streets. No estimate of costs for depressing Northwest Highway have been prepared.

Planners Okay Evergreen Court Apartments Plat

The Arlington Heights plan commission last week approved a plat of subdivision for the Evergreen Court apartments on Goebbert Road.

The 10-acre site will be developed by Ludwig Marcy. Adjacent to it on the east is the 10-acre Shalamar development, built by Marcy and Merlin Markiewicz.

Approval of the plat was subject to the approval of Charles Tower, village engineer, and Raymond Dietrich, village collector.

ALSO approved at last week's meeting was the final plat for one unit of the Brandenberry Park East apartments at Rand Road and Camp McDonald Road. The preliminary plats had been approved by the commission at an earlier meeting.

'Dead Men' Burial Arranged

Arlington Heights FM radio station WNWC has been granted permission to bury three concrete "dead men" at its new tower on the village's far north side.

The "dead men" — foundation anchors for the guy wires which will steady the tower—will be sunk in the lot area normally required to be vacant. The tower will be built in the new Kenroy industrial subdivision, Arlington Industrial and Development Center, northwest of Arlington Heights and Hintz Roads.

Atty. A. Howard Borde, representing a LaSalle National Bank trust which owns the land and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Vihon, 209 S. Elm St., Mount Prospect, who own the station, said neither his clients nor the village were quite sure whether the "dead men" could be classified as "structures."

IF THEY ARE structures, they needed the variation before they could be built in the required lot area. The zoning board decided they were structures and gave the variation.

Vihon testified the tower would cost $6,500. If he had to build a self-supporting tower without guys, it would cost $22,500. To further support his claim that a strict interpretation of the zoning code would create undue financial hardship, Borde said land costs for a lot large enough to hold the tower and "dead men" within its buildable area would be "prohibitive."

The station's owner said building should get under way in the next six weeks. The new location will include a building of about 4,000 square feet for studios.

Private Contract Sought for Paving

A large portion of the paving project on Belmont Avenue north of Oakton Street under consideration by the Arlington Heights Board of Local Improvements (BOLI) may be done by private contract rather than by special assessments.

The project involves paving Belmont Avenue to a 28-foot width from the end of the existing pavement at 280 feet north of Oakton to the south boundary of Olive School and Greens Park where a cul-de-sac would be installed.

At last Thursday's BOLI meeting, formal public hearings on the project were continued until 8:30 p.m. March 24 to give property owners a chance to act on the option of having the work done by private contractor rather than by special assessment.

BOLI MEMBER Harold Klingner Saturday met with homeowners along the section of Belmont where improvements are being considered. He reported that all on the west side and the northernmost homeowners on the east side have indicated an interest in having the work done by private contractor.

It presumably would cost considerably less to put the project through by private contract rather than by special assessments. Special assessment proceedings involve the added costs of legal and engineering fees.

On a segment on the east side of the street, the improvement will have to be done by special assessment, because condemnation proceedings will be necessitated.

This is because a one-foot-wide sliver of land separates the property owners from the dedicated right-of-way. It may be the result of surveying errors and is termed a "no-man's-land." It will have to be condemned before the project can proceed.

There are two estimates of the cost of the improvement: $31,000 and $33,000. The difference lies in the type of material used for the road base.

ONE RESIDENT, Joseph Hoffman, 1208 N. Belmont Ave., questioned the project on two points Thursday. He wanted to know why a cul-de-sac was necessary and why motor fuel tax funds couldn't be used to pay for the improvement.

To the first question, Klingner explained that many parents of Olive School children drive up Belmont to the south boundary of the school to pick up and leave off their children.

He also noted that it is a village policy to have no dead-end streets.

Orderly movement of traffic was the major consideration when BOLI decided in favor of a cul-de-sac at its Feb. 10 meeting at which the Belmont improvement was discussed.

To Hoffman's second question, it was explained that motor fuel tax funds can be used only to cover the extra costs for "public benefit" involved in making a street wider than 28 feet. Since Belmont is to be exactly 28 feet, it will not be eligible.

Class in Religion Opens for Retarded

A community religious class for retarded children has been started by Faith Lutheran Church, 431 S. Arlington Heights Road, Arlington Heights.

The class, a non-denominational approach to religion, will be geared to the individual child's ability to comprehend. First session Saturday had an enrollment of three, and the church would like to expand that.

Genesis of the program was "a concern we've had for some time for the retarded children of the community," said the Rev. Edgar H. Behrens, pastor. Officials of the church's council for religious education met with Byrn Witt, executive director of Clearbrook School for Mentally Retarded Children, to discuss the program.

THE CHILDREN will sing simple songs, learn the Bible story in simple terms and do coloring. While the basic planning will be done by classroom teachers, some material willl be used from the Lutheran church committee on mental retardation.

Instructors are Mrs. Vernon Boman, Mrs. Jered T. Spears, a former teacher, and Anna Marie Basik, a counselor at Arlington High School.

The classes are held Saturday mornings for about an hour, starting at 9:30.

FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS

By C. D. Smith

Do Parents Complain Too Much About Teenagers

WHY DO PARENTS ALWAYS COMPLAIN ABOUT TEENAGERS?

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "We are two girls, each 14 years old and would like to know why parents consider it a crime for girls and boys, 14 to 16 years old, to meet at the show and just "goof off." I can see nothing wrong with it, as the girls go their way after the show, and the boys go their way. Only two of the boys drive and only boys ride with them. They don't allow girls in the car and we are all agreed that we don't want to ride with them anyway. If you are mature enough, why shouldn't you be allowed to go to the show with a boy at fourteen — if your parents take you there? Why is it that parents are always complaining about teenagers? Seems to me it is their own fault if they don't raise a child they can trust!"

OUR REPLY: The problem may not be that you go to the movie, but that you spend too much time there—as you put it, just "goofing off" instead of seeing the movie and then coming home.

Parents need to know where their children are, and what they are doing. This is the only way it is possible for them to raise children they can trust.

You are right when you say that parents complain about teenagers. Most of them do. And, it is annoying to have parents remind them that things were a lot tougher and "stricter" when they were children. Yet, there is some truth in what they say. Times have changed somewhat. It helps, though, if the teenager can remember that being a parent is not always an easy job.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, COMMUNITY AND SUBURBAN PRESS SERVICE, FRANKFORT, KY.

Salary Increases Approved by Board

for classroom and office facilities in Dunton, Greenbrier, Ivy Hill, Olive, Patton and Thomas schools as part of phase one of the current building program.

Almost half of the money, $25,174, will go for equipment in Thomas Junior High. More than half of this figure came from the proposed purchase of 80 special science laboratory tables costing $159 each.

Earlier, the board voted to provide six new 72-passenger school buses under a three-year contract with Ritzenthaler Bus Lines, Inc. The bus company submitted the lowest bid of $41,485.

A LETTER from the Arlington Teachers Association was read in response to the board's action last week boosting teacher's salaries and providing extra benefits. The letter praised the board action but criticized the base salary increase as inadequate and asked for further consideration. It also expressed disappointment over the fact that ATA officials did not meet with the board before a vote was taken.

Board pres. Harold E. Sorter responded by saying, "My position is that our payment for teaching represents one of the best salary schedules in the Chicago area." The board refused to reconsider its teaching salary schedule, but members agreed that a meeting with ATA officials next year would be desirable.

Editor to Be on TV

Arlington Heights Herald News Editor Dan Baumann will appear with two other suburban newspaper people on a special panel on the NBC "Letter Game."

The panel game is seen on WMAQ-TV, Channel 5, at 3:30 p.m. weekdays. The show Baumann is to appear on was tentatively scheduled for March 23. However, network broadcasting of the Gemini space shot this week could preempt the Letter Game two days. If so, the panel will appear March 25.

Letter game host is Jim Hutton, a resident of Prospect Heights. Appearing with Baumann will be Miss Ann Gerber, managing editor for Lerner Newspapers, and Dave Logsdon, a reporter for the Southwest Messenger. (A

Zoning Hearing

Arlington Heights Road. The three lots are located on the west side of Walnut Avenue south of Kirchoff Road and north of Central Road.

Apartments Requested On 52-Acre Farm Land

A petition for rezoning the Pingel and Hildebrandt farms on the southwest side of Arlington Heights will be presented to the village board Monday.

Robert Haskins, representing developers Bennett P. Trapani and Robert T. Ryan, will ask that a large portion of the 52 acres of farm land be rezoned from R-3 single family to R-5 multiple family. He will also ask that other portions be rezoned from R-5 to B-2 general business.

The farms, annexed by the village last June, are north of Algonquin Road, east of the present Wilke Road, and southwest of the Nike base. Trapani and Ryan are buying this land on contract.

LAST WEEK the plan commission voted to recommend the requested zoning west of the proposed relocated Wilke Road. It also voted to deny the zoning sought for the portion east of the new road.

In the western part of the land, developers want 2.8 acres of B-2 rezoned R-5 and about 3 acres of R-3 rezoned R-5. They are also asking that a 2½-acre strip along Algonquin Road be rezoned B-2. The rest of the tract lying west of the new Wilke Road was zoned R-5 and B-2 upon annexation to the village.

East of the proposed Wilke Road, the land is now zoned R-3, with a 6½-acre strip along Algonquin Road zoned R-5. Developers are asking that the R-3 area be changed to R-5 and that the 6½-acre strip be rezoned B-2.

HASKINS TOLD the plan commission that this plan, which would yield 10 additional acres of R-5, would be one "we think we can live with." He added, "We will suffer a land loss by the rerouting of Wilke Road."

The developers plan to dedicate about 3.2 acres for the new Wilke Road right of way.

Harold Carlson, plan commission chairman, noted that the requested zoning would reduce the present 24 acres of R-3 land to 10 acres. At the original hearing last month, he said he would like Arlington Heights to retain its image as a single-family village.

Other plan commission members appeared to agree. They suggested that the developers work out a new plan for the eastern portion of the land.

Charles Bennett, plan commission member, said he felt "the area east of the new Wilke Road should be kept as free of apartments as possible."

MORE THAN A year ago, owners of the two farms petitioned to annex to Arlington Heights. The village board took no action, and the developers petitioned Cook County for all apartment zoning.

Trapani said that when he contracted for the land he understood it to be in an unincorporated area. Several weeks later (June 1965), he said, it was annexed by Arlington Heights. This annexation was on the basis of the original petition.

A disannexation suit was then started by one of the owners. It challenges the annexation on the basis of the time elapsed between the petition and the annexation.

IN FEBRUARY, Haskins told the plan commission that litigation would be dropped if the desired zoning was obtained.

According to Haskins, water and sewers in the area will be a joint venture of Tech Associates, Trapani, and Joseph Bernstein. Bernstein owns the land just north of the Pingel farm.

The developers would like to build 608 apartment units on the land. According to architect Robert Babbin, they would be attractive garden-type apartments similar to those in Timberlake Village. His sketches showed two-story and four-story buildings. (AF

Like the 1959 plan, the new plan retains a traffic "loop" around the downtown core, using Eastman on the north, Vail on the west, Sigwalt on the south and Evergreen on the west. Dunton Avenue, as on the previous map, is designated mainly for local traffic between Sigwalt and Eastman.

In the downtown plan, Tec-Search recommended development of a wide pedestrian walk along the east side of Dunton, with through traffic discouraged.

ANOTHER significant change affecting downtown and other areas of the village is a recommendation that Arlington Heights Road designation be upgraded from the second category to the top one making it a "major arterial."

Tec-Search estimated widening of that thoroughfare to a uniform width of 44 feet through most of the village would cost between $66,000 and $88.000.

Other cost estimates made by the planning firm for street improvements included:

—Euclid Street, widened to 44 feet (four lanes) from Walnut east to Rand Road, $250,000 to $350,000.

—KENSINGTON Road, widened to four lanes from Northwest Highway east to the village limits, $145,000 to $220,000.

—Kirchoff Road, four lanes from Wilke to Central, $120,000 to $180,000.

—Wilke, widened to four lanes south of Euclid, with a relocation to line up the street south of Central, $220,000 to $300,000.

Large parts of those thoroughfares are under state or county control, and presumably those agencies would bear a major portion of the financing.

An engineering firm has estimated it would cost between $16 and $22 million to depress the railroad and build bridges at major cross streets. No estimate of costs for depressing Northwest Highway have been prepared.

Planners Okay Evergreen Court Apartments Plat

The Arlington Heights plan commission last week approved a plat of subdivision for the Evergreen Court apartments on Goebbert Road.

The 10-acre site will be developed by Ludwig Marcy. Adjacent to it on the east is the 10-acre Shalamar development, built by Marcy and Merlin Markiewicz.

Approval of the plat was subject to the approval of Charles Tower, village engineer, and Raymond Dietrich, village collector.

ALSO approved at last week's meeting was the final plat for one unit of the Brandenberry Park East apartments at Rand Road and Camp McDonald Road. The preliminary plats had been approved by the commission at an earlier meeting.

'Dead Men' Burial Arranged

Arlington Heights FM radio station WNWC has been granted permission to bury three concrete "dead men" at its new tower on the village's far north side.

The "dead men" — foundation anchors for the guy wires which will steady the tower—will be sunk in the lot area normally required to be vacant. Atty. A. Howard Borde, representing a LaSalle National Bank trust which owns the land and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Vihon, 209 S. Elm St., Mount Prospect, who own the station, said neither his clients nor the village were quite sure whether the "dead men" could be classified as "structures."

To further support his claim that a strict interpretation of the zoning code would create undue financial hardship, Borde said land costs for a lot large enough to hold the tower and "dead men" within its buildable area would be "prohibitive."

The station's owner said building should get under way in the next six weeks. The new location will include a building of about 4,000 square feet for studios.

Comprehensive Policy On Sidewalks Drafted

A first draft of a comprehensive policy for sidewalk installation in Arlington Heights was reached at a combined meeting of the village public safety committee and board of local improvements (BOLI) members Harold Klingner and Russell Colvin Tuesday.

The rough draft represents an agreement in principle between representatives of the village board and BOLI.

It will be turned over to the village attorney who will restate it in a more precise form.

IF ADOPTED by village trustees, it will give BOLI a policy statement to use as a basis for initiating special assessment proceeding for installing sidewalks wherever needed in the village.

It will also serve notice to property owners in certain areas where sidewalks are obviously needed that their installation cannot be stalled indefinitely.

The policy statement agreed on in principle Tuesday will require that sidewalks be installed:

—On all property within one-half mile of any park or elementary and high school located on collector streets leading to major thoroughfare streets;

—Along all arterial streets or expressways within the village;

—Abutting all manufacturing, commercial and multiple - zoned property;

—TO FILL SIDEWALK gaps along all streets which now have sidewalks on 50 per cent of the block.

Exactly what properties would be affected by this policy is difficult to say because of the problem in defining the terms "arterial" "collector" and "thoroughfare" streets and "expressways."

Above use of these terms refers to an engineering department map showing expressways, and thoroughfare, collector and arterial streets in the village. It was recommended by village engineers in 1962.

It would be hard to identify those streets because the village thoroughfare plan will be amended on March 30 and some designations may be changed.

In Tuesday's discussion it was acknowledged that the above policy would have to be broadly applied and that difficulties in application would arise in some cases.

THREE EXCEPTIONS were added to the policy statement. They provide for the waiver of sidewalk deposits in cases where:

—The street grade hasn't been established;

—A lot is being developed in an established neighborhood on a street which does not have sidewalks;

—A lot is being developed on an arterial, secondary, thoroughfare or collector street on which no sidewalk decision has been made.

Tuesday's policy statement comes after a long-standing BOLI request that the village board establish a set of standards for determining where sidewalks should be installed.

THE MATTER had been tossed back and forth between the two boards until the village public safety committee agreed to accept responsibility for it at a joint BOLI-village board meeting Feb. 28.

Klingner and Colvin attended Tuesday's deliberations to present BOLI views on the subject. (A

Zoners Okay Variation In Side Lot

Arlington Heights' Zoning Board of Appeals Monday approved a variation in side lot requirements for a home in Ivy Hill subdivision.

Jerome Meister of Meister-Neiberg Builders said his firm wanted to add a larger model than originally planned for a lot at 1902 N. Burke Drive. Planned is a $42,000 Cape Cod. Without the variation, Meister said, the firm would have to build a new "model row."

The home will extend seven feet into the required 25-foot side yard area on the south, one foot on the north. Meister said the firm has been successful in selling larger models in Ivy Hill than the original homes there.

Presbyterian Men to Hear John Doremus

Meeting of the Men's Council of the First Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights Monday will feature John Doremus, radio-TV personality. His subject will be "Return of the Square."

Dinner preceding the program will be served at 7:45 p.m. in Fellowship Hall. Reservations for dinner should be made through the church office, CL 3-0492, or tickets may be purchased from an usher in the church narthex Sunday.

Doremus is well-known to Chicago area radio audiences as host of the John Doremus Show on station WAIT. He was voted one of Chicago's 10 outstanding young men in 1964 and ranked high on the list of America's outstanding young men in 1965.

$800 Taken from St. Peter's

More than $800 in Sunday offerings has been reported taken from St. Peter Lutheran Church, 111 W. Olive, Arlington Heights.

The theft was not reported until Monday night after the church's finance committee met and discovered the money was missing.

Police report that the money was deposited through a mail slot by a church official after last Sunday's service and apparently was taken between that time and Monday night.

Pay Boosts Agreed For Phone Workers

Pay increases of $2 to $5.50 a week for 1,280 commercial department employes of Illinois Bell Telephone were announced following negotiations between the company and the Telephone Commercial Employes' Union (Independent).

The increases are retroactive to Feb. 27. Bargaining was conducted under the second of two wage reopeners in a 38-month contract which went into effect in December, 1963.

IN ADDITION to the wage increases, the company also increased its contribution toward the monthly premium cost of the employes' basic hospital-surgical-medical plan, as negotiated in 1963. This increased benefit is effective in March.

The average weekly increase, including the higher health insurance benefit, is $3.55 a week or 8.9 cents an hour. The total cost to the company is $272,000 annually.

TV Personality Finds Daily Show Is Fun

By BERNADINE RECHNER
Staff Writer

"I don't know if the kids would even watch my show if something like "Bozo's Circus" was on at the same time," said Jim Hutton in mock despair. "Then it would really be a big decision and I hate to think of the outcome!"

Hutton, better known to area television viewers as Jim Hutton, is creater producer and host of WMAQ-TV's popular afternoon quiz program, "The Letter Game." He, his petite blond wife, LeVey, and their three children have recently moved into a buff colored brick ranch house at 107 Patricia Lane in Prospect Heights.

"We watch the show as often as we can," he continued in a more serious vein. "I'm always on the lookout for ways to improve it or to correct things that might need correcting. And I'm always seeking new ideas for added interest."

"THE LETTER GAME" has been aired in the Chicago area since November. It is a pretaped word identification panel quiz that claims the largest number of adult viewers for its time slot, 3:30 p.m. weekdays.

The show is telecast in the 19th floor Merchandise Mart studio where Hutton spends his two or three working days a week.

"The preparation usually takes a day," he said, "and the taping sessions take another." He also auditions the contestants. "We sit them down and have them play a game before their turn comes in front of the cameras."

"And even though we do tape the program, we leave in all the goofs. It adds more spontaneity and makes it more fun."

Men, according to Hutton, are generally more nervous than women. The ladies, he claims, act as if it were just another neighborhood "Kaffee Klatsch!"

THE STUDIO holds about a hundred people and Hutton clearly enjoys the audience at the taping sessions. "It's much easier to work before a large group of people than it is with only a handful or none at all."

The show is telecast in full color but the participants use little make-up. The women need no more than their own cosmetics and Hutton uses only a small amount of pancake. There are no lengthy make-up sessions of the kind heard of on "The Tonight Show."

"Many of the television crew here started out with the original Tonight Show when it was telecast from Chicago," Jim added. "They're the finest. They really know their business.

Born and raised in Minneapolis, Hutton got into the business in high school when he did a bit part in a play presented by the University of Minnesota, which was just a few blocks away. "Then," he said, "I promptly forgot about it."

HE GRADUATED from Marshall High School, majored in speech at the University and served 18 months in the Air Force. On his return to civilian life, he entered a school for radio announcers. "I thought it might be fun."

He worked in Sioux Falls, S. D., and Fargo, N. D. Gradually he did less radio and more television, working in Spokane, Wash., and Eau Claire, Wis., before returning to Minneapolis to do "an Art Linkletter House Party type of thing."

When that show was expanded to a full hour, Hutton incorporated "The Letter Game" into the last half.

Last year, he also commuted into Chicago three days a week for six or eight months doing "Everything's Relative," a family-type show.

"That was fun," he said, using the term loosely. "When they tore down the Morrison Hotel, Chicago lost 1,900 hotel rooms and I never knew if I'd have a place to stay. Even knowing I'd be in every week, I still couldn't get reservations ahead. Somehow, tho I always managed to get a room."

LAST FALL Hutton brought "Letter Game" into Chicago.

"The winners on this show don't seem to fit into any particular pattern," he explained. "Occupation or educational background don't seem to make much difference."

"We've had teachers and writers on that can't win a thing but we had a postal worker in Minneapolis who won almost $300 back when the prize was only $5 a game."

"In fact," he admitted, "I played five games myself one day and had a guest m.c. do the show. I didn't win a game!"

Television is a form of recreation for Hutton, too. He enjoys watching it purely for pleasure. He also plays a little golf.

"And as soon as the weather gets warmer," he continued, "we're going to drag the boat out of the garage and find us a lake. We lived on a lake in Minneapolis and we all enjoy boating and swimming and fishing. Even the baby loves it."

Robert Alan, age two, is the youngest of the Hutton family. His brother, Dana, is six and sister Shelley is eight. Both attend the Robert Frost School.

"They have lots of friends here," Mrs. Hutton said. "We like this area very well."

"It's a nice quiet, friendly community," Jim continued, "and the commuting's a snap."

COMMUTING MIGHT well become more frequent for Jim Hutton. Since his move to the area not quite two months ago, he has conducted a special "Letter Game" for the Heart Fund, with guest panelists, Len O'Connor, Jack Brickhouse and Lee Phillip, and done a documentary on model railroads which won acclaim from Chicago TV critics.

However, his immediate future plans center around "The Letter Game." He would like to see it go into prime evening time or be aired by the full network or both, much in the way of "The Price Is Right." "It's a little hard though, to talk about the future," he said "After all, I just got here."

JIM HUTTON, creator, producer and host of WMAQ-TV's afternoon quiz program, "The Letter Game," explains one of his "treasures" to his wife, LeVey. The cup was a gift from Phyllis Diller. The Hutton family recently moved to Prospect Heights from Minneapolis, Minn., when the show was moved to NBC's Chicago outlet. (Staff Photo)

TV Personality Finds Daily Show Is Fun

By BERNADINE RECHNER
Staff Writer

"I don't know if the kids would even watch my show if something like "Bozo's Circus" was on at the same time," said Jim Hutton in mock despair. "Then it would really be a big decision and I hate to think of the outcome!"

Hutton, better known to area television viewers as Jim Hutton, is creater producer and host of WMAQ-TV's popular afternoon quiz program, "The Letter Game." He, his petite blond wife, LeVey, and their three children have recently moved into a buff colored brick ranch house at 107 Patricia Lane in Prospect Heights.

"We watch the show as often as we can," he continued in a more serious vein. "I'm always on the lookout for ways to improve it or to correct things that might need correcting. And I'm always seeking new ideas for added interest."

"THE LETTER GAME" has been aired in the Chicago area since November. It is a pretaped word identification panel quiz that claims the largest number of adult viewers for its time slot, 3:30 p.m. weekdays.

The show is telecast in the 19th floor Merchandise Mart studio where Hutton spends his two or three working days a week.

"The preparation usually takes a day," he said, "and the taping sessions take another." He also auditions the contestants. "We sit them down and have them play a game before their turn comes in front of the cameras."

"And even though we do tape the program, we leave in all the goofs. It adds more spontaneity and makes it more fun."

Men, according to Hutton, are generally more nervous than women. The ladies, he claims, act as if it were just another neighborhood "Kaffee Klatsch!"

THE STUDIO holds about a hundred people and Hutton clearly enjoys the audience at the taping sessions. "It's much easier to work before a large group of people than it is with only a handful or none at all."

The show is telecast in full color but the participants use little make-up. The women need no more than their own cosmetics and Hutton uses only a small amount of pancake. There are no lengthy make-up sessions of the kind heard of on "The Tonight Show."

"Many of the television crew here started out with the original Tonight Show when it was telecast from Chicago," Jim added. "They're the finest. They really know their business.

Born and raised in Minneapolis, Hutton got into the business in high school when he did a bit part in a play presented by the University of Minnesota, which was just a few blocks away. "Then," he said, "I promptly forgot about it."

HE GRADUATED from Marshall High School, majored in speech at the University and served 18 months in the Air Force. On his return to civilian life, he entered a school for radio announcers. "I thought it might be fun."

He worked in Sioux Falls, S. D., and Fargo, N. D. Gradually he did less radio and more television, working in Spokane, Wash., and Eau Claire, Wis., before returning to Minneapolis to do "an Art Linkletter House Party type of thing."

When that show was expanded to a full hour, Hutton incorporated "The Letter Game" into the last half.

Last year, he also commuted into Chicago three days a week for six or eight months doing "Everything's Relative," a family-type show.

"That was fun," he said, using the term loosely. "When they tore down the Morrison Hotel, Chicago lost 1,900 hotel rooms and I never knew if I'd have a place to stay. Even knowing I'd be in every week, I still couldn't get reservations ahead. Somehow, tho I always managed to get a room."

LAST FALL Hutton brought "Letter Game" into Chicago.

"The winners on this show don't seem to fit into any particular pattern," he explained. "Occupation or educational background don't seem to make much difference."

"We've had teachers and writers on that can't win a thing but we had a postal worker in Minneapolis who won almost $300 back when the prize was only $5 a game."

"In fact," he admitted, "I played five games myself one day and had a guest m.c. do the show. I didn't win a game!"

Television is a form of recreation for Hutton, too. He enjoys watching it purely for pleasure. He also plays a little golf.

"And as soon as the weather gets warmer," he continued, "we're going to drag the boat out of the garage and find us a lake. We lived on a lake in Minneapolis and we all enjoy boating and swimming and fishing. Even the baby loves it."

Robert Alan, age two, is the youngest of the Hutton family. His brother, Dana, is six and sister Shelley is eight. Both attend the Robert Frost School.

"They have lots of friends here," Mrs. Hutton said. "We like this area very well."

"It's a nice quiet, friendly community," Jim continued, "and the commuting's a snap."

COMMUTING MIGHT well become more frequent for Jim Hutton. Since his move to the area not quite two months ago, he has conducted a special "Letter Game" for the Heart Fund, with guest panelists, Len O'Connor, Jack Brickhouse and Lee Phillip, and done a documentary on model railroads which won acclaim from Chicago TV critics.

However, his immediate future plans center around "The Letter Game." He would like to see it go into prime evening time or be aired by the full network or both, much in the way of "The Price Is Right." "It's a little hard though, to talk about the future," he said "After all, I just got here."

JIM HUTTON, creator, producer and host of WMAQ-TV's afternoon quiz program, "The Letter Game," explains one of his "treasures" to his wife, LeVey. The cup was a gift from Phyllis Diller. The Hutton family recently moved to Prospect Heights from Minneapolis, Minn., when the show was moved to NBC's Chicago outlet. (Staff Photo)

Garden Show Entry Gives Spring Preview

Suburbanites will get a preview of spring in the garden designed for the Chicago World Flower and Garden Show by Arlington Heights nurserymen, Charles Klehm and Son, Algonquin and Arlington Heights Roads.

The Flower and Garden Show opens its doors at McCormick Place this Saturday, March 19, and runs through Sunday, March 27.

Designed around the theme of "America the Beautiful," many gardens of the show emphasize local, state and national beautification programs and highlight replicas of natural and manmade beauties around the nation.

THE KLEHM Nursery entry will be a suburban garden to give homeowners inspiration for what they can do with their own gardens.

Klehm's garden for this year gets away from the traditional tulips and features azaleas, rhododendrons and peonies, all summer annuals to give ideas for the incorporation of color and interest into the design for suburban gardens.

The flowers in the Klehm Nursery garden will be at the peak of their foliage and blossom perfection after being carefully nursed throughout the winter at their greenhouse on Arlington Heights Road south of the Tollway. They were forced to be brought to bloom at just the right time, and then taken downtown to McCormick Place in special heated trucks.

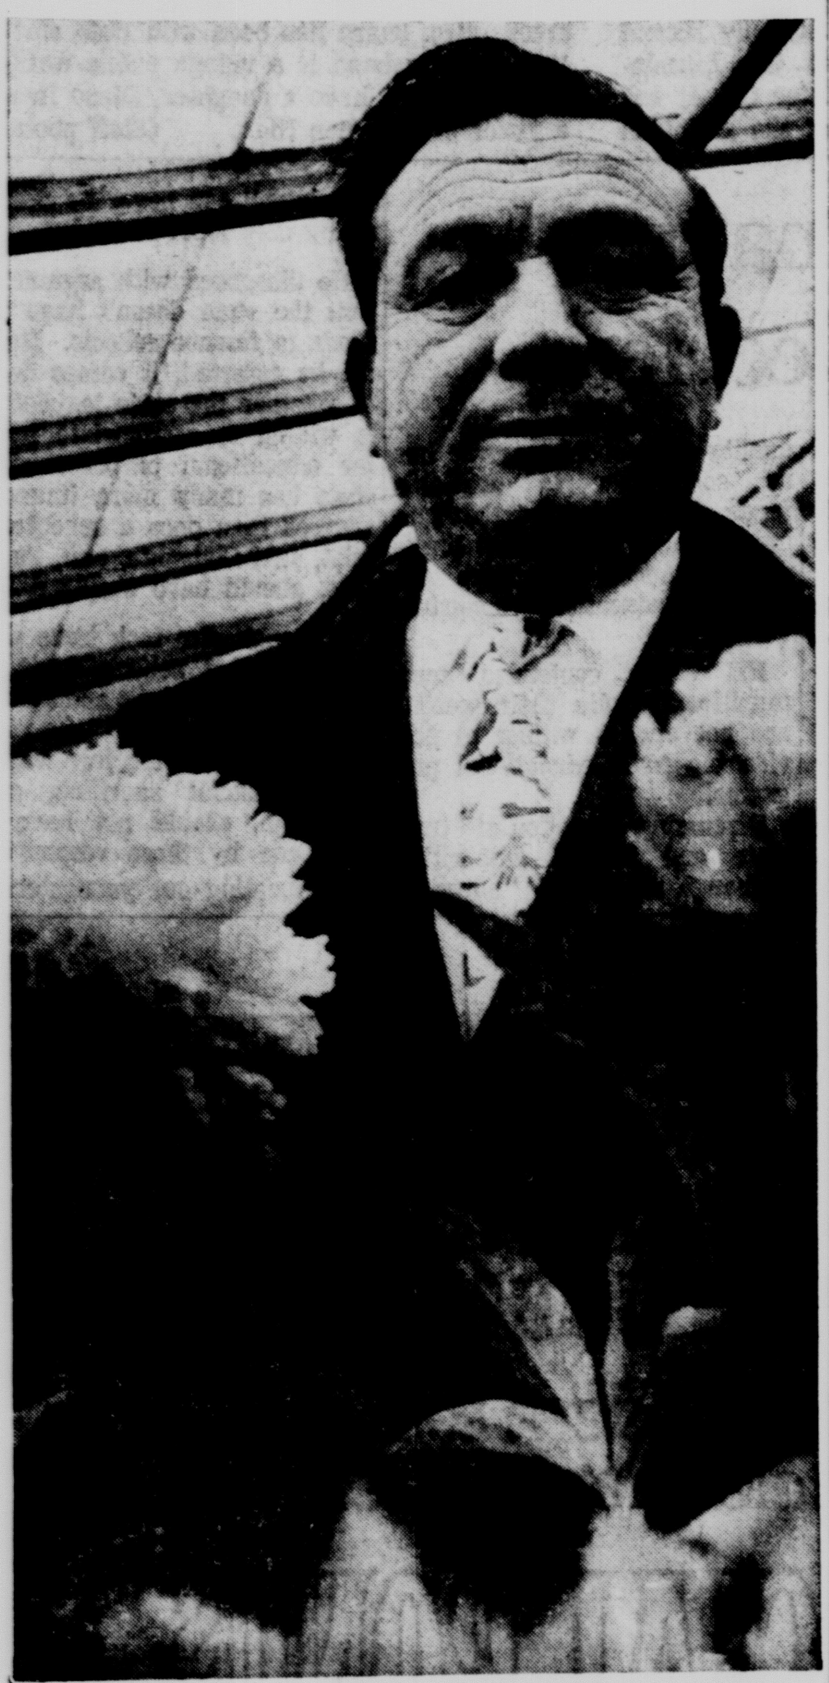
An outstanding feature of the show is an 18-foot high and 80 foot long mural depicting in color the Grand Canyon, Mt. Rushmore, Mt. Rainier, a Midwest farm scene, a Mississippi River boat, Niagara Falls, a Florida beach and a California scene.

TWO GARDENS were developed for the show by Sears, one typical of Chicago 80 years ago and the other a national park camping scene.

There will be two gardens duplicating Georgetown and Williamsburg. Eastman Kodak designed one and Coca-Cola Bottling Co. the other.

Other garden features will be by the Chicago Park District, Forest Preserve District of Cook County, Chicago Bureau of Forestry and Parkways, Baha'i Temple, Morton Arboretum, Amling's Flowerland, Garden Club of Illinois and State of Illinois Department of Public Works.

The Chicago World Flower and Garden Show is produced in association with the Chicago Horticultural Society and directed by Frank Dubinsky.



GETTING READY for the Chicago World Flower and Garden Show is an exciting time for Carl Klehm of Charles Klehm and Son Nurseries, Arlington Heights. He is shown here with hybrid peonies before having them placed in heated trucks for shipment to the show at McCormick Place. Hybrid peonies are a specialty of Klehm Nurseries for which they have been noted since 1900.

Fitness Expert Set For YMCA Address

Bonnie Prudden, director of the Institute for Physical Fitness in New York City, will be the featured speaker at the 13th annual meeting of Northwest Suburban YMCA. This will be the sixth annual dinner meeting held in the new 'Y' building.

The event takes place Thursday, March 24, at 6:30 p.m. and will include the election of new directors and officers as well as a report of '65 highlights by James Norman, chairman of the 'Y' board of directors.

It was Miss Prudden's report to President Eisenhower on the comparative fitness of American and European children that led to the founding of the President's Council on Youth Fitness and national emphasis on fitness for the past eight years.

HER NATIONAL reputation is expected to bring out a large audience to this meeting. Author of many books, a radio performer and lecturer, Miss Prudden has her own daily TV show in New York, known as the Bonnie Prudden Show.

She is an advocate of family fitness to help all ages get more out of life and has set up fitness programs for schools, colleges, prisons, hospitals, camps, YMCAs, and for the handicapped and all types of industries.

A vivacious, young grandmother, Bonnie will arrive from New York City early next Thursday morning to conduct sessions for the 'Y' women's exercise class and will meet with Chicagoland YMCA physical education personnel for lunch and an afternoon program.

The annual meeting committee is headed by Gilbert Liebenow, Mount Prospect, and includes Carl Bowen and John Hermes, both of Arlington Heights, John Gobeille, Mount Prospect, and Eric Plane, Des Plaines. (B-10

A COLOR TV will become a reality for Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Thiel of Prospect Heights, a result of Paddock Publications' Newspaper Bingo game. The couple always wanted color TV, but held off until the pocketbook permitted. Two weeks ago, the piggy bank was just $90 light. Obviously, the $100 check received from Paddock last week will mean more colorful viewing for the Thiels. Marty Cameron, Bingo Girl at the Paddock office, is shown actually playing the Master Bingo game as Mr. Thiel looks on.

College Seeking An Assistant Dean

District 301 junior college officials are seeking someone to fill the newly-established position of assistant dean of instruction for a salary ranging from $14,000 to $18,000 a year.

The junior college board at its meeting last week established the position to head the proposed vocational-technical program of curriculum. Junior college president Dr. Robert P. Lahti said this week that letters soon would be sent out requesting names of persons qualified to fill the office.

Lahti, explaining the responsibilities of the position, said that among scholastic duties the assistant dean would contact industries and set up professional advisory committees to help establish and co-ordinate vocational programs.

"This becomes a very excellent community relations program," commented Lahti. He added that many vocational educational programs qualify for state and federal aid.

LAHTI STRESSED the difficulty in finding someone qualified to fill the position because of the extensive educational and professional background required. The vocational dean will be under the dean of academic affairs.

Junior college board member Richard Johnson suggested that the salary range proposed might result in the vocational dean receiving more money annually than his superior. The dean of academic affairs will receive a salary ranging from $16,000 to $19,000 annually.

In reply, Lahti said that such a salary differential was very possible.

"It is not a matter of responsibility," said Lahti, "It is a matter of availability." He added the assistant dean's qualifications might demand that he be paid a higher salary. Lahti also pointed out that salaries of this nature can be paid back under the federal education act.

LAHTI GAVE the board a list of salaries paid by other midwestern junior colleges to vocational deans. The list showed annual salaries ranging from $13,200 to $20,000.

Lahti expressed hope this week that the positions of academic dean and dean of students would be filled by the end of the month. He reported that he has narrowed the list down to five names for each office.

The remaining applicants will be interviewed and screened and recommendations will be made to the board, according to Lahti.

In other action last week, the board amended and approved a purchasing policy proposed by business manager James Perry. Among the amendments was one which empowered the director of business affairs to take bids on purchases over $5,000 before making recommendations to the board.

PREVIOUSLY, THE policy stated that bids for such purchases would be opened by the junior college board president at a regular or special meeting. Johnson argued that this procedure imposed unnecessary work on the board. As amended, the policy states that the board still must approve purchases over $5,000.

The board will meet tonight (Thursday) in a special session to discuss a new budget. The meeting is at 8 p.m. in the junior college offices, 34 W. Palatine Rd. (B10

Garden Show Entry Gives Spring Preview

Suburbanites will get a preview of spring in the garden designed for the Chicago World Flower and Garden Show by Arlington Heights nurserymen, Charles Klehm and Son, Algonquin and Arlington Heights Roads.

The Flower and Garden Show opens its doors at McCormick Place this Saturday, March 19, and runs through Sunday, March 27.

Designed around the theme of "America the Beautiful," many gardens of the show emphasize local, state and national beautification programs and highlight replicas of natural and manmade beauties around the nation.

THE KLEHM Nursery entry will be a suburban garden to give homeowners inspiration for what they can do with their own gardens.

Klehm's garden for this year gets away from the traditional tulips and features azaleas, rhododendrons and peonies, all summer annuals to give ideas for the incorporation of color and interest into the design for suburban gardens.

The flowers in the Klehm Nursery garden will be at the peak of their foliage and blossom perfection after being carefully nursed throughout the winter at their greenhouse on Arlington Heights Road south of the Tollway. They were forced to be brought to bloom at just the right time, and then taken downtown to McCormick Place in special heated trucks.

An outstanding feature of the show is an 18-foot high and 80 foot long mural depicting in color the Grand Canyon, Mt. Rushmore, Mt. Rainier, a Midwest farm scene, a Mississippi River boat, Niagara Falls, a Florida beach and a California scene.

TWO GARDENS were developed for the show by Sears, one typical of Chicago 80 years ago and the other a national park camping scene.

There will be two gardens duplicating Georgetown and Williamsburg. Eastman Kodak designed one and Coca-Cola Bottling Co. the other.

Other garden features will be by the Chicago Park District, Forest Preserve District of Cook County, Chicago Bureau of Forestry and Parkways, Baha'i Temple, Morton Arboretum, Amling's Flowerland, Garden Club of Illinois and State of Illinois Department of Public Works.

The Chicago World Flower and Garden Show is produced in association with the Chicago Horticultural Society and directed by Frank Dubinsky.

GETTING READY for the Chicago World Flower and Garden Show is an exciting time for Carl Klehm of Charles Klehm and Son Nurseries, Arlington Heights. He is shown here with hybrid peonies before having them placed in heated trucks for shipment to the show at McCormick Place. Hybrid peonies are a specialty of Klehm Nurseries for which they have been noted since 1900.

Fitness Expert Set For YMCA Address

Bonnie Prudden, director of the Institute for Physical Fitness in New York City, will be the featured speaker at the 13th annual meeting of Northwest Suburban YMCA. This will be the sixth annual dinner meeting held in the new 'Y' building.

The event takes place Thursday, March 24, at 6:30 p.m. and will include the election of new directors and officers as well as a report of '65 highlights by James Norman, chairman of the 'Y' board of directors.

It was Miss Prudden's report to President Eisenhower on the comparative fitness of American and European children that led to the founding of the President's Council on Youth Fitness and national emphasis on fitness for the past eight years.

HER NATIONAL reputation is expected to bring out a large audience to this meeting. Author of many books, a radio performer and lecturer, Miss Prudden has her own daily TV show in New York, known as the Bonnie Prudden Show.

She is an advocate of family fitness to help all ages get more out of life and has set up fitness programs for schools, colleges, prisons, hospitals, camps, YMCAs, and for the handicapped and all types of industries.

A vivacious, young grandmother, Bonnie will arrive from New York City early next Thursday morning to conduct sessions for the 'Y' women's exercise class and will meet with Chicagoland YMCA physical education personnel for lunch and an afternoon program.

The annual meeting committee is headed by Gilbert Liebenow, Mount Prospect, and includes Carl Bowen and John Hermes, both of Arlington Heights, John Gobeille, Mount Prospect, and Eric Plane, Des Plaines. (B-10

A COLOR TV will become a reality for Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Thiel of Prospect Heights, a result of Paddock Publications' Newspaper Bingo game. The couple always wanted color TV, but held off until the pocketbook permitted. Two weeks ago, the piggy bank was just $90 light. Obviously, the $100 check received from Paddock last week will mean more colorful viewing for the Thiels. Marty Cameron, Bingo Girl at the Paddock office, is shown actually playing the Master Bingo game as Mr. Thiel looks on.

College Seeking An Assistant Dean

District 301 junior college officials are seeking someone to fill the newly-established position of assistant dean of instruction for a salary ranging from $14,000 to $18,000 a year.

The junior college board at its meeting last week established the position to head the proposed vocational-technical program of curriculum. Junior college president Dr. Robert P. Lahti said this week that letters soon would be sent out requesting names of persons qualified to fill the office.

Lahti, explaining the responsibilities of the position, said that among scholastic duties the assistant dean would contact industries and set up professional advisory committees to help establish and co-ordinate vocational programs.

"This becomes a very excellent community relations program," commented Lahti. He added that many vocational educational programs qualify for state and federal aid.

LAHTI STRESSED the difficulty in finding someone qualified to fill the position because of the extensive educational and professional background required. The vocational dean will be under the dean of academic affairs.

Junior college board member Richard Johnson suggested that the salary range proposed might result in the vocational dean receiving more money annually than his superior. The dean of academic affairs will receive a salary ranging from $16,000 to $19,000 annually.

In reply, Lahti said that such a salary differential was very possible.

"It is not a matter of responsibility," said Lahti, "It is a matter of availability." He added the assistant dean's qualifications might demand that he be paid a higher salary. Lahti also pointed out that salaries of this nature can be paid back under the federal education act.

LAHTI GAVE the board a list of salaries paid by other midwestern junior colleges to vocational deans. The list showed annual salaries ranging from $13,200 to $20,000.

Lahti expressed hope this week that the positions of academic dean and dean of students would be filled by the end of the month. He reported that he has narrowed the list down to five names for each office.

The remaining applicants will be interviewed and screened and recommendations will be made to the board, according to Lahti.

In other action last week, the board amended and approved a purchasing policy proposed by business manager James Perry. Among the amendments was one which empowered the director of business affairs to take bids on purchases over $5,000 before making recommendations to the board.

PREVIOUSLY, THE policy stated that bids for such purchases would be opened by the junior college board president at a regular or special meeting. Johnson argued that this procedure imposed unnecessary work on the board. As amended, the policy states that the board still must approve purchases over $5,000.

The board will meet tonight (Thursday) in a special session to discuss a new budget. The meeting is at 8 p.m. in the junior college offices, 34 W. Palatine Rd. (B10

An adult class in ceramics is also offered. It will meet at the park on Monday evenings, beginning March 21, from 7:30 to 9:30. PALATINE

The St. Theresa Camp Fire Girls had a special treat March 2 when they visited the Palatine National Bank.

The vice president who guided them on the tour went out of his way to make the girls feel like honored guests. The tour was complete from opening new accounts to back of the cashier's desk. They were shown how all written transactions are photostated.

They also saw a machine which could instantly locate any specific check, receipt or copy. They were shown the inside of the vault. Upstairs there was a very interesting electric typewriter. It worked something like a player piano turning out many original copies of the same paper one after another.

The bank has all the latest up-to-date equipment including a revolving type filing cabinet so that everything is right at their fingertips. There was a machine for keeping track of all checks and deposits and another for duplicating them. At the end of the day everything that comes into the bank that day goes to a data processing plant in Palatine and they do the final processing very rapidly by machine.

The final treat for the girls was when they were shown two counterfeit $20 bills and they could compare them with real bills. They also were told how a cashier identifies counterfeit money.

On March 9 the girls held their meeting at an ice cream parlor over malted milks.

The girls held a St. Patrick's Day party March 16. They made Irish hats and shamrocks to wear and discussed the history of St. Patrick's Day. Then they sang some Irish songs and had refreshments.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS

Snah Da Yo Ki Junior Hi Camp Fire Girls, under the guardianship of Mrs. Harold Purvine, had a party for the eighth grade girls at Maryville Academy in Des Plaines. The girls with some of their friends went to Maryville on Friday evening, March 4. Chaperones accompanying them were Mrs. Purvine, Mrs. Milton Wendorf and Mrs. Merlin Kost.

Themes used for the party were Camp Fire Birthday Month, the 56th birthday of Camp Fire, and St. Patrick's Day.

The group of about 50 girls spent the evening playing games, dancing and eating. Over 100 cupcakes, four flat cakes and five cases of pop were consumed.

The Camp Fire group gave the Maryville girls six new records.

The girls are eighth graders at South Junior High and Our Lady of the Wayside schools.

"The Blue Bird Wish—

To have fun; to learn to make beautiful things; to remember to finish what I begin; to want to keep my temper most of the time; to go to interesting places; to know about trees and flowers and birds; to make friends."

Such lovely things for little girls to grow by. As the weeks go by we will show the ways in which the Bluebird groups in the Schaumburg and Hanover area conduct activities related to their wish.

In line with going to interesting places, The Robins of Hoffman Estates toured the Hoffman Estates Fire Station on March 8.

June Campbell, Esther Kaplan, Maureen Leszner, Yvette Pachter, Grace Provensazo and Gayle Stelzer with their leader, Mrs. Charlene Pachter and a sponsor, Mrs. Frances Kaplan, hiked to the station from Fairview School. Treats at Mrs. Kaplan's following their interesting tour of the station made the afternoon complete.

The Robins will fly up to campfire in the fall and are looking for young ladies from 9—12 who would like to join their group as Campfire Girls. For information call Mrs. Pachter at 529-6822.

Five Bluebirds from the White Star group in Weathersfield proudly presented the colors Monday, March 7, at the monthly meeting of the Schaumburg Junior Woman's Club. They are Nadine Gourley, Debbie Dearth, Susan Gustafson, Marguerite Sherman and Lauri Pierce. Mrs. Ellen Dearth is the White Star leader.

Plans are under way to take the girls in the S & H area to see "Hansel and Gretel" at Pheasant Run in St. Charles on Saturday, April 2. Leaders—give your program chairman a vote of confidence—back this project for your girls. It will be fun.

A new Wampum chairman has accepted responsibility for our fund raising projects. She is Mrs. Mary Ann McArthur from Weathersfield and we are grateful to her for accepting so demanding a position. Our thanks and welcome.

SQUARE DANCE CLUB NEWS

A-C SQUARE WHEELS

There'll be electioneering as well as dancing at the A-C's next dance, Saturday, March 19, when new club officers will be elected. Everyone's invited to come join the dancing, with caller Joe Gipson at the mike and "rounders" Glen and Elaine Dolmar. Joe will square 'em up at 8:30 and the Dolmars will lead the rounds from 8 to 8:30. Refreshments at 11:30 wind up the fine, full evening at Deerfield's Woodland School. Be there?

GLENVIEW SQUARES

Teacher-caller Ed Hempel will be graduating four squares of beginners at tomorrow night's dance in Lyon School, and guests are welcome to join the festivities. There'll be a workshop at 8 o'clock and square-'em-up time immediately follows at 8:30. With graduation and issuing of diplomas, dancing and refreshments it will be a busy evening for everyone who follows the crowd to school. The school is located at Lake Avenue and Waukegan Road.

There's a new banner for the stealing, by the way. Since the Glenview Squares have a second one, they now have a banner to stay at home and one to tempt the banner-snatchers. Other recent developments include planning a Knothead trip and, when spring is really here to stay, a club picnic. Until then, try an evening with the Glenview Squares — tomorrow evening, for instance.

BRONCO SQUARES

A couple of Irishmen, Gorski and Thompson, will be calling the jigs for all the sons 'n' daughters of the auld sod tomorrow night when the Bronco Squares honor St. Patrick's Day at their regularly scheduled dance.

Gorski, caller for the Flying Squares of Chicago, will be sharing the mike with Bronc's regular, Paul "Foggy" Thompson, immediately following the Sanders round dance workshop. Rounds will be from 7:30 to 8; Grove Avenue Grade School in Barrington is the place. Everybody's welcome.

Bronc's banner collection continues to be impressive despite their recent loss of Bucks and Does' pennant, retrieved right promptly by a contingent of Elk Grove raiders. Still on display are banners of the Valley Mixers (St. Charles), Lake Promenaders (Grayslake) and the Broncs' own stay-at-home flag.

Everyone's invited to the annual Spring Square Dance Festival of the Lake County Association of Square Dance Clubs, coming Sunday afternoon, March 20, to the Grant Community High School in Fox Lake. There'll be square dance signs along Route 59 to direct you to the school. Dancing time is from 2:30 until 5:30, with callers Doc Adams, Jim Shiporski, Elmer Williams, Lenny Roos, Foggy Thompson, and Joe Gipson. Glen and Elaine Dolmar will lead the rounds. Be there!

School Finance Apathy Decried

Public interest in questions of school finance is not as high as it should be, according to Ralph E. Clabaugh, District 25 superintendent.

Clabaugh, who spoke Tuesday night at a North School PTA meeting, said this lack of understanding has led to many popular misconceptions about financing schools and educational programs.

Among many misconceptions, said Clabaugh, one of the most widespread is the idea that the quality of a school program has no correlation to available funds. He pointed out that taxpayers must realize that limits upon finances determine the kind of education youngsters will receive.

HE ALSO contended communities, despite their wealth, are not always willing to provide top-grade educational programs.

Discussing education aid from state and federal authorities, Clabaugh noted that "universal education" can never be attained by only local financing.

He disagreed with arguments that the state doesn't have the funds to finance schools. Rather, he asserted, it comes down to whether the state legislature is willing to appropriate funds for educational purposes. The state has many more financial sources than does a school district, said Clabaugh, and, therefore, should have ample funds.

Clabaugh also took issue with the idea that schools must be staffed with teachers and administrative personnel who are willing to work for low wages. This financial sacrifice, said Clabaugh, should not have to be made by those responsible for educating our youngsters.

Ernest F. Lidge III, Sunday received the God and Country Award from the Rev. Roger Kellogg, minister of Christian education of First Presbyterian Church.

Lidge, a member of Troop 7, is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Ernest F. Lidge, Jr., 212 E. PALATINE

The St. Theresa Camp Fire Girls had a special treat March 2 when they visited the Palatine National Bank.

The vice president who guided them on the tour went out of his way to make the girls feel like honored guests. The tour was complete from opening new accounts to back of the cashier's desk. They were shown how all written transactions are photostated.

They also saw a machine which could instantly locate any specific check, receipt or copy. They were shown the inside of the vault. Upstairs there was a very interesting electric typewriter. It worked something like a player piano turning out many original copies of the same paper one after another.

The bank has all the latest up-to-date equipment including a revolving type filing cabinet so that everything is right at their fingertips. There was a machine for keeping track of all checks and deposits and another for duplicating them. At the end of the day everything that comes into the bank that day goes to a data processing plant in Palatine and they do the final processing very rapidly by machine.

The final treat for the girls was when they were shown two counterfeit $20 bills and they could compare them with real bills. They also were told how a cashier identifies counterfeit money.

On March 9 the girls held their meeting at an ice cream parlor over malted milks.

The girls held a St. Patrick's Day party March 16. They made Irish hats and shamrocks to wear and discussed the history of St. Patrick's Day. Then they sang some Irish songs and had refreshments.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS

Snah Da Yo Ki Junior Hi Camp Fire Girls, under the guardianship of Mrs. Harold Purvine, had a party for the eighth grade girls at Maryville Academy in Des Plaines. The girls with some of their friends went to Maryville on Friday evening, March 4. Chaperones accompanying them were Mrs. Purvine, Mrs. Milton Wendorf and Mrs. Merlin Kost.

Themes used for the party were Camp Fire Birthday Month, the 56th birthday of Camp Fire, and St. Patrick's Day.

The group of about 50 girls spent the evening playing games, dancing and eating. Over 100 cupcakes, four flat cakes and five cases of pop were consumed.

The Camp Fire group gave the Maryville girls six new records.

The girls are eighth graders at South Junior High and Our Lady of the Wayside schools.

"The Blue Bird Wish——

To have fun; to learn to make beautiful things; to remember to finish what I begin; to want to keep my temper most of the time; to go to interesting places; to know about trees and flowers and birds; to make friends."

Such lovely things for little girls to grow by. As the weeks go by we will show the ways in which the Bluebird groups in the Schaumburg and Hanover area conduct activities related to their wish.

In line with going to interesting places, The Robins of Hoffman Estates toured the Hoffman Estates Fire Station on March 8.

June Campbell, Esther Kaplan, Maureen Leszner, Yvette Pachter, Grace Provensazo and Gayle Stelzer with their leader, Mrs. Charlene Pachter and a sponsor, Mrs. Frances Kaplan, hiked to the station from Fairview School. Treats at Mrs. Kaplan's following their interesting tour of the station made the afternoon complete.

The Robins will fly up to campfire in the fall and are looking for young ladies from 9—12 who would like to join their group as Campfire Girls. For information call Mrs. Pachter at 529-6822.

Five Bluebirds from the White Star group in Weathersfield proudly presented the colors Monday, March 7, at the monthly meeting of the Schaumburg Junior Woman's Club. They are Nadine Gourley, Debbie Dearth, Susan Gustafson, Marguerite Sherman and Lauri Pierce. Mrs. Ellen Dearth is the White Star leader.

Plans are under way to take the girls in the S & H area to see "Hansel and Gretel" at Pheasant Run in St. Charles on Saturday, April 2. Leaders—give your program chairman a vote of confidence—back this project for your girls. It will be fun.

A new Wampum chairman has accepted responsibility for our fund raising projects. She is Mrs. Mary Ann McArthur from Weathersfield and we are grateful to her for accepting so demanding a position. Our thanks and welcome.

That's all for now. SEE YOU

SQUARE DANCE CLUB NEWS

Dorothy Meyer CL 3-2298

A-C SQUARE WHEELS

There'll be electioneering as well as dancing at the A-C's next dance, Saturday, March 19, when new club officers will be elected. Everyone's invited to come join the dancing, with caller Joe Gipson at the mike and "rounders" Glen and Elaine Dolmar. Joe will square 'em up at 8:30 and the Dolmars will lead the rounds from 8 to 8:30. Refreshments at 11:30 wind up the fine, full evening at Deerfield's Woodland School. Be there?

GLENVIEW SQUARES

Teacher-caller Ed Hempel will be graduating four squares of beginners at tomorrow night's dance in Lyon School, and guests are welcome to join the festivities. There'll be a workshop at 8 o'clock and square-'em-up time immediately follows at 8:30. With graduation and issuing of diplomas, dancing and refreshments it will be a busy evening for everyone who follows the crowd to school. The school is located at Lake Avenue and Waukegan Road.

There's a new banner for the stealing, by the way. Since the Glenview Squares have a second one, they now have a banner to stay at home and one to tempt the banner-snatchers. Other recent developments include planning a Knothead trip and, when spring is really here to stay, a club picnic. Until then, try an evening with the Glenview Squares — tomorrow evening, for instance.

BRONCO SQUARES

A couple of Irishmen, Gorski and Thompson, will be calling the jigs for all the sons 'n' daughters of the auld sod tomorrow night when the Bronco Squares honor St. Patrick's Day at their regularly scheduled dance.

Gorski, caller for the Flying Squares of Chicago, will be sharing the mike with Bronc's regular, Paul "Foggy" Thompson, immediately following the Sanders round dance workshop. Rounds will be from 7:30 to 8; Grove Avenue Grade School in Barrington is the place. Everybody's welcome.

Bronc's banner collection continues to be impressive despite their recent loss of Bucks and Does' pennant, retrieved right promptly by a contingent of Elk Grove raiders. Still on display are banners of the Valley Mixers (St. Charles), Lake Promenaders (Grayslake) and the Broncs' own stay-at-home flag.

Everyone's invited to the annual Spring Square Dance Festival of the Lake County Association of Square Dance Clubs, coming Sunday afternoon, March 20, to the Grant Community High School in Fox Lake. There'll be square dance signs along Route 59 to direct you to the school. Dancing time is from 2:30 until 5:30, with callers Doc Adams, Jim Shiporski, Elmer Williams, Lenny Roos, Foggy Thompson, and Joe Gipson. Glen and Elaine Dolmar will lead the rounds. Be there!

School Finance Apathy Decried

Public interest in questions of school finance is not as high as it should be, according to Ralph E. Clabaugh, District 25 superintendent.

Clabaugh, who spoke Tuesday night at a North School PTA meeting, said this lack of understanding has led to many popular misconceptions about financing schools and educational programs.

Among many misconceptions, said Clabaugh, one of the most widespread is the idea that the quality of a school program has no correlation to available funds. He pointed out that taxpayers must realize that limits upon finances determine the kind of education youngsters will receive.

HE ALSO contended communities, despite their wealth, are not always willing to provide top-grade educational programs.

Discussing education aid from state and federal authorities, Clabaugh noted that "universal education" can never be attained by only local financing.

He disagreed with arguments that the state doesn't have the funds to finance schools. Rather, he asserted, it comes down to whether the state legislature is willing to appropriate funds for educational purposes. The state has many more financial sources than does a school district, said Clabaugh, and, therefore, should have ample funds.

Clabaugh also took issue with the idea that schools must be staffed with teachers and administrative personnel who are willing to work for low wages. This financial sacrifice, said Clabaugh, should not have to be made by those responsible for educating our youngsters.

Conservative Makes Senate 3-Way Race

Gerald A. Moe, 34, of Buffalo Grove, has been tabbed to run as a conservative candidate for the U. S. Senate against Charles H. Percy, Republican challenger, and Sen. Paul H. Douglass, (D-Ill).

GERALD MOE

Moe was appointed chief engineer for Bell & Howell still projectors in 1964. Percy is chairman of the board of Bell & Howell and a member of the board of directors.

Moe's candidacy is supported by the Illinois Congress of Conservatives, headed by Glenn Brenner of Danville.

His announcement said he planned to resign from Bell & Howell in the near future. Moe's endorsement came Saturday at a meeting of the Conservative's executive board in Kankakee.

The candidate is a Wheeling Township School Trustee, elected in 1963 for a six-year term.

He has been active in township GOP circles and succeeded Thomas Houser, Percy's campaign manager and township GOP committeeman, in the post of president of the township Young Republican club in 1962. Houser was founder of the club.

An interesting comment from Houser at the time of the transfer was his commendation to club members for being "politically rather than socially inclined," and for "not being satisfied to let others do the job that so badly needs doing."

Moe received an Associate of Science degree from Bay City, Mich., Junior College and studied mechanical and electrical engineering at the University of Michigan and Wayne State University.

He and his family live at 337 Rosewood Ave., Buffalo Grove.

He is pledged to running a positive campaign and hopes to steal conservative votes from Douglas and Percy.

Percy has been considered too liberal for the far right wing elements in the Illinois GOP. Douglass has been given a nearly perfect rating from the Americans for Democratic Action.

Moe worked for Percy in his unsuccessful attempt to unseat Democratic Governor Otto Kerner in 1964. At that time, Percy defeated Conservative William J. Scott, who attempted to win the nomination to run for governor from the party. Scott is the present state treasurer.

The Conservative organization plans to assist Moe with campaign expenses and to secure the 25,000 signatures necessary to obtain a position on the ballot. (A-15

Hesse Announces For House Seat

Robert L. Hesse, a village trustee in Palatine, this week announced officially his Republican candidacy for the Illinois House of Representatives.

Hesse is one of three Republicans vying for the two posts. Others are incumbent Rep. Eugene Schlickman, (R-Arlington Heights), and David J. Regner of Mount Prospect, an Elk Grove Township auditor.

Three representatives serve each district. Generally the Democratic party puts up one candidate and the GOP two in GOP districts, and vice versa in heavy Democratic districts.

HOWEVER, the Democratic Party this year is sponsoring two candidates, Eugenia Chapman, incumbent from Arlington Heights, and Bernard Peskin, incumbent from Northbrook.

Conceivably three Republicans could run for the three posts in the 3rd District, a heavily Republican one. The decision is yet to be made.

Hesse, an attorney, has received the unanimous endorsement of the Palatine Township Regular Republican organization.

His backers believe he has substantial support in most areas of the district, including Wheeling Township, which is the most populous. Hesse has served as attorney for the Wheeling Township Republican party.

A graduate of Maine Township High School, Hesse was a scholarship student at Kenyon College and earned an A.B. degree magna cum laude.

From the University of Pennsylvania he received an LL.B degree and numerous awards, including that of the Bureau of National Affairs for highest academic performance.

HESSE specializes in trial work and transportation law and is a partner in the Chicago firm of Stevenson, Conaghan, Hackbert, Rooks and Pitts.

He is a member of the faculty of John Marshall Law School and teaches in the Chicago Lawyer's Institute.

In 1963, when elected to the village board of Palatine, he polled more votes than any of the other board candidates. He has also served as Palatine Township attorney and as senior warden and a vestryman of St. Philip's Episcopal Church.

Hesse is a member of the American Bar Association, Illinois State Bar Association, Chicago Bar Association and International Legal Aid Society.

He is admitted to practice before the Supreme Court of the United States and federal courts in Illinois, Indiana and Michigan.

He lives with his wife and two daughters at 1313 Michele Drive, Palatine. (B10

High Schools Seek Talks on Bus Law

Supt. H. L. Slichenmyer has been asked by the District 214 board to seek a meeting with Arlington Heights trustees regarding the village's controversial bus licensing ordinance.

Slichenmyer suggested the meeting, noting that elementary District 25 has been told by its attorney that the village bus licensing ordinance overreaches village powers.

HE SAID THAT District 25 also planned to talk with village trustees, hoping in doing so to iron out friction created between the two taxing bodies as a result of comments about the ordinance.

Some board members, particularly Dr. Frank J. Smith, demurred.

But the suggestion was informally approved at the urging of Dr. Edward Gilbert, assistant superintendent. (ACM-E

Report Luehring Is Doing Better

William W. Luehring, Wheeling Township road commissioner, is reported improved and doing well at Northwest Community Hospital.

There was no word on how much longer he will remain in the hospital. (ACM

Re-Election Bid By 2 Incumbents

Two incumbents on the District 301 junior college board so far are the only candidates seeking seats in the April 9 election.

The incumbents, Paul O'Dea and Richard Johnson, as of Wednesday morning were the only ones who had filed petitions at the junior college offices. Deadline for filing petitions is Friday (March 18).

O'Dea and Johnson drew one year terms when the junior college district was formed last year. (B10

Township Collectors Give Korzen Plaque

Cook County Treasurer, Bernard J. Korzen was honored at a private dinner recently.

The dinner, sponsored by the Cook County Tax Collectors' Association, was organized by the township collectors to express their appreciation for the assistance they have received for the past five years from County Treasurer Korzen and his staff in carrying out their duties.

FIVE YEARS AGO, upon assuming office, Korzen put his legal and accounting staff to work to establish the best possible working relationships between his office and the township collector's offices.

After researching the statutes and studying procedures practiced by tax collecting officials throughout the United States, County Treasurer Korzen's office prepared a concise, comprehensive manual which spelled out the law, the proper procedures, and the best methods of performing the functions township collectors are required to carry out.

"The manual prepared by the County Treasurer's Office has saved all of us countless hours of effort and the taxpayers of Cook County a great deal of time and money," the Chairman told County Treasurer Korzen, in presenting the award.

The commendation, a plaque of appreciation, was the first such award ever presented to a Cook County Treasurer in the history of the office.

What made the gesture of recognition and appreciation even more noteworthy was the fact that 28 of the 30 township collectors are members of the opposition Republican Party. Korzen is a life-long Democrat.

KORZEN TOOK note of this in his remarks in accepting the award. "This could only happen in America," said Korzen. "Republicans thanking a Democrat who had been helping Republicans in their work." "But, it just goes to prove again that members of both parties, despite their differences, can work together in the interests of the citizens and taxpayers as men of good will."

Robert L. Hesse, a village trustee in Palatine, this week announced officially his Republican candidacy for the Illinois House of Representatives.

Hesse is one of three Republicans vying for the two posts. Others are incumbent Rep. Eugene Schlickman, (R-Arlington Heights), and David J. Regner of Mount Prospect, an Elk Grove Township auditor.

Three representatives serve each district. Generally the Democratic party puts up one candidate and the GOP two in GOP districts, and vice versa in heavy Democratic districts.

HOWEVER, the Democratic Party this year is sponsoring two candidates, Eugenia Chapman, incumbent from Arlington Heights, and Bernard Peskin, incumbent from Northbrook.

Conceivably three Republicans could run for the three posts in the 3rd District, a heavily Republican one. The decision is yet to be made.

Hesse, an attorney, has received the unanimous endorsement of the Palatine Township Regular Republican organization.

His backers believe he has substantial support in most areas of the district, including Wheeling Township, which is the most populous. Hesse has served as attorney for the Wheeling Township Republican party.

A graduate of Maine Township High School, Hesse was a scholarship student at Kenyon College and earned an A.B. degree magna cum laude.

From the University of Pennsylvania he received an LL.B degree and numerous awards, including that of the Bureau of National Affairs for highest academic performance.

HESSE specializes in trial work and transportation law and is a partner in the Chicago firm of Stevenson, Conaghan, Hackbert, Rooks and Pitts.

He is a member of the faculty of John Marshall Law School and teaches in the Chicago Lawyer's Institute.

In 1963, when elected to the village board of Palatine, he polled more votes than any of the other board candidates. He has also served as Palatine Township attorney and as senior warden and a vestryman of St. Philip's Episcopal Church.

Hesse is a member of the American Bar Association, Illinois State Bar Association, Chicago Bar Association and International Legal Aid Society.

He is admitted to practice before the Supreme Court of the United States and federal courts in Illinois, Indiana and Michigan.

He lives with his wife and two daughters at 1313 Michele Drive, Palatine. (B10

High Schools Seek Talks on Bus Law

Supt. H. L. Slichenmyer has been asked by the District 214 board to seek a meeting with Arlington Heights trustees regarding the village's controversial bus licensing ordinance.

Slichenmyer suggested the meeting, noting that elementary District 25 has been told by its attorney that the village bus licensing ordinance overreaches village powers.

HE SAID THAT District 25 also planned to talk with village trustees, hoping in doing so to iron out friction created between the two taxing bodies as a result of comments about the ordinance.

Some board members, particularly Dr. Frank J. Smith, demurred.

But the suggestion was informally approved at the urging of Dr. Edward Gilbert, assistant superintendent. (ACM-E

Re-Election Bid By 2 Incumbents

Two incumbents on the District 301 junior college board so far are the only candidates seeking seats in the April 9 election.

The incumbents, Paul O'Dea and Richard Johnson, as of Wednesday morning were the only ones who had filed petitions at the junior college offices. Deadline for filing petitions is Friday (March 18).

O'Dea and Johnson drew one year terms when the junior college district was formed last year. (B10

Township Collectors Give Korzen Plaque

Cook County Treasurer, Bernard J. Korzen was honored at a private dinner recently.

The dinner, sponsored by the Cook County Tax Collectors' Association, was organized by the township collectors to express their appreciation for the assistance they have received for the past five years from County Treasurer Korzen and his staff in carrying out their duties.

FIVE YEARS AGO, upon assuming office, Korzen put his legal and accounting staff to work to establish the best possible working relationships between his office and the township collector's offices.

After researching the statutes and studying procedures practiced by tax collecting officials throughout the United States, County Treasurer Korzen's office prepared a concise, comprehensive manual which spelled out the law, the proper procedures, and the best methods of performing the functions township collectors are required to carry out.

"The manual prepared by the County Treasurer's Office has saved all of us countless hours of effort and the taxpayers of Cook County a great deal of time and money," the Chairman told County Treasurer Korzen, in presenting the award.

The commendation, a plaque of appreciation, was the first such award ever presented to a Cook County Treasurer in the history of the office.

What made the gesture of recognition and appreciation even more noteworthy was the fact that 28 of the 30 township collectors are members of the opposition Republican Party. Korzen is a life-long Democrat.

KORZEN TOOK note of this in his remarks in accepting the award. "This could only happen in America," said Korzen. "Republicans thanking a Democrat who had been helping Republicans in their work." "But, it just goes to prove again that members of both parties, despite their differences, can work together in the interests of the citizens and taxpayers as men of good will."

Board Switches To Palatine Twp.

The District 301 junior college board moved ahead this week with plans to buy the Tri-Color farm on the northeast corner of Roselle and Algonquin Roads after changing its tentative decision to condemn the Rathje farm for a campus site.

In a 5-1 vote last week, the board approved selection of the site and instructed its attorney to offer owners George Jayne and John Biddle $4,500 an acre for the land. The decision ended the controversy between the board and Schaumburg Village Pres. Robert O. Atcher over the 181-acre Rathje farm, which was part of land zoned for industrial development.

If price negotiations with the owners fail, board attorney Frank Hines will begin condemnation proceedings. Architects reports showed that from 170 to 203 acres might be available for a campus site.

THE BOARD postponed selection of a site last month to restudy several proposed sites and to examine a few others that previously had not been considered.

The board's vote last week came after closed executive session during which a per-acre price was affixed to the Tri-Color farm. Casting the dissenting vote was board member James Hamill who argued in favor of the Rathje farm.

"I always felt the Tri-Color farm was too far west and I still do," said Hamill. Describing the Rathje farm as still "the number one choice," he argued that a small, opposing group in Schaumburg Township should not keep the board from going through with its original decision.

Other members of the board disagreed with Hamill and contended that the Tri-Color farm was as good, if not better, than the Rathje farm.

RICHARD Johnson remarked, "If you add political climate to our list of criteria, it (Tri-Color farm) is far above the Schaumburg site."

Other members in disagreement with Hamill argued that difference in distance from the center of the district between the Tri-Color and Rathje farms was not significant. Junior college president Dr. Robert P. Lahti said the Tri-Color farm was only one-half mile farther.

Lahti told the board, "Overall, the architects felt this site was as good as the Rathje farm and would be very suitable for the campus."

Access to the property, described by architects as "very good," is expected to improve when the extension of Euclid Avenue on the north end of the property is completed in 1970.

BOARD MEMBER A. M. (Bud) Bernstein, who did not attend the meeting last week, said Monday he favored the site selection. He agreed, however, with Hamill that the board should not change its mind because of pressure from Schaumburg officials.

"We are well overdue on this decision," he remarked.

Lahti said discussions with officials in Palatine indicated the village would be willing to extend sewer facilities and tests showed adequate supply of water. Estimated cost of utilities, Lahti said, was about $80,000.

The possibility of annexing the college site to Palatine was discussed during the meeting. Robert Hollander, village manager of Palatine, who was attending the meeting, told the board the site could easily be annexed if the owner of some land lying between the village and Tri-Color farm would volunteer for annexation. This, Hollander said, would make the Tri-Color farm contiguous with Palatine.

THE BOARD was asked why it had not considered the Tri-Color farm before naming the Rathje farm as its tentative choice last month. Johnson replied that initial estimates indicated that only 100 acres were needed for the campus.

This estimate increased, said Johnson, when consultants submitted projections showing enrollment far above that originally expected. Board member Paul O'Dea agreed with Johnson and added that the Tri-Color farm originally was considered too far west.

Advocating selection of the Tri-Color farm, Johnson said he was not concerned whether the board's decision looked as though the board was backing down from Atcher's opposition.

"I'm more concerned with how it looks 10 years from now," commented Johnson.

UPON HEARING the board's decision, Atcher said, "I couldn't be happier. It's like being in a war for a long time, and then finding out you love your enemy." He praised the decision and said he would be willing to help the junior college program in any way possible.

"I'm deeply gratified," he added, "and I know I speak for the majority of the people in Schaumburg."

Johnson, Hamill, and O'Dea raised objection at the meeting to a motion that the question of a site be considered in executive session. They said that only matters of land price could be discussed in the closed meeting. (B-10

Atcher Opposition Goes Down to Wire

Robert O. Atcher, Schaumburg village president, said last week that businessmen in the area would hire a public relation firm to defeat the junior college bond referendum if the Rathje farm was selected as a campus site.

Atcher made the statements at a Schaumburg Township school board meeting before a decision by the junior college board last Thursday which eliminated the Rathje farm as a campus site.

Atcher had opposed the junior college board on selection of the Rathje farm because the land was part of a 4,000-acre tract zoned for industrial development. The junior college board has since approved selection of the Tri-Color farm at Roselle and Algonquin Roads.

Atcher requested the Wednesday night meeting with the Schaumburg school board because he said he felt that "some board members did not know both sides" of the controversy.

HE TOLD THE board that if the junior college was built on the site in question, the village of Schaumburg "would lose land we can immediately develop industrially." Atcher added that there are a number of large organizations interested in the site, however "they have backed off" because of the junior college site controversy.

"These are big, very fine AAA corporations ready to go in," Atcher said.

Since the Rathje site is in the center of an area zoned industrial, Atcher said, its use as a junior college site would prevent further industrial development of the area. Contrary to the "myth handed out by the junior college board," he continued, "industry does not want to be across the street from a junior college.

"A large university can call on industry for research but eventually the college will object to them," he said.

Atcher called the 181-acre site "the finest piece of buildable land" and said that the owner of the land could receive as much as $20,000 per acre for it.

ATCHER CRITICIZED a resolution made at the general meeting of Campanelli PTA last week which endorsed the Rathje site for the junior college. The motion was presented by Mrs. Jean Overton, legislation chairman of the PTA, following a presentation by members of the junior college board.

Atcher said that he had been attacked through the press by Mrs. Hayter for his stand on the junior college site. Mrs. Hayter said that she had not attacked him but "merely differed with his opinion."

Former school board president, Robert Seelbach said that he had agreed to attend the meeting "with some reluctance" and added that the school board was obliged to give junior college board member James Hamill equal time after meeting with Atcher. Seelback further added that those in attendance came with the idea that both Atcher and Mrs. Hayter had fixed opinions but we "came to hear, so let's listen and then decide." (B-10

He pioneered and served as president of the Los Angeles Suburban Publishers Association, which represents circulation of more than one million and offers area advertisers a group rate. Asa succeeds John Tilton, publisher of the Twin Cities Suburban Newspapers.

ELECTED VICE - President was Carll Tucker, Jr., publisher of Patent Trader, Mount Kisco, New York, an outstanding Westchester County suburban newspaper. Tucker has been a member of the Foundation's Board for three years and also serves as Membership Chairman.

Re-elected to the post of secretary-treasurer was Robert Y. Paddock, vice-president, Paddock Publications, Arlington Heights. Paddock was the foundation's first president upon its organization in 1960.

New members of the foundation as of March 1 are John H. Wolf, Cincinnati Suburban Newspapers; Harold Matzner, Matzner Publications, Wayne, N. J.; and Robert W. Schuette, Town Crier, Inc., Wayland, Mas

THE SPF ANNUAL Membership Meeting was the concluding event of a two-day national Publishers' Seminar, a workshop-conference held each February by the foundation. This year's seminar broke all records for attendance, attracting some 45 suburban newspaper publishers and members of their advertising and business staffs, for a total registration of more than 125.

A highlight of the Annual Meeting was the affirmative vote by members authorizing the Foundation to accept an invitation from Northern Illinois University for cooperation in establishing a suburban press research and service program, with the University's School of Journalism serving as headquarters for the project. New Suburban Press Officers Announced

A Los Angeles suburban newspaper publisher will spearhead the development program of the Suburban Press Foundation during its fiscal year February 28, 1966-March 1, 1967.

Oran W. Asa, Northeast Los Angeles Publishing Company, publisher of six Los Angeles area newspapers, was elected president by the Foundation Board, following the Annual Membership Meeting held here in late February.

Asa has been prominent in Los Angeles publishing circles and active in organizational work over a long period. He pioneered and served as president of the Los Angeles Suburban Publishers Association, which represents circulation of more than one million and offers area advertisers a group rate. Asa succeeds John Tilton, publisher of the Twin Cities Suburban Newspapers.

ELECTED VICE - President was Carll Tucker, Jr., publisher of Patent Trader, Mount Kisco, New York, an outstanding Westchester County suburban newspaper. Tucker has been a member of the Foundation's Board for three years and also serves as Membership Chairman.

Re-elected to the post of secretary-treasurer was Robert Y. Paddock, vice-president, Paddock Publications, Arlington Heights. Paddock was the foundation's first president upon its organization in 1960.

New members of the foundation as of March 1 are John H. Wolf, Cincinnati Suburban Newspapers; Harold Matzner, Matzner Publications, Wayne, N. J.; and Robert W. Schuette, Town Crier, Inc., Wayland, Mas

THE SPF ANNUAL Membership Meeting was the concluding event of a two-day national Publishers' Seminar, a workshop-conference held each February by the foundation. This year's seminar broke all records for attendance, attracting some 45 suburban newspaper publishers and members of their advertising and business staffs, for a total registration of more than 125.

ORAN ASA

ROBERT PADDOCK

CARLL TUCKER

A highlight of the Annual Meeting was the affirmative vote by members authorizing the Foundation to accept an invitation from Northern Illinois University for cooperation in establishing a suburban press research and service program, with the University's School of Journalism serving as headquarters for the project. Rotary International Scholar To Study Law in Glasgow

An Arlington Heights youth has been selected for a Rotary International scholarship, providing him with a year's post-graduate study abroad.

He is Paul M. Rybski, 21, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene B. Rybski, 810 N. Pine Ave. Rybski will study philosophy at the University of Glasgow, Glasgow, Scotland.

The scholarship was announced by Lloyd Hollister, Wilmette, treasurer of the international service organization. Rotary International each year provides major and minor scholarships for the two local Rotary Districts 642 and 644.

Rybski is the second Arlington Heights recipient of the scholarship. Natalie Glover, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elton R. Glover, 713 N. Hickory Ave., studied a year in Alibahd, India, under the program.

THE GRANT WILL provide air transportation to Scotland, $1,200 for living expenses, $250 for educational costs and $200 for travel within Great Britain.

A 1962 graduate of Arlington High School, Rybski is a senior at Cornell College, Mount Vernon, Iowa.

He hopes to teach college level philosophy, concentrating in metaphysics and moral philosophy.

Rybski has studied at Cornell College under several scholarships and fellowship programs. He has acted as managing editor of the college newspaper, staff announcer, director of traffic, program director and chief engineer of a student-run radio station.

He was secretary-treasurer of the Cornell fencing club and of the Iowa division of the Amateur Fencers League, a fencing instructor in the men's athletic department and a president of the Iowa Student Philosophical Association.

DURING SUMMER college vacations, Rybski worked in computer programming in International Business Machine Corp.'s "cradle program."

A member of the National Honor Society in high school, Rybski was active in fencing and participated in the Boy's Chorus and Senior Choir. He took a science preparatory program, being interested in physics. He switched to philosophy in college because, "This is the only discipline which I have yet found to satisfy all of my interests. My goal is that of being a professor of psychology."

Association Compiles Facts For Stonegate Lights Plea

The Stonegate Association will continue to dig out facts and figures on street lights as part of its attempt to have "mushroom" type lights installed in Stonegate subdivision of Arlington Heights.

At a meeting with the village public safety committee Tuesday night, association Pres. Alfred L. Wilcox, 210 S. Brighton Place, presented the position of Stonegate residents and heard village officials oppose "mushroom" street lights on the basis of efficiency and economy.

The village administration's proposal, based on a report by Village Engineer Charles Tower, is to install new "luminaire" lights which he said would be cheaper and more efficient.

BEFORE ANY recommendations go before the village board, however, contenders will continue to gather information in at least three ways:

—Cost figures for both the "mushroom" and "luminaire" systems will be re-examined;

—Stonegate Association representatives will have a look at the "mushroom" light system presently in operation in Berwyn;

—The state will be contacted to find out whether motor fuel tax funds can be used to install lights on 25 foot poles and eight foot arms in residential areas.

The village has for some time been planning to replace the present system of 134 incandescent lights now on 12 foot high concrete poles in Stonegate. They are found outdated and difficult to maintain.

The village engineer's recommendation is to abandon the entire system and install 75 new 25-foot poles with luminaire lights on eight foot brackets. Estimated cost would be $90,000.

The Stonegate Association opposes "luminaire" lights on the grounds that they would detract from the character of the neighborhood. It proposes to convert existing fixtures to "mushroom" lights for approximately $750 per pole or a total of $100,000.

"We have hoped the village would be able to replace existing lights with some that are in keeping with the character of the neighborhood," said Wilcox after Tuesday's meeting.

THE VILLAGE engineer's report states the following objections to "mushroom" lights:

—The existing system in Berwyn provides illumination that is adequate on sidewalks but spotty on the pavement and too intense on the houses;

—The glare on the pavement is objectionable during or after rain;

—The existing 13 and 15 foot poles are low and encourage vandalism which increases maintenance costs;

—Because of the low mounting heights, additional fixtures would have to be constructed to qualify for motor fuel tax funds which are based upon the amount of illumination required by the state for use of the funds;

—Excessive trimming of trees would be required to provide for the minimum amount of illumination required by the state. . (A

Survey Conducted

Are Additional Moorings Needed?

The Wilmette Harbor Association, administrative authority for Wilmette Harbor, has engaged the services of the Chicago engineering firm of DeLeuw, Cather and Company, to examine and report on the engineering and economic feasibility of expanding the present harbor facilities.

According to the Association President, William Wente, the survey will be conducted in two stages.

The first stage will attempt to determine the demand for additional moorings at Wilmette Harbor, both in number and in size and type of boats. To this end a questionnaire is being placed in local publications in the area serviced by the Harbor.

Wente stated that he hoped interested boat owners and potential owners would take the time to complete the questionnaire and return it to the Association.

If the first stage of the survey proves favorable, the second stage will be undertaken to determine the extent and type of facilities desirable, and possible methods of financing and expansion program.

Although there are now 281 boats moored at Wilmette Harbor, the Association hopes that the survey will indicate methods by which additional moorings may be made available to the public.

Mooring spaces are available to everyone, upon application, on a first come first served basis, Wente stated.

No Contest Seen in District 25

Caucus-backed candidates Mrs. Marian Malcolmson and James W. Penn remain uncontested in their bids for seats on the District 25 school board.

No other candidates had filed petitions as of Wednesday morning. Mrs. Malcolmson, a board incumbent, and Penn were endorsed by the nominating committee last month.

Caucus-backing has been tantamount to election since the committee was first formed.

Deadline for filing petitions is Saturday.

If elected, Penn will fill a board vacancy left by Joseph Faner who will retire when his term expires this spring. Mrs. Malcolmson is seeking her second term. (A

Patton PTA Nominations Are Listed

Mrs. Jerry Hanson has been nominated for president of the new Arlington Heights Patton School PTA for 1966-67. Her fellow nominees are Mrs. John Peters, first vice president; Hal Fluher, second vice president; Mrs. Robert Pace, secretary; and Mrs. Ronald Wittmeyer, treasurer.

The nominations were read by Mrs. James R. Walsh, chairman of the nominating committee, at the second organizational meeting of the Patton PTA, held March 7.

On April 12, at 8 p.m., the formal organizational meeting will be held. Further nominations will be accepted, with prior consent of the person nominated. Charter members will be enrolled, and the new officers will be elected and installed.

All Patton School parents are invited to attend. (A

CLASSROOM WORK and outside community activities counted in making James Nicholson, 29, of 1109 W. Hawthorne, Arlington Heights, the runner-up in the "Outstanding Young Educator" contest the Elk Grove Village Jaycees sponsored. Nicholson is a sixth grade teacher in Elk Grove District 59. A panel of three judges that included an attorney, a junior college president, and an insurance broker made the decision. (Staff photo)

Merger Possibility Studied By School Districts 59 and 54

Five committees were established Tuesday to carry on further study of merger or boundary change between Elk Grove School District 59 and Schaumburg School District 54.

The committee formation came at a preliminary negotiation session between the two school boards. The boards agreed to meet again at 8 p.m. Wednesday, April 13, at Robert Frost Junior High School in Schaumburg.

Chairmen of the five committees formed were: real estate committee, Donald Ruby of District 54; finance committee, Joseph Schefter of District 59; curriculum committee, Eleanor Thorsen of District 54; building use, Fred Downey of District 43, and administrative organization, Douglas Burns of District 59.

THE TUESDAY meeting was considered exploratory and one of orientation between the two boards. The District 59 school board members had agreed to keep the discussion on a non-competitive level though the board disagreed when pertinent questions should begin to be made.

A. M. Bernstein, District 59 School Board President, said the meeting was "to determine facts and figures and to try to get a general concept of the amalgamation of the two school districts." Downey, District 54 School Board president, called the investigation "worthwhile no matter what." Even if the districts decide not to merge or change boundaries, the districts will understand each other better.

Neither board is unanimous on a position toward merger.

Downey indicated "if I am interested in the education of the children I represent, I'd have to react favorably initially" to the proposal.

BERNSTEIN also sees the merger as giving a larger district savings in actions like purchasing and greater flexibility in carrying out special education programs.

A merger would not be possible before September at the earliest. While the two school boards are empowered to make a decision without going to referendum, the county school superintendent has final say on the merger and can hold public hearings on objections.

Much of the Tuesday discussion centered on the description of the two districts. (A

Teachers' Pay Proposal Fails

Elk Grove School Board Monday night cut back a Teachers Council salary proposal.

It also delayed final decision on any salary schedule and asked for alternatives to consider.

The teachers council salary would cost the district $170,000 more in the budget. Asst. Supt. William Mann's budget estimate showed only $110,000 available for increases.

Supt. Roger Bardwell told the board at the budget meeting he considered the index schedule the teachers proposed as unfeasible this year. Bardwell said the district's programs had been reviewed and no more decreases could be made without hurting the program.

MANN SHOWED the need for $570,000 for increases in salaries throughout the district. He figured the addition of 42 new teachers.

Bardwell was directed to produce a teachers salary proposal that was figured with $110,000 as the maximum available for increases. He also was to submit another schedule with increases that would have to be financed partially through early tax anticipation warrants.

A. M. (Bud) Bernstein, school board president, argued the key question before the board was whether they considered these "unusual years" and tax anticipation warrants should be retired more slowly than planned.

School board member Joseph Schefter sharply disagreed. "If tax anticipation warrants are acceptable this year in a (good) year like this, what will we do next year," he asked. Board member Douglas Burns also argued against this approach.

RICHARD HESS, board member, indicated he wanted to see alternatives with and without tax anticipation use. He did not view the warrants unfavorably.

Tax anticipation warrants are used to borrow on money expected in the next year's revenues.

The board did agree it would approve a $100 raise for the starting salary, beginning teachers at $5,400. (A(E(M

Area Wrestlers Top Three Weight Classes in CAAU

Three Paddock area wrestlers, including the newly-appointed varsity coach at Arlington High School, captured championships last weekend in the Central Amateru Athletic Union wrestling tournament in Chicago.

Bill Myers, who was named last week to the head wrestling assignment at Arlington, took first place at 155 pounds in the Open Division. Myers wrestles for the Mayor Daley Youth Foundation.

Omar Aviles, a former standout at Forest View High School, took first place honors at 108 pounds in the Open Division, and Arlington High junior Brad Somers was first at 175 pounds in the Novice Class.

The Open Division is for anyone who isn't a professional. Novice wrestlers have not placed third or better in state-sanctioned tournaments.

Bernstein to Seek Dist. 59 Re-election

Incumbent A. M. (Bud) Bernstein this week decided to run for the Elk Grove District 59 school board.

Others filing were Gene R. Artemenko, 38, of 431 Millers Road, Des Plaines; and Wayne Little, 33, of 745 W. Ambleside, Des Plaines.

Bernstein of 332 Charing Cross Road, Elk Grove Village, presently is the District 59 school board president.

More candidates are expected to file by the Saturday noon deadline at the administration office, 2123 S. Arlington Heights Road, Arlington Heights.

Two additional Elk Grove Village candidates are expected to seek the two seats on the board. So far, there are no board members, and no candidates, from the Arlington Heights area of District 59.

THIS SCHOOL board election is considered major since it could change the geographical composition and the philosophy of the board.

Besides his present position on the school board, Bernstein also is a member of the Community College District 301 Board that serves four townships including Elk Grove and Wheeling.

Bernstein is employed as a stock broker by Walston & Co. in Chicago.

ARTEMENKO, assistant general manager of the United Air Lines $30 million credit union, was president two years ago of the High Ridge Knolls PTA. He is a presidential nominee for the newly formed Elk Grove High School teacher-parent council.

Little, a process engineer at Minneapolis-Honeywell, is president of the High Ridge Knolls Civic Association. He was a charter member of the group five years ago. He has served on the citizens park committee for the Mount Prospect Park District and worked on the swimming pool agreement between the park district and District 59. He is serving on the committee for the pool dedication this summer.

Vance Folkman, board member of the Mount Prospect area, is not seeking re-election.

Other candidates are David Crail, 546 Landmeier Road, Elk Grove Village, and Charles (Jim) VanAbrahams, 79 Avon Road, Elk Grove Village. (A

Promotional Help Sought For Booklet

Lester H. Ploetz, 1004 N. Mitchell Ave., is considering a request from Arlington Heights Progress, Inc. that he write the text for the group's promotional pamphlet, "Where in the World is Arlington Heights."

Members of Progress, Inc. agreed last week to seek assistance from Ploetz after a preliminary draft of the pamphlet was compiled by Guy Anderson. Ploetz said Tuesday night that he would meet with Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson, secretary of Progress, Inc., to discuss the request.

The group commended Anderson for his research efforts on the pamphlet but agreed that it needed to be shortened and "negative" points about the village deleted. The booklet is designed to attract light industry and research groups to Arlington Heights. (A

Association Compiles Facts For Stonegate Lights Plea

The Stonegate Association will continue to dig out facts and figures on street lights as part of its attempt to have "mushroom" type lights installed in Stonegate subdivision of Arlington Heights.

At a meeting with the village public safety committee Tuesday night, association Pres. Alfred L. Wilcox, 210 S. Brighton Place, presented the position of Stonegate residents and heard village officials oppose "mushroom" street lights on the basis of efficiency and economy.

The village administration's proposal, based on a report by Village Engineer Charles Tower, is to install new "luminaire" lights which he said would be cheaper and more efficient.

BEFORE ANY recommendations go before the village board, however, contenders will continue to gather information in at least three ways:

—Cost figures for both the "mushroom" and "luminaire" systems will be re-examined;

—Stonegate Association representatives will have a look at the "mushroom" light system presently in operation in Berwyn;

—The state will be contacted to find out whether motor fuel tax funds can be used to install lights on 25 foot poles and eight foot arms in residential areas.

The village has for some time been planning to replace the present system of 134 incandescent lights now on 12 foot high concrete poles in Stonegate. They are found outdated and difficult to maintain.

The village engineer's recommendation is to abandon the entire system and install 75 new 25-foot poles with luminaire lights on eight foot brackets. Estimated cost would be $90,000.

The Stonegate Association opposes "luminaire" lights on the grounds that they would detract from the character of the neighborhood. It proposes to convert existing fixtures to "mushroom" lights for approximately $750 per pole or a total of $100,000.

"We have hoped the village would be able to replace existing lights with some that are in keeping with the character of the neighborhood," said Wilcox after Tuesday's meeting.

THE VILLAGE engineer's report states the following objections to "mushroom" lights:

—The existing system in Berwyn provides illumination that is adequate on sidewalks but spotty on the pavement and too intense on the houses;

—The glare on the pavement is objectionable during or after rain;

—The existing 13 and 15 foot poles are low and encourage vandalism which increases maintenance costs;

—Because of the low mounting heights, additional fixtures would have to be constructed to qualify for motor fuel tax funds which are based upon the amount of illumination required by the state for use of the funds;

—Excessive trimming of trees would be required to provide for the minimum amount of illumination required by the state. . (A

Survey Conducted

Are Additional Moorings Needed?

The Wilmette Harbor Association, administrative authority for Wilmette Harbor, has engaged the services of the Chicago engineering firm of DeLeuw, Cather and Company, to examine and report on the engineering and economic feasibility of expanding the present harbor facilities.

According to the Association President, William Wente, the survey will be conducted in two stages.

The first stage will attempt to determine the demand for additional moorings at Wilmette Harbor, both in number and in size and type of boats. To this end a questionnaire is being placed in local publications in the area serviced by the Harbor.

Wente stated that he hoped interested boat owners and potential owners would take the time to complete the questionnaire and return it to the Association.

If the first stage of the survey proves favorable, the second stage will be undertaken to determine the extent and type of facilities desirable, and possible methods of financing and expansion program.

Although there are now 281 boats moored at Wilmette Harbor, the Association hopes that the survey will indicate methods by which additional moorings may be made available to the public.

Mooring spaces are available to everyone, upon application, on a first come first served basis, Wente stated.

No Contest Seen in District 25

Caucus-backed candidates Mrs. Marian Malcolmson and James W. Penn remain uncontested in their bids for seats on the District 25 school board.

No other candidates had filed petitions as of Wednesday morning. Mrs. Malcolmson, a board incumbent, and Penn were endorsed by the nominating committee last month.

Caucus-backing has been tantamount to election since the committee was first formed.

Deadline for filing petitions is Saturday.

If elected, Penn will fill a board vacancy left by Joseph Faner who will retire when his term expires this spring. Mrs. Malcolmson is seeking her second term. (A

Merger Possibility Studied By School Districts 59 and 54

Five committees were established Tuesday to carry on further study of merger or boundary change between Elk Grove School District 59 and Schaumburg School District 54.

The committee formation came at a preliminary negotiation session between the two school boards. The boards agreed to meet again at 8 p.m. Wednesday, April 13, at Robert Frost Junior High School in Schaumburg.

Chairmen of the five committees formed were: real estate committee, Donald Ruby of District 54; finance committee, Joseph Schefter of District 59; curriculum committee, Eleanor Thorsen of District 54; building use, Fred Downey of District 43, and administrative organization, Douglas Burns of District 59.

THE TUESDAY meeting was considered exploratory and one of orientation between the two boards. The District 59 school board members had agreed to keep the discussion on a noncompetitive level though the board disagreed when pertinent questions should begin to be made.

A. M. Bernstein, District 59 School Board President, said the meeting was "to determine facts and figures and to try to get a general concept of the amalgamation of the two school districts." Downey, District 54 School Board president, called the investigation "worthwhile no matter what." Even if the districts decide not to merge or change boundaries, the districts will understand each other better.

Neither board is unanimous on a position toward merger.

Downey indicated "if I am interested in the education of the children I represent, I'd have to react favorably initially" to the proposal.

BERNSTEIN also sees the merger as giving a larger district savings in actions like purchasing and greater flexibility in carrying out special education programs.

A merger would not be possible before September at the earliest. While the two school boards are empowered to make a decision without going to referendum, the county school superintendent has final say on the merger and can hold public hearings on objections.

Much of the Tuesday discussion centered on the description of the two districts. (A

Teachers' Pay Proposal Fails

Elk Grove School Board Monday night cut back a Teachers Council salary proposal.

It also delayed final decision on any salary schedule and asked for alternatives to consider.

The teachers council salary would cost the district $170,000 more in the budget. Asst. Supt. William Mann's budget estimate showed only $110,000 available for increases.

Supt. Roger Bardwell told the board at the budget meeting he considered the index schedule the teachers proposed as unfeasible this year. Bardwell said the district's programs had been reviewed and no more decreases could be made without hurting the program.

MANN SHOWED the need for $570,000 for increases in salaries throughout the district. He figured the addition of 42 new teachers.

Bardwell was directed to produce a teachers salary proposal that was figured with $110,000 as the maximum available for increases. He also was to submit another schedule with increases that would have to be financed partially through early tax anticipation warrants.

A. M. (Bud) Bernstein, school board president, argued the key question before the board was whether they considered these "unusual years" and tax anticipation warrants should be retired more slowly than planned.

School board member Joseph Schefter sharply disagreed. "If tax anticipation warrants are acceptable this year in a (good) year like this, what will we do next year," he asked. Board member Douglas Burns also argued against this approach.

RICHARD HESS, board member, indicated he wanted to see alternatives with and without tax anticipation use. He did not view the warrants unfavorably.

Tax anticipation warrants are used to borrow on money expected in the next year's revenues.

The board did agree it would approve a $100 raise for the starting salary, beginning teachers at $5,400.

Palatine Sculptor Happy to Follow Own Path

by Dan Pribilski
Staff Writer

Harold Kerr is a man who does absolutely no work if you look at his life from his point of view.

Kerr is one of the top sculptors today in the Chicagoland area.

Living in a red frame house at Dundee and Rand Roads, Palatine, Kerr "works" on his metal figures, many of which he does just for "fun."

"I don't take contracts to fill all my time," he comments. "I don't like too many because they would cut into my divertissements." As he speaks a note of merriment always comes through.

His highly successful art is not work for him because he enjoys every minute of it. He can't recall how many sculptures he has done.

His merriment is reflected in the pieces he has done for himself and for contract. "I do a lot of tongue-in-cheek," he remarked, "and the people catch on."

KERR IS KNOWN for his work in many states and overseas. His reputation as a freelance artist has been spread by word-of-mouth. He does not enter contests, rush after work, or seek out galleries to display his works.

Regarding competitions: "They're more like dog shows. If anyone wants my work, they can buy it."

A lot of sculpturing is for municipal and civic buildings. Regarding bids: "I never make bids." Again he indicates they either want him or they don't.

And on galleries: "It's like putting something in dead storage to put it with a gallery. Never sought to get something into a museum."

THE ONLY "commercial" exhibit he bothers with is his own. Twice a year he has an "open house" show at his Palatine home.

While some may consider his attitudes rather arrogant, they reflect nothing more than a confident independent man of 56 who 12 years ago struck out as a freelance full-time sculptor.

From Tel Aviv, Israel, to Italy, to Michigan to the Chicagoland area his works can be seen and enjoyed, or disliked if you do not care for his metal works which at times seem to be little more than smashed copper.

His works are not all unrepresentational—many are striking figures which cannot be ignored because of their distinctiveness and power. Such is a Moses striking a rock with his staff which Kerr is preparing to start from small models he has built.

"I WAS AN eighth grade dropout," Kerr quips when asked of his education and background. He started as a metalsmith, went into jewelry and fixtures and 12 years ago became a full-time creative sculptor although in prior years he had done creative work.

Admittedly going freelance was a calculated risk for a man of 44, but he has never regretted it and has been successful.

In the Chicagoland area, he is one of only two full-time sculptors (the other being Milton Horn, creator of the much talked about piece which is at the Chicago filtration plant.)

Working mostly with bronze, brass and some steel, Kerr has produced many works for churches and synagogues.

Locally, his work can be seen at Randhurst Shopping Plaza and at Shalom Memorial Park, Palatine.

ABOUT HALF HIS work is done for churches and governmental agencies and schools and the other half is for private individuals. This, of course, does not count the work he does strictly for himself.

Kerr is married and has two boys, 16 and 12. The oldest, Scott, shows promise as a sculptor and works with his father in his shop behind his house. His younger son, Bryan, is a musician, plays the flute, and recently won an area school competition for soloists.

The largest work Kerr has done was 30 feet tall, and he presently has a contract for a slightly smaller piece.

He says he works on only one piece at a time.

When asked what his favorite piece is, he replies, "The next one." (A15

DuPage Areas Challenge New Fire District Law

There is probably only one thing worse than double taxation for fire protection. That is no taxation and no protection.

An effort to avert both conditions caused several suits to be filed in the county division of the DuPage Circuit Court this year.

Legislations signed into law in the recent session of the General Assembly in Springfield was intended to resolve problems of double taxation.

It may have replaced the old problems with new problems. But Eugene Schlickman (R-Arlington Heights), author of H.B. 105 doesn't think so. The bill provides that land within a fire protection district, when annexed to a city, ceases to be part of the district unless a petition is filed by the district and allowed by a court.

SCHLICKMAN, A state representative, said, "It's a good, sound bill. . .an answer to a problem." He explained that State Sen. Hudson Sours, (R) of Peoria introduced a bill, SB-873, that would "take care of municipalities annexing as much as 50 per cent of a district." The bill, approved last August, allows the disconnection providing "the city assumes the debts of the district and assumes the obligation of providing protection to the remaining part of the district."

Both bills were signed into law by Gov. Kerner and, Schlickman points out, "Gov. Kerner is a former county judge and quite knowledgeable of fire districts."

The laws went into effect on Jan. 1. Since that time petitions objecting to disconnections have been filed by the Burlington Highlands, Tri-State, Belmont and Villard-Butterfield districts in DuPage.

The law firm of Rugen and Young, Chicago, representing Burlington Highlands and Tri-State districts, believes the law is obscure. "No one seems to know just what the statute means," a spokesman in the law office said. He added that it is hoped clarification will be made by the court.

JUDGE GUILD agreed, saying that he is making a thorough study of the matter before it comes before him in court.

One aspect of the bill that puzzles the attorneys is the portion that states that another fire district must be joined if an area is to be disconnected from one district. Protection from fire is the intent.

Prior to Jan. 1, a petitioner bore the costs and the burden of proving cause for disconnection from a fire district. Now, the burden is shifted to the district. Without protest, the annexation of an area into a municipality provides automatic disconnection from the fire district. But where the municipality does not provide fire protection of its own, the procedure becomes foggy.

WHILE OBJECTIONS to the disconnection process have been filed in DuPage, the laws apparently have been working smoothly in northwest Cook County.

Atty. Jack M. Siegel, who is village counsel for both Arlington Heights and Schaumburg, said no challenges have been filed to disconnections sought by either village and it is his impression other Cook County municipalities are having similar experiences with the new law.

Experts To Speak

Experts in the area of juvenile and adult probation supervision will be speakers at next Wednesday's meeting of the Cook County Council of Leagues of Women Voters.

John O'Brien, administrator of the Juvenile Court, will discuss juvenile probation at the county LWV meetings at 67 E. Madison, Chicago.

Present to discuss adult probation will be Harry Schloeter, deputy director of federal probation training.

Among league members planning to attend the downtown session are Mrs. Ralph Waterhouse of Mount Prospect, Mrs. Tom Lunak of Des Plaines and Mrs. George Schroeder of Arlington Heights. Mrs. Lunak is Arlington Heights LWV delegate to the county league council.

Seymour Simon, president of the Cook County Board of Commissioners, will speak at the morning session. His topic will be "Cook County Government in the Age of the Megalopolis."

DOOR Workshop Names Director

Leon Brownstein, formerly employed with the Jewish Vocational Service of Chicago, has been named director of DOOR, Inc. in Wheeling. DOOR is a training center for the handicapped.

In making the announcement DOOR Pres. Carl De Martino said, "Mr. Borwnstein is well equipped, both in education and experience, to handle our dual program of expanding facilities to handle more clients and providing additional services to both clients and customers by obtaining a greater diversity of contrcts."

HE ADDED, "In achieving these objectives, we will increasingly realize the potential of DOOR in training the handicapped for jobs in industry."

Brownstein assumed his duties last week. A native of Chicago, Brownstein received his bachelor of arts degree in clinical psychology from Roosevelt University in 1960, and master's degree in 1963.

His experience includes working as a rehabilitation counselor, job placement counselor and caseworker. He is a member of the Professional Division of the National Rehabilitation Association and American Personnel and Guidance Association.

Seedlings Offered At State Nurseries

Christmas tree seedlings for reforestation purposes and wildlife plantings are available now from state nurseries.

Conald J. Adams, chairman of the Lake County Soil and Water Conservation District, urges property owners who are interested in planting trees this spring to place their orders without delay. Price lists and order forms can be obtained from the Soil Conservation Service office at 71 S. Old Rand Road in Lake Zurich.

A tree-planting machine, complete with a tractor and two men to do the job, is available to property owners, including those ordering from private nurseries. Reservations should be made promptly.

The district also offers a pick up service for trees ordered from the state nursery. This insures fresher seedlings, with no transportation damage, available when the machine is ready to plant them.

"COST SHARING" assistance for a tree planting program may be obtained through the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, in the Post Office Building, Grayslake.

For more information, or for assistance in placing orders for trees, call the Soil Conservation Service office at 348-6319.

10 Chairmen Named For Cancer Crusade

The American Cancer Society has named 1966 Crusade chairmen in 10 communities served by Paddock Publications. Announcing the appointments was Woodrow G. Paradis, campaign chairman for the Society's 18-community Northwest Suburban Unit.

Community chairmen include: Arlington Heights — Ted Vom Brack, 403 N. Patton Ave., Elk Grove Village — Vince Gagliano, 503 Briarwood Lane; Haover Park and Bartlett — Ernie Armando, 6936 Longmeadow Lane; Hoffman Estates — Lou Robinson, 293 Maywood Lane; Mount Prospect — Ed Wells, 1420 W. Lincoln; Palatine — Robert Kempa, 1042 Paddock Drive; Prospect Heights — Mrs. David LaPlant, 106 S. Lee St.; Rolling Meadows — Stephen J. Eberhard, 2406 Martin; Schaumburg — Bill Baillie, 113 Flagstaff Lane (Hoffman Estates) and Streamwood — Don Goellner, 6870 Highland (Hanover Park).

Paradis said these community chairmen have shown "strong interest in the fight against cancer and this would add vigor and enthusiasm to the annual crusade to help save lives from cancer and raise funds for research, education and service."

AT THE SAME time the campaign chairman made a special and urgent appeal for more volunteers for the 1966 crusade. He estimated that a minimum of 1,200 volunteers will be needed to conduct a successful educational and fund raising program in these 10 communities — one which could result in helping to save the lives of a great many more men, women, and children.

"Already, many people have volunteered, "the chairman pointed out, "but we need many more if we are to do an adequate job with the 'Tell Your Neighbor' cancer facts program. We are also pledged to step up our program to reduce deaths from cancer and to enlarge the Society's nation-wide research effort."

Over 60 per cent of all cancer cases and almost 50 per cent of all deaths from cancer in the United States result from cancer of the uterus, colon and rectum, breast, oral cavity, lung and skin. In all of these areas, major strides can be made now with present methods of early detection and treatment.

TODAY THERE are 870,000 people in the United States under treatment for cancer. Taking into account population growth, the figure will be about 950,000 men, women and children by 1970 if present rates continue. In 1964 the latest year for which statistics are available, the northwest suburbs had more than 600 cancer patients undergoing treatment and more than 200 deaths from the dreaded disease.

According to the chairman, anyone who is willing and anxious to serve as a volunteer should contact the American Cancer Society's Northwest Suburban Unit at 121 S. Emerson St., Mount Prospect, or phone CL 3-8148.

"I am confident," the campaign chairman said, "with an increased number of volunteers, we will distribute life-saving information to every home in these 10 communities and at the same time reach our modest goal of $18,300." (B10

Only in a case of a tie will the financial need of an applicant be considered.

THE GOLDEN Jubilee Scholarship program, established by the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers in 1950 to commemorate its 50th anniversary, is financed by voluntary contributions from PTAs, councils and interested citizens.

But where the municipality does not provide fire protection of its own, the procedure becomes foggy.

WHILE OBJECTIONS to the disconnection process have been filed in DuPage, the laws apparently have been working smoothly in northwest Cook County.

Atty. Jack M. Siegel, who is village counsel for both Arlington Heights and Schaumburg, said no challenges have been filed to disconnections sought by either village and it is his impression other Cook County municipalities are having similar experiences with the new law.

Experts To Speak

Experts in the area of juvenile and adult probation supervision will be speakers at next Wednesday's meeting of the Cook County Council of Leagues of Women Voters.

John O'Brien, administrator of the Juvenile Court, will discuss juvenile probation at the county LWV meetings at 67 E. Madison, Chicago.

Present to discuss adult probation will be Harry Schloeter, deputy director of federal probation training.

Among league members planning to attend the downtown session are Mrs. Ralph Waterhouse of Mount Prospect, Mrs. Tom Lunak of Des Plaines and Mrs. George Schroeder of Arlington Heights. Mrs. Lunak is Arlington Heights LWV delegate to the county league council.

Seymour Simon, president of the Cook County Board of Commissioners, will speak at the morning session. His topic will be "Cook County Government in the Age of the Megalopolis."

DOOR Workshop Names Director

Leon Brownstein, formerly employed with the Jewish Vocational Service of Chicago, has been named director of DOOR, Inc. in Wheeling. DOOR is a training center for the handicapped.

In making the announcement DOOR Pres. Carl De Martino said, "Mr. Borwnstein is well equipped, both in education and experience, to handle our dual program of expanding facilities to handle more clients and providing additional services to both clients and customers by obtaining a greater diversity of contrcts."

HE ADDED, "In achieving these objectives, we will increasingly realize the potential of DOOR in training the handicapped for jobs in industry."

Brownstein assumed his duties last week. A native of Chicago, Brownstein received his bachelor of arts degree in clinical psychology from Roosevelt University in 1960, and master's degree in 1963.

His experience includes working as a rehabilitation counselor, job placement counselor and caseworker. He is a member of the Professional Division of the National Rehabilitation Association and American Personnel and Guidance Association.

Increased Tax Bills Face Property Owners

Northwest suburban residents will be grimacing over their property tax bills, due in the mail by the end of the month.

Most face a steep increase, generally true for suburban Cook County.

The 1965 rates on bills payable this year, have been released by Cook County Clerk Edward J. Barrett and reflect increased costs primarily for education.

Facing taxpayers for the first time this spring is the tab for Junior College District 301, covering Wheeling, Elk Grove, Palatine and Schaumburg Townships. First year's tax for the district, established by referendum a year ago, will be 9.2 cents per $100 assessed valuation, or $9.20 for a house assessed at $10,000.

BIGGEST INCREASE among grade school districts in the same four-township area will be collected by Elk Grove Township District 59, where the rate is up 21.2 cents from last year's $2.03 per $100 valuation.

Of the high school districts, the bill for Palatine-Schaumburg District 211 has the largest increase, up 16.4 cents to $2.056 per $100 valuation.

In the following lists, split up into townships, the tax rates for each separate district are given first. Then the total rates within various sections of each village are listed.

These totals are made up from the base rates for each township—for example, in Elk Grove Township, each property owner supports the county, forest preserve, road and bridge fund, suburban TB sanitarium, mosquito district, High School District 214, and the junior college—plus the specified grade school, sanitary, park and fire protection districts and village. The rates vary within municipalities because the separate districts do not follow village boundaries.

TO DETERMINE THE TAX BILL, multiply the rate given by each $100 in the property's assessed valuation.

First installment on this year's tax bill will be due May 1, payable either to the township or to the county.

NW Hospital in Campaign To End Nursing Shortage

by DAVE CRIPPEN
Staff Writer

Northwest Community Hospital is participating in a nation-wide program designed to overcome a severe shortage of trained nurses.

The program, which is federally financed under the Manpower Development and Training Act, enables hospitals to refer qualified nurses aides to licensed practical nurses training. Federal funds pay for all expenses of the one-year course, including books, tuition, and uniforms.

Northwest Community Hospital has participated in the program for the past year, according to Leonard Genung, assistant administrator.

THE HOSPITAL suffers from a critical shortage of practical nurses, explained Mrs. Elizabeth Wesseling, director of nursing. Currently, there are approximately 10 to 15 practical nurses working at Northwest, but this is a far cry from the 60 nurses which Mrs. Wesseling thinks are needed.

"I would think we could use one licensed practical nurse for each registered nurse," commented Mrs. Wesseling.

Noting the expanding hospital facilities and the increasing demands for medical staff, she estimated the need would be even greater in the near future.

The first effects of the training program are being felt at Northwest. Though only 10 to 15 practical nurses still are inadequate, explained Mrs. Wesseling, the current number represents an increase over the five to ten nurses who were available last year. More are expected to begin work in the near future, according to Mrs. Wesseling.

AT LEAST 10 women who were nurses aides at Northwest are now training for positions as practical nurses, she said, and five practicing nurses aides are expected to enter the next class in June.

Classes open up each year in June, September and January, explained Mrs. Wesseling. The one-year course includes 16 weeks of classroom instruction at an area high school. The remaining time is spent in on-the-job training at hospitals. This clinical training includes medical surgery, pediatrics, and obstetrics. The nursing students study anatomy, nursing procedure, mental health and other courses while in the classroom.

Currently, 12 trainees are completing the clinical phase of their training at Northwest. Most of these women, said Mrs. Wesseling, completed their coursework at Niles Township High School.

UPON COMPLETION of the training, graduates must pass the Illinois state board examination for licensure. Most hospital administrations prefer to have a graduate return to the hospital at which she worked as a nurse's aide. However, the women are not required to do so.

Practical nurses at Northwest are qualified to give all types of patient care, except for the administering of medicine, said Mrs. Wesseling. She noted, however, that many hospitals allowed practical nurses to administer drugs.

The Manpower Training program is being channeled through the Illinois State Employment Service. (B10

Pharmacist Harris Lists Poison Prevention Steps

More than a half-million children are accidentally poisoned in the home each year and 500 of them die. So states George Harris of Harris Pharmacies in Arlington Heights, in announcing that next week is National Poison Prevention Week.

Harris said that National Poison Prevention Week is proclaimed each year by the President to focus public attention on the dangers of poisoning to young children.

"Fortunately, we can prevent most accidental ingestions of potential poisons," Harris continued. "Most poisonings are caused by failure to store properly, identify and use the common toxic materials found in almost every household. Leaving medicines where children can reach them or telling children that medicine is candy is foolhardy and extremely dangerous."

HARRIS SAID residents can "poison-proof their homes by following these simple rules:

1. Keep household products and medicines out of reach and out of sight of children, preferably in a locked cabinet or closet.
2. Store internal medicines separately from other household products.
3. Keep household products in their original containers.
4. Be sure that all products are properly labelled.
5. Never give or take medications in the dark.
6. Avoid taking medications in the presence of children.
7. Refer to medications by their proper names . . . never as candy.
8. Clean out medicine cabinets regularly (at least twice a year), flushing old medications down the drain. Rinse the containers and discard them.

In addition to medication, other products such as cleaning and polishing agents, detergents, bleaches, pest control agents and petroleum products account for a share of accidental poisonings. Many children are poisoned each year by absorbing toxic substances through the skin. Infants still in the crawling stage are most susceptible to this kind of poisoning.

George Harris emphasized that pharmacists are fully trained in the safe handling of medicines and toxic household products. He urged every parent to visit his pharmacist next week to seek professional advice on how to poison-proof the home.

"We can prevent needless tragedies with a little thought and attention," Harris concluded. "National Poison Prevention Week is a good time to begin."

College Renews Bid to Share High School Space

High School District 214 can expect some headaches if it shares its space with junior college students.

That warning was given the high school board Monday by Dr. Robert Lahti, college board president, as he renewed an earlier request to use school space for junior college classes in 1967-68.

Elk Grove High school has been suggested by the high school district for possible use in the junior college's first year of operation.

LAHTI, appearing along with the high school board's former college board president, John Haas of Prospect Heights, said the junior college is still interested and would like to continue negotiations with District 214. They are also looking into the possibilities of using space in District 211, he added.

Lahti told the board he did not mean to paint a bleak picture of the problems faced when two educational institutions share the same building.

"But I've been in this situation once or twice before," he added, "We're usually much more unpopular after we've been there a couple days (in someone else's building) than before."

Parking was a major problem Lahti cited.

HE SAID he expected between 1,000 and 1,500 students to be enrolled in late afternoon and evening classes when the college opens—hopefully in September, 1967—and this will mean a necessity for parking hundreds of cars at the college location.

He said most junior colleges have the look of a "drive-in parking lot," adding, "We run about one car per student."

This is one major reason, the college president noted, why such a large parcel of land will be needed for the junior college's permanent location.

LAHTI SAID the college board hopes to have its first permanent buildings erected and ready for use by September, 1968. They will be built to handle about 2,500 to 3,000 students, with later building stages planned for 5,000 students by 1975 and 10,000-plus students by 1980.

As far as sharing high school property from 4 to 10 p.m. during the first year of operation, Dr. Lahti cited as the other big headache the inconvenience posed by integration of a college office and library facilities into high school quarters.

A possible way of avoiding some of this might be, he said, for the high school district to give permission for the college to erect temporary facilities nearby. The temporary building could house the college library and registration offices. (B10

Arlington Heights Attorney Gets Young Democrats Post

Guests of Norman at a convention luncheon were James L. McCabe of Arlington Heights, Democratic candidate for Congress from the 13th District; Herman F. Koeneman of Arlington Heights, Democratic candidate for Cook County Board of Commissioners and vice president of Wheeling Township Regular Democratic Organization; and Norman Nelson Jr. of Elk Grove Village, Democratic candidate for third district state senator.

PRINCIPAL speakers at the luncheon were Mayor Richard J. Daley, Cook County Democratic chairman, and Seymour Simon, president of Cook County Board of Commissioners.

Howard Bricker of Skokie, precinct captain for Niles Township Democratic committeeman, was elected vice chairman of the Young Democrats.

Bricker and Norman pledged "strongest possible support of all Young Democratic organizations in north suburban townships for the entire Democratic slate."

Increased Tax Bills Face Property Owners

Northwest suburban residents will be grimacing over their property tax bills, due in the mail by the end of the month.

Most face a steep increase, generally true for suburban Cook County.

The 1965 rates on bills payable this year, have been released by Cook County Clerk Edward J. Barrett and reflect increased costs primarily for education.

Facing taxpayers for the first time this spring is the tab for Junior College District 301, covering Wheeling, Elk Grove, Palatine and Schaumburg Townships. First year's tax for the district, established by referendum a year ago, will be 9.2 cents per $100 assessed valuation, or $9.20 for a house assessed at $10,000.

BIGGEST INCREASE among grade school districts in the same four-township area will be collected by Elk Grove Township District 59, where the rate is up 21.2 cents from last year's $2.03 per $100 valuation.

Of the high school districts, the bill for Palatine-Schaumburg District 211 has the largest increase, up 16.4 cents to $2.056 per $100 valuation.

In the following lists, split up into townships, the tax rates for each separate district are given first. Then the total rates within various sections of each village are listed.

These totals are made up from the base rates for each township—for example, in Elk Grove Township, each property owner supports the county, forest preserve, road and bridge fund, suburban TB sanitarium, mosquito district, High School District 214, and the junior college—plus the specified grade school, sanitary, park and fire protection districts and village. The rates vary within municipalities because the separate districts do not follow village boundaries.

TO DETERMINE THE TAX BILL, multiply the rate given by each $100 in the property's assessed valuation.

First installment on this year's tax bill will be due May 1, payable either to the township or to the county.

College Renews Bid to Share High School Space

High School District 214 can expect some headaches if it shares its space with junior college students.

That warning was given the high school board Monday by Dr. Robert Lahti, college board president, as he renewed an earlier request to use school space for junior college classes in 1967-68.

Elk Grove High school has been suggested by the high school district for possible use in the junior college's first year of operation.

LAHTI, appearing along with the high school board's former college board president, John Haas of Prospect Heights, said the junior college is still interested and would like to continue negotiations with District 214. They are also looking into the possibilities of using space in District 211, he added.

Lahti told the board he did not mean to paint a bleak picture of the problems faced when two educational institutions share the same building.

"But I've been in this situation once or twice before," he added, "We're usually much more unpopular after we've been there a couple days (in someone else's building) than before."

Parking was a major problem Lahti cited.

HE SAID he expected between 1,000 and 1,500 students to be enrolled in late afternoon and evening classes when the college opens—hopefully in September, 1967—and this will mean a necessity for parking hundreds of cars at the college location.

He said most junior colleges have the look of a "drive-in parking lot," adding, "We run about one car per student."

This is one major reason, the college president noted, why such a large parcel of land will be needed for the junior college's permanent location.

LAHTI SAID the college board hopes to have its first permanent buildings erected and ready for use by September, 1968. They will be built to handle about 2,500 to 3,000 students, with later building stages planned for 5,000 students by 1975 and 10,000-plus students by 1980.

As far as sharing high school property from 4 to 10 p.m. during the first year of operation, Dr. Lahti cited as the other big headache the inconvenience posed by integration of a college office and library facilities into high school quarters.

A possible way of avoiding some of this might be, he said, for the high school district to give permission for the college to erect temporary facilities nearby. The temporary building could house the college library and registration offices.

NW Hospital in Campaign To End Nursing Shortage

by DAVE CRIPPEN
Staff Writer

Northwest Community Hospital is participating in a nation-wide program designed to overcome a severe shortage of trained nurses.

The program, which is federally financed under the Manpower Development and Training Act, enables hospitals to refer qualified nurses aides to licensed practical nurses training. Federal funds pay for all expenses of the one-year course, including books, tuition, and uniforms.

Northwest Community Hospital has participated in the program for the past year, according to Leonard Genung, assistant administrator.

THE HOSPITAL suffers from a critical shortage of practical nurses, explained Mrs. Elizabeth Wesseling, director of nursing. Currently, there are approximately 10 to 15 practical nurses working at Northwest, but this is a far cry from the 60 nurses which Mrs. Wesseling thinks are needed.

"I would think we could use one licensed practical nurse for each registered nurse," commented Mrs. Wesseling.

Noting the expanding hospital facilities and the increasing demands for medical staff, she estimated the need would be even greater in the near future.

The first effects of the training program are being felt at Northwest. Though only 10 to 15 practical nurses still are inadequate, explained Mrs. Wesseling, the current number represents an increase over the five to ten nurses who were available last year. More are expected to begin work in the near future, according to Mrs. Wesseling.

AT LEAST 10 women who were nurses aides at Northwest are now training for positions as practical nurses, she said, and five practicing nurses aides are expected to enter the next class in June.

Classes open up each year in June, September and January, explained Mrs. Wesseling. The one-year course includes 16 weeks of classroom instruction at an area high school. The remaining time is spent in on-the-job training at hospitals. This clinical training includes medical surgery, pediatrics, and obstetrics. The nursing students study anatomy, nursing procedure, mental health and other courses while in the classroom.

Currently, 12 trainees are completing the clinical phase of their training at Northwest. Most of these women, said Mrs. Wesseling, completed their coursework at Niles Township High School.

UPON COMPLETION of the training, graduates must pass the Illinois state board examination for licensure. Most hospital administrations prefer to have a graduate return to the hospital at which she worked as a nurse's aide. However, the women are not required to do so.

Practical nurses at Northwest are qualified to give all types of patient care, except for the administering of medicine, said Mrs. Wesseling. She noted, however, that many hospitals allowed practical nurses to administer drugs.

The Manpower Training program is being channeled through the Illinois State Employment Service.

Pharmacist Harris Lists Poison Prevention Steps

More than a half-million children are accidentally poisoned in the home each year and 500 of them die. So states George Harris of Harris Pharmacies in Arlington Heights, in announcing that next week is National Poison Prevention Week.

Harris said that National Poison Prevention Week is proclaimed each year by the President to focus public attention on the dangers of poisoning to young children.

"Fortunately, we can prevent most accidental ingestions of potential poisons," Harris continued. "Most poisonings are caused by failure to store properly, identify and use the common toxic materials found in almost every household. Leaving medicines where children can reach them or telling children that medicine is candy is foolhardy and extremely dangerous."

HARRIS SAID residents can "poison-proof their homes by following these simple rules:

1. Keep household products and medicines out of reach and out of sight of children, preferably in a locked cabinet or closet.
2. Store internal medicines separately from other household products.
3. Keep household products in their original containers.
4. Be sure that all products are properly labelled.
5. Never give or take medications in the dark.
6. Avoid taking medications in the presence of children.
7. Refer to medications by their proper names . . . never as candy.
8. Clean out medicine cabinets regularly (at least twice a year), flushing old medications down the drain. Rinse the containers and discard them.

In addition to medication, other products such as cleaning and polishing agents, detergents, bleaches, pest control agents and petroleum products account for a share of accidental poisonings. Many children are poisoned each year by absorbing toxic substances through the skin. Infants still in the crawling stage are most susceptible to this kind of poisoning.

George Harris emphasized that pharmacists are fully trained in the safe handling of medicines and toxic household products. He urged every parent to visit his pharmacist next week to seek professional advice on how to poison-proof the home.

"We can prevent needless tragedies with a little thought and attention," Harris concluded. "National Poison Prevention Week is a good time to begin."

Easter Rabbit Ready For Bunnyland Reign

By BEVERLY AIRTH

If there is one thing I can't tolerate, it is a wild, frisky rabbit! I will take a cute, cuddly bunny any day. Our guess our Easter Bunny is so frisky because he has been in hibernation for ten months and now has to get ready to make his appearance at Randhurst.

Sometimes when I walk through the mall very early in the morning or very late at night I can hear the hammering of nails, shuffling of little feet, whisping of paint brushes, clanging of flower pots, and mad dashing of a frisky Easter Rabbit. The noises do not seem to be getting better, every day it gets a little louder. We are afraid our shoppers are going to begin to notice these unusual noises and start complaining.

Thank goodness Easter is just around the corner!

NOW, ONE would think that after one year allowed for preparation and planning for next year's Easter that that rabbit would be so well organized that everything would be ready in January. But not that rabbit . . . he rests for ten months and works like an old work rabbit for the next month, and the remaining month he visits with the children in his Bunnyland.

If you will excuse me for one minute, I'm going over to the "Promotion Plan Room" where he is working on his 1966 Bunnyland, and talk to that rabbit! Why the noise is getting so bad, I can hardly hear myself think! I would like to find out just what that rabbit is up to!

I'M BACK—that rabbit has got to go! The nerve of him throwing Easter eggs at me! Just as I suspected, he is even smarter, wittier, and faster than ever. Boy I sure hope he tames down by next week, as I want to give you all the details about his "Bunnyland," no one may even be able to get close enough to talk with him. This could be embarrassing for all of us as he is supposed to make his first personal appearance on Thursday, March 24th at 9:30 a.m. I guess I had better try another approach. Maybe by next week I will have more information for you.

THERE IS ONE thing I can tell you all about without the aid of any Easter rabbit. Randhurst is making plans for its annual Easter and Spring Fashion Show on Saturday, March 26th. There will be two shows on that day . . . 10:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. The show will be simultaneous in each of the three courts. By that time everyone will have spring fever, the weather will be nice and warm, the trees will be budding, Easter fashions will be number - one - thought in the minds of mothers, and Randhurst will be gaily decorated with baskets of Spring flowers throughout the mall. The background music will be playing "It Might as Well be Spring" . . . "April Showers". . ."Spring is Here". . .and "Tip Toe Through the Tulips."

Mothers, as an added treat the Randhurst Merchants Association is offering free movies during the 10:30 a.m. Easter and Spring Fashion Show. Drop the children off at the Randhurst Cinema while you take in the Fashion Show or do your weekly shopping at Randhurst. No tickets will be necessary for the Fashion Shows or the free morning movies at the Cinema.

We will see you amid the beautiful flowers, atmospheric music, and lovely spring fashions! (Rh

Shoppers See, Hear Election Plan Effect

Randhurst Shopping Center visitors last week learned how a non-partisan citizenship campaign helped employees of one company to surpass the national voting rate by 55 per cent and break a national fund-raising record in the 1964 elections.

The report was contained in a documentary film entitled "Who Cares?," produced by Hughes Aircraft Company, and shown daily at the first World Voting Exposition on display at Randhurst through Sunday, March 13.

The film, narrated by Wendell Corey, motion picture and TV star, described the Hughes Aircraft Company's "active citizenship" program as "a blueprint for an exciting new force in American politics."

NOTEWORTHY results of the company-sponsored program included:

1. Of all Hughes employees eligible to register, 97 per cent did so, compared with a national average of 78 per cent.

2. Of all Hughes employees registered, 95 per cent voted, compared with the national average of 61 per cent.

3. Of Hughes employees who made financial contributions, 64 per cent did so for the first time.

4. Hughes employees contributed a total of $86,053 to parties and candidates of their choice, a national first-year record for such programs.

The World Voting Exposition, open free to the public and produced by the Citizens Honest Elections Foundation, dramatically displayed the history of voting around the world. (Rh

Request Due For Payment Of Benefit

Only a short time remains to apply for this year's $150 educational benefits offered by the State of Illinois to children of certain deceased or disabled veterans, warns Edward B. Akin, administrator for the Illinois Veterans' Commission.

These benefits are provided under the Veterans' Children Educational Opportunities Act, which pays $150 each school year for children between the ages of 10 and 18 whose parent died in service or as the result of a service - incurred disability during World War I, World War II, the Korean conflict, or during the draft period as the result of extra-hazardous circumstances.

The law has been extended, Akin states, to children of veterans with a 100 per cent service-connected disability.

ANY PARENT or guardian who feels that his child or ward is eligible for this benefit should contact the nearest Illinois Veterans' Commission office for additional information and assistance in filing application. Claims for the 1965-66 school year must be made before the termination of classes in June

Classes in Folk Guitar Scheduled

An eight-week evening course of class lessons on folk guitar for adults will begin Thursday, March 24, at 7:30-8:30 p.m. at the Lyon-Healy store in Randhurst.

This course of eight one-hour lessons will be taught by Ted Richine, a professional guitar instructor, and includes free use of a guitar, all materials and lessons, at a nominal fee. Enrollment is limited.

According to Will Wais, manager of the Lyon-Healy store in Randhurst, "This course is designed to teach the adult beginner to pick out simple tunes after only one lesson and enable him to actually play and sing a number of songs for his own enjoyment and relaxation by the completion of the eight weeks." Maybe by next week I will have more information for you.

THERE IS ONE thing I can tell you all about without the aid of any Easter rabbit. Randhurst is making plans for its annual Easter and Spring Fashion Show on Saturday, March 26th. There will be two shows on that day . . . 10:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. The show will be simultaneous in each of the three courts. By that time everyone will have spring fever, the weather will be nice and warm, the trees will be budding, Easter fashions will be number-one-thought in the minds of mothers, and Randhurst will be gaily decorated with baskets of Spring flowers throughout the mall. The background music will be playing "It Might as Well be Spring" . . . "April Showers". . . "Spring is Here". . . and "Tip Toe Through the Tulips."

Mothers, as an added treat the Randhurst Merchants Association is offering free movies during the 10:30 a.m. Easter and Spring Fashion Show. Drop the children off at the Randhurst Cinema while you take in the Fashion Show or do your weekly shopping at Randhurst. No tickets will be necessary for the Fashion Shows or the free morning movies at the Cinema.

We will see you amid the beautiful flowers, atmospheric music, and lovely spring fashions! (Rh

Shoppers See, Hear Election Plan Effect

Randhurst Shopping Center visitors last week learned how a non-partisan citizenship campaign helped employees of one company to surpass the national voting rate by 55 per cent and break a national fund-raising record in the 1964 elections.

The report was contained in a documentary film entitled "Who Cares?," produced by Hughes Aircraft Company, and shown daily at the first World Voting Exposition on display at Randhurst through Sunday, March 13.

The film, narrated by Wendell Corey, motion picture and TV star, described the Hughes Aircraft Company's "active citizenship" program as "a blueprint for an exciting new force in American politics."

NOTEWORTHY results of the company-sponsored program included:

1. Of all Hughes employees eligible to register, 97 per cent did so, compared with a national average of 78 per cent.
2. Of all Hughes employees registered, 95 per cent voted, compared with the national average of 61 per cent.
3. Of Hughes employees who made financial contributions, 64 per cent did so for the first time.
4. Hughes employees contributed a total of $86,053 to parties and candidates of their choice, a national first-year record for such programs.

The World Voting Exposition, open free to the public and produced by the Citizens Honest Elections Foundation, dramatically displayed the history of voting around the world. (Rh

Request Due For Payment Of Benefit

Only a short time remains to apply for this year's $150 educational benefits offered by the State of Illinois to children of certain deceased or disabled veterans, warns Edward B. Akin, administrator for the Illinois Veterans' Commission.

These benefits are provided under the Veterans' Children Educational Opportunities Act, which pays $150 each school year for children between the ages of 10 and 18 whose parent died in service or as the result of a service-incurred disability during World War I, World War II, the Korean conflict, or during the draft period as the result of extra-hazardous circumstances.

The law has been extended, Akin states, to children of veterans with a 100 per cent service-connected disability.

ANY PARENT or guardian who feels that his child or ward is eligible for this benefit should contact the nearest Illinois Veterans' Commission office for additional information and assistance in filing application. Claims for the 1965-66 school year must be made before the termination of classes in June

Classes in Folk Guitar Scheduled

An eight-week evening course of class lessons on folk guitar for adults will begin Thursday, March 24, at 7:30-8:30 p.m. at the Lyon-Healy store in Randhurst.

This course of eight one-hour lessons will be taught by Ted Richine, a professional guitar instructor, and includes free use of a guitar, all materials and lessons, at a nominal fee. Enrollment is limited.

According to Will Wais, manager of the Lyon-Healy store in Randhurst, "This course is designed to teach the adult beginner to pick out simple tunes after only one lesson and enable him to actually play and sing a number of songs for his own enjoyment and relaxation by the completion of the eight weeks." Student Volunteers Sought by Day Camp

Volunteer high school students are being sought to serve as counselors for a Community Day Camp for metally handicapped children to be conducted this summer in Arlington Heights.

The program is being sponsored jointly by the Arlington Heights Park District and the Clearbrook School for Retarded Children, and will serve children from Wheeling, Elk Grove, Palatine and Schaumburg townships.

A meeting for interested students from all Arlington Heights area high schools has been scheduled for Tuesday, March 29, at 4 p.m. The meeting will be held at the Recreation Park Fieldhouse, the site at which the camp will operate. A general outline of the planned program will be presented, explaining the purposes and activities of the day camp.

STUDENTS NEED not attend the meeting to get into the volunteer program, but there is no guarantee that even those who do attend will be given a position on the staff.

Volunteers accepted as counselors will be subject to a two-day training period, where they will be given basic information necessary for working with the handicapped. The camp session will run from June 27 to August 5.

Byrn Witt, director of Clearbrook School, and Demmaree Sunkel, recreation supervisor for the park district, will conduct the orientation meeting. Further information can be obtained from either representative.

Application forms will be distributed at the meeting. Students unable to attend are asked to call the park district office at CL 3-0620 to procure an application. (ACME

Band to March On Loyalty Day

Permission for the Wheeling High School band to march in a VFW-sponsored Loyalty Day parade Sunday, May 1, in Schiller Park was given by the District 214 board Monday.

Robert Hellquist, commander of Wheeling Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 7178, made the request.

He said that Loyalty Day is sponsored by the veterans organization as a means of "showing our country that we will back its policies no matter what our personal beliefs are."

IT IS ALSO, he said "an answer" to the Russians' May Day show of war power and "a rebuttal" to demonstrations being carried out by "certain groups" in criticism of U. S. involvement in the Viet Nam conflict.

When Dr. Frank J. Smith, board member from Arlington Heights asked what groups he meant, Hellquist said, "I don't think we have names for them, though I have some myself."

Dr. Smith said he thought that the idea of Loyalty Day — as an answer to May Day — was laudable and that the Wheeling band should be allowed to march, provided students understand the significance of the parade and don't have to attend if they don't want to.

"PERHAPS the demonstrators think they're giving an answer to May Day parades in their own way," Smith added.

Permission of the board was required because the Schiller Park parade will be on a Sunday and District 214 has a policy against student activities on Sundays.

Supt. H. L. Slichenmyer noted this, and pointed out that some students might have to miss church in order to be ready to leave for the parade around noon. He said he, too, would recommend approval, provided that participation by the students be voluntary.

Property Sales

Seventeen property sales in Mount Prospect topped activity in the latest monthly Elk Grove Township real estate transfer report from Sidney R. Olsen, Cook County recorder.

The report also listed five sales in Arlington Heights. Others were: Des Plaines, 5; Rolling Meadows, 1; and Elk Grove Village and the remainder of the township, 11.

Band to March On Loyalty Day

Permission for the Wheeling High School band to march in a VFW-sponsored Loyalty Day parade Sunday, May 1, in Schiller Park was given by the District 214 board Monday.

Robert Hellquist, commander of Wheeling Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 7178, made the request.

He said that Loyalty Day is sponsored by the veterans organization as a means of "showing our country that we will back its policies no matter what our personal beliefs are."

IT IS ALSO, he said "an answer" to the Russians' May Day show of war power and "a rebuttal" to demonstrations being carried out by "certain groups" in criticism of U. S. involvement in the Viet Nam conflict.

When Dr. Frank J. Smith, board member from Arlington Heights asked what groups he meant, Hellquist said, "I don't think we have names for them, though I have some myself."

Dr. Smith said he thought that the idea of Loyalty Day — as an answer to May Day — was laudable and that the Wheeling band should be allowed to march, provided students understand the significance of the parade and don't have to attend if they don't want to.

"PERHAPS the demonstrators think they're giving an answer to May Day parades in their own way," Smith added.

Permission of the board was required because the Schiller Park parade will be on a Sunday and District 214 has a policy against student activities on Sundays.

Supt. H. L. Slichenmyer noted this, and pointed out that some students might have to miss church in order to be ready to leave for the parade around noon. He said he, too, would recommend approval, provided that participation by the students be voluntary.

Seventeen property sales in Mount Prospect topped activity in the latest monthly Elk Grove Township real estate transfer report from Sidney R. Olsen, Cook County recorder.

The report also listed five sales in Arlington Heights. Others were: Des Plaines, 5; Rolling Meadows, 1; and Elk Grove Village and the remainder of the township, 11.

Display Ends Saturday

Area Photographers Show Work at Randhurst

A record number of contestants in the fourth annual photo competition are seeking shares of more than $200 in prize money as they display their works in Randhurst Center today through Saturday.

Larry H. Cameron, contest chairman, said that 110 amateur photographers are competing in this year's show. The number of contestants tops the number who entered any previous competition. The annual show is sponsored by Paddock Publications and Randhurst Corporation.

Contestants spent last night mounting their photographs on display boards in the mall of Randhurst, world's largest shopping center under one roof. Winners of each division in the contest will be announced Saturday.

Cameron announced that judges for the show are Angus McDougall, director of photography for International Harvester Corp., and Norman Meir, director of photography for Ray-Vogue Studios.

NORMAN MEIR

THE "PHOTOGRAPHY bug" bit McDougall while he was teaching high school in Wisconsin. He remarked that "photography became such an all consuming thing that I practically appropriated the school's Speed Graphic."

His future was clear when his pictures appeared in the local papers and the Milwaukee Journal.

Following World War II, McDougall attended the School of Modern Photography in New York. He then joined the staff of the Milwaukee Journal as a staff photographer.

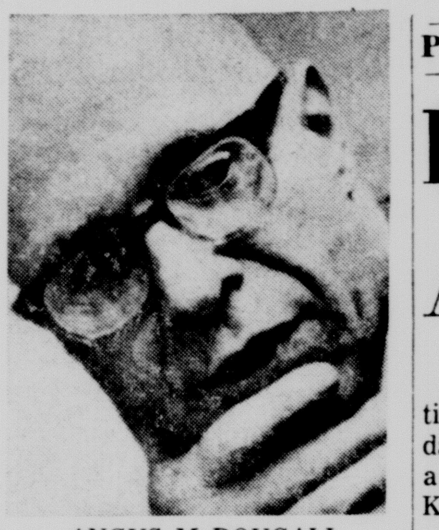
In 1955 the University of Missouri School of Journalism awarded him the title of "Magazine Photographer of the Year." He earned the recognition for his outstanding efforts on the Sunday supplement of the Milwaukee Journal. McDougall soon left the Journal and joined the staff of International Harvester's World and Today magazines.

MEIR HAS headed the Ray-Vogue School's photography department since 1946. Many of his students have earned impressive recognition in the professional world of photography.

He received part of his education in photography at the New York Institute of Photography and the Eastman Kodak Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Before World War II and a four-year hitch with the Signal Corps photographic unit in the South Pacific, Meir taught photography in Wisconsin. He was recalled to military duty during the Korean Conflict and served two years instructing photographers.

McDougall and Meir will judge prints in three black and white classifications and a single color class. Works in all four classes have been done by photographers from 17 northwest suburban communities.



ANGUS McDOUGALL

THE BLACK and white classes include portrait and personality, action, and pictorial. The color class includes all types.

Participants will share $200 in prize money with $50 being awarded for winners in each class.

Thousands of shoppers at Randhurst will be able to view the display. Also exhibited are some selected shots taken by the Paddock Publications photography staff.

However, these photos and others taken by employes of Paddock Publications or Randhurst are ineligible for prizes.

Post Office Has Medicare Forms

Application blanks for supplemental Medicare benefits are available at the service counter of area post offices.

The application blanks are being made available as the Social Security Administration seeks to contact 3.1 million senior citizens before March 31 deadline imposed by Medicare law.

President Johnson has proclaimed March as "National Medicare Enrollment Month." He urged all federal agencies and all citizens to cooperate in enrolling senior citizens in the program.

INITIALLY, some two and one-half million application blanks were distributed to nearly 34,000 main post offices throughout the 50 states. Additional forms are available as needed.

Through direct mailings and other means, the Social Security Administration has had contact with 16 of the 19.1 million citizens who will be 65 or over on July 1. Of the 16 million who replied, less than one million said they did not want to sign up for the supplemental program.

The supplemental program costs $3 a month and provides doctor bill and other benefits. Everyone 65 and over is eligible for the basic hospital benefits under Medicare.

Senior citizens who reached 65 before 1966 face a two-year delay if they do not sign up by March 31. The application forms are pre-addressed to the Social Security Administration in Baltimore, Md.

11. FALSE. Hats made of flowers or feathers should be kept for teas, cocktail parties or a special matinee at the theatre.

12. TRUE. Any stocking that does not cover the entire leg should be reserved for sport occasions.

13. TRUE. To be on the safe side, wear low-necked dresses for late afternoon or evening. The exception, of course, are summer cotton play clothes.

14. FALSE. The size and amount of jewelry should be in proportion to the woman who is wearing it.

Population Dips At Elgin Hospital

Elgin State Hospital's population dipped to 4,888 patients today, a new low in recent years, according to Dr. Ernest S. Klein, superintendent.

The all time high was 6,965 patients, reached in 1955 after years of steadily rising figures. Since 1960 there has been an almost uninterrupted decline, despite still-rising admissions.

"It is a direct reflection of modern methods in the treatment of mental illness," Dr. Klein said. "Ten years ago a patient entering this or any other mental hospital had little enough to hope for. Today, with modern therapy, 7 out of 10 patients are able to return to home and community in a few weeks or a few months. Many find inner resources they did not know they had, and go on to live out richer and more complete lives than before."

MODERN medicines, new forms of therapy, such as psychotherapy, milieu, activity, occupational and other forms of therapy are important facets of the new approach, Dr. Klein said. Other new innovations such as half-way houses and other forms of transitional facilities are in the planning stage.

"The single most important factor has been the development of treatment teams," Dr. Klein added. "Made up of multiple disciplines, they enable us to employ the skills of many specialists and put treatment on a highly individualized basis. Today we literally plan the patient's discharge almost from the day of his admission, and all treatment is realistically directed toward that end."

At year's end 1964, the hospital housed 5,436 patients; at year's end 1965, 4,910 patients.

WANDA PILIP, 920 N. Kaspar, put a little of herself into her daughter, Shirley's birthday when she baked her cake March 4. Helping her eat it were her father, Walter, and her brothers and sisters.

Mr. and Mrs. Damon Borders, 909 N. Salem, are kept pretty busy with the Newcomers Club, especially Louise who is president of the club. On March 5, they joined the other members at Itasca Country Cub for a Las Vegas party, where they gambled to their hearts' content with play money.

On March 9, Louise attended their Mad Hatters Luncheon at Old Orchard Country Club, where all wore their own creations, the crazier the better.

Inez Laeke returned from California on March 9 and was welcomed back by the Dick Lanzons, 814 N. Patton, where she and her husband, Dave, were dinner guests that evening.

Neal and Aileen Duffey, 948 N. Fernandez, helped their son, Greg, celebrate his 15th birthday March 6 along with his brothers and sister.

Joan Wojtkiewicz, 920 N. Ridge, took advantage of the children's day off on March 11 and drove to Chicago to visit her aunt, Mrs. Marge Leipzig.

RICK GOERS, 1417 W. Elm, worked up an appetite March 2 with some bowling at Rolling Meadows Bowl. Exercising with him were his parents. Dick and Marge, and his brother, Don. Afterwards they had dinner at the Waterfall Restaurant. The outing was in honor of Rick's 12th birthday.

Ice cream and cake were eaten up by Kathleen Benson's guests at the Robert Benson home, 947 N. Fernandez on March 4. Answering the invitations to her fifth birthday party were Carol Robertson, Karen Nelson, David, Jeff and Jane Landeweer, Greg Kunnen, Patty Dilley, Pam Barnak and Sheila McCarthy.

931 N. Salem was the scene of a family celebration in honor of Lynn and Walter Munson's daughter, Pammy's 11th birthday March 4.

It was boys only at 731 N. Patton. The occasion was Nickie Korndorf's eighth birthday and enjoying the ice cream, cake and candy and playing the games with him were Kevin Francis, Glen Seaman, Kevin Ringel, Scott Heicken, Steven Kieck, Larry Lanzon, Don Marquis, Joey Glassner and Nickie's nephew, Robert Detweiler. Nickie's parents are the Nick Korndorfs.

TESS AND STAN Juhl, 831 N. Salem, had their son, Barry, home for 20 days, on leave from the Marines. He was the guest of honor at a dinner March 12, the day before he returned to Camp Pendleton, Calif., to leave for overseas duty.

Ann Schrank is happy and relieved at the recovery of her husband, Les, home at 908 N. Ridge after being in Lutheran General Hospital with pneumonia.

Their son, Lee, was home the past weekend from Madison, Wis., where he is a junior at the University of Wisconsin.

Lou and Peg Bensinger, 945 N. Ridge, have good reason to be proud of their daughter, Marsha. On March 5, she was in Chicago at the Congress Hotel, where she scored 100 points in the Illinois Associated Band Activities "Olympics" to take first place in the organ category.

JOHN SLEZAK, 923 N. Ridge, is home from Resurrection Hospital to continue recuperating from a fall he had in January.

Ridge Parkers extend a belated welcome to the Landeweers, Donald and Carolyn and their children David, 7, and the twins, Jeffrey and Jane, 5. Donald is a representative with Westwood Pharmaceuticals and they previously lived in Carpentersville.

FROM SHERWOOD

Scott Sulley arrived home Saturday at 1117 Watling for a two-week visit with his parents, Eileen and Frank. He is a freshman at Ripon College in Ripon, Wis., and has recently become a Phi Delta Theta pledge.

If he'd come home two weeks earlier, it would have been to an empty house.

FRANK AND EILEEN returned March 3 after spending two weeks vacationing in Florida. En route to Sarasota they visited Mr. and Mrs. Leo Hershfield in Alexandria, Va. In Sarasota they stayed at Field's Colony Beach Resort, which was ideal for Frank's golfing and gave Eileen a chance to do some sea shell collecting.

The Robert Blackburns, 1004 Watling, spent a recent four day weekend visiting their son, Robert, in Davenport.

Carl and Doris Palmer, 1023 W. Burgoyne, went to Florida for golfing and made sure they had a foursome by going with another couple from Rolling Green Country Club, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Pederson. After spending a week in Hollywood, they went to Crystal River to the Plantation Hotel Golfing Club, 100 miles north of Miami, for another round. Before flying home from Tampa on March 7, they did some sightseeing and saw some night life. (A

Notes from Arlington Acres

All honors due a couple who are celebrating their silver wedding anniversary were accorded to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Miner, 421 S. Gibbons, at a dinner Sunday in Gary, at the home of the Ray Lustgartens, Arlyn's brother and his wife. Banquet tables were set up to accommodate the more than 50 guests, including family members, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lustgarten, Arlyn's parents, of Miller, Ind.

Arlyn and Charles were delighted to see several area friends at the party, among them Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Mertens of Arlington Acres, Mr. and Mrs. Carleton Jones of Prospect Heights, the Walter Presperins of Mount Prospect, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Schoenian of Palatine and the Emmet Walshes of Arlington Heights.

WHEN JACK Donovan, 524 S. Prindle, had to go to Detroit on business, Vonnie packed for herself and the children and went with him, since they have friends in the area who have been urging the Donovans to visit them. Although they were gone only three days, they crowded in visiting and sightseeing that could easily fill a week. Particularly enjoyable for Kevin and Kelly was a tour of Greenfield Village. Another trip which Kevin found of great interest was the one which he and his mother took to Pontiac, where they were shown through the Pontiac assembly plant.

In the evenings Jack was able to join his family for visits with "old army buddies" in the Detroit area.

March 11 and 12 are circled on the calendar at the Fred Both home, 433 S. Phelps, as the birthdays of Anita and her son, Fred Jr., and are always observed by the family as holidays. Celebration of both events started March 6 with a dinner at the Both home for family members, among them Anita's mother, Mrs. Anna Durcany of Chicago.

On the following Wednesday, it was Anita's turn to be congratulated by the Birthday Club at an evening get-together at the home of Mrs. Burton Soderberg, 436 S. Phelps, and to receive a birthday gift from the other club members, after which they all enjoyed cake and coffee.

THE CELEBRATION continued Friday evening with a dinner at Hapsburg Inn in Des Plaines, where Anita and Fred were guests of honor attended by Fred Sr. and Joanne.

The wind-up of the red letter week was a visit to the Boat Show Saturday evening by the senior Boths and friends, the Doug Kirps of Palatine.

Although Sunday was Greg Dombrow's birthday, it was his parents who were on the receiving end when Greg arrived home for a two-week furlough from Ft. Polk, La., where he has been stationed for basic training. A festive dinner at the Dombrow home, 428 S. Prindle, marked the occasion, and Greg's fiancee, Marjorie Andrews, joined his parents, brother, Mike, and sister, Julie, in extending congratulations.

Another happy family in the area are the Edward Trueloves, 532 S. Phelps, whose son, Dick, arrived home Sunday with Greg from Ft. Polk. Dick was welcomed by his parents and sisters, Diane and Patsy. Both boys are to report to Ft. Sill, Okla., for further training.

PAUL OBUCHOWSKI, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Obuchowski, 409 S. Forrest, found the truth in the old adage concerning the best laid plans. His plans to have a few friends in for the night to help him celebrate his eighth birthday March 13 went astray, when he came down with a "bug." However, party plans were not cancelled, only postponed.

A pair of crutches has become part of Patty Schmidt's ensemble since she tore a ligament in her ankle last week. Patty reports the crutches are an improvement over the cast which she wore after an identical accident with the other ankle a short time ago. The 7-year-old is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Schmidt, 515 S. Gibbons.

Stanley Merchant, 513 S. Forrest, hopes to soon end his stay in DuPage Memorial Hospital in Elmhurst, where he has been confined since the early part of February. Good news from his doctor is that he may now have visitors.

Mrs. Gerald Mertens, 425 S. Gibbons, is happy to be home after spending four days in St. Anne Hospital in Chicago, following minor surgery. (A

Walberg Is Named Association Head

Ralph E. Walberg of 211 N. Pine, Mount Prospect, has been named executive director of the Countryside Association for Retarded Children. In this position he will supervise public and community relations, in addition to his duties as chief administrator for the Countryside Farm School and Sheltered Workshop for young adults.

The school and workshop, located near Barrington, was founded ten years ago as a nonprofit corporation by the parents of retarded children. Its function is to provide training and education for retarded children, teenagers and young adults who do not fit into a regular school program.

These students come from a large area that includes Wheeling, Palatine, Barrington, Cuba, Ela, Wauconda, and Schaumburg townships. There are no restrictions as to race, sex, or ability to pay, and the facilities are available to any interested family.

SOCIAL COMPETENCE, language development, crafts, music, weaving and physical education are taught. A summer camp program extends the school into the out-of-doors during June and July. The sheltered workshop endeavors to make retarded young adults more self-sufficient while making a worthwhile contribution to society.

Walberg is a graduate of Niles Township High School, received his B.A. degree from Augustana College, and a master's in education from Loyola University. Following a term of service as an army intelligence specialist, he joined the Prospect Heights public schools as a teacher. He subsequently served as a principal, business manager and assistant superintendent.

The challenges and satisfactions to be derived from working with this type of child were his prime reason for accepting the position of executive director, Walberg says. He foresees additional growth in the programs for retarded children and adults now that the problems have received local and national attention. (B10

IDEALS LEADING TO TODAY'S PROSPERITY DEVELOP AS MEN LIKE BOONE BLAZE TRAILS

The basic reason Americans have become the most prosperous people in history is our system of free enterprise.

The ideals of free enterprise—being free to work where you want, being free to move on to new frontiers, having individual initiative pay off, having the incentive to succeed, being allowed to raise your standard of living without regard to the station of life at which you started—these ideals were developed during the westward movement in the U.S.

No one typifies this movement better than one of America's great folk heroes, Daniel Boone, who organized pioneer settlements, led people through the Cumberland Gap and blazed the Wilderness Road.

We've come a long way since those humble days, and because of free enterprise we enjoy today the highest standard of living in the world.

A Half-Century of Respected Service

Death away from home

This is the time of year when relatives, perhaps retired, are traveling or vacationing in warmer climates. It is well to remember, in the event of death, that an immediate call to us is the wisest thing to do. It will result in better service, centralized responsibility, and substantial savings to the family or estate.

A Half-Century of Respected Service

Death away from home

This is the time of year when relatives, perhaps retired, are traveling or vacationing in warmer climates. It is well to remember, in the event of death, that an immediate call to us is the wisest thing to do. It will result in better service, centralized responsibility, and substantial savings to the family or estate.

FAMILY POT LUCK
BY HELEN HALE

Lenten Notes

Ever oven-fried oysters? Dip them first in seasoned flour, then into slightly beaten egg, then in fine bread crumbs. Sprinkle both sides with salad oil and bake in a shallow pan in a moderately hot (400°F.) oven until brown, about 15 minutes.

White sauce layered with shrimp, crabmeat or flaked canned or cooked fish, topped with grated cheese and bread crumbs give an "au gratin" dish. Baking will take about 20 minutes in a hot oven.

Whole fish is excellent with a stuffing of rice, sauteed onion and mushrooms.

Slices of bread, eggs and milk beaten together and grated cheese mixed throughout all gives what's known as a "strata." When baked, it's firm like a custard and may be served with tomato sauce.

Serve fish with a pickle sauce for zest: chopped dill pickle added to white sauce with sieved or chopped hard-cooked egg.

Caper sauce is good for fish, too. Melt butter, add to it some lemon juice, chopped persley, vinegar from capers and capers.

Helen's Favorite:
Date-Pecan Goodies
(30 to 40 cookies)

- 1 cup chopped dates
- 1 cup chopped pecans
- 1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar
- 1 unbeaten egg white

Mix dates, pecans and sugar. Add to egg white. Mix thoroughly. Drop from teaspoon on greased cookie sheet. Bake in a moderate (350°F.) oven, 12 minutes or until a light brown in color. Cool. Remove from sheet. If desired, these may be topped with cut-up cherries or colored sugar before baking.

FAMILY POT LUCK

Lenten Notes

Ever oven-fried oysters? Dip them first in seasoned flour, then into slightly beaten egg, then in fine bread crumbs. Sprinkle both sides with salad oil and bake in a shallow pan in a moderately hot (400°F.) oven until brown, about 15 minutes.

White sauce layered with shrimp, crabmeat or flaked canned or cooked fish, topped with grated cheese and bread crumbs give an "au gratin" dish. Baking will take about 20 minutes in a hot oven.

Whole fish is excellent with a stuffing of rice, sauteed onion and mushrooms.

Slices of bread, eggs and milk beaten together and grated cheese mixed throughout all gives what's known as a "strata." When baked, it's firm like a custard and may be served with tomato sauce.

Serve fish with a pickle sauce for zest: chopped dill pickle added to white sauce with sieved or chopped hard-cooked egg.

Caper sauce is good for fish, too. Melt butter, add to it some lemon juice, chopped persley, vinegar from capers and capers.

Helen's Favorite:

Date-Pecan Goodies
(30 to 40 cookies)

- 1 cup chopped dates
- 1 cup chopped pecans
- 1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar
- 1 unbeaten egg white

Mix dates, pecans and sugar. Add to egg white. Mix thoroughly. Drop from teaspoon on greased cookie sheet. Bake in a moderate (350°F.) oven, 12 minutes or until a light brown in color. Cool. Remove from sheet. If desired, these may be topped with cut-up cherries or colored sugar before baking.

Share Pool

High School District 214 is interested in sharing the use of the Dempster Junior High Pool once it is enclosed.

Board members indicated at their Monday meeting that they would be interested in using the pool at the District 59 school site and would be willing to share in its upkeep costs.

Supt. H. L. Slichenmyer also told his board, "I think we should renew our discussion of the possibility of a pool being built at Prospect High."

Board members indicated they agreed to that suggestion too. (ACME

Democrats Slate Koeneman For Post as Commissioner

Herman Koeneman, 50, of 908 N. Fernandez, Arlington Heights, was named as a Democratic candidate for the Cook County Board Friday as the two major parties completed their slates for the fall elections.

He and incumbent Republican commissioner Floyd Fulle of Des Plaines are the only northwest suburban area candidates on the two slates. Five of the 15 county commissioners come from the suburbs, the rest from Chicago.

Recognizing his is an uphill battle, Koeneman said he considers the nomation an "honor to me to have been selected with the fine slate they have put together for election."

"IT IS A REPUBLICAN area we all know," he commented. "We are going to campaign very heavily. I think we do have a chance. There hasn't been a Democrat elected in the township as far as I know in the last 30 years."

He said he thought the only other Democratic candidate to successfully seek election was 30 years ago and that the man was "also from Arlington Heights."

Koeneman said, "We expect a hard fought campaign and we will do the best we possibly can."

Koeneman and his wife, Lee, have four children: Sharon, 23; Karen, 22; Kenneth, 16, and Kevin, 13.

HE HAS BEEN active in the Democratic party since he was 21. He served as a precinct captain in the 38th Ward of Chicago for 15 years under P. J. Cullerton, now county assessor.

He and his family moved to Arlington Heights 11 years ago. He ran unsuccessfully for Wheeling Township assessor last year, garnering about 3,700 votes.

He is currently president of the wheeling Township Regular Democratic Organization.

He is junior vice commander of the Merle Guild Post, American Legion of Arlington Heights, and a member of post 981, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

He is also a member of the Arlington Heights Elks Lodge, active in the Little League base ball program and was finance chairman of the program and chairman of the 1965 Little League Pancake Day. He is affiliated with St. Matthews Evangelical Lutheran Church, Chicago.

BIGGEST UPSET of the slate-making decisions was the rejection of democratic County Board Pres. Seymour Simon. He was replaced as a candidate by Harry Semrow, who resigned as Chicago's postmaster and will face Republican Richard B. Ogilvie, now Cook County sheriff. (B10

Smith Will Manage Woods' Campaign

Harold Byron Smith Jr., Barrington Township Republican committeeman, has been named campaign chairman for Joseph L. Woods, GOP candidate for Cook County sheriff.

"I am honored by the opportunity to serve a man who has received national recognition for his qualifications and investigative abilities," Smith said. "With the Democrats having so much power in Cook County, the voters would be wise to put Joe Woods in an office where he can use his experience to watch out for the interests of all the people."

Smith, 32, vice president of the Fastener divisions of Illinois Tool Works, Inc., has been active as a campaign leader in recent years at the township, county and state levels.

HE IS CHAIRMAN of the Illinois Republican Senatorial Citizens Committee, treasurer and member of the executive committee of the Republican Central Committee of Cook County. and 1966 suburban vice chairman of the Metropolitan Crusade of Mercy.

Smith is a former director of the Better Government Association, the organization for which Woods administered and conducted many investigations into areas such as corruption in government.

He received a bachelor's degree in engineering from Princeton in 1955 and a master's degree in business administration from Northwestern in 1957. He lives at 616 Grove, Barrington, with his wife and four daughters. (B10

'Learn to Swim' Campaign Starts

Northwest Suburban YMCA announces its annual "Learn to Swim" campaign, to be held every morning during school spring vacations—April 4-8 and April 11-15. This is a community service for non-members, and there is no charge for the instructions.

Qualified and competent instructors will be available to guide beginners in the fundamentals of swimming, using the latest techniques. The goal is to get all those who are not swimmers to swim at least one width of the pool, which is 25 feet.

The new teaching pool, which was opened in October 1964, will be used for the lessons. It is ideal for these classes because of the 28-inch to 4-foot depth.

THE "LEARN TO Swim" campaign is designed to introduce the beginning water skills to non-swimming boys and girls in first through the sixth grades, who are not members of the YMCA.

Classes will meet every morning for 5 days and 40 minutes of instruction.

It is important for boys and girls to learn to swim, especially in this area where there are so many opportunities to use small craft and where so many families own boats and canoes.

Parents may enroll their children by calling Northwest Suburban YMCA at CY 6-3376. Enrollment is limited. (B-10

Viet Kids Getting Toys

Speechless children greeted the shipment of local toys to the Can Gio province of Viet Nam, a U. S. Army adviser writes.

The toys were collected by Wheeling Township Republican organizations after a letter from an Arlington Heights service man, who said most Viet Nam children never owned a toy, was printed in the Fencepost.

THE SPEECHLESS period didn't last long, the adviser wrote: "The air was filled with what you would call war whoops. Piping, shrill little voices screaming 'come on, come on,' which is Vietnamese for 'thank you, thank you.' ".

The adviser's letter of thanks to area residents is printed in

Youth Corps Names Kept Confidential

Release of names of Neighborhood Youth Corps students became a question, briefly, at the High School District 214 board meeting Monday evening.

Supt. H. L. Slichenmyer told the board that he had been requested by one of its members, William Griffith, to include names of the NYC enrollees in information that they will receive in a report March 28 on the federally-financed work program.

"I DO NOT feel we should give the names and addresses of students and their parents," Slichenmyer said. He said he felt this way even if the release were restricted to board members alone.

Most board members, other than Griffith, indicated they agreed with the superintendent.

"I personally don't want to know," stated Board Pres. Arthur Aronson regarding the release of names of the NYC students.

"The thing we were concerned about when this started," added Dr. Frank J. Smith, "was that the students not be embarrassed."

"I DISAGREE but I won't belabor the point here," said Griffith.

The District 214 superintendent said that the other information wanted by Griffith was the enrollment by schools, the types of jobs performed, cost summaries so far, the estimated cost by the end of the year, the number of teachers involved and their reimbursement (and from what source), and the grades of enrollees.

Slichenmyer said he would see that all this was provided by the March 28 meeting.

Sen. Graham Kills Rumor He Won't Run

Sen. John A. Graham, (R-Barrington), officially announced this week his candidacy for re-election.

In commenting on the release, Graham said he hoped "an official announcement will curtail rumors that I am not going to run."

Graham spent more than six weeks in Sherman Hospital recently recuperating from a "mild" stroke.

Prior to that time he had told Paddock Publications he would be a candidate for re-election in the new 3rd District, which includes the old district, (Barrington, Hanover, Schaumburg and Palatine Townships) as well as Wheeling and Elk Grove Townships in their entirety and portions of Northfield and Maine Townships.

GRAHAM FACES opposition from Robert O. Atcher, village president of Schaumburg and from William Davies, a Streamwood attorney.

Davies has not officially announced his candidacy yet, though he faced, as did Atcher and Graham, the eight committeemen in the district seeking endorsement of the group.

Graham was endorsed in his announcement by Sen. W. Russell Arrington, (R-Evanston), president pro tem and majority leader of the senate.

He said, "Sen. Graham is an outstanding member of a great Republican team. He has served citizens of his district and the people of Illinois with great distinction.

"I AM GRATEFUL that Sen. Graham as decided to seek re-election. The Republican party and the people of Illinois need Jack Graham in Springfield and I want to do everything I can to see that he is returned.

"His election is essential if the Republican party is to keep its majority in the Illinois State Senate and preserve effective two-party government in Illinois."

A fund was raised through a dinner for incumbent senators and Sen. Arrington said part of the money would be spent in the 3rd District to aid Graham.

He said he has pledged to "go to any district on call and work for the election or re-nomination of that incumbent."

HE MADE the pledge, he said, "because of the magnificent performance of all GOP senators in the last session of the legislature. They hung together and worked like a team."

Arrington indicated that if Graham is nominated at the June primary, he will not need any help in the fall in what Arrington termed "a safe Republican district."

Graham serves as chairman of the Senate elections committee and as vice chairman of the Senate Affairs Committee.

His release calls him a "key veteran member of the Senate Republican majority responsible for cutting over $500 million in unnecessary taxes requested last year by the Democrat administration in Chicago City Hall and the Springfield Statehouse."

THE STATEMENT calls Graham a "consistent defender of the taxpayer and homeowner and an unrelenting foe of waste and unnecessary spending."

Graham, in 1963, served as chairman of a special committee investigating the Chicago Sanitary District. He served as chairman of the interim legislative commission established to review the operations of all sanitary districts within the state.

Graham said, "As a result of investigations and a careful analysis of the other financial needs of the state, the Republican State Senate was able to fully provide for all vital services of the State, balance the budget, and still reject many exorbitant tax proposals that had passed the Democrat-dominated House of Representatives.

"A Republican Majority in the State Senate is the only protection for the people of Illinois from one-party, one-man government dictated by Mayor Daley."

Graham has pledged his "continued support for sound, progressive and humane Republican policies. At the same time, I know that efficiency and economy in government is a continuing responsibility of the legislature and a principle to which the Republican Party has always been dedicated.

"We believe in limited government and that within those limits a government ought to provide the best services possible. I am determined to see that we get 100 cents of service for every tax dollar collected."

Share Pool

High School District 214 is interested in sharing the use of the Dempster Junior High Pool once it is enclosed.

Board members indicated at their Monday meeting that they would be interested in using the pool at the District 59 school site and would be willing to share in its upkeep costs.

Supt. H. L. Slichenmyer also told his board, "I think we should renew our discussion of the possibility of a pool being built at Prospect High."

Board members indicated they agreed to that suggestion too. (ACME

Democrats Slate Koeneman For Post as Commissioner

Herman Koeneman, 50, of 908 N. Fernandez, Arlington Heights, was named as a Democratic candidate for the Cook County Board Friday as the two major parties completed their slates for the fall elections.

He and incumbent Republican commissioner Floyd Fulle of Des Plaines are the only northwest suburban area candidates on the two slates. Five of the 15 county commissioners come from the suburbs, the rest from Chicago.

Recognizing his is an uphill battle, Koeneman said he considers the nomation an "honor to me to have been selected with the fine slate they have put together for election."

"IT IS A REPUBLICAN area we all know," he commented. "We are going to campaign very heavily. I think we do have a chance. There hasn't been a Democrat elected in the township as far as I know in the last 30 years."

He said he thought the only other Democratic candidate to successfully seek election was 30 years ago and that the man was "also from Arlington Heights."

Koeneman said, "We expect a hard fought campaign and we will do the best we possibly can."

Koeneman and his wife, Lee, have four children: Sharon, 23; Karen, 22; Kenneth, 16, and Kevin, 13.

HE HAS BEEN active in the Democratic party since he was 21. He served as a precinct captain in the 38th Ward of Chicago for 15 years under P. J. Cullerton, now county assessor.

He and his family moved to Arlington Heights 11 years ago. He ran unsuccessfully for Wheeling Township assessor last year, garnering about 3,700 votes.

He is currently president of the wheeling Township Regular Democratic Organization.

He is junior vice commander of the Merle Guild Post, American Legion of Arlington Heights, and a member of post 981, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

He is also a member of the Arlington Heights Elks Lodge, active in the Little League base ball program and was finance chairman of the program and chairman of the 1965 Little League Pancake Day. He is affiliated with St. Matthews Evangelical Lutheran Church, Chicago.

BIGGEST UPSET of the slate-making decisions was the rejection of democratic County Board Pres. Seymour Simon. He was replaced as a candidate by Harry Semrow, who resigned as Chicago's postmaster and will face Republican Richard B. Ogilvie, now Cook County sheriff. (B10

Smith Will Manage Woods' Campaign

Harold Byron Smith Jr., Barrington Township Republican committeeman, has been named campaign chairman for Joseph L. Woods, GOP candidate for Cook County sheriff.

"I am honored by the opportunity to serve a man who has received national recognition for his qualifications and investigative abilities," Smith said.

"With the Democrats having so much power in Cook County, the voters would be wise to put Joe Woods in an office where he can use his experience to watch out for the interests of all the people."

Smith, 32, vice president of the Fastener divisions of Illinois Tool Works, Inc., has been active as a campaign leader in recent years at the township, county and state levels.

HE IS CHAIRMAN of the Illinois Republican Senatorial Citizens Committee, treasurer and member of the executive committee of the Republican Central Committee of Cook County, and 1966 suburban vice chairman of the Metropolitan Crusade of Mercy.

Smith is a former director of the Better Government Association, the organization for which Woods administered and conducted many investigations into areas such as corruption in government.

He received a bachelor's degree in engineering from Princeton in 1955 and a master's degree in business administration from Northwestern in 1957. He lives at 616 Grove, Barrington, with his wife and four daughters. (B10

'Learn to Swim' Campaign Starts

Northwest Suburban YMCA announces its annual "Learn to Swim" campaign, to be held every morning during school spring vacations—April 4-8 and April 11-15. This is a community service for non-members, and there is no charge for the instructions.

Qualified and competent instructors will be available to guide beginners in the fundamentals of swimming, using the latest techniques. The goal is to get all those who are not swimmers to swim at least one width of the pool, which is 25 feet.

The new teaching pool, which was opened in October 1964, will be used for the lessons. It is ideal for these classes because of the 28-inch to 4-foot depth.

THE "LEARN TO Swim" campaign is designed to introduce the beginning water skills to non-swimming boys and girls in first through the sixth grades, who are not members of the YMCA.

Classes will meet every morning for 5 days and 40 minutes of instruction.

It is important for boys and girls to learn to swim, especially in this area where there are so many opportunities to use small craft and where so many families own boats and canoes.

Parents may enroll their children by calling Northwest Suburban YMCA at CY 6-3376. Enrollment is limited. (B-10

Viet Kids Getting Toys

Speechless children greeted the shipment of local toys to the Can Gio province of Viet Nam, a U. S. Army adviser writes.

The toys were collected by Wheeling Township Republican organizations after a letter from an Arlington Heights service man, who said most Viet Nam children never owned a toy, was printed in the Fencepost.

THE SPEECHLESS period didn't last long, the adviser wrote: "The air was filled with what you would call war whoops. Piping, shrill little voices screaming 'come on, come on,' which is Vietnamese for 'thank you, thank you.' ".

The adviser's letter of thanks to area residents is printed in

Youth Corps Names Kept Confidential

Release of names of Neighborhood Youth Corps students became a question, briefly, at the High School District 214 board meeting Monday evening.

Supt. H. L. Slichenmyer told the board that he had been requested by one of its members, William Griffith, to include names of the NYC enrollees in information that they will receive in a report March 28 on the federally-financed work program.

"I DO NOT feel we should give the names and addresses of students and their parents," Slichenmyer said. He said he felt this way even if the release were restricted to board members alone.

Most board members, other than Griffith, indicated they agreed with the superintendent.

"I personally don't want to know," stated Board Pres. Arthur Aronson regarding the release of names of the NYC students.

"The thing we were concerned about when this started," added Dr. Frank J. Smith, "was that the students not be embarrassed."

"I DISAGREE but I won't belabor the point here," said Griffith.

The District 214 superintendent said that the other information wanted by Griffith was the enrollment by schools, the types of jobs performed, cost summaries so far, the estimated cost by the end of the year, the number of teachers involved and their reimbursement (and from what source), and the grades of enrollees.

Slichenmyer said he would see that all this was provided by the March 28 meeting.

Sen. Graham Kills Rumor He Won't Run

Sen. John A. Graham, (R-Barrington), officially announced this week his candidacy for re-election.

In commenting on the release, Graham said he hoped "an official announcement will curtail rumors that I am not going to run."

Graham spent more than six weeks in Sherman Hospital recently recuperating from a "mild" stroke.

Prior to that time he had told Paddock Publications he would be a candidate for re-election in the new 3rd District, which includes the old district, (Barrington, Hanover, Schaumburg and Palatine Townships) as well as Wheeling and Elk Grove Townships in their entirety and portions of Northfield and Maine Townships.

GRAHAM FACES opposition from Robert O. Atcher, village president of Schaumburg and from William Davies, a Streamwood attorney.

Davies has not officially announced his candidacy yet, though he faced, as did Atcher and Graham, the eight committeemen in the district seeking endorsement of the group.

Graham was endorsed in his announcement by Sen. W. Russell Arrington, (R-Evanston), president pro tem and majority leader of the senate.

He said, "Sen. Graham is an outstanding member of a great Republican team. He has served citizens of his district and the people of Illinois with great distinction.

"I AM GRATEFUL that Sen. Graham as decided to seek re-election. The Republican party and the people of Illinois need Jack Graham in Springfield and I want to do everything I can to see that he is returned.

"His election is essential if the Republican party is to keep its majority in the Illinois State Senate and preserve effective two-party government in Illinois."

A fund was raised through a dinner for incumbent senators and Sen. Arrington said part of the money would be spent in the 3rd District to aid Graham.

He said he has pledged to "go to any district on call and work for the election or re-nomination of that incumbent."

HE MADE the pledge, he said, "because of the magnificent performance of all GOP senators in the last session of the legislature. They hung together and worked like a team."

Arrington indicated that if Graham is nominated at the June primary, he will not need any help in the fall in what Arrington termed "a safe Republican district."

Graham serves as chairman of the Senate elections committee and as vice chairman of the Senate Affairs Committee.

His release calls him a "key veteran member of the Senate Republican majority responsible for cutting over $500 million in unnecessary taxes requested last year by the Democrat administration in Chicago City Hall and the Springfield Statehouse."

THE STATEMENT calls Graham a "consistent defender of the taxpayer and homeowner and an unrelenting foe of waste and unnecessary spending."

Graham, in 1963, served as chairman of a special committee investigating the Chicago Sanitary District. He served as chairman of the interim legislative commission established to review the operations of all sanitary districts within the state.

Graham said, "As a result of investigations and a careful analysis of the other financial needs of the state, the Republican State Senate was able to fully provide for all vital services of the State, balance the budget, and still reject many exorbitant tax proposals that had passed the Democrat-dominated House of Representatives.

"A Republican Majority in the State Senate is the only protection for the people of Illinois from one-party, one-man government dictated by Mayor Daley."

Graham has pledged his "continued support for sound, progressive and humane Republican policies. At the same time, I know that efficiency and economy in government is a continuing responsibility of the legislature and a principle to which the Republican Party has always been dedicated.

"We believe in limited government and that within those limits a government ought to provide the best services possible. I am determined to see that we get 100 cents of service for every tax dollar collected."

Flint 'Community School' Idea Impresses Visitors

The need for closer school-community cooperation was the key message brought back to the northwest suburbs by five persons representing District 214 at a Flint, Mich., conference.

It was Flint's "community school" approach that most impressed them, Asst. Supt. Edward H. Gilbert, Arlington Heights Trustee Roy Bressler and District 214 board member William Griffith all agreed when they returned.

They, and two District 214 teachers, Warren Collier and Mrs. Marilyn Breiding, spent from Wednesday through Friday at Flint in a "see how our community handles problems" meeting sponsored by that community's Mott Foundation.

COLLIER, as coordinator of the high schools' work orientation program for potential dropouts, was particularly interested in Flint's "personalized curriculum" approach to aid youngsters with similar problems.

Mrs. Breiding was chosen partly in recognition of the role played by the District 214 Teachers Association in calling the Mott Foundation program to the local schools' attention. The Teachers Association sponsored a visit of a Flint team to this area in December.

Outstanding features of the Flint approach, the five travelers agree, are:

—The entire concept of a "total community approach" to its problems. In Flint the entire community resources — city government, parks and schools — are focused on community needs cooperatively. There is no fractionation of effort, the visitors said.

—THE USE of every school, elementary as well as high school, as a community center. Flint has a community school director assigned to each school, his job being to develop adult and after-school youth programs to meet the surrounding neighborhood's needs.

—A preventive approach to juvenile delinquency, with police counselors working in each school as part of its youth guidance team. The police officers wear plain clothes, have their salaries shared by the schools and the municipal government, and are given guidance training after being carefully selected for their rapport with youth.

Both Bressler and Dr. Gilbert said they particularly liked the police counselor program and felt it worth considering here.

Collier said he was impressed with Flint's "personalized curriculum" for potential dropouts, though he noted several differences between their program and the one being tried here. Flint extends its program to junior high students, the program breadth made easier because that city has no separate high school and elementary district.

HE NOTED that Flint's program gives outside job training, with salaries subsidized.

The Mott Foundation provides these funds, and did so to the tune of $35,000 last semester alone.

Vendor Advises Board

214 Continues to Discuss Vending Machine Lunches

Arlington Heights vending operator Matthew Cockrell has urged the high school District 214 board not to go to automated food service unless it can do so with "vigor and conviction."

He warned the board that if it is not entirely convinced that vending is advantageous, the switch to an automated lunchroom for its sixth high school would be a mistake.

The board approved vending for its sixth high school once, on Jan. 24. Protests, including some from members of the Citizens Committee for the Sixth High School, have caused the board to reconsider. An end-of-March decision deadline has been given it by the architect, although there are indications that the deadline might be extended.

COCKRELL made his statement Monday evening at a high school board meeting at which board member Richard A. Bachhuber gave an enthusiastic description of high school vending operations at Holland, Mich., and the audience saw a 15-minute slide program touting automated school lunch service.

Bachhuber said he was told by the Holland principal that the school's administration was very satisfied with vending and had "not one cent" invested in restaurant equipment.

"We had some reservations about the way they did the job," commented Bachhuber. "But the important thing we learned was that it worked. The kids like it, the staff likes it and the community accepts it."

Bachhuber also told the board, "I think a lot of people are worried about this step because they think it is a decision that cannot be reversed. It can be. But we have agreed to do it and I think with all of this we should go ahead with it."

"DON'T YOU think we owe it to ourselves to be sure?" questioned board member William Griffith.

"We are sure," said Bachhuber.

"We're not sure enough," rejoined Dr. Frank J. Smith.

Cockrell, who operates Cockrell Coffee Service at 112 S. Dryden, Arlington Heights, told the board that "It would be foolish to presume that we could serve the excellent 'Type A' lunch that your cafeteria serves now. If this is the need and desire of the board, you should not change."

"HOWEVER," he added, "we're becoming more a snack-oriented generation and the type lunches served in vending machines are more the snack type."

Cockrell said the vending industry is capable of feeding students quickly, with "food they will enjoy" and "at reasonable prices." But he predicted that parents who want a 'Type A' balanced meal for their youngsters will be angered by the switch.

He told the board he would rather see the vending proposal tabled at this time than be approved if by a board not firmly convinced.

Vended Lunch Cost Would Be Higher

The question of whether high school students will pay more for their lunches if District 214 goes to vended food service was raised again at Monday's board meeting.

Matthew Cockrell, operator of Cockrell Coffee Service, told the board that he is presently serving a 60 cent hot meal — meat, potatoes and a vegetable — to an industrial concern and could probably serve a similar school meal for about 50 cents. This would not include dessert, milk, or salad.

HE PRICED pie at 15 or 20 cents, salads at 15 cents and said he thought milk should be provided "at cost," 5 cents for a half pint.

He said at Bloomington, Ill., vended food at Normal's high school is priced at 15 cents for soup, 25 cents for sandwiches, salads and desserts for 10 and 15 cents, and some casserole dishes for 25 cents.

The 'Type A' line in District 214's four cafeterias provides a choice of three different main dishes, a vegetable and a salad, bread and butter, for 40 cents. Dessert, at 10 cents, is extra, as is milk. A third of a quart of milk is priced at four cents.

ON THE a-la-carte line, high school students now pay 25 cents for sandwiches, 15 cents for salad.

For its 'Type A' meal food service, District 214 receives a federal subsidy of 13 cents per plate, about five cents in a direct grant and the rest in surplus commodities.

President Johnson is presently urging that the amount of donated school lunch commodities be reduced.

Schlickman Committee Organizes

John J. Walsh Jr., 404 E. Marshall St., Arlington Heights, and James Pfister, 367 Bernard Drive, Buffalo Grove, were named this week as community chairmen of the "Schlickman for Republican Commiteeman" citizens committee.

WALSH PRESENTLY serves as an Arlington Heights village trustee and heads its public safety committee. He is also chairman of the Downtown ACTION Committee.

Schlickman's citizen committee will complement the township's Republican precinct captains' organization, which overwhelmingly endorsed Schlickman for committeeman last week. Citizens chairmen for Wheeling, Mount Prospect and the unincorporated area of the township are still to be announced.

Panel to Discuss Federal Aid Issue

John Kirby, asistant to State Supt. of Public Instruction Ray Page, will join three members of District 214's School Board in panel discussion on the need for federal aid to education at 8:30 p.m. today at the Arlington Heights VFW Hall.

Speaking for the school board Pres. Arthur Aronson and members Frank Smith and Willia F. Griffith. The title of the panel discussion is "The Need for Federal Aid to Education."

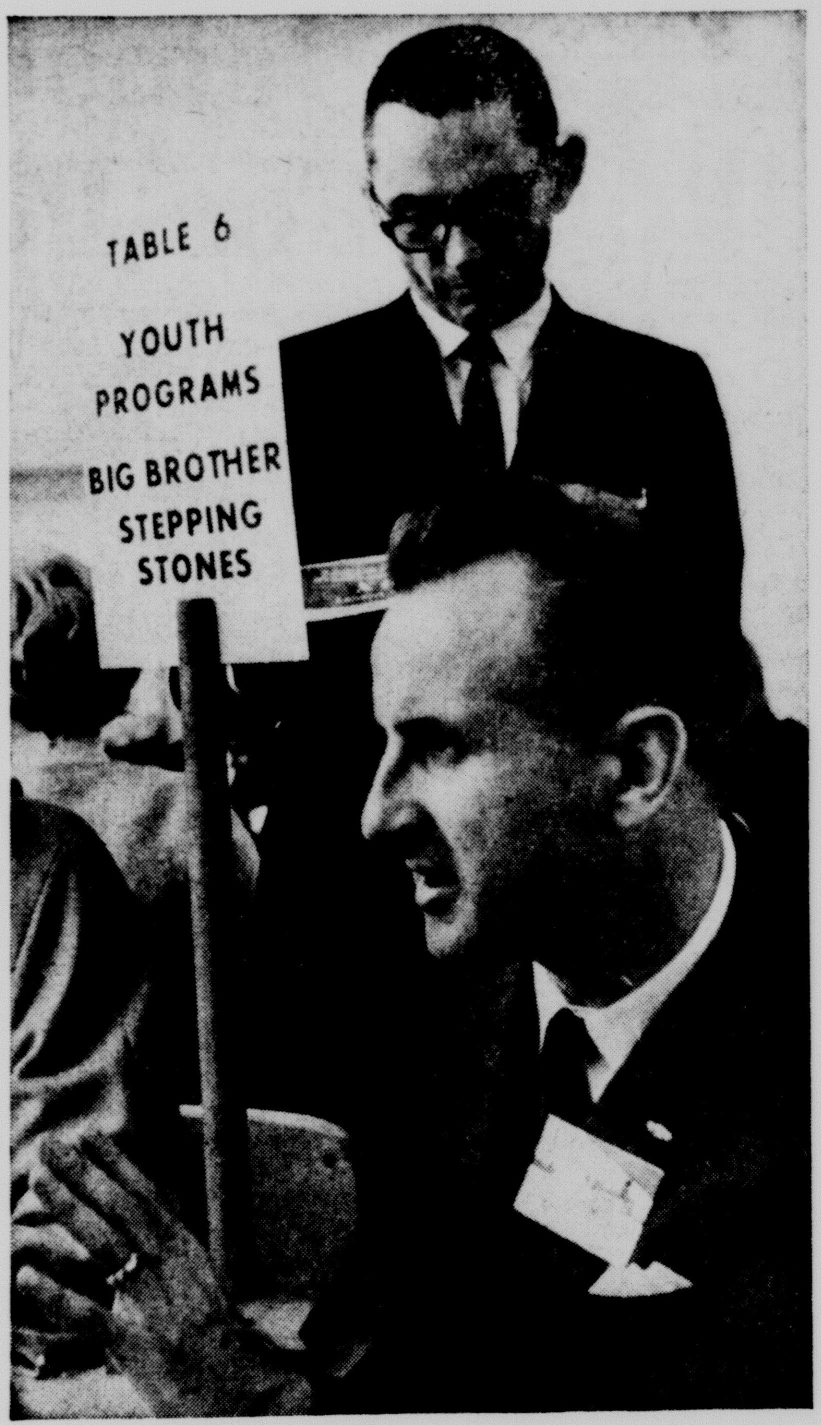
THE PROGRAM is being sponsored by the four Wheeling Township Republican Clubs, the Women's clubs, the regulars, the township Young Republicans, and the Republican Workshop.

Robert Cagann, Wheeling Township auditor and program chairman for the Regular Republican Club, will be the moderator.

Kirby will expound on the forms of school aid and methods of obtaining federal aid.

Panelists Smith and Aronson are both up for re-election April 9. The group will discuss the importance of having the community and the school board members in agreement on the subject of federal aid.

The meeting is open to the public and GOP officials say all persons living in District 214 are urged to come. (ACME



"FLINT APPROACH" to solving community problems is to focus the total community resources on them, District 214 board member William Griffith of Arlington Heights learned during a trip there at the invitation of the city's Mott Foundation. The Big Brother program is just one of a score of Flint programs that used school facilities as its focus, the five-person District 214 team learned.

Novotny, Supporter Disagree on Percy

Thomas Novotny, a Wheeling Township candidate for the GOP committeeman's post, this week affirmed his support for Charles H. Percy and Sen. John Graham.

A supporter of Novotny's, William L. Griffin, commented to a Herald reporter Saturday that he felt Percy's chances of winning the election next fall were slim and that "Percy's political career is at an end."

Novotny said he does not share that view. Percy is the candidate to oppose incumbent Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill), in next fall's elections.

NOVOTNY SAID he has publicly endorsed Percy, Graham, (R-Barrington), incumbent state senator facing primary opposition; Rep. Eugene Schlickman, (R-Arlington Heights), in his bid for re-election to the state house of representatives and "all county candidates and state candidates."

Novotny is opposed by Schlickman. Griffith commented last weekend while obtaining signatures on Novotny's nominating petitions, "It is possible that Schlickman is running just so he can resign and give the committeeman's post back to Houser after Percy is defeated."

Houser, present township GOP committeeman, is not seeking re-election. He is Percy's campaign manager and decided not ro run to devote full time to the campaign.

Novotny said he has not endorsed Rep. Donald Rumsfeld but added "that was an oversight" and indicated an endorsement will be forthcoming soon.

4th Candidate Enters District 214 Contest

A fourth District 214 school board candidate will be appearing at the IEA's public candidates meeting on Thursday, March 24.

Dr. Otto Bouc, 910 Greenfield Court, Mount Prospect, filed his petitions as a school board candidate at the administration building, 799 Kensington Road, Mount Prospect, late Tuesday afternoon.

Saturday is the last day for candidates to file for school board seats open in the April 9 election. District 214 candidates may leave their filing papers at the administration building or with the board secretary, Mrs. Leah Cummins of Elk Grove Village. The board offices will be open Saturday until noon.

DR. BOUC, AN orthopedic surgeon, lives in unincorporated territory. As such, he will be eligible to unseat incumbent Board Pres. Arthur Aronson.

Aronson's postal address is Arlington Heights but his home is not within the village boundaries. As the sole board member representing unincorporated territory, he can only be ousted by another candidate from outside the villages.

Dr. Bouc grew up in the Hyde Park area of Chicago, received a B.S. at the University of Illinois before going on to Northwestern University medical school. He interned at Passavant Hospital and held residencies at Hines Veterans Hospital and the Shriner Hospital.

His practice orthopedic was set up in Mount Prospect in 1960 and the family—which now includes three pre-schoolers, two of them in the Northwest Montessori School—moved to their present home in the Randwood area at that time.

Dr. Bouc says he was urged to run by physician friends and did so because of an "intense interest in young people."

OTHER CANDIDATES who have filed so far are Dr. Frank J. Smith and John Auld, both residents of Arlington Heights. Smith's name will appear first on the ballot since he was first to file.

All candidates have been invited to appear at the IEA candidates meeting March 24 at 7:30 p.m. in the Wheeling High School Theater.

The meeting is being co-sponsored by the Teachers Association of District 214 and the executive board of the Northwest Suburban Division of the Illinois Education Association.

DR. OTTO BOUC

A story last week incorrectly stated the public meeting would take place March 23.

Mrs. Marjorie Olson, Forest View High School teacher who serves on the IEA state board, will be in charge of the candidates' meeting.

All candidates will be asked to present 10 to 12 minute position papers giving their views on education. They will also be asked to answer written questions from the audience.(ACME

Constitutions Reviewed in Night Class

As in previous years, the adult education department of High School District 214 is providing an eight-hour review course on the Federal and Illinois State Constitution and will include information on flag etiquette and the Declaration of Independence.

This review will be of particular interest to teachers who have not taken the citizenship examination required for certification to teach in schools of Illinois.

OTHER PERSONS who are planning to take the General Educational Development examination for a high school equivalency diploma, given by the Cook County Superintendent of Schools, will find this review most helpful as will those who are taking high school credit courses in the adult education program.

The review will be offered Tuesday or Wednesday from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m., starting March 22 or March 23. The Tuesday night sessions will be held in room 138 and the Wednesday class will be in room 105 at the Arlington High School.

For information concerning registering for these two review courses, teachers and other interested parties should call District 214 adult education director, W. L. Randle, at CL 3-1700.

Push Study on Local Version of Job Corps

The go-ahead has been given for a new District 214 citizens committee to explore alternate ways of finding jobs for Neighborhood Youth Corps students.

Members of the school board gave their informal approval Monday to the committee's formation at the urging of Board Pres. Arthur Aronson.

"I feel strongly that we should see if what is being done now through the Neighborhood Youth Corps can be done locally," Aronson said.

HE SAID such a committee, organized on a district-wide basis, could see if jobs can be made available outside the schools.

At the present time 76 needy high school students are employed part-time within the school, their wages being paid by a Neighborhood Youth Corps grant available from the federal Office of Economic Opportunity.

Aronson said he felt there was no question but that many hard-up students benefit scholastically if they have a way to earn money part-time under supervision.

There is district-wide disagreement, he noted, in the matter of financing — whether District 214 should take the federal money or utilize local means of finding jobs.

LAST FALL when the Neighborhood Youth Corps was approved an opposing group, the District 214 Taxpayers Association, offered to take on the task of providing jobs for the teenagers.

District 214's board voted to go ahead with the NYC program, but indicated its willingness to accept an alternate proposal if it were a firm one.

Dr. Edward Gilbert, assistant superintendent, subsequently met with the group to explain what programs are now available to give vocational or on-the-job experience.

Later meetings could not be arranged, however, despite efforts of Gilbert and Village Trustee Ray Bressler of Arlington Heights.

AT MONDAY'S meeting, two board members, Mrs. Leah Cummins and Dr. Frank J. Smith, expressed some reservations about the "outside job" approach.

Dr. Smith noted that it might cost the district more to provide jobs outside the school.

Mrs. Cummins added, "I think you're going to find that you can find these kids jobs, but you'll be encouraging dropouts rather than discouraging them." In jobs in school, she asserted, there is "no temptation," but in outside jobs they'll see other dropouts working full time and making more than they do.

Sidestep Switch Of Insurance Firms

High School District 214 board, taking its consultant's advice, voted Monday night to take the second low bid on a package insurance proposal.

They accepted the $22,387 bid submitted by the Beatty Agency, representative of Home Insurance Co., rather than the low bid of $20,599 submitted by Kemper Insurance Co.

In making his recommendation, the insurance consultant, Alvan Lott of W. C. Fry and Associates, noted that the school district's present insurance package is with Beatty. To switch, he said, would mean a penalty of about $1,300, because their present policies with Beatty still have a year to run.

THUS, LOTT noted, the saving to the district next year would only be $488—not enough, he commented, to compensate for the inconvenience and bother of briefing a new firm on the school's needs.

The $488 saving will only be for the first year. During the second and third year of the policy, the choice of the Beatty firm over the low Kemper bidder will cost the school district $1,788 annually.

Heidemann Takes Part in VFW Conference

John C. Heidemann, past department commander and current member of the National V.F.W. Americanism committee, Arlington Heights, arrived in Washington Sunday to participate in the annual mid-winter conference of national and state officers of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States.

Sunday Heidemann attended a meeting of his committee and participated in briefings by governmental and civilian officials.

On Monday, he participated in organization meetings and visited members of the Illinois congressional delegation. Tuesday, he appeared before the House Veterans Affairs Committee with commander-in-chief of the V.F.W. Andy Borg.

The conference was climaxed Tuesday evening with a dinner honoring members of Congress who served in the Armed Forces. Members of the Illinois delegation attended as well as members of the Cabinet, Supreme Court, House and Senate. (A

Flint 'Community School' Idea Impresses Visitors

The need for closer school-community cooperation was the key message brought back to the northwest suburbs by five persons representing District 214 at a Flint, Mich., conference.

It was Flint's "community school" approach that most impressed them, Asst. Supt. Edward H. Gilbert, Arlington Heights Trustee Roy Bressler and District 214 board member William Griffith all agreed when they returned.

They, and two District 214 teachers, Warren Collier and Mrs. Marilyn Breiding, spent from Wednesday through Friday at Flint in a "see how our community handles problems" meeting sponsored by that community's Mott Foundation.

COLLIER, as coordinator of the high schools' work orientation program for potential dropouts, was particularly interested in Flint's "personalized curriculum" approach to aid youngsters with similar problems.

Mrs. Breiding was chosen partly in recognition of the role played by the District 214 Teachers Association in calling the Mott Foundation program to the local schools' attention. The Teachers Association sponsored a visit of a Flint team to this area in December.

Outstanding features of the Flint approach, the five travelers agree, are:

—The entire concept of a "total community approach" to its problems. In Flint the entire community resources — city government, parks and schools — are focused on community needs cooperatively. There is no fractionation of effort, the visitors said.

—THE USE of every school, elementary as well as high school, as a community center. Flint has a community school director assigned to each school, his job being to develop adult and after-school youth programs to meet the surrounding neighborhood's needs.

—A preventive approach to juvenile delinquency, with police counselors working in each school as part of its youth guidance team. The police officers wear plain clothes, have their salaries shared by the schools and the municipal government, and are given guidance training after being carefully selected for their rapport with youth.

Both Bressler and Dr. Gilbert said they particularly liked the police counselor program and felt it worth considering here.

Collier said he was impressed with Flint's "personalized curriculum" for potential dropouts, though he noted several differences between their program and the one being tried here. Flint extends its program to junior high students, the program breadth made easier because that city has no separate high school and elementary district.

HE NOTED that Flint's program gives outside job training, with salaries subsidized.

The Mott Foundation provides these funds, and did so to the tune of $35,000 last semester alone.

Vendor Advises Board

214 Continues to Discuss Vending Machine Lunches

Arlington Heights vending operator Matthew Cockrell has urged the high school District 214 board not to go to automated food service unless it can do so with "vigor and conviction."

He warned the board that if it is not entirely convinced that vending is advantageous, the switch to an automated lunchroom for its sixth high school would be a mistake.

The board approved vending for its sixth high school once, on Jan. 24. Protests, including some from members of the Citizens Committee for the Sixth High School, have caused the board to reconsider. An end-of-March decision deadline has been given it by the architect, although there are indications that the deadline might be extended.

COCKRELL made his statement Monday evening at a high school board meeting at which board member Richard A. Bachhuber gave an enthusiastic description of high school vending operations at Holland, Mich., and the audience saw a 15-minute slide program touting automated school lunch service.

Bachhuber said he was told by the Holland principal that the school's administration was very satisfied with vending and had "not one cent" invested in restaurant equipment.

"We had some reservations about the way they did the job," commented Bachhuber. "But the important thing we learned was that it worked. The kids like it, the staff likes it and the community accepts it."

Bachhuber also told the board, "I think a lot of people are worried about this step because they think it is a decision that cannot be reversed. It can be. But we have agreed to do it and I think with all of this we should go ahead with it."

"DON'T YOU think we owe it to ourselves to be sure?" questioned board member William Griffith.

"We are sure," said Bachhuber.

"We're not sure enough," rejoined Dr. Frank J. Smith.

Cockrell, who operates Cockrell Coffee Service at 112 S. Dryden, Arlington Heights, told the board that "It would be foolish to presume that we could serve the excellent 'Type A' lunch that your cafeteria serves now. If this is the need and desire of the board, you should not change."

"HOWEVER," he added, "we're becoming more a snack-oriented generation and the type lunches served in vending machines are more the snack type."

Cockrell said the vending industry is capable of feeding students quickly, with "food they will enjoy" and "at reasonable prices." But he predicted that parents who want a 'Type A' balanced meal for their youngsters will be angered by the switch.

He told the board he would rather see the vending proposal tabled at this time than be approved if by a board not firmly convinced.

Vended Lunch Cost Would Be Higher

The question of whether high school students will pay more for their lunches if District 214 goes to vended food service was raised again at Monday's board meeting.

Matthew Cockrell, operator of Cockrell Coffee Service, told the board that he is presently serving a 60 cent hot meal — meat, potatoes and a vegetable — to an industrial concern and could probably serve a similar school meal for about 50 cents. This would not include dessert, milk, or salad.

HE PRICED pie at 15 or 20 cents, salads at 15 cents and said he thought milk should be provided "at cost," 5 cents for a half pint.

He said at Bloomington, Ill., vended food at Normal's high school is priced at 15 cents for soup, 25 cents for sandwiches, salads and desserts for 10 and 15 cents, and some casserole dishes for 25 cents.

The 'Type A' line in District 214's four cafeterias provides a choice of three different main dishes, a vegetable and a salad, bread and butter, for 40 cents. Dessert, at 10 cents, is extra, as is milk. A third of a quart of milk is priced at four cents.

ON THE a-la-carte line, high school students now pay 25 cents for sandwiches, 15 cents for salad.

For its 'Type A' meal food service, District 214 receives a federal subsidy of 13 cents per plate, about five cents in a direct grant and the rest in surplus commodities.

President Johnson is presently urging that the amount of donated school lunch commodities be reduced.

Push Study on Local Version of Job Corps

The go-ahead has been given for a new District 214 citizens committee to explore alternate ways of finding jobs for Neighborhood Youth Corps students.

OTHER PERSONS who are planning to take the General Educational Development examination for a high school equivalency diploma, given by the Cook County Superintendent of Schools, will find this review most helpful as will those who are taking high school credit courses in the adult education program.

The review will be offered Tuesday or Wednesday from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m., starting March 22 or March 23. The Tuesday night sessions will be held in room 138 and the Wednesday class will be in room 105 at the Arlington High School.

For information concerning registering for these two review courses, teachers and other interested parties should call District 214 adult education director, W. L. Randle, at CL 3-1700.

John C. Heidemann, past department commander and current member of the National V.F.W. Americanism committee, Arlington Heights, arrived in Washington Sunday to participate in the annual mid-winter conference of national and state officers of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States.

Sunday Heidemann attended a meeting of his committee and participated in briefings by governmental and civilian officials.

On Monday, he participated in organization meetings and visited members of the Illinois congressional delegation. Tuesday, he appeared before the House Veterans Affairs Committee with commander-in-chief of the V.F.W. Andy Borg.

The conference was climaxed Tuesday evening with a dinner honoring members of Congress who served in the Armed Forces. Members of the Illinois delegation attended as well as members of the Cabinet, Supreme Court, House and Senate. (A

Suburbanites Are Getting Ready for Spring

Sidelights Of Arlington Heights

Arlington Heights, Scarsdale & Estates, Stonegate

Sue Smith, 439-4851
Dorothy Meyer, CL 3-2298

Where in the world do Arlington Heighters spend their Mondays? If it were later in the month, we could expect them to be working in their yards, an event not too far in the future, since some neighbors have discovered that their tulips are already up. Judging from the number of "no answers" while attempting to get some news, we're a pretty busy bunch, but unfortunately in most cases, not doing anything to report on.

Returning by plane on March 3 from the comfortable climate of California, where they spent a month visiting, were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Malcomson and daughters, Kim and Karen, 537 S. Vail. Mr. Malcomson spent the first two weeks in San Francisco, in active training with the Navy, then joined his family in the Compton home of his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kramer. The California visit included a family trip to Marineland, as well as visits with old friends.

Mike Conley, son of the Frank Conleys, 107 N. Reuter, will celebrate his 13th birthday on Tuesday of next week, but even before reaching the rank of teenager, he has become a successful musician, at least in the eyes of his family and friends. Together with Al Wagner, 12-year-old son of the Eugene Wagners, 111 N. Reuter, and 14-year-old Bob Van Bladel, son of the Tony Van Bladels, 108 N. Reuter, Mike has formed a musical combo called "The Shades," featuring Bob and Mike on guitars, with Al supplying the beat on the drums.

THE GROUP made its debut last Saturday in the Conley home with an hour-long musical show which consisted of the currently popular tunes. Twenty-five friends and classmates attended the session, and enjoyed some dancing following the show. Although, according to Mrs. Conley, the preparations and rehearsals were at times a bit hectic, the group is one of which three sets of parents may justifiably be proud.

The Robert Carstens family, 300 N. Dwyer, and the John Cornell family, 15 E. Oakton, spent last week end at the Wagon Wheel in Rockton, where they relaxed and enjoyed family activities, including skating, swimming and horseback riding.

Gayle Watland, daughter of the Gaylord M. Watlands, 627 S. Ridge, arrived in Arlington Heights last Friday to spend her spring vacation with her parents. She was accompanied by her roommate, Ellen Huggins, who was a guest until Wednesday. Gayle will return to her studies at Vanderbilt University in Nashville, Tenn., early next week.

IN REPORTING the recent Florida visit of Mrs. Milton Daniels, 805 N. Dunton, we erroneously listed Mrs. George Schneberger among "former" Arlington Heighters who enjoyed a reunion with Mrs. Daniels. Mrs. Schneberger did enjoy the reunion, she was with the rest of the ladies, but she hastens to inform us that she is not a "former" Arlington Heighter.

We're sorry to have transplanted Mrs. Schneberger against her wishes — and happy that she still calls Arlington Heights "home." She is a winter visitor, not resident, in Boca Raton.

Sympathy is extended to Herbert Kempke, 1234 N. Chestnut, on the death on Saturday of his father, Mr. Herman Kempke Sr. in Des Plaines.

"IT WAS A bit windy, slightly cool but we had a nice time," declared Mrs. William Pailey of 504 Beverly in speaking of her recent trip to California. The Paileys spent six weeks on a relaxing trip to Las Vegas, Palm Springs and a jaunt to Disneyland. Bill returned home after going with his wife to Las Vegas, but then joined her again in California. There they managed to get in a lot of golf and miss the really bad winter weather here.

THE ED WILSONS of 304 Wilshire have just returned from a weekend trip to Forest City, Iowa, to visit their son, his wife and grandson, two-year-old Teddy. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson flew to this city near Mason City, because the weather seemed too bad for driving.

IT WAS A fine way to spend a vacation," declared Mrs. R. H. Martindell of 515 S. Arlington Heights Road, in speaking of her recent trip to New Orleans. She developed a severe sinus infection on the day she arrived. Having a cold when boarding the plane, the height did something to the sinus. Anyway, she said that she spent the entire time there in the hotel room. "Bud had to attend a convention," she said, "and I thought it would be a nice change and vacation to go along but it just didn't turn out that way."

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Oestman journeyed to Milwaukee to spend the evening with old friends, Mr. and Mrs. D. Humason in the Elm Grove section.

"YOU COULD really have a good time in Aspen Colo. even if you didn't ski," declared Mrs. Lee Canfield of 337 Stratford. The Canfields stayed at Bell Mountain Lodge in the ski resort and had a wonderful time renewing old times with friends from Detroit.

The weather, they reported, was rather warm, so the conditions weren't quite as good for skiing as they hoped, but there are wonderful restaurants there and lots to see so one doesn't have to just ski. They took the train up and said the scenery was beautiful and "everyone is so friendly at a ski lodge."

There's a busy household at 202 Stratford these days. The Kenneth Auers' daughter, Merry Lee, is being married March 19. "Seems like I'll never get everything done," declared the very friendly Mrs. Auer.

Last week there was a shower for the bride-to-be, given by Mrs. Henry Auer and her daughter, Mrs. Richard Beard from Park Ridge. All the family relatives surprised Merry Lee with needed gifts.

ON SUNDAY Merry Lee's closest friend gave a shower at the future bride's home. The guests were all fellow employees at Arlington Heights National Bank. "This one we couldn't keep as a surprise," said Mrs. Auer. "Merry Lee wanted to go to the zoo, so in order to keep her home we had to tell her."

Monday night Mrs. Lyle Ewing of 110 Stratford gave a shower for Merry Lee and the neighbors were invited.

Carol Auer is home from Colorado State University between quarters to be a bridesmaid for her sister.

Carol has just been selected to an important office at school. She is now coordinator of the board of the Pan Hellenic Council at Colorado State. (A

Dad of Girls In Bus Wreck Says He'll Sue

A Mount Prospect man has told the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove School Board he plans to sue for damages as a result of a bus wreck last September.

Thomas Heinz, 400 Oriole, Mount Prospect, claims his two daughters, Mary Lee and Nancy Jean, were injured through negligence of the district bus employees.

SCHOOL OFFICIALS said the bus was not on District 21 business. The bus was being sold to the Ritzenthaler's Central West Bus Lines, Arlington Heights, by District 21. Ritzenthaler's employees were operating the vehicle.

The collision with another bus occurred Sept. 13, 1965, at Park and Prindle in Arlington Heights.

School officials turned the notice over to its insurance company. School Atty. Everett Lewy said the insurance companies would take care of the case. (B10

VIRGINIA TERRACE

Travel is the word that sums up much of the Terrace activity over the past week or two. After the long winter of semi-hibernation, many area families got the roving spirit.

Skiing in Colorado was a nice mid-winter break for John and Muriel Fenzel, 1328 N. Yale. They returned Sunday after a 10-day trip to Vail and Aspen. They were accompanied on their trip by a Dundee couple. Muriel reports that most of each day was spent skiing. They were on the slopes by 8 a.m. and didn't quit until 4 p.m.

A two-week motor trip to Florida was enjoyed by Douglas and Louise Hersey, 1219 N. Race, who spent much of their time in Fort Lauderdale but traveled all around the area. They returned Sunday.

BERNARD ROSER, 1447 N. Race, returned Sunday from a two-week business trip to Japan. Bernard, a hardware buyer, spent much of his time taking care of his business but still had some time to travel and tour parts of Japan. He stopped in Honolulu on the way home.

While her husband was away, Dorothy and the children, Denise and Craig, spent a week visiting her sister-in-law, Mrs. Roger Collier in Calumet City.

Leaving Friday for St. Thomas on the Virgin Islands was Marcia Munk, daughter of the Donald Munks, 1230 N. Race. The trip was an indoctrination flight for Eastern Air Lines reservationists. She returned home Tuesday.

The Wagon Wheel in Rockton was the destination of Jack and Betty Kenney, 1301 N. Chicago, and Northbrook friends, Mr. and Mrs. George Burns, when they left their homes last weekend. The two couples enjoyed bowling, swimming and shopping while there.

Two Terrace couples, the Albert Bades, 1326 N. Illincis, and the John Carlsons, 1327 N. Illinois, spent March 4-6 at the Holiday Inn in Aurora. They, too, enjoyed swimming, bowling and eating out on their weekend away.

ARRIVING FRIDAY from Ipswich, Mass., to visit Michael and Sandra Kauffman, 1224 N. Chicago, were Sandra's parents and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin E. Logan and Amy. This was the first opportunity for the Logans to meet their new granddaughter, Heather Jeanne, now two months old. On Sunday, Heather Jeanne was christened at St. Michael Episcopal Church in Barrington, the former home of the Logan family, by the Rev. Robert Gerhard. Both sets of grandparents were godparents, the Logans and Mr. and Mrs. Lisle E. Kauffman of Arlington Heights.

The Kauffmans hosted a party after the ceremony and in addition to the sponsors, Heather's aunt, uncle and cousin, the Lisle J. Kauffmans of Elmhurst, and friends, the Edwin Healy family of Lake Zurich were present. The Logans returned home Monday.

Jim and Janice Murphy and children, Gail, Jimmy and Chrissie, 1326 N. Chicago, visited Cantigny, the estate of Robert M. McCormick in Winfield on Sunday. The family enjoyed seeing the home, war memorials and museum, but it was too early in the season to enjoy the beautiful gardens which lend beauty to the estate. After touring the estate, the Murphys had dinner out and then visited relatives on the way home.

The Terrace welcomes Bill and Ginny Karavatos and children, Nicky, 4, and Karen, 3, who moved to 1240 N. Yale from Acton, Mass. earlier in March. Bill is employed by Digital Equipment Corp. in Park Ridge. He lists golf as one of his outside interests, when he has time to play. The family will attend St. John the Baptist Greek Orthodox Church in Des Plaines.

Two Terrace young people were among the 178 confirmed by Bishop Cletus F. O'Donnell, JCD at St. Thomas of Villanova Catholic Church in Palatine on March 6. They were Mark Weber, son of the Robert Webers, 1508 Oakton, and Mary Beth Paul, daughter of the Edward Pauls, 1215 N. Race.

He went on an all-day trip with a group of young people from the Methodist Church who will soon be confirmed. They visited a number of Methodist institutions in the Chicago area, including Wesley Memorial Hospital, Garrett Institute at Northwestern University and the chapel at the Chicago Temple. Saturday night the Husteds gave a family party in Robby's honor. Attending were his grandmother, Mrs. John Wilson of Elmwood Park, great-aunt, Mrs. Larry Hooper of Glen Ellyn, his parents and sister and brother, Debbie and John.

Larry Van de Merkt, son of the Van de Merkts, 1231 N. Wilke, was 9 March 12 and to celebrate, he invited a friend, Jeff Bergstrom, to lunch Saturday; then the two boys went to the movie. Saturday night Larry's parents, his brother and sister, John and Pat, and Larry and Jeff went out for pizza to complete the celebration.

AN OPEN house was given Sunday to celebrate the 15th birthday of Robert Steele, son of the Harold Steeles, 1722 W. Oakton. Eleven young friends and seven adult friends attended the party.

The Pooles stayed with an aunt and uncle, the Roger E. Karstens.

SPENDING A DAY recently with the Donald Schmidgalls, 1216 N. Race, were Linetta's brother and family, Capt. and Mrs. Warren Yoder and three sons, of Brainerd, Minn., who were on their way home from a trip to Detroit.

Bob Nelson, 1251 N. Race, recently spent four days in Northwest Community Hospital. He returned home March 5 and has now gone back to work.

Susie Shields, daughter of the Donald Shieldses, 1256 N. Race, took part in a piano recital Sunday at Randhurst.

Weekend guests of Richard and Margaret Cadle, 1428 N. Illinois, were Richard's brothers, Donald Cadle and two children of Decatur and Mr. and Mrs. Larry Cadle and son of Galesburg. The families spent Saturday in Chicago. (A

Junior College Tuition Claims Seen Possible

Junior College District 301 and High School Districts 211 and 214 should all expect to be receiving claims this year to cover tuition of students attending junior colleges in the state system outside the district.

That possibility was suggested at the High School District 214 board meeting Monday by John Haas of Prospect Heights, president of the junior college board of education.

AND, ADDED the college president, Dr. Robert Lahti, there is a question as to whether the high school district or the junior college should be the one to pay such claims.

He said that when the area junior college is in operation it will be able to claim similar tuition payments for students from outside the district. (B-10

Junior College Tuition Claims Seen Possible

Junior College District 301 and High School Districts 211 and 214 should all expect to be receiving claims this year to cover tuition of students attending junior colleges in the state system outside the district.

That possibility was suggested at the High School District 214 board meeting Monday by John Haas of Prospect Heights, president of the junior college board of education.

AND, ADDED the college president, Dr. Robert Lahti, there is a question as to whether the high school district or the junior college should be the one to pay such claims.

He said that when the area junior college is in operation it will be able to claim similar tuition payments for students from outside the district. (B-10

Camp Fire Girls Celebrate with 'Operation Cupcake'

"Have a cupcake—it's our birthday!" will be heard by many Arlington Heights and Rolling Meadows residents as they pass through the business districts during Camp Fire Birthday Week.

Hundreds of Camp Fire Girls in the area are joining to celebrate the 56th birthday of their organization.

The girls are in the midst of an "Operation Cupcake" and are preparing cupcakes to be handed out to their friends and neighbors during the week. It is their way of saying "thank you" to their friends who buy their candy and support them in other ways.

Blue Birds from Rolling Meadows will launch the "operation" on Saturday, March 19, when they will be at the Jewel Food Store in the Rolling Meadows shopping center from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m.

Arlington Heights Blue Birds and Camp Fire Girls will be at various locations in town after school on Thursday, March 24, and on Saturday morning, March 26. The girls will be distributing cupcakes in their neighborhoods during the week of March 21-26.

CAMP FIRE Founder's Day is March 17 and the ensuing week is Camp Fire Birthday Week. Blue Birds and Camp Fire Girls will wear their costumes to school on Friday, March 18. Girls will attend the church of their choice as a group on Camp Fire Birthday Sunday, March 20. They are planning displays at the public library and in the windows of stores and businesses.

Arlington Heights, Buffalo Grove, Rolling Meadows and Schaumburg-Hanover area comprise the Far Northwest District of Camp Fire Girls. The district is a member of the Chicago Area Council. At present there are approximately 1200 girls in the district participating in the program in one of the near 100 groups. Groups may have from eight to 20 members, with leaders encouraged to keep their groups small in order to provide for more individual attention.

Mrs. Robert Rodig, 737 S. Beverly, Arlington Heights, is district chairman. Leader's Association chairman for Arlington Heights and Buffalo Grove is Mrs. Harry Johnston, 419 S. Waterman, Arlington Heights. Mrs. Arnold Lozzi, 169 Des Plaines Lane, Roselle, is chairman for Schaumburg-Hanover Leader's Association and Mrs. William Russow, 2206 Martin Lane, Rolling Meadows is chairman for Rolling Meadows. Any interested girl between the ages of seven and 17 may become a member of Camp Fire Girls.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS, with a total membership today of about 600,000, was founded in 1910 by Dr. and Mrs. Luther H. Gulick, experts in the fields of child health, education and recreation. It was America's first national non-sectarian interracial organization for girls of every race, creed, nationality, and economic status.

Dr. Gulick, after helping lay the foundation plans for the Boy Scouts of America, saw the need for a similar organization for girls. He wanted women to bring the qualities and spirit of the home into the community.

Dr. Gulick wanted "to strip the dull gray covering of the common-place from the significant acts of daily life and reveal their real beauty and romantic form." He believed that it is during the period of adolescence that one's basic personality is determined. Dr. Gulick said, "What the man or woman is to be; what old age is to be; what quality of life, what perspective, what hope, what enthusiasm, shall be passed on by this generation to its children; and what shall be the qualities of the society of tomorrow - these questions are answered, for better or for worse, within the adolescent period."

MAKING CUPCAKES which will be given out in celebration of the Camp Fire Girls' 56th birthday are Carole Wilson, 8, a Bluebird, and Cindy Wilson, 10, a Camp Fire Girl. The sisters live at 420 S. Ridge, Arlington Heights.

THE NAME "Camp Fire Girls" was suggested by a poet, William C. Langdon. "Fire" — domestic fire, not the wild fire - symbolizes the home, the place of comfort and cheer. The home and its activities center around the fire. Fire has been the preserver of human life from earliest times. "Camp" symbolizes the out-of-doors spirit of the organization.

The official emblem is the flame and crossed logs. "Wo He Lo," taken from the words Work, Health, and Love, is the Camp Fire Girls' watchword and "Give Service" their official slogan.

Much of Camp Fire's symbols and ceremonies came originally from the colorful lore, ceremonies and costume of the American Indian.

The original ceremonial gowns, worn at weekly council fires, were patterned after the Indian dress and were chosen for their simplicity of design. They were made of brown cotton with leather fringe and decorated with honor beads the girls won by their achievements.

With their ceremonial gowns, the girls wore their hair either hanging or in braids over their shoulders, bound with a headband in Indian fashion.

The ceremonial gown still remains in the Camp Fire program today, although its use is optional. More prevalent today are the ceremonial jackets made of blue felt on which the girls string their honor beads and awards.

THE ORIGINAL Camp Fire Girls costume for school and street wear was a walking skirt buttoned all the way down the front and back, white middy blouse and a long red tie. The official hat was blue cloth with a silver-gray "W" for Wohelo on a dark red cockade. Full blue serge walking bloomers with pockets were worn for activities. Blouses, skirts and bloomers all had pockets because, as stated in a 1912 bulletin, "pockets mean efficiency, order, having what is needed handy, yet the hands are left free. . ." There was even a pocket in the Camp Fire Girls hat.

Soon after the founding of the Camp Fire Girls, Blue Birds were organized to meet the needs of the younger girls. The basic program for the seven and eight year olds is creative play built around family and community life.

The Camp Fire's program is based on the seven crafts - Business, Citizenship, Creative Arts, Frontiers, Home, Outdoors, Sports and Games. Girls in grades 4, 5 and 6 achieve three ranks — Trail Seeker, Wood Gatherer, and Fire Maker.

THE THIRD age level of the Camp Fire Girls program is for girls in the seventh and eighth grades, called the "Junior Hi Camp Fire Girls." These girls achieve the highest rank in Camp Fire - that of Torch Bearer.

The Horizon Club, for high school girls, was launched in 1941 as a separate level in the program. It provides for the special activities and interests of older girls. These girls are encouraged to plan their own program and carry it out with the support of an adult Adviser. Development of a well-rounded personality, wholesome relationships with others, social activities with boys and girls indoors and out vocational exploration and community service are all stressed.

Since the founding days the world has changed. Camp Fire Girls is constantly changing with the times. It can do so because its fundamental structure provides for flexibility. But the underlying philosophy and ideals remain the same.

Survey Operations Of Juvenile Court

Judge Walter P. Dahl says that he is "looking into" the possibility of some sort of decentralization of Juvenile Court.

He says he has asked the Citizens Committee for Family Court to collect information for him on the need which might be met through some sort of relocation of the juvenile court division and the type of facilities which might be needed.

An Arlington Heights resident, Judge Dahl was appointed chief judge of the Juvenile Court two months ago. Before that time he had served in the Cook County Circuit Court's criminal division.

HE TOLD Paddock Publications last week that he is presently studying operations of the court, which handles about 18,000 cases of juvenile delinquency and dependency cases yearly, and hopes to reach conclusions about reorganization—though not necessarily decentralization—within three months.

He was questioned following his appearance at an Arlington Heights American Association of University Women's meeting last Thursday in the Federal Savings and Loan Building.

During his talk, he told the AAUW women that one of his first acts as juvenile court judge was to request information about "the successes we're having."

"TOO OFTEN," he said, "we only put the stress on the children we've been unable to help."

And the judge added wryly, "It seems people expect every one in Juvenile Court to be a social worker. I had only been appointed to the court two days when a friend called me up to ask for advice on how to handle his teenage son."

Absentee Voting Rules Explained

James Perry, business manager of junior college District 301, announced this week regulations governing absentee voting in the April 9 college board elections.

An absentee ballot may be used, said Perry, only if the voter is physically incapacitated or expects to be out of the county on the day of election. APPLICATIONS should be returned to the District 301 offices, 34 W. Palatine Rd., Palatine, in person or by mail. Physically incapacitated voters must include an affidavit from their physicians verifying their inability to cast their ballots in person. Ballots will be issued upon application.

Ballots should be marked in the presence of a notary public who must endorse the back of the affidavit envelope and affix his seal.

Perry said ballots must be received at the junior college offices before election day.

Some people never learn.

They don't know when it's time to throw in the towel.

For three years we've published Frisk's Fearless Forecast of the Illinois high school basketball tournament.

We liked Rockford Auburn in 1963, Centralia in 1964, and Thornton in 1965. Chicago Carver, Pekin, and Collinsville won the state championships.

There's some consolation, however. We are getting closer.

Our first two selections — Rockford Auburn and Centralia — didn't get past first round games in Champaign, but Thornton, our choice in 1965, did achieve fourth place status at the Assembly Hall.

Now, we're on the eve of another state tournament. Eight schoolboy teams will begin the scramble Friday in Champaign. They'll crown the 1966 state champion on Saturday evening.

Something tells us to forget this annual guessing game, let some other "experts" pick the winners.

But we've dusted off the crystal ball for another try. Maybe we'll strike it rich this year.

Here's the way we see the 1966 state high school basketball tournament:

BELLEVILLE VS. JOLIET
1:15 P.M. FRIDAY

Any club that whips Collinsville three times in one season has to be tough.

The defending champion Kahoks lost only three games during the campaign, and Belleville was on the important end of 56-44, 69-66, and 71-61 decisions.

The Maroons sport excellent size and can rebound with the best. They fired up 105 shots in the sectional title game.

Key man is All-Stater Joe Wiley, a jumping-jack 6-3 senior. Wiley is averaging 25 points and 13 rebounds per game.

Coach Jerry Turner also starts 6-5 Sid Clemans and 6-6 Bill Snellings under the basket. Johnny Greenwood (5-9) and Jim Martin (6-5) are the guards.

Belleville favors an aggressive man-to-man defense and likes to clamp it on around midcourt.

Turner is in his last year as head coach, and Belleville may be in its final season as a Southern Illinois power — for a few years anyway. The school will split next fall.

Balance and teamwork — that's the story of Joliet Central.

"We fell into a bad slump at the end of the regular season," head coach Ed Woods points out, "but have been coming fast. We don't have that outstanding individual but everyone has been helping out."

One of the little guys at Joliet, 5-9 guard Al Crusoe, is the top scorer. He's averaging around 15 points per game. Forwards Bill Arrington and John Tolle are also scoring in double figures.

This is Joliet's first state tournament appearance since they captured the title in 1937.

Nobody expected Joliet to advance this far but after that win over highly regarded Pekin, anything can happen in Champaign.

Frisk's Pick: This is the end of the line for surprising Joliet. Belleville had more trouble than anticipated with a young and small Lawrenceville team but should eliminate Joliet Central. Give this one to Wiley and Company, 71-59.

GALESBURG VS. BENTON
2:45 P.M. FRIDAY

Galesburg brings an explosive attack into the 1966 tourney.

The Silver Streaks are averaging 80 points per game against a formidable schedule, three times soaring past the 100 mark.

All-Stater Dale Kelley ranks as one of the finest guards in Illinois, and he'll bring a 27.0 average to Champaign. He had 52 against Rock Island in a performance that prompted the Rocks' coach Bob Riley to comment:

"If I hadn't thought it would have looked ridiculous I would have gotten up and cheered myself when Kelley went out that night."

Kelley also leads the team in assists and is second in rebounding.

But Kelley isn't the whole show. Coach John Thiel has an able supporting cast for his All-Stater in 6-4 junior Terry Childers, 6-3 senior Barry Swanson, 6-3 senior Bob Jasperson, and 5-9 soph Rollie McDougald.

Galesburg has lost only two games and they came back-to-back to Marshall of Chicago (73-62) and Quincy (69-61). That's when Thiel moved the swift McDougald into the starting lineup. The Streaks haven't lost since, rolling up 19 straight wins.

Benton, ranked No. 1 in Illinois, is only three victories away from being listed as one of six teams in history to finish unbeaten with a state championship. The Rangers stand 31-0 today.

"This is an unusual team," says head coach Rich Herrin. "We don't overpower anyone. It's just a bunch of good boys who get the job done.

"Our weakest item is lack of great physical strength."

Benton has the size with 6-7 junior Rich Yunkus (22.4 ppg) and 6-5 Jim Atkins (20.4 ppg) under the basket, but both boys are on the slender side.

Rounding out the starting alignment are 6-0 Dave Woodland, averaging a shade better than 10 per game; 5-11 Terry Heard, a sharp ball-handler; and 5-11 Ken Payne, noted for his slick feeding.

"We expected to be pretty good at the start of the season," Herrin admits, "but not this good. We went through a 14-13 season last winter."

Benton's pressure defense has held opponents to an average of 55 points. The Rangers are shooting better than .490 from the field this year.

Frisk's Pick: A great first round attraction. Both clubs had scares in Super-Sectional action. Benton has the size. Galesburg has the speed and Kelley. The Rangers from Benton advance into the semifinals but not without an argument. Call it Benton, 73-70.

NEW TRIER VS. THORNTON
7:30 P.M. FRIDAY

Thornton was fourth in the state finals last winter and has been ranked among the elite in Illinois throughout the 1965-66 campaign.

The Wildcats were labeled "a year away" when they finished fourth. This is the year they were waiting for.

Thornton lost regular Rich Halbert with an injury before the regional but still breezed to Super-Sectional status, taking apart state-rated Bradley by 24 points and DeLaSalle by 17.

Bob Landowski and soph Hershell Lewis (6-2) have filled in for Halbert.

Jim Ard, a 6-8 senior, handles the center position and has turned in some strong performances. He scores around 17 per game and is a ferocious rebounder.

Paul Gilliam, a 6-5 forward, and 6-1 guard Lamarr Thomas average nearly 15 a game and Thomas is labeled the key to the Wildcat attack.

An All-Stater in football and basketball, Thomas is labeled one of the top defensive players in the state. He's started to boost his point production since Halbert left the lineup.

Rich Rateree, a slick six-foot guard, rounds out the

TV Coverage Set For State Finals

When the Illinois high school basketball competition leaps into the sports limelight on March 19, Illinois Bell Telephone will sponsor state tournament TV coverage for the 15th straight year.

More than 2½ million viewers will watch the semifinal and final games of the 59th annual state tournament held in the 16,000-seat Assembly Hall of the University of Illinois, Champaign.

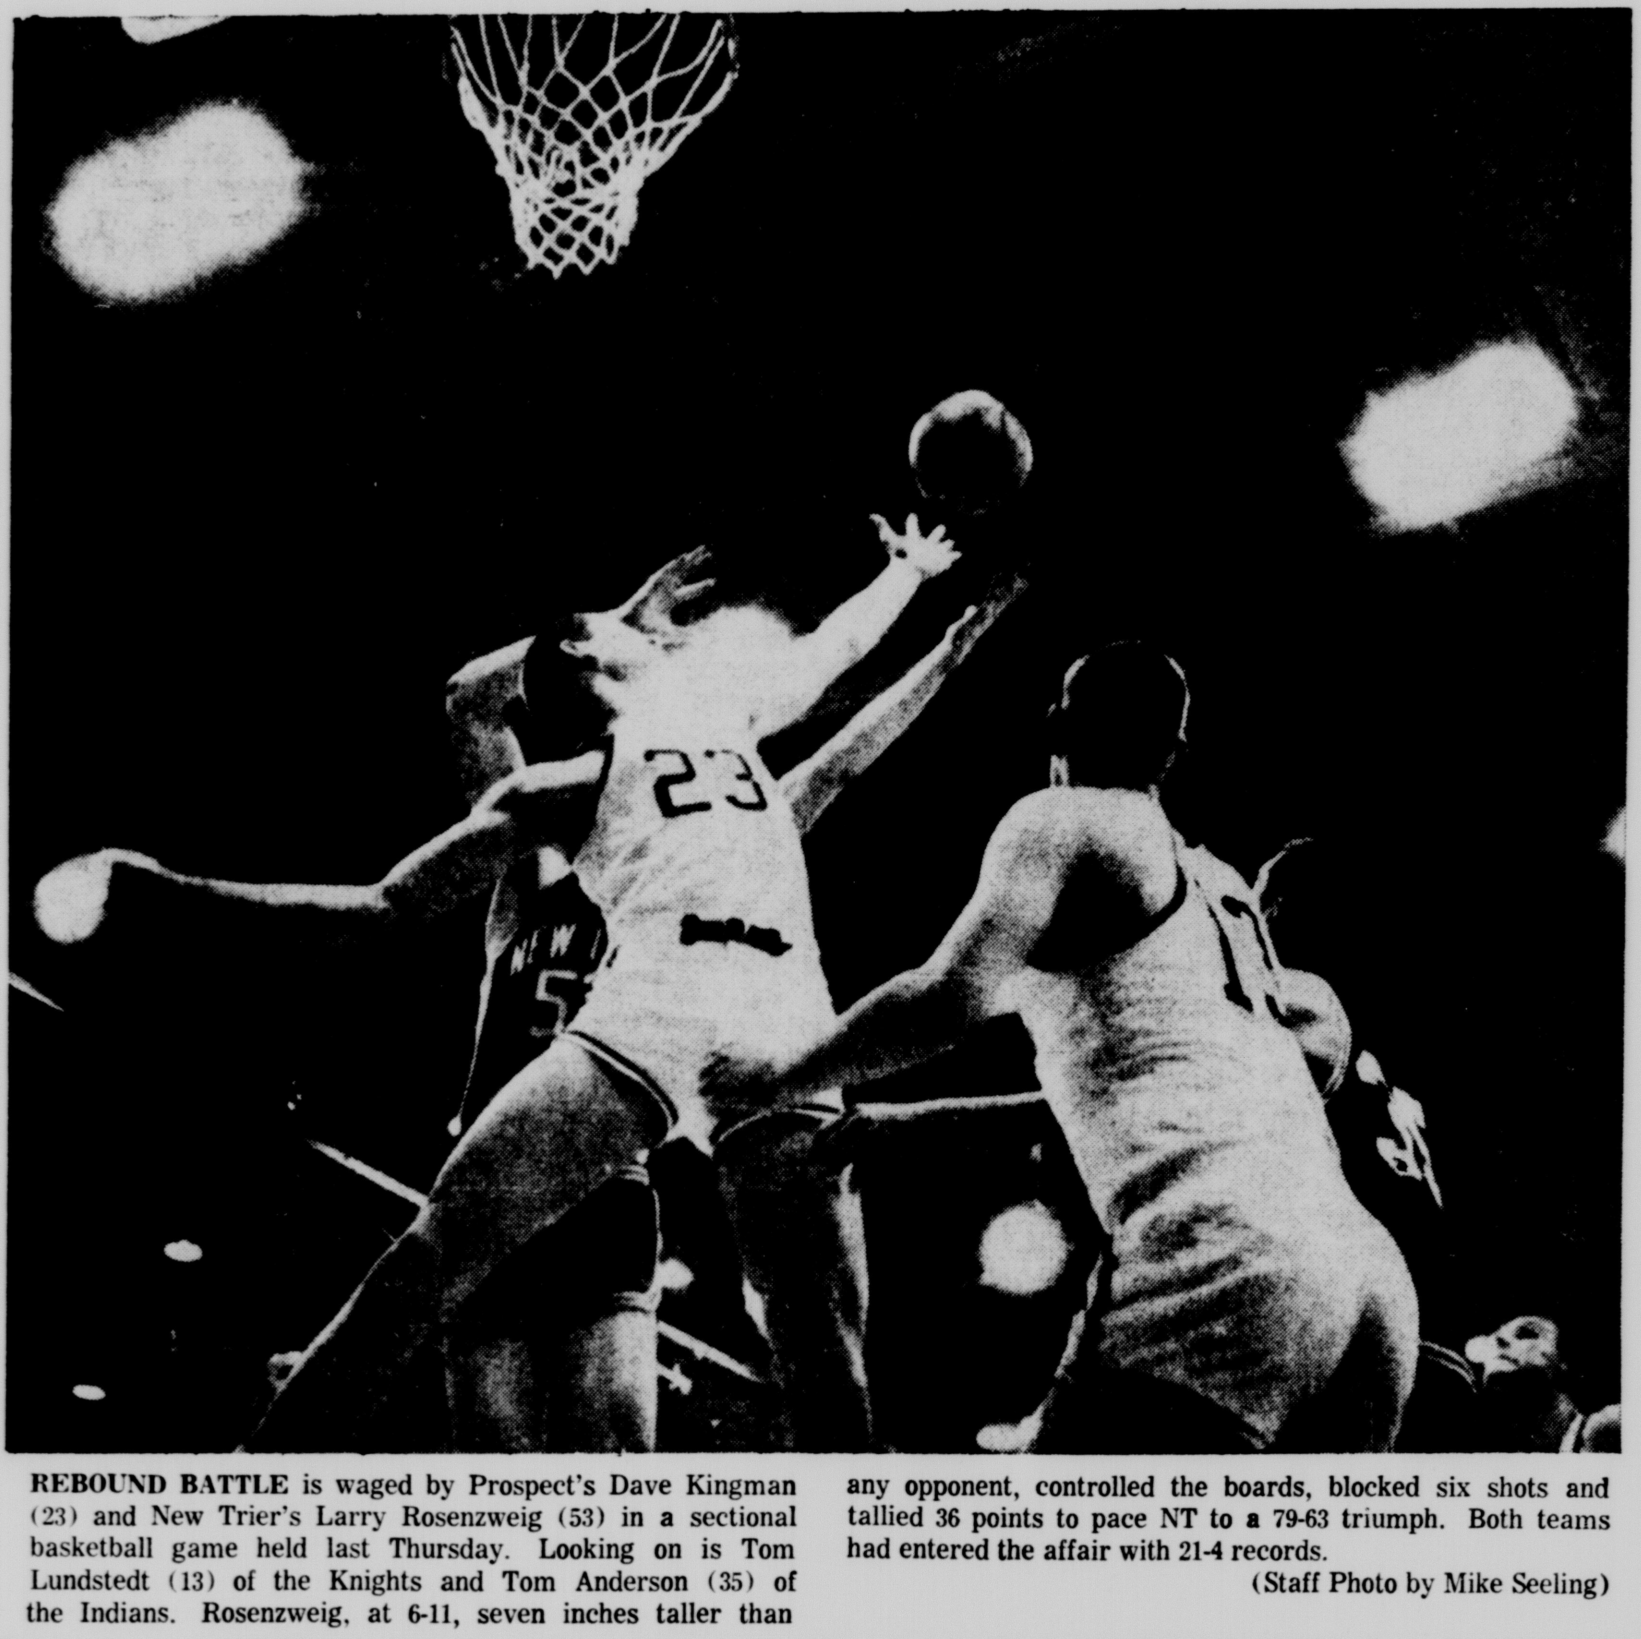
A 13-station network, including WGN-TV (Channel 9), will carry the Saturday telecasts at noon and 7 p.m.

Eight teams will compete in the quarter finals on Friday, March 18. These contests also will be carried on the TV network (Western Electric is sponsor) at 7 p.m.

A trio of sports announcers will be anchored by CBS veteran Jack Drees, play-by-play announcer for St. Louis Cardinals National Football League games, who has covered every IHSA tournament telecast except one (1963). Returning for his second year will be WGN-TV's Vince Lloyd, radio "voice" of the Chicago Cubs.

A newcomer to the tournament, Bob Starr of WMBD-TV, Peoria, has had several years experience calling both high school and college basketball — including radio coverage of the IHSA tournament.

Returning as program host for the second year is TV personality Ed McMahon of the Johnny Carson "Tonight Show."



REBOUND BATTLE is waged by Prospect's Dave Kingman (23) and New Trier's Larry Rosenzweig (53) in a sectional basketball game held last Thursday. Looking on is Tom Lundstedt (13) of the Knights and Tom Anderson (35) of the Indians. Rosenzweig, at 6-11, seven inches taller than any opponent, controlled the boards, blocked six shots and tallied 36 points to pace NT to a 79-63 triumph. Both teams had entered the affair with 21-4 records.

Proviso East Gymnasts Top State Meet; Arlington Third

by BOB FRISK

Just how good are the high school gymnasts in Illinois?

"When you score a 160 and still finish tenth in an event you're know you're in some pretty fast company," was the way one coach evaluated the 1966 state finals staged last weekend at Willowbrook.

A booming prep sport that's getting bigger and stronger every year added another spectacular chapter last Friday and Saturday as Proviso East of the Suburban League slipped by host Willowbrook for the coveted team championship.

The Pirates, second in the 1965 headliner, scored 55 points for a two-point margin over runnerup Willowbrook.

COACH TOM Walthouse's Arlington team climbed from fifth place in 1965 to third place last weekend, collecting 46½ points in the two-day meet. Niles West was fourth with 36 and defending champion Evanston fifth with 33.

Those same five schools landed the top five positions in the '65 meet at Prospect High School.

The calibre of competition at Willowbrook is best illustrated in the horizontal bar event where Gary Goodman of New Trier East turned in a superb 160 routine (80-80) and still finished tenth.

Top Ten . . .

Proviso East	55
Willowbrook	53
Arlington	46½
Niles West	36
Evanston	33
Niles North	25
Prospect	19½
Barrington	18
Maine East	16
Glenbard East	14

FOR THE SECOND straight year Richard Swetman of Proviso East was the individual standout.

Swetman, who took three state firsts as a junior, collected two firsts, a second, and an eighth last weekend at Willowbrook in leading the Pirates to the state crown. He won the parallel bars with a 178 routine, topped the all-around with a 616 total, took second on the high bar with a 179, and eighth on the side horse with a 145.

Other state champions for 1966 were Robert Wagner of Barrington on the side horse (178), Richard Scorza of Willowbrook on the horizontal bar (184), Barry Slotten of Niles East in tumbling (181), Richard Crim of Evanston on the trampoline (173), and Steve Rochell of Niles West on the still rings (182).

Strong Field In Track Test

Host Evanston Favored; Events Scheduled Friday

by Bob Frisk

Indoor track in Illinois is roaring down the home stretch. The outdoor season is only two weeks away for most high schools.

Schoolboy track and field buffs can look forward to a spectacular finish to the indoor campaign as some of the state's finest competitors display their talents in major attractions.

Twelve high schools, including Prospect and Arlington from the Paddock area, will assemble at Evanston Friday evening for the popular Evanston Relays, a challenging test of track skills which annually brings together a rugged alignment.

Preliminaries will begin at 6:30 p.m. with the final scheduled for 7:30 p.m.

Joining the host Wildkits and the two Paddock area entries will be New Trier, Waukegan, Highland Park, Niles East, Morton East, Proviso East, Glenbrook North, Maine West, and Maine East.

EVANSTON IS an overwhelming favorite to repeat as Relays champion, and head coach Bob Trevarthen admits his Wildkits are strong again.

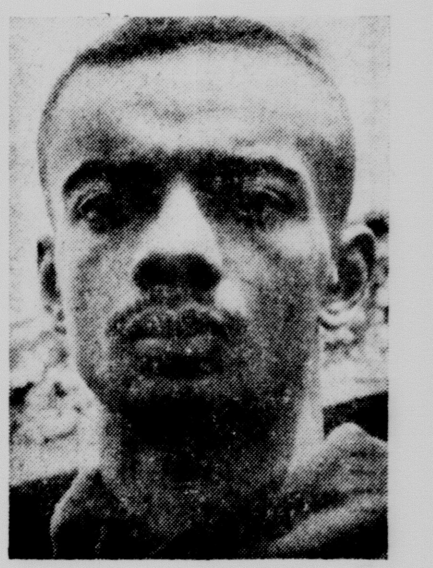
"Our main competition should come from New Trier and Proviso East," says the coach of the defending state track champs.

PACING the powerful Evanston contingent is Roy Houston, a state champ in two events who also earned all-conference recognition in basketball during this past seasin.

Houston took the Suburban League indoor broad jump last weekend with a leap of 21-9¼ but has approached 24 feet in his prep career. He also will be a key man on the Wildkits' mile relay Friday as he authored a :48.7 quarter-mile as a junior.

Houston will be one of three track All-Staters in the field Friday. Jesse Sibert, another talented Evanston performer, earned All-State honors last spring in the broad jump and high jump. The Wildkits' Steve Campbell was fourth in the state high jump in 1965 and was also named to Paddock Publications' All-State squad.

PROSPECT AND Arlington aren't expected to make much noise at Evanston Friday. A throat infection should keep Prospect's top entry, distance man Jack Pollard, on the sidelines, and Arlington has its strength in an event loaded with class.



ROY HOUSTON
Evanston Flash

Senior Bob Yeazel, who turned in a 4:30.8 mile run in a slow heat at the West Suburban Conference indoor, will work in the mile at Evanston but will meet a formidable field.

Ken Ward of Proviso East fashioned a 4:24.5 in the Suburban League indoor and will be favored in the Relays. In addition to Ward, there will be four other Suburban League milers in the alignment who bettered 4:30 in the conference.

ARLINGTON'S Yeazel will need a strong effort to score in the mile, but he's capable if he can work in the fast heat.

Sprinter Steve Ewart of Arlington claimed a third in the 50 yard dash at the 1965 Evanston Relays and could be heard from again Friday.

Prospect has hurdler Vaughn Pederson, who has six wins in the indoor campaign in both the highs and lows. Pole vaulter Phil Cordina and broad jumper Leroy Rateike also have been impressive in indoor duals.

Five relays and eight individual events will be held in the Evanston Relays. There will be awards given in the varsity two mile relay, varsity mile relay, sophomore mile, freshman four-lap, and varsity four-lap.

Individual champs will be crowned in the high and low hurdles, 50 yard dash, mile, broad jump, high jump, pole vault, and shot put.

Thornton lost regular Rich Halbert with an injury before the regional but still breezed to Super-Sectional status, taking apart state-rated Bradley by 24 points and DeLaSalle by 17.

Bob Landowski and soph Hershell Lewis (6-2) have filled in for Halbert.

Jim Ard, a 6-8 senior, handles the center position and has turned in some strong performances. He scores around 17 per game and is a ferocious rebounder.

Paul Gilliam, a 6-5 forward, and 6-1 guard Lamarr Thomas average nearly 15 a game and Thomas is labeled the key to the Wildcat attack.

An All-Stater in football and basketball, Thomas is labeled one of the top defensive players in the state. He's started to boost his point production since Halbert left the lineup.

TV Coverage Set For State Finals

When the Illinois high school basketball competition leaps into the sports limelight on March 19, Illinois Bell Telephone will sponsor state tournament TV coverage for the 15th straight year.

More than 2½ million viewers will watch the semifinal and final games of the 59th annual state tournament held in the 16,000-seat Assembly Hall of the University of Illinois, Champaign.

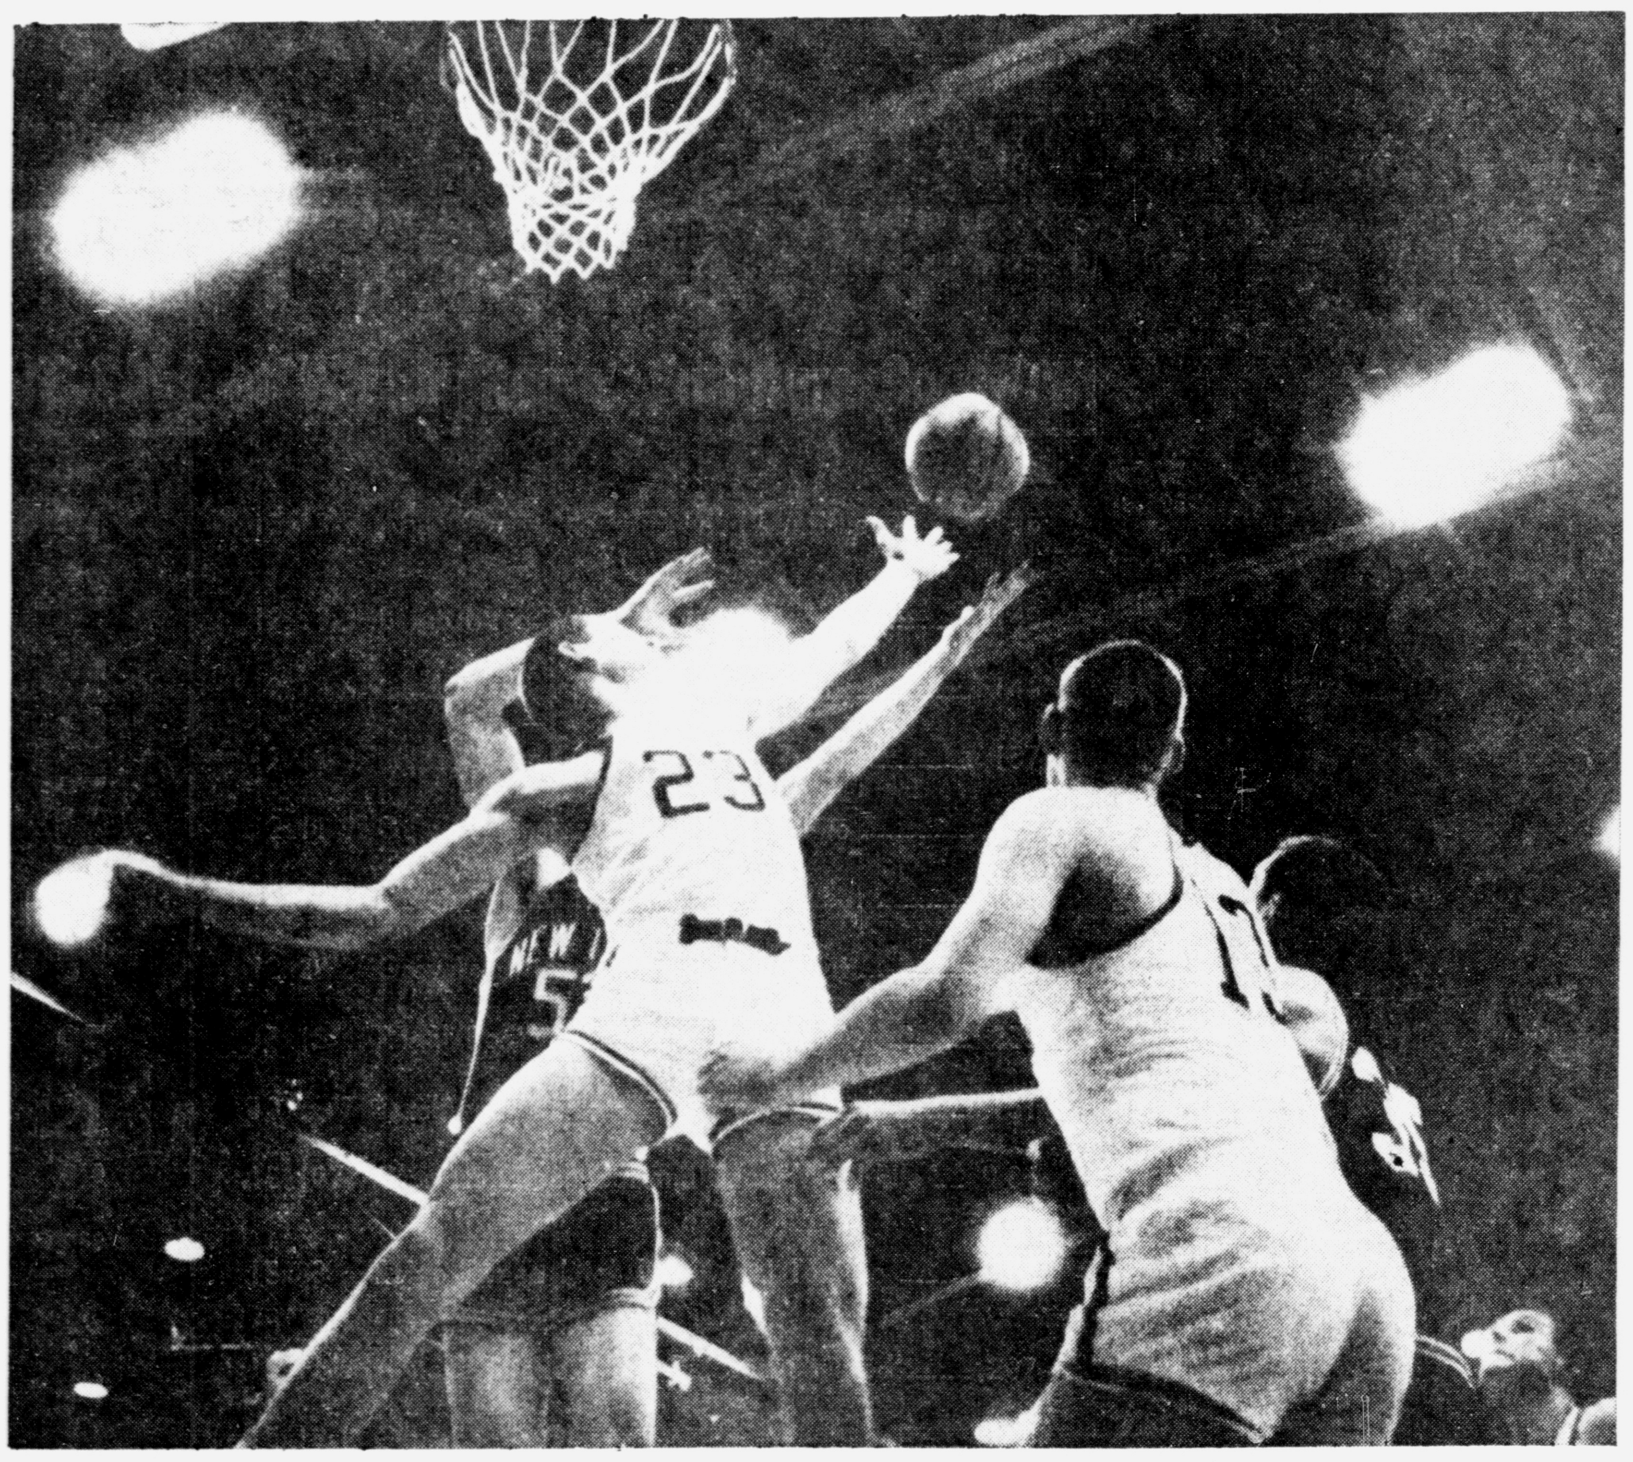
A 13-station network, including WGN-TV (Channel 9), will carry the Saturday telecasts at noon and 7 p.m.

Eight teams will compete in the quarter finals on Friday, March 18. These contests also will be carried on the TV network (Western Electric is sponsor) at 7 p.m.

A trio of sports announcers will be anchored by CBS veteran Jack Drees, play-by-play announcer for St. Louis Cardinals National Football League games, who has covered every IHSA tournament telecast except one (1963). Returning for his second year will be WGN-TV's Vince Lloyd, radio "voice" of the Chicago Cubs.

A newcomer to the tournament, Bob Starr of WMBD-TV, Peoria, has had several years experience calling both high school and college basketball — including radio coverage of the IHSA tournament.

Returning as program host for the second year is TV personality Ed McMahon of the Johnny Carson "Tonight Show."



REBOUND BATTLE is waged by Prospect's Dave Kingman (23) and New Trier's Larry Rosenzweig (53) in a sectional basketball game held last Thursday. Looking on is Tom Lundstedt (13) of the Knights and Tom Anderson (35) of the Indians. Rosenzweig, at 6-11, seven inches taller than any opponent, controlled the boards, blocked six shots and tallied 36 points to pace NT to a 79-63 triumph. Both teams had entered the affair with 21-4 records.

Proviso East Gymnasts Top State Meet; Arlington Third

by BOB FRISK

Just how good are the high school gymnasts in Illinois?

"When you score a 160 and still finish tenth in an event you're know you're in some pretty fast company," was the way one coach evaluated the 1966 state finals staged last weekend at Willowbrook.

A booming prep sport that's getting bigger and stronger every year added another spectacular chapter last Friday and Saturday as Proviso East of the Suburban League slipped by host Willowbrook for the coveted team championship.

The Pirates, second in the 1965 headliner, scored 55 points for a two-point margin over runnerup Willowbrook.

COACH TOM Walthouse's Arlington team climbed from fifth place in 1965 to third place last weekend, collecting 46½ points in the two-day meet. Niles West was fourth with 36 and defending champion Evanston fifth with 33.

Those same five schools landed the top five positions in the '65 meet at Prospect High School.

The calibre of competition at Willowbrook is best illustrated in the horizontal bar event where Gary Goodman of New Trier East turned in a superb 160 routine (80-80) and still finished tenth.

Top Ten . . .

Proviso East	55
Willowbrook	53
Arlington	46½
Niles West	36
Evanston	33
Niles North	25
Prospect	19½
Barrington	18
Maine East	16
Glenbard East	14

FOR THE SECOND straight year Richard Swetman of Proviso East was the individual standout.

Swetman, who took three state firsts as a junior, collected two firsts, a second, and an eighth last weekend at Willowbrook in leading the Pirates to the state crown. He won the parallel bars with a 178 routine, topped the all-around with a 616 total, took second on the high bar with a 179, and eighth on the side horse with a 145.

Other state champions for 1966 were Robert Wagner of Barrington on the side horse (178), Richard Scorza of Willowbrook on the horizontal bar (184), Barry Slotten of Niles East in tumbling (181), Richard Crim of Evanston on the trampoline (173), and Steve Rochell of Niles West on the still rings (182).

Strong Field In Track Test

Host Evanston Favored; Events Scheduled Friday

by Bob Frisk

Indoor track in Illinois is roaring down the home stretch. The outdoor season is only two weeks away for most high schools.

Schoolboy track and field buffs can look forward to a spectacular finish to the indoor campaign as some of the state's finest competitors display their talents in major attractions.

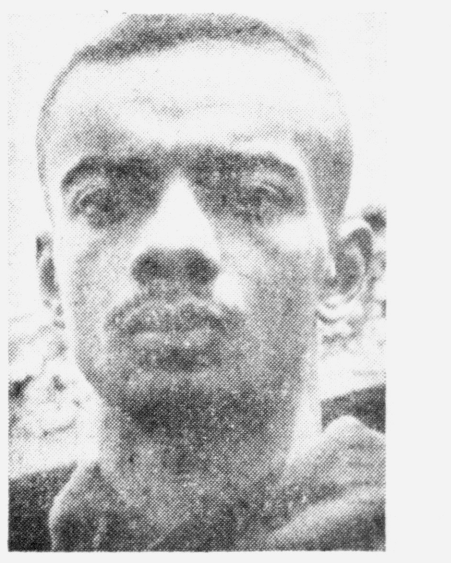
Twelve high schools, including Prospect and Arlington from the Paddock area, will assemble at Evanston Friday evening for the popular Evanston Relays, a challenging test of track skills which annually brings together a rugged alignment.

Preliminaries will begin at 6:30 p.m. with the final scheduled for 7:30 p.m.

Joining the host Wildkits and the two Paddock area entries will be New Trier, Waukegan, Highland Park, Niles East, Morton East, Proviso East, Glenbrook North, Maine West, and Maine East.

EVANSTON IS an overwhelming favorite to repeat as Relays champion, and head coach Bob Trevarthen admits his Wildkits are strong again.

"Our main competition should come from New Trier and Proviso East," says the coach of the defending state track champs.



ROY HOUSTON
Evanston Flash

PACING the powerful Evanston contingent is Roy Houston, a state champ in two events who also earned all-conference recognition in basketball during this past seasin.

Houston took the Suburban League indoor broad jump last weekend with a leap of 21-9¼ but has approached 24 feet in his prep career. He also will be a key man on the Wildkits' mile relay Friday as he authored a :48.7 quarter-mile as a junior.

Houston will be one of three track All-Staters in the field Friday. Jesse Sibert, another talented Evanston performer, earned All-State honors last spring in the broad jump and high jump. The Wildkits' Steve Campbell was fourth in the state high jump in 1965 and was also named to Paddock Publications' All-State squad.

PROSPECT AND Arlington aren't expected to make much noise at Evanston Friday. A throat infection should keep Prospect's top entry, distance man Jack Pollard, on the sidelines, and Arlington has its strength in an event loaded with class.

Senior Bob Yeazel, who turned in a 4:30.8 mile run in a slow heat at the West Suburban Conference indoor, will work in the mile at Evanston but will meet a formidable field.

Ken Ward of Proviso East fashioned a 4:24.5 in the Suburban League indoor and will be favored in the Relays. In addition to Ward, there will be four other Suburban League milers in the alignment who bettered 4:30 in the conference.

ARLINGTON'S Yeazel will need a strong effort to score in the mile, but he's capable if he can work in the fast heat.

Sprinter Steve Ewart of Arlington claimed a third in the 50 yard dash at the 1965 Evanston Relays and could be heard from again Friday.

Prospect has hurdler Vaughn Pederson, who has six wins in the indoor campaign in both the highs and lows. Pole vaulter Phil Cordina and broad jumper Leroy Rateike also have been impressive in indoor duals.

Five relays and eight individual events will be held in the Evanston Relays. There will be awards given in the varsity two mile relay, varsity mile relay, sophomore mile, freshman four-lap, and varsity four-lap.

Individual champs will be crowned in the high and low hurdles, 50 yard dash, mile, broad jump, high jump, pole vault, and shot put.

NINE POINTS WERE registered for Forest View in last weekend's state gymnastics meet. Those markers represented the first scoring by any FV gymnast in all-Illinois competition. That tally was racked up by Dave Hippensteel. A Falcon's senior, Hippensteel gathered 11 wins in 13 meets during the dual season on his specialty, the trampoline. He followed up by receiving a 76-84-160 total and second place on the tramp in the Mid-Suburban League meet. Though he slipped to a 126 in the district, Hippensteel's rating was good enough for ninth place and a berth in state competition. Against the best in Illinois, Hippensteel was judged at 171 which gave him second on the trampoline and Forest View its initial state gym meet points. (Staff Photo by Mike Seeling)

New Arlington Mat Coach

NCAA Champ Started Myers in Wrestling

By BOB FRISK

It took a national champion to get Bill Myers interested in wrestling, and Myers is happy today he was encouraged to try the sport that first time.

"I was more interested in basketball, but Larry TenPas, a national champion at the University of Illinois, was practice teaching at our high school, and he got me involved in wrestling," recalls Myers who last week was named head mat coach at Arlington High School.

Myers, 27, has been prominent in mat circles since his junior year at Urbana (Ill.) High School, and his promotion to the head job at Arlington comes in his second year at the District 214 school.

MYERS REPLACES Julius Fliehler who is stepping down to devote more time to his teaching assignment.

"I'm naturally very happy to take the head wrestling position at Arlington," Myers said, "but the coaching profession is losing an excellent man in Julie Fliehler. I learned a lot from him, and it's too bad a coach of his calibre, someone who has been so dedicated, has to be away from the sport."

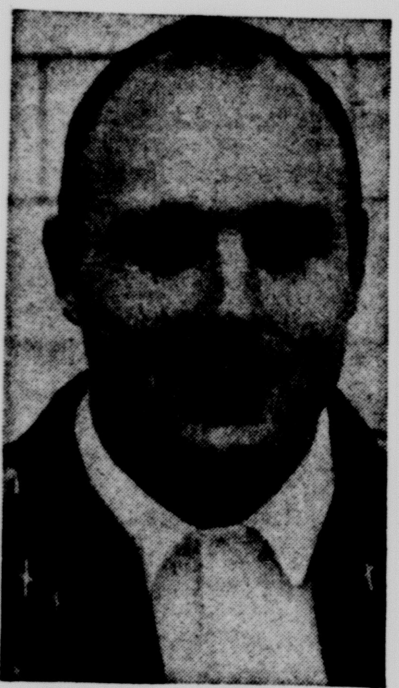
Myers, who lives in Arlington Heights with his wife Sherry, admits that basketball was "his sport" in the winter until TenPas, an NCAA champ at 157 pounds, encouraged him to try wrestling as a junior at Urbana High School.

"I WRESTLED anywhere from 127 to 145 pounds as a junior," Myers remembers, "and worked at both 133 and 138 as a senior."

Myers was undefeated as a senior until the state championship bout at 133 pounds. He finished with a 21-1 record under Urbana coach Oscar Adams.

After a stint in the Marine Corps Myers, who had been contacted by many colleges, decided to attend Eastern Illinois University. Eastern coaches were never sorry as Myers won eight varsity letters, four each in football and wrestling.

HE WAS A regular offensive end in football for four years, and he wrestled at both 147 and 157 pounds. He showed a fourth, two thirds, and a second in the Interstate Intercollegiate Athletic Conference for his four years of varsity wrestling.



JULIUS FLIEHLER
Stepping Down

Myers also participated in four Central AAU mat tournaments during his collegiate days, landing a first (as a junior at 157), second, and two thirds.

The new Arlington coach was sixth in the NAIA (small college) finals as a sophomore at Eastern. He qualified for the national tournament for four straight years.

Myers did his graduate work at Eastern and assisted in coaching the football and wrestling teams.

Bill came to Arlington two years ago and has served as an assistant in football, wrestling, and track.

MYERS IS enthusiastic about the future of wrestling at Arlington and hopes to develop a program with grade school boys, building up the sport at this level.

"Every boy has a natural ability to wrestle," Myers points out. "Naturally, we have to polish his moves, but the ability is there to begin with."

Proviso Victor

Scorza added a second in the all-around to his high bar crown.

Wheeling and Forest View crashed into the point column in state gymnastics for the first time in history. Jim Bowker gave the Wildcats their first points with a sparkling 174 routine and second place on the still rings. Dave Hippensteel became the first Falcon to score when he nailed down runnerup honors on the trampoline with a 171 routine.

BRUCE COLE of Prospect had two 84 cards for a second place showing on the side horse.

Arlington's top efforts were thirds by versatile Jim Johannesen on the horizontal bar (177) and Roy Rettburg on the still rings (172).

Johannesen paced the Cards to their third place team slot by scoring 19½ individual markers. Jim was third on the high bar, in a tie for fourth on the parallel bars, and sixth in the rugged all-round.

BERT SCHMITT, another senior, scored 12½ points for Arlington. He tied for fourth on the high bar, placed sixth on the parallel bars, and tenth in the all-around. Only a slip on the side horse kept Schmitt from climbing up in all-around ranks.

"You can usually count on around a 130 on the horse for Bert," Arlington coach Walthouse explained, "but he slipped for the first time and had only a 63. You can see where those extra points would have put him."

Rettburg's third on the rings, Doug Dattilo's eighth on the rings, and Tom Riesing's tie for seventh on the trampoline gave the Cardinals their other markers.

"Riesing hit as well as he has all year," Walthouse said. "Schmitt had his best ever mark on the high bar, and one miss knocked Dattilo down on the rings."

IN ADDITION to Cole, two other boys scored for Rick Farris' Prospect team that collected 19½ points in a seventh place finish.

Rick Carr just missed the trampoline title and still had to settle for third place. Carr had a 170 routine (three judges caught him at 85), and the winner had a 173.

Richard Burger gave the Knights two and one-half points with an eighth place tie in tumbling. Burger had a 141 routine although one judge scored him at 76.

SCORZA WAS THE individual pace-setter for runnerup Willowbrook but other Warriors also turned in sparkling performances.

The host school showed its most strength in tumbling when they passed Arlington in the team standings with a 21-point explosion. Jerry Bonney was third, Raymond Jauch was fourth, and Adrew Stein was fifth for Willowbrook in tumbling.

Scorza was third on the parallel bars, and Stein was ninth on the tramp.

Pancake Day Plans Nearing Completion

Preparations for the Arlington Heights Boys Baseball League annual Aunt Jemima Pancake Day are in full swing as committee members put the finishing touches on plans for making the 1966 event the best ever.

The league exepcts to host over 7500 diners at the Arlington High School cafeteria on Saturday, April 16. Through breakfast, starting at 7:30 a.m. and into late dinner until 7 p.m., a full schedule of continuous entertainment will be provided, interrupted only by drawings for door prizes.

Boys interested in obtaining additional tickets, priced at $1.00, are asked to contact Clyde Gardner at 13 N. Donald. In addition to the trip to a major league ball game for all twenty-ticket sellers, boys selling the greatest number of tickets will be awarded baseball equipment prizes.

A crew of 270 volunteers will assist in Pancake Day headed by the following committee: Chairman — Maurice Loeffel; Recruitment — Ann Hull; Program Book — Anthony Sulla, Jerry McGuire; Tickets—Clyde Gardner; Entertainment — Rueben Cordova, Ed Davies; Food Preparation — Jack Coulter; Food Serving — Ed Schavitz; Publicity — George Elsberg; Procurement — John Hogan, Jim Colloton; Prizes — Joe Vonckx; Electrician — Joe Koenig.

Wheeling's Frosh Win One Contest

Second place in the consolation bracket was gained by Wheeling's freshman entry in a Barrington basketball tournament held last week.

To open the tourney the Wildcats suffered a 61-58 overtime setback at the hands of Crystal Lake. They came back to whip the host Broncos 50-27 to advance to the consolation finals. In that last affair Palatine nipped the 'Cats 45-43.

Wheeling frosh cagers closed their season with a 9-7 over-all record. (No details of tournament games were made available at press time.

A FIRST AT WHEELING High School was scored by Jim Bowker when he placed second in the still rings event at the state gymnastics finals last Saturday at Willowbrook. Bowker was the first Wildcat in school history to score in the state gym meet. Jim had a 174 routine at the state, eight points behind the winner Steve Rochell of Niles West.

BRUCE COLE of Prospect High School showed a fine 163 routine and finished second in the side horse competition at the 1966 state finals last Saturday evening. Robert Wagner of Barrington topped the side horse alignment with a 178 score. Cole was the top finisher for a Prospect team that placed seventh in the over-all team standings.

State Cage Preview

(Cont. from Preceding Page) Wildcat alignment. He's also scoring in double figures on this club which has averaged close to 80 points per game.

New Trier, the tallest team in the state tourney field, stamped itself as a definite title contender with that victory in the Super-Sectional.

Coach John Schneiter is trying for a rare double — coaching state champions at two schools. He directed Decatur to the top in 1962.

College scouts love this New Trier team because the Indian star is a 6-11 senior who should make some recruiter and college coach extremely happy in the months ahead.

Larry Rosenzweig is averaging 26 points and 15 rebounds per game. He keeps improving as he works against special defenses.

"A year has made a world of difference with Rosey," Schneiter points out. "He's stronger, more physically mature and a much better shot."

The Indians have exceptional size in Rosenzweig, 6-6 Tom Bienemann, 6-3 Tom Anderson, and 6-3 John Holmes. Their big weakness has been in the ball-handling department although soph Doug Major has progressed rapidly.

New Trier can bomb from outside. Holmes, Bienemann, and Anderson are exceptional long-range shooters.

Holmes has had his problems in the lineup. He missed the Arlington Sectional because of the flu and suffered a knee injury in the fourth quarter against Marshall. They'll need him against Thornton.

Frisk's Pick: The best first round battle. Two strong clubs meet with the winner a good bet to reach the championship game. New Trier has the better big man, but Thornton is stronger in the backcourt and on defense. Give Rosenzweig an edge over Ard, equalize the opposing forwards, and give Thornton the advantage at guard. Should be a great game. We like Thornton in a 67-64 thriller.

ROCKFORD W. VS. DECATUR
9:00 P.M. FRIDAY

Alex Saudargas, who guided Rockford West to two straight state championships, has finally put another Warrior team into the state finals. And he's optimistic.

"We've responded well to pressure and have good spring and size underneath. All my starters are football players," the head man points out. "We're not big but on the boards all these kids are quick and rugged."

Three Rockford West starters are juniors, and Saudargas admits this was "supposed to be a building year."

Cal Glover, a 6-1 junior, is the top scorer for the Warriors with an 18.0 ppg standard. Phil Jones (6-3) and Jim Sallis (6-2, 200-pounds) join Glover under the basket.

Out-shooting was supposed to be Rockford's weak point, but the guards were the difference when West handled highly regarded Auburn in the regional finale, 74-63.

Jim Ambruoso (6-1, 190), who played for Rockford's American Legion baseball team against Arlington Heights in the state finals last summer, and Steve Amindon (5-11) are the Warrior guards.

Decatur is a veteran of state tournament play. The Reds have reached Sweet Sixteen status 22 times and have won four state titles, the last coming in 1962 in a shocker over Carver.

This Decatur team is not the best one of recent years, but you can't argue with a 25-5 record.

Coach Jack Kenny has a small club (two 6-3 starters), and the top scorer is 5-11 forward Rich Smith with a 14.3 standard. Terry Johnson, a 5-11 guard, is the only other Decatur starter averaging in double figures.

Decatur sustained its five losses in its first 13 games this season and has since piled up 17 straight victories.

You can never discount a Decatur team. They know what this state tourney is all about and they seem to thrive in pressure situations.

Frisk's Pick: Two former state champions square off. This one should be decided on the boards where Rockford has the muscle and the edge. Put the Warriors of Rockford into the semi-finals by a 61-55 final.

SEMI-FINALS

The first semi-final game is set for 12:15 p.m. Saturday. If our first round choices are correct, Belleville and Benton should tangle in a real crowd-pleaser. We're still impressed by any club that can knock off Collinsville three times in one season. We'll send Belleville into the title contest, 72-67. The difference is Wiley in this upset.

In the second game Saturday afternoon at 1:45 we have Thornton colliding with Rockford West. The Wildcats from Harvey should march into the state championship game with a 68-61 conquest of Rockford. If you're watching on television, look for some vicious arguments under the boards. They both like to mix it up.

THIRD PLACE

Benton, still shaken by their loss to Belleville, will have some difficulty in the 7:30 p.m. tilt Saturday but should get by Rockford. As most third place games go, it'll probably be ragged. Call it Benton, 63-56.

CHAMPIONSHIP

The big one unfolds at 8:30 p.m. Saturday. We have Belleville meeting Thornton — the South vs. the North. Thornton whipped Belleville in the Centralia holiday tourney, 66-60, but had Rich Halbert at the time. Thornton is quicker. Belleville has better over-all size. We hate to bet against the North, but we'll take Belleville, 68-65.

MYERS REPLACES Julius Fliehler who is stepping down to devote more time to his teaching assignment.

"I'm naturally very happy to take the head wrestling position at Arlington," Myers said, "but the coaching profession is losing an excellent man in Julie Fliehler. I learned a lot from him, and it's too bad a coach of his calibre, someone who has been so dedicated, has to be away from the sport."

Myers, who lives in Arlington Heights with his wife Sherry, admits that basketball was "his sport" in the winter until TenPas, an NCAA champ at 157 pounds, encouraged him to try wrestling as a junior at Urbana High School.

"I WRESTLED anywhere from 127 to 145 pounds as a junior," Myers remembers, "and worked at both 133 and 138 as a senior."

Myers was undefeated as a senior until the state championship bout at 133 pounds. He finished with a 21-1 record under Urbana coach Oscar Adams.

After a stint in the Marine Corps Myers, who had been contacted by many colleges, decided to attend Eastern Illinois University. Eastern coaches were never sorry as Myers won eight varsity letters, four each in football and wrestling.

HE WAS A regular offensive end in football for four years, and he wrestled at both 147 and 157 pounds. He showed a fourth, two thirds, and a second in the Interstate Intercollegiate Athletic Conference for his four years of varsity wrestling.

JULIUS FLIEHLER
Stepping Down

Myers also participated in four Central AAU mat tournaments during his collegiate days, landing a first (as a junior at 157), second, and two thirds.

The new Arlington coach was sixth in the NAIA (small college) finals as a sophomore at Eastern. He qualified for the national tournament for four straight years.

Myers did his graduate work at Eastern and assisted in coaching the football and wrestling teams.

Bill came to Arlington two years ago and has served as an assistant in football, wrestling, and track.

MYERS IS enthusiastic about the future of wrestling at Arlington and hopes to develop a program with grade school boys, building up the sport at this level.

"Every boy has a natural ability to wrestle," Myers points out. "Naturally, we have to polish his moves, but the ability is there to begin with."

claiming first place honors although four area boys posted runnerup positions.

Scorza added a second in the all-around to his high bar crown.

Wheeling and Forest View crashed into the point column in state gymnastics for the first time in history. Jim Bowker gave the Wildcats their first points with a sparkling 174 routine and second place on the still rings. Dave Hippensteel became the first Falcon to score when he nailed down runnerup honors on the trampoline with a 171 routine.

BRUCE COLE of Prospect had two 84 cards for a second place showing on the side horse.

Arlington's top efforts were thirds by versatile Jim Johannesen on the horizontal bar (177) and Roy Rettburg on the still rings (172).

Johannesen paced the Cards to their third place team slot by scoring 19½ individual markers. Jim was third on the high bar, in a tie for fourth on the parallel bars, and sixth in the rugged all-round.

BERT SCHMITT, another senior, scored 12½ points for Arlington. He tied for fourth on the high bar, placed sixth on the parallel bars, and tenth in the all-around. Only a slip on the side horse kept Schmitt from climbing up in all-around ranks.

"You can usually count on around a 130 on the horse for Bert," Arlington coach Walthouse explained, "but he slipped for the first time and had only a 63. You can see where those extra points would have put him."

Rettburg's third on the rings, Doug Dattilo's eighth on the rings, and Tom Riesing's tie for seventh on the trampoline gave the Cardinals their other markers.

"Riesing hit as well as he has all year," Walthouse said. "Schmitt had his best ever mark on the high bar, and one miss knocked Dattilo down on the rings."

IN ADDITION to Cole, two other boys scored for Rick Farris' Prospect team that collected 19½ points in a seventh place finish.

Rick Carr just missed the trampoline title and still had to settle for third place. Carr had a 170 routine (three judges caught him at 85), and the winner had a 173.

Richard Burger gave the Knights two and one-half points with an eighth place tie in tumbling. Burger had a 141 routine although one judge scored him at 76.

SCORZA WAS THE individual pace-setter for runnerup Willowbrook but other Warriors also turned in sparkling performances.

The host school showed its most strength in tumbling when they passed Arlington in the team standings with a 21-point explosion. Jerry Bonney was third, Raymond Jauch was fourth, and Adrew Stein was fifth for Willowbrook in tumbling.

Scorza was third on the parallel bars, and Stein was ninth on the tramp.

Pancake Day Plans Nearing Completion

Preparations for the Arlington Heights Boys Baseball League annual Aunt Jemima Pancake Day are in full swing as committee members put the finishing touches on plans for making the 1966 event the best ever.

The league exepcts to host over 7500 diners at the Arlington High School cafeteria on Saturday, April 16. Through breakfast, starting at 7:30 a.m. and into late dinner until 7 p.m., a full schedule of continuous entertainment will be provided, interrupted only by drawings for door prizes.

Boys interested in obtaining additional tickets, priced at $1.00, are asked to contact Clyde Gardner at 13 N. Donald. In addition to the trip to a major league ball game for all twenty-ticket sellers, boys selling the greatest number of tickets will be awarded baseball equipment prizes.

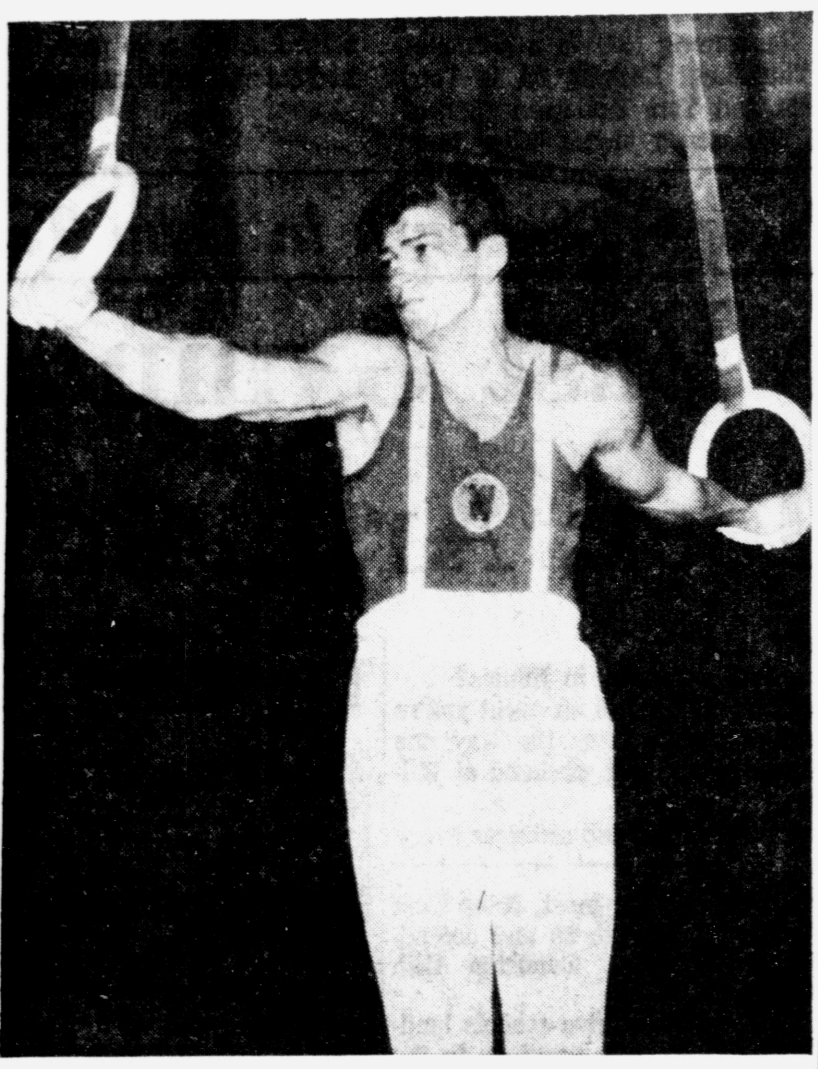
A crew of 270 volunteers will assist in Pancake Day headed by the following committee: Chairman — Maurice Loeffel; Recruitment — Ann Hull; Program Book — Anthony Sulla, Jerry McGuire; Tickets—Clyde Gardner; Entertainment — Rueben Cordova, Ed Davies; Food Preparation — Jack Coulter; Food Serving — Ed Schavitz; Publicity — George Elsberg; Procurement — John Hogan, Jim Colloton; Prizes — Joe Vonckx; Electrician — Joe Koenig.

Wheeling's Frosh Win One Contest

Second place in the consolation bracket was gained by Wheeling's freshman entry in a Barrington basketball tournament held last week.

To open the tourney the Wildcats suffered a 61-58 overtime setback at the hands of Crystal Lake. They came back to whip the host Broncos 50-27 to advance to the consolation finals. In that last affair Palatine nipped the 'Cats 45-43.

Wheeling frosh cagers closed their season with a 9-7 over-all record. (No details of tournament games were made available at press time.



A FIRST AT WHEELING High School was scored by Jim Bowker when he placed second in the still rings event at the state gymnastics finals last Saturday at Willowbrook. Bowker was the first Wildcat in school history to score in the state gym meet. Jim had a 174 routine at the state, eight points behind the winner Steve Rochell of Niles West.

BRUCE COLE of Prospect High School showed a fine 163 routine and finished second in the side horse competition at the 1966 state finals last Saturday evening. Robert Wagner of Barrington topped the side horse alignment with a 178 score. Cole was the top finisher for a Prospect team that placed seventh in the over-all team standings.

State Cage Preview

Wildcat alignment. He's also scoring in double figures on this club which has averaged close to 80 points per game.

New Trier, the tallest team in the state tourney field, stamped itself as a definite title contender with that victory in the Super-Sectional.

Coach John Schneiter is trying for a rare double — coaching state champions at two schools. He directed Decatur to the top in 1962.

College scouts love this New Trier team because the Indian star is a 6-11 senior who should make some recruiter and college coach extremely happy in the months ahead.

Larry Rosenzweig is averaging 26 points and 15 rebounds per game. He keeps improving as he works against special defenses.

"A year has made a world of difference with Rosey," Schneiter points out. "He's stronger, more physically mature and a much better shot."

The Indians have exceptional size in Rosenzweig, 6-6 Tom Bienemann, 6-3 Tom Anderson, and 6-3 John Holmes. Their big weakness has been in the ball-handling department although soph Doug Major has progressed rapidly.

New Trier can bomb from outside. Holmes, Bienemann, and Anderson are exceptional long-range shooters.

Holmes has had his problems in the lineup. He missed the Arlington Sectional because of the flu and suffered a knee injury in the fourth quarter against Marshall. They'll need him against Thornton.

Frisk's Pick: The best first round battle. Two strong clubs meet with the winner a good bet to reach the championship game. New Trier has the better big man, but Thornton is stronger in the backcourt and on defense. Give Rosenzweig an edge over Ard, equalize the opposing forwards, and give Thornton the advantage at guard. Should be a great game. We like Thornton in a 67-64 thriller.

ROCKFORD W. VS. DECATUR 9:00 P.M. FRIDAY

Alex Saudargas, who guided Rockford West to two straight state championships, has finally put another Warrior team into the state finals. And he's optimistic.

"We've responded well to pressure and have good spring and size underneath. All my starters are football players," the head man points out. "We're not big but on the boards all these kids are quick and rugged."

Three Rockford West starters are juniors, and Saudargas admits this was "supposed to be a building year."

Cal Glover, a 6-1 junior, is the top scorer for the Warriors with an 18.0 ppg standard. Phil Jones (6-3) and Jim Sallis (6-2, 200-pounds) join Glover under the basket.

Out-shooting was supposed to be Rockford's weak point, but the guards were the difference when West handled highly regarded Auburn in the regional finale, 74-63.

Jim Ambruoso (6-1, 190), who played for Rockford's American Legion baseball team against Arlington Heights in the state finals last summer, and Steve Amindon (5-11) are the Warrior guards.

Decatur is a veteran of state tournament play. The Reds have reached Sweet Sixteen status 22 times and have won four state titles, the last coming in 1962 in a shocker over Carver.

This Decatur team is not the best one of recent years, but you can't argue with a 25-5 record.

Coach Jack Kenny has a small club (two 6-3 starters), and the top scorer is 5-11 forward Rich Smith with a 14.3 standard. Terry Johnson, a 5-11 guard, is the only other Decatur starter averaging in double figures.

Decatur sustained its five losses in its first 13 games this season and has since piled up 17 straight victories.

You can never discount a Decatur team. They know what this state tourney is all about and they seem to thrive in pressure situations.

Frisk's Pick: Two former state champions square off. This one should be decided on the boards where Rockford has the muscle and the edge. Put the Warriors of Rockford into the semi-finals by a 61-55 final.

SEMI-FINALS

The first semi-final game is set for 12:15 p.m. Saturday. If our first round choices are correct, Belleville and Benton should tangle in a real crowd-pleaser. We're still impressed by any club that can knock off Collinsville three times in one season. We'll send Belleville into the title contest, 72-67. The difference is Wiley in this upset.

In the second game Saturday afternoon at 1:45 we have Thornton colliding with Rockford West. The Wildcats from Harvey should march into the state championship game with a 68-61 conquest of Rockford. If you're watching on television, look for some vicious arguments under the boards. They both like to mix it up.

THIRD PLACE

Benton, still shaken by their loss to Belleville, will have some difficulty in the 7:30 p.m. tilt Saturday but should get by Rockford. As most third place games go, it'll probably be ragged. Call it Benton, 63-56.

CHAMPIONSHIP

The big one unfolds at 8:30 p.m. Saturday. We have Belleville meeting Thornton — the South vs. the North. Thornton whipped Belleville in the Centralia holiday tourney, 66-60, but had Rich Halbert at the time. Thornton is quicker. Belleville has better over-all size. We hate to bet against the North, but we'll take Belleville, 68-65.

Falcon Cagers Have Best Campaign Ever

by MICHAEL HESS

KEN ARNESON
Best FV Season

Up and down, up and down—that was the cage year at Forest View.

Recently completed Falcons '65-'66 basketball is best described as mercurial. But, rising and falling, FV still had a banner campaign.

Forest View compiled a 16-7 mark during the past season. That, the best standard in school history, was only one of six records set by this year's quintet.

Coach Ken Arneson's hoop entry tallied 1,311 points in 23 games, an average of 57 per outing, both tops for any Falcons five. FV used those points to tie for the Mid-Suburban League title, at 9-1, and take second in Danville's Holiday Tournament.

Individual marks were established by Pat Dunnigan and Jim Baumgardt.

DUNNIGAN put in 382 points during his senior year and, combined with 232 as a soph and 248 as a junior, he set a career record of 862 points. The 6-2 forward's 11 field goals in a contest against Deerfield is also a new standard.

Baumgardt set the Forest View field goal accuracy standard. He hit 74 of 148 attempts from the floor for an even 50 per cent. A 6-6 center, Baumgardt also holds records for most points in a single game, 33, most rebounds in a single game, 23, and single season, 250. His 265 points this year give him a career total of 438.

Forest View began the cage season, back in November, on the up-swing. Despite injuries which kept Baumgardt and senior guard Bill Widinski on the sidelines, the Falcons topped Proviso West, Elgin and Deerfield to start the campaign.

Then the sick list began to take its toll.

WIDINSKI, a much counted on letterman, ended up playing in parts of only two games during the whole season. It took Baumgardt, who missed five contests, half the season to fully recover. FV went down under assults by Glenbrook South, West Leyden and Glenbrook North to have its record evened at 3-3.

After a 63-47 beating of Niles West Forest View journeyed to the Danville Holiday Tournament and in quick succession stopped Naperville, DuQuoin and Farragut to reach the finals. Having risen that far, the Falcons fell before a tough Danville-Schlarman unit 52-35.

Arneson's crew faltered down a step further by losing to Maine South before the Mid-Suburban schedule started.

Initial M-SL encounters found FV slipping by Maine West 51-48 and pounding Wheeling 66-42. The triumph over Maine was the first ever for Forest View in battles with MW. An early showdown with Prospect followed but the Knights, behind 15-14 after one quarter, eventually beat the Falcons 66-57.

Forest View then swung into high gear. Victories over Palane, Conant, Maine West (57-45), and Wheeling were picked up rather easily. Next step on the conference trail was the season's second against Prospect.

THE FALCONS took an early 15-11 lead over the Knights. With Baumgardt controling the boards, pouring in 21 points and doing a standout job on defense, FV held that slim margin and won 57-54. Byron Borgardt added 12 and Dunnigan 11 points to the outcome which tied Forest View at the top of M-SL standings.

To stay even at the top, the Falcons ended regular season competition by clipping Palatine, 54-49, and Conant, 66-60. Dunnigan, at his best, scored 38 points and took 23 rebounds in those crucial affairs while Baumgardt had 36 points and 18 rebounds.

At that juncture Arneson had directed his quintet to seven straight wins. But then came a tumble to the depths and season's end.

In opening regional battle, Forest View was challenged by Maine West, already twice beaten by the Falcons. MW got 30 points from Ken Mueller, FV hit only 29 per cent from the floor and was never really in the contest, Dunnigan fouled out and Arneson's men lost 59-52.

"Our biggest problem in that game was poor shooting," commented Arneson. "I was a little disappointed with our rebounding since Maine was so short, but hitting only 29 per cent, only two shots from outside, is what caused defeat."

ON THE SEASON as a whole Arneson stated: "Lack of consistant outside shooting was the one thing which kept this group from being even more outstanding than they were. That, and our injuries, caused many of our losses."

Season statistics leader was Dunnigan. He attempted and made the most field goals, 134 of 343, the most free throws, 115 of 172, and had the most rebounds, 238, assists, 53, violations, 49, fumbles, 19, and tied Borgardt for the lead in personal fouls with 76. He was chosen most valuable by his teammates.

"Dunnigan is definitely the most outstanding boy we've produced at Forest View," said Arneson. "He's the best all-around player I've had and by far the most outstanding defensively."

Baumgardt had 146 rebounds, second best, and seven assists during the past campaign. He also had fewest bad passes, 2, and fumbles, 5.

Borgardt, a 5-11 guard, had 157 points this year, third highest on the team and finished his FV career with 294 points. He led the team in bad passes, 30, but also in recoveries, 35. Borgardt had 51 rebounds and 15 assists to his credit. He and Dunnigan were chosen as honorary team captains.

Seniors Jim Buckholz and Jeff Grismer tied for fourth among scorers with 155 points each. Grismer ended his FV playing with 322 career points and 118 rebounds in his last season. Buckholz had 66 rebounds.

HOWIE BRASCH, a junior, was next high scorer with 115 points. He pulled down 109 rebounds, had the fewest violations, eight, and was voted most improved player on the team. The leader in free throw accuracy was another junior, Bucky Jones. He made 41 of 56 at the line for a 73.2 percentage.

Only other juniors on the varsity during the past season were Ted Lambert and Frank Calvello. Both saw limited action as they were kept busy leading the junior varsity to a 14-4 record and M-SL title.

With Lambert, Calvello and others from the championship JV unit joining Brasch and Jones on next year's varsity, perhaps that season will be more up and less down. Perhaps the next Forest View varsity basketball team will make further strides toward improving the over-all school hoop record which is now 39-49.

"IT'S MINE," and New Trier center Larry Rosenzweig (53) takes possession of the ball in last Thursday's sectional cage encounter with Prospect. Reaching for the ball is the Knights' center Tom Lundstedt (13). Rosenzweig grabbed more than one ball in the game as he tossed through 36 points to lead the Indians to a 79-63 triumph. Lundstedt had 28 markers for the defeated crew of coach Dick Kinneman. (Staff Photo)

Best at School in 19 Years

Cards' Five Posted .708 Win Percentage

by BOB FRISK

They didn't win a holiday tourney title, didn't win the conference, and didn't survive the regional tournament, but Arlington High School still had a lot to shout about in the 1965-66 varsity basketball season.

Coach Ted Wissen's Cardinals did achieve the school's best finish in history in the West Suburban Conference and did rack up the finest won-lost percentage in 19 years.

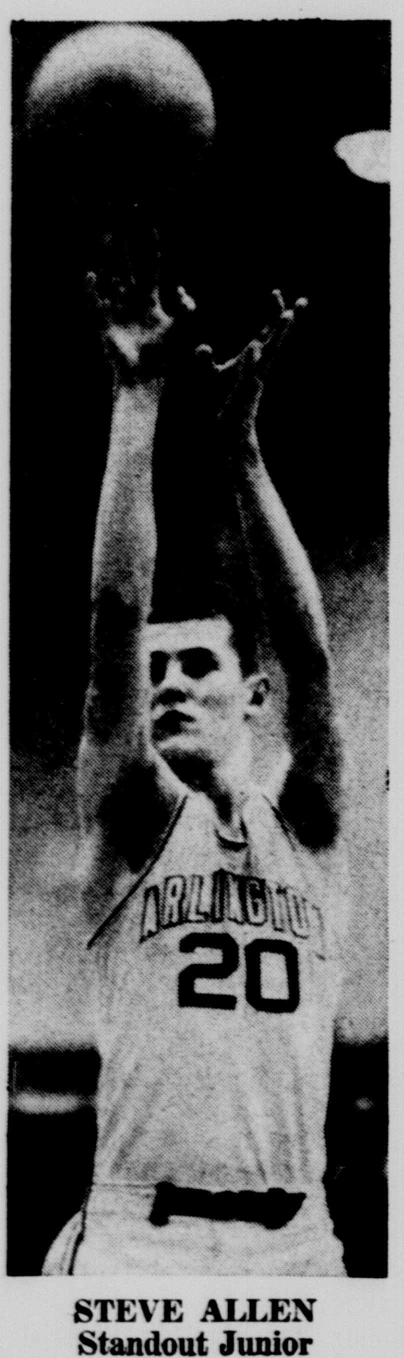
And, as an encouraging sign for the future, the Cardinals stepped through the 1965-66 schedule with juniors playing key roles.

YOU HAVE to go back to the 1946-47 season to find an Arlington High School varsity team that sported a better winning percentage. That 1946 club, coached by Clarence Iba, collected 17 victories in 22 games for a .773 mark.

Arlington captured 17 victories in 24 games in 1965-66 for a .708 standard.

Actually, this 1965-66 entry was the first at the school to win as many as 17 games since Gene Bell's 1948-49 team cashed in with 19 in 27 outings.

ARLINGTON made its final season of West Suburban Conference play a memorable one by climbing into sole possession of second place behind unbeaten York. No other Arlington team had ever finished as high as second in West Suburban scuffling.



STEVE ALLEN
Standout Junior

The future is bright as Wissen will greet boys who scored 999 points this winter when the first practice is staged next November. He'll have his top three point-producers back for a final campaign.

Heading the returnees will be 6-3 Steve Allen, voted the most valuable player on the 1965-66 team.

ALLEN FIRED in 430 points in 24 games for a 17.9 average, the finest single season standard at Arlington since George Bork dialed 497 in 1959-60. A varsity regular for two campaigns, Allen now needs only 191 points to become the greatest career scorer in Arlington history. Steve is the complete player.

Terry Townley will also return next winter, and this 5-11 junior netted 274 points in his varsity debut, hitting 112 free throws. Jim Donchess, a 6-6 junior who made great strides in the season, was third in the scoring parade with 236 over 24 contests.

Wissen will lose honorary captain Bruce Hubbard, a strong board-man who chipped in 226 points; steady Pete Barker, a 5-10 guard who came on fast in the new year when given more extensive service; and Jim Jorgensen, a 6-4 forward who worked as both a starter up front and first reserve.

Other graduating seniors will be George Bergstrom, Jim Bressler, and John Blomquist.

TED WISSEN
Guides 17-7 Mark

THE STATUS of junior Dave Lockwood remains a question-mark, but if Dave is able to shake a back injury that sidelined him after seven games he'll figure prominently in Wissen's plans. Lockwood scored 224 varsity points as a soph and had 53 this season before he was shelved by the injury.

Arlington has rebounded from a 6-16 campaign in 1963-64 to fashion 32 victories in 49 games over the past two seasons, and Cardinal fans are hoping 1966-67 will bring even more rewards.

For Ted Wissen, there will be many times during the next months when he'll kick around various alignments for 1966-67, juggle players and positions around in his mind, and try to evaluate what the future does hold.

Arlington High School basketball is on the upgrade, and Wissen is intent on keeping it that way.

Knights' Season Ends; New Trier Wins 79-63

by MICHAEL HESS

The End . . . It came at 9:26 last Thursday.

That moment marked the close of Prospect's 1965-66 basketball season. New Trier had whipped the Knights 79-63.

That moment marked the finish for Prospect dreams of further advance in state tournament cage competition. The Indians had handed sectional defeat to the Knights.

That moment marked the last coaching assignment in Dick Kinneman's sixth season as Prospect mentor. Kinneman's squad was 21-5 during the most recent campaign and his overall record with the Knights is 119-29.

THAT MOMENT marked the termination of prep hoop play for seven Prospect seniors. Regulars Craig Wolf, J. D. Thorne, Tony Kulasa, Dan Agard, Tom Beard and reserves Gary Guerin and Ray Kleinhuzen will compete no more for the Knights.

That moment marked the year's concluding effort for three Prospect juniors. But, Tom Lundstedt, Dave Kingman and sub Mike Mueller will return.

That moment marked . . . The End.

Any attempted analysis of Prospect's setback must concentrate on five different facets of action. Why did the Knights lose to New Trier?

Because of the Indians 6-11 center Larry Rosenzweig. Seven inches taller than any opponent, Rosenzweig used his height to control the boards, block six shots, and hit 15 of 24 tries from the floor. He led all scorers with 36 points.

BECAUSE OF 6-6 forward Tom Bieneman, who got the clutch rebounds and connected consistantly from over 15 feet (10 of 16) and ended with 24 points. He took up the slack created by the absense of NT's John Holmes whose 6-3 frame and 15 point average were kept at home by 102 degree fever.

Because of Prospect mistakes which never came in unimportant situations. With three minutes gone in period two the Knights held their biggest margin, at 32-24, but four turnovers before the half allowed New New Trier to tie it at 32 apiece and six more turnovers in the third quarter helped the Indians go ahead 54-45.

Because, despite standout performances by Lundstedt and Wolf, Prospect's offense couldn't keep up with NT without Kulasa. Lundstedt canned 28 points and Wolf 15 but Kulasa, the Knights floor leader, play-maker all season long, missed part of the second quarter and then fouled out at 2:08 of period three.

Because four times in the game the Indians were able to tap in rebounds of their own missed foul shots. Rosenzweig and Bieneman each turned this trick twice in the last two quarters. Had Prospect taken the rebounds and made goals the resultant difference would have been 16 points, the Knights' final margin of defeat.

THE SECTIONAL struggle began with Prospect putting on one of its best single period shows of the year.

New Trier controlled the tip but missed its first shot. Seconds later Lundstedt and Rosenzweig had both mis-fired on floor attempts but Lundstedt sank a three-footer at 7:01 giving the Knights a 2-0 lead. Rosenzweig and Kulasa each connected at the line before Rosenzweig's lay-up made it 3-3.

After Wolf tossed in a free throw, Bryan Hewitt, a soph who started in place of Holmes, and Rosenzweig made goals to give NT a 7-4 advantage. Then Lundstedt hit from 15 feet, Rosenzweig made two lay-ups and the score was 11-6.

Prospect proceeded to tally eight straight points and assume the lead. A pair of charity tosses by Lundstedt, 13 and 16-footers by Wolf and 18-footer from Kulasa put the Knights in front 14-11. Rosenzweig's foul shot and Lundstedt's 15-footer made it 16-12.

TOM ANDERSON, who entered the game suffering from flu but still collected 12 New Trier points, then made his initial goal of the evening. Agard and Wolf traded two goals with Rosenzweig and the score was 20-18 with 59 seconds left. Thorne popped in one from the line but Bieneman countered with his first goal and the score was 21-20.

Lundstedt's three point play and lay-ups by Thorne and Wolf rushed the Knights in front 28-20 to start the second quarter. Bieneman and Anderson counted for the Indians but Lundstedt goals from the corner and eight feet left Prospect on top 32-24.

Then the disasterous string of miscues began.

SCORE BY QUARTERS

Prospect	21	11	13	18—63
New Trier	20	12	22	25—79

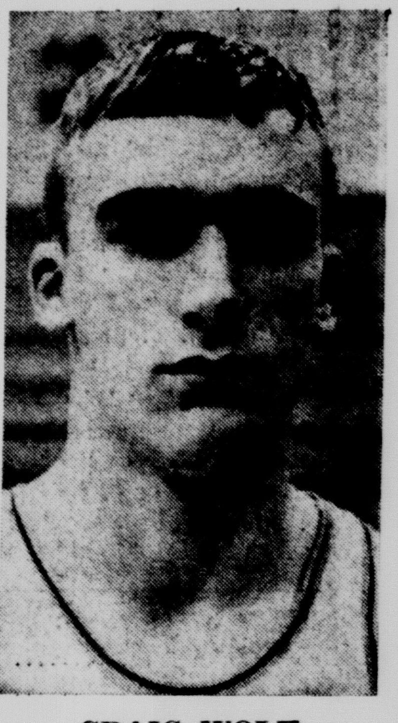
During the next four minutes the Knights traveled twice, made two bad passes, and didn't score. New Trier took full advantage of the errors. Bieneman put in an eight-footer, a lay-up and two foul shots and Anderson a 22-footer and the totals were knotted at 32 when the intermission buzzer sounded.

Lundstedt was best in the opening half. He had 15 points and was aided by nine from Wolf. Rosenzweig put in 14, all in the starting period as Lundstedt shut him out in quarter two. Bieneman and Anderson had 12 and six.

THE INDIAN'S Anderson sank a corner shot to get the second half underway. Lundstedt and Bieneman traded two-pointers before Kingman, who started in place of Kulasa, sidelined with three fouls, drove for a lay-up to tie it at 36 apiece.

Rosenzweig and Lundstedt kept things even by making foul shots but more turnovers put New Trier ahead for good.

A bad pass allowed Doug Major to hit from 20 feet and put the Indians up 39-37. Another bad pass led to a foul of soph Dick Couture. He missed but Rosenzweig tapped in the rebound. A third bad pass led to Rosenzweig's six footer and, when Kulasa picked up his fourth foul, Anderson missed from the line but Bieneman tapped in the rebound.



CRAIG WOLF
Big Finish

The score at that juncture was 45-37.

Lay-ups by Kingman and Lundstedt brought Prospect to within four, at 45-41. The gap was opened once again as Rosenzweig made three points before Wolf's 20-footer. With 2:08 remaining in the period, Kulasa fouled out. Rosenzweig made four more points before Agard's base-line shot.

WHEN BIENEMAN hit at the buzzer the third period ended at 54-45. The score wasn't close again.

Through the final quarter Rosenzweig made 10 points, Bieneman eight and Anderson four, Prospect countered with eight by Lundstedt and four each from Wolf and Thorne but the issue had been decided. Into the nets at the gun went Rosenzweig's 36th point which left him just one shy of the Arlington gym record of 37 made by Tom Aley of Elgin in a 1955 sectional affair.

The struggle ended in the most one-sided defeat of the campaign for the Knights. New Trier's 79 points were the most registered against Kinneman's crew this season and the 16 point margin was the biggest deficit.

For the game New Trier, its record pushed to 22-4, made 34 of 65 (52.3 per cent) from the floor and Prospect 26 of 56 (46.4 per cent). The Knights held the advantage at the line making 11 of 14 (79.1 per cent) to the Indians' 11 of 20 (55.0 per cent). The losers committed 16 fouls to NT's 11 and, the curcial difference, 16 turnovers to just seven for the winners.

And thus the season, the dreams, were ended.

Falcon Cagers Have Best Campaign Ever

by MICHAEL HESS

KEN ARNESON
Best FV Season

Up and down, up and down—that was the cage year at Forest View.

Recently completed Falcons '65-'66 basketball is best described as mercurial. But, rising and falling, FV still had a banner campaign.

Forest View compiled a 16-7 mark during the past season. That, the best standard in school history, was only one of six records set by this year's quintet.

Coach Ken Arneson's hoop entry tallied 1,311 points in 23 games, an average of 57 per outing, both tops for any Falcons five. FV used those points to tie for the Mid-Suburban League title, at 9-1, and take second in Danville's Holiday Tournament.

Individual marks were established by Pat Dunnigan and Jim Baumgardt.

DUNNIGAN put in 382 points during his senior year and, combined with 232 as a soph and 248 as a junior, he set a career record of 862 points. The 6-2 forward's 11 field goals in a contest against Deerfield is also a new standard.

Baumgardt set the Forest View field goal accuracy standard. He hit 74 of 148 attempts from the floor for an even 50 per cent. A 6-6 center, Baumgardt also holds records for most points in a single game, 33, most rebounds in a single game, 23, and single season, 250. His 265 points this year give him a career total of 438.

Forest View began the cage season, back in November, on the up-swing. Despite injuries which kept Baumgardt and senior guard Bill Widinski on the sidelines, the Falcons topped Proviso West, Elgin and Deerfield to start the campaign.

Then the sick list began to take its toll.

WIDINSKI, a much counted on letterman, ended up playing in parts of only two games during the whole season. It took Baumgardt, who missed five contests, half the season to fully recover. FV went down under assults by Glenbrook South, West Leyden and Glenbrook North to have its record evened at 3-3.

After a 63-47 beating of Niles West Forest View journeyed to the Danville Holiday Tournament and in quick succession stopped Naperville, DuQuoin and Farragut to reach the finals. Having risen that far, the Falcons fell before a tough Danville-Schlarman unit 52-35.

Arneson's crew faltered down a step further by losing to Maine South before the Mid-Suburban schedule started.

Initial M-SL encounters found FV slipping by Maine West 51-48 and pounding Wheeling 66-42. The triumph over Maine was the first ever for Forest View in battles with MW. An early showdown with Prospect followed but the Knights, behind 15-14 after one quarter, eventually beat the Falcons 66-57.

Forest View then swung into high gear. Victories over Palane, Conant, Maine West (57-45), and Wheeling were picked up rather easily. Next step on the conference trail was the season's second against Prospect.

THE FALCONS took an early 15-11 lead over the Knights. With Baumgardt controling the boards, pouring in 21 points and doing a standout job on defense, FV held that slim margin and won 57-54. Byron Borgardt added 12 and Dunnigan 11 points to the outcome which tied Forest View at the top of M-SL standings.

To stay even at the top, the Falcons ended regular season competition by clipping Palatine, 54-49, and Conant, 66-60. Dunnigan, at his best, scored 38 points and took 23 rebounds in those crucial affairs while Baumgardt had 36 points and 18 rebounds.

At that juncture Arneson had directed his quintet to seven straight wins. But then came a tumble to the depths and season's end.

In opening regional battle, Forest View was challenged by Maine West, already twice beaten by the Falcons. MW got 30 points from Ken Mueller, FV hit only 29 per cent from the floor and was never really in the contest, Dunnigan fouled out and Arneson's men lost 59-52.

"Our biggest problem in that game was poor shooting," commented Arneson. "I was a little disappointed with our rebounding since Maine was so short, but hitting only 29 per cent, only two shots from outside, is what caused defeat."

ON THE SEASON as a whole Arneson stated: "Lack of consistant outside shooting was the one thing which kept this group from being even more outstanding than they were. That, and our injuries, caused many of our losses."

Season statistics leader was Dunnigan. He attempted and made the most field goals, 134 of 343, the most free throws, 115 of 172, and had the most rebounds, 238, assists, 53, violations, 49, fumbles, 19, and tied Borgardt for the lead in personal fouls with 76. He was chosen most valuable by his teammates.

"Dunnigan is definitely the most outstanding boy we've produced at Forest View," said Arneson. "He's the best all-around player I've had and by far the most outstanding defensively."

Baumgardt had 146 rebounds, second best, and seven assists during the past campaign. He also had fewest bad passes, 2, and fumbles, 5.

Borgardt, a 5-11 guard, had 157 points this year, third highest on the team and finished his FV career with 294 points. He led the team in bad passes, 30, but also in recoveries, 35. Borgardt had 51 rebounds and 15 assists to his credit. He and Dunnigan were chosen as honorary team captains.

Seniors Jim Buckholz and Jeff Grismer tied for fourth among scorers with 155 points each. Grismer ended his FV playing with 322 career points and 118 rebounds in his last season. Buckholz had 66 rebounds.

HOWIE BRASCH, a junior, was next high scorer with 115 points. He pulled down 109 rebounds, had the fewest violations, eight, and was voted most improved player on the team. The leader in free throw accuracy was another junior, Bucky Jones. He made 41 of 56 at the line for a 73.2 percentage.

Only other juniors on the varsity during the past season were Ted Lambert and Frank Calvello. Both saw limited action as they were kept busy leading the junior varsity to a 14-4 record and M-SL title.

With Lambert, Calvello and others from the championship JV unit joining Brasch and Jones on next year's varsity, perhaps that season will be more up and less down. Perhaps the next Forest View varsity basketball team will make further strides toward improving the over-all school hoop record which is now 39-49.

"IT'S MINE," and New Trier center Larry Rosenzweig (53) takes possession of the ball in last Thursday's sectional cage encounter with Prospect. Reaching for the ball is the Knights' center Tom Lundstedt (13). Rosenzweig grabbed more than one ball in the game as he tossed through 36 points to lead the Indians to a 79-63 triumph. Lundstedt had 28 markers for the defeated crew of coach Dick Kinneman. (Staff Photo)

Best at School in 19 Years

Cards' Five Posted .708 Win Percentage

by BOB FRISK

They didn't win a holiday tourney title, didn't win the conference, and didn't survive the regional tournament, but Arlington High School still had a lot to shout about in the 1965-66 varsity basketball season.

Coach Ted Wissen's Cardinals did achieve the school's best finish in history in the West Suburban Conference and did rack up the finest won-lost percentage in 19 years.

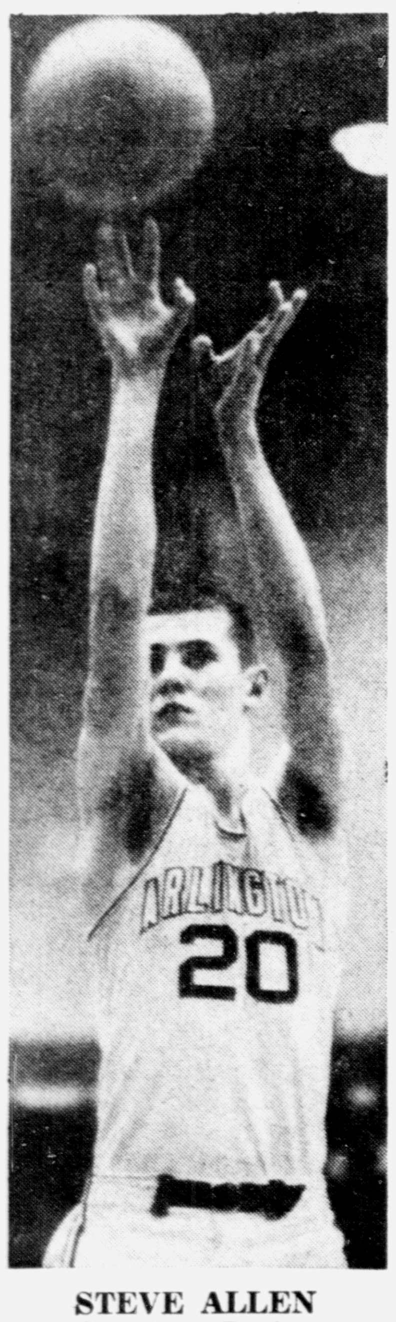
And, as an encouraging sign for the future, the Cardinals stepped through the 1965-66 schedule with juniors playing key roles.

YOU HAVE to go back to the 1946-47 season to find an Arlington High School varsity team that sported a better winning percentage. That 1946 club, coached by Clarence Iba, collected 17 victories in 22 games for a .773 mark.

Arlington captured 17 victories in 24 games in 1965-66 for a .708 standard.

Actually, this 1965-66 entry was the first at the school to win as many as 17 games since Gene Bell's 1948-49 team cashed in with 19 in 27 outings.

ARLINGTON made its final season of West Suburban Conference play a memorable one by climbing into sole possession of second place behind unbeaten York. No other Arlington team had ever finished as high as second in West Suburban scuffling.



STEVE ALLEN
Standout Junior

The future is bright as Wissen will greet boys who scored 999 points this winter when the first practice is staged next November. He'll have his top three point-producers back for a final campaign.

Heading the returnees will be 6-3 Steve Allen, voted the most valuable player on the 1965-66 team.

ALLEN FIRED in 430 points in 24 games for a 17.9 average, the finest single season standard at Arlington since George Bork dialed 497 in 1959-60. A varsity regular for two campaigns, Allen now needs only 191 points to become the greatest career scorer in Arlington history. Steve is the complete player.

Terry Townley will also return next winter, and this 5-11 junior netted 274 points in his varsity debut, hitting 112 free throws. Jim Donchess, a 6-6 junior who made great strides in the season, was third in the scoring parade with 236 over 24 contests.

Wissen will lose honorary captain Bruce Hubbard, a strong board-man who chipped in 226 points; steady Pete Barker, a 5-10 guard who came on fast in the new year when given more extensive service; and Jim Jorgensen, a 6-4 forward who worked as both a starter up front and first reserve.

Other graduating seniors will be George Bergstrom, Jim Bressler, and John Blomquist.

TED WISSEN
Guides 17-7 Mark

THE STATUS of junior Dave Lockwood remains a questionmark, but if Dave is able to shake a back injury that sidelined him after seven games he'll figure prominently in Wissen's plans. Lockwood scored 224 varsity points as a soph and had 53 this season before he was shelved by the injury.

Arlington has rebounded from a 6-16 campaign in 1963-64 to fashion 32 victories in 49 games over the past two seasons, and Cardinal fans are hoping 1966-67 will bring even more rewards.

For Ted Wissen, there will be many times during the next months when he'll kick around various alignments for 1966-67, juggle players and positions around in his mind, and try to evaluate what the future does hold.

Arlington High School basketball is on the upgrade, and Wissen is intent on keeping it that way.

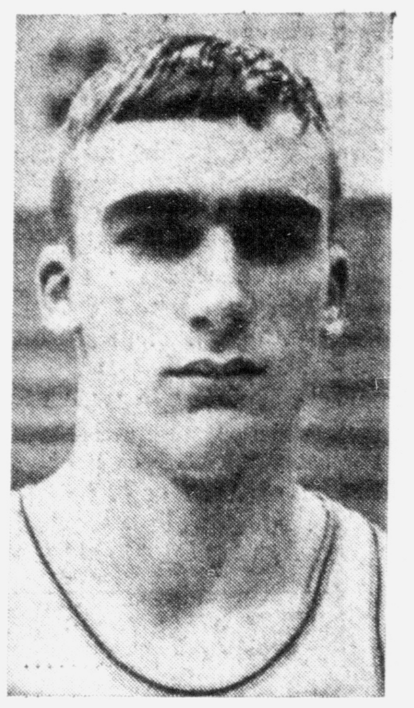
Knights' Season Ends; New Trier Wins 79-63

by MICHAEL HESS

The End . . . It came at 9:26 last Thursday.

That moment marked the close of Prospect's 1965-66 basketball season. New Trier had whipped the Knights 79-63.

That moment marked the finish for Prospect dreams of further advance in state tournament cage competition. The Indians had handed sectional defeat to the Knights.



CRAIG WOLF
Big Finish

That moment marked the last coaching assignment in Dick Kinneman's sixth season as Prospect mentor. Kinneman's squad was 21-5 during the most recent campaign and his overall record with the Knights is 119-29.

THAT MOMENT marked the termination of prep hoop play for seven Prospect seniors. Regulars Craig Wolf, J. D. Thorne, Tony Kulasa, Dan Agard, Tom Beard and reserves Gary Guerin and Ray Kleinhuzen will compete no more for the Knights.

That moment marked the year's concluding effort for three Prospect juniors. But, Tom Lundstedt, Dave Kingman and sub Mike Mueller will return.

That moment marked . . . The End.

Any attempted analysis of Prospect's setback must concentrate on five different facets of action. Why did the Knights lose to New Trier?

Because of the Indians 6-11 center Larry Rosenzweig. Seven inches taller than any opponent, Rosenzweig used his height to control the boards, block six shots, and hit 15 of 24 tries from the floor. He led all scorers with 36 points.

BECAUSE OF 6-6 forward Tom Bieneman, who got the clutch rebounds and connected consistantly from over 15 feet (10 of 16) and ended with 24 points. He took up the slack created by the absense of NT's John Holmes whose 6-3 frame and 15 point average were kept at home by 102 degree fever.

Because of Prospect mistakes which never came in unimportant situations. With three minutes gone in period two the Knights held their biggest margin, at 32-24, but four turnovers before the half allowed New New Trier to tie it at 32 apiece and six more turnovers in the third quarter helped the Indians go ahead 54-45.

Because, despite standout performances by Lundstedt and Wolf, Prospect's offense couldn't keep up with NT without Kulasa. Lundstedt canned 28 points and Wolf 15 but Kulasa, the Knights floor leader, play-maker all season long, missed part of the second quarter and then fouled out at 2:08 of period three.

Because four times in the game the Indians were able to tap in rebounds of their own missed foul shots. Rosenzweig and Bieneman each turned this trick twice in the last two quarters. Had Prospect taken the rebounds and made goals the resultant difference would have been 16 points, the Knights' final margin of defeat.

THE SECTIONAL struggle began with Prospect putting on one of its best single period shows of the year.

New Trier controlled the tip but missed its first shot. Seconds later Lundstedt and Rosenzweig had both mis-fired on floor attempts but Lundstedt sank a three-footer at 7:01 giving the Knights a 2-0 lead. Rosenzweig and Kulasa each connected at the line before Rosenzweig's lay-up made it 3-3.

After Wolf tossed in a free throw, Bryan Hewitt, a soph who started in place of Holmes, and Rosenzweig made goals to give NT a 7-4 advantage. Then Lundstedt hit from 15 feet, Rosenzweig made two lay-ups and the score was 11-6.

Prospect proceeded to tally eight straight points and assume the lead. A pair of charity tosses by Lundstedt, 13 and 16-footers by Wolf and 18-footer from Kulasa put the Knights in front 14-11. Rosenzweig's foul shot and Lundstedt's 15-footer made it 16-12.

TOM ANDERSON, who entered the game suffering from flu but still collected 12 New Trier points, then made his initial goal of the evening. Agard and Wolf traded two goals with Rosenzweig and the score was 20-18 with 59 seconds left. Thorne popped in one from the line but Bieneman countered with his first goal and the score was 21-20.

Lundstedt's three point play and lay-ups by Thorne and Wolf rushed the Knights in front 28-20 to start the second quarter. Bieneman and Anderson counted for the Indians but Lundstedt goals from the corner and eight feet left Prospect on top 32-24.

Then the disasterous string of miscues began.

SCORE BY QUARTERS

Prospect	21	11	13	18—63
New Trier	20	12	22	25—79

During the next four minutes the Knights traveled twice, made two bad passes, and didn't score. New Trier took full advantage of the errors. Bieneman put in an eight-footer, a lay-up and two foul shots and Anderson a 22-footer and the totals were knotted at 32 when the intermission buzzer sounded.

Lundstedt was best in the opening half. He had 15 points and was aided by nine from Wolf. Rosenzweig put in 14, all in the starting period as Lundstedt shut him out in quarter two. Bieneman and Anderson had 12 and six.

THE INDIAN'S Anderson sank a corner shot to get the second half underway. Lundstedt and Bieneman traded two-pointers before Kingman, who started in place of Kulasa, sidelined with three fouls, drove for a lay-up to tie it at 36 apiece.

Rosenzweig and Lundstedt kept things even by making foul shots but more turnovers put New Trier ahead for good.

A bad pass allowed Doug Major to hit from 20 feet and put the Indians up 39-37. Another bad pass led to a foul of soph Dick Couture. He missed but Rosenzweig tapped in the rebound. A third bad pass led to Rosenzweig's six footer and, when Kulasa picked up his fourth foul, Anderson missed from the line but Bieneman tapped in the rebound.

The score at that juncture was 45-37.

Lay-ups by Kingman and Lundstedt brought Prospect to within four, at 45-41. The gap was opened once again as Rosenzweig made three points before Wolf's 20-footer. With 2:08 remaining in the period, Kulasa fouled out. Rosenzweig made four more points before Agard's base-line shot.

WHEN BIENEMAN hit at the buzzer the third period ended at 54-45. The score wasn't close again.

Through the final quarter Rosenzweig made 10 points, Bieneman eight and Anderson four. Prospect countered with eight by Lundstedt and four each from Wolf and Thorne but the issue had been decided. Into the nets at the gun went Rosenzweig's 36th point which left him just one shy of the Arlington gym record of 37 made by Tom Aley of Elgin in a 1955 sectional affair.

The struggle ended in the most one-sided defeat of the campaign for the Knights. New Trier's 79 points were the most registered against Kinneman's crew this season and the 16 point margin was the biggest deficit.

For the game New Trier, its record pushed to 22-4, made 34 of 65 (52.3 per cent) from the floor and Prospect 26 of 56 (46.4 per cent). The Knights held the advantage at the line making 11 of 14 (79.1 per cent) to the Indians' 11 of 20 (55.0 per cent). The losers committed 16 fouls to NT's 11 and, the curcial difference, 16 turnovers to just seven for the winners.

And thus the season, the dreams, were ended.

Argo Tops St. Viator Soph Meet

Argo of the South Suburban Conference captured the team championship Saturday in the St. Viator Sophomore Basketball tournament.

The Argonauts trimmed St. Ignatius of the Chicagoland Prep League in the title contest, 62-57.

Notre Dame took third place honors in the championship bracket with a 54-45 victory over St. Patrick.

St. Joseph won the consolation championship by knocking off St. Procopius in three overtimes, 74-68. St. George took third place laurels in the consolation division.

Host St. Viator bowed out of tourney play in its second game.

The Lions belted St. George in the opener, 60-49, but were shelled by St. Ignatius 71-47.

Pat Zeller was high for St. Viator in the season finale with 11 points.

Gals' Leaders Clobber Foes

Holy tenpins!!

That's what Robin, the Boy Wonder, would have said about Saturday night's action in the Paddock Women's Classic Traveling League.

Lattof Chevrolet and Steve's Restaurant, locked in a tight struggle for PWCTL supremacy, both rolled out thunderous performances and remained within a point of each other. The rest of the pack, not far removed the week before, suddenly found itself in a position to scramble or perish.

JOANNE CHRISTENSEN
Crashes 679

Lattof, in smiting third place Rolling Meadows Bowl 4-0, ran up the biggest series of the season and the second biggest game. Steve's, in vanquishing River Rand Bowl 4-0, did it the other way: second biggest series, biggest game.

THE STANDINGS:

Lattof Chevrolet	26
Steve's Restaurant	25
Rolling Meadows Bowl	19
Striking Lanes	15
Morton Pontiac	13
River Rand Bowl	10

Down in the pack, Morton Pontiac threatened to move up with a 3-1 decision over Striking Lanes.

At evening's end, Lattof remained in first with 26 points. Steve's was right behind with 25, and Rolling Meadows Bowl remained with its 19 in third.

THE LATTOF spectacular was a 2919 team effort, a gigantic outpouring that included a 679 from Joanne Christensen, also a season's best. Joanne — averaging 168 pins a game — soared with a 203-232-244. Her teammates pitched in thusly: Peggy Harris, 586; Rose Kraft, 553; Donna Reinhardt, 552; and Vi Douglas, 549. Lattof started with a team game of 1011, its best of the year, and added 958 and 950.

Rolling Meadows Bowl, hosting the evening's action, never had a chance. Even though Harriet Fuchs had a 580 and Esther Hugo a 566, Lattof was too much.

As mighty as the leader's performance was, Steve's stayed right behind. The Restaurant gals picked up a pair of 600 series, with Delores Harris' 619 pacing the assault. Bonnie Kuhn added 602, Lou Lass 556, Ann Neumann 547 and Winnie Lohse 527. The most formidable combination in the team's 2851 series was game one, when the ladies pooled for a 1051, the season's best.

River Rand Bowl gained its best from Ethel Juenger, a 520 series.

MORTON PONTIAC, after two weeks in an unfamiliar cellar role, began to pull away with the stopping of Striking Lanes. With a 573 from Ruth Baurhyte and 555 from Joan Lindahl, Morton surrendered only one game to Striking. That was the third game, keyed by Eunice Whitmore's 216. She was high for Striking with a 519 series.

In this Saturday's action at River Rand Bowl, Lattof will seek to break away from Steve's by meeting the host team. Steve's will meet Morton Pontiac, and Rolling Meadows Bowl — trying to get back in the thick of the action — will pick up Striking Lanes.

Sports Triumph 5-2 To Retain Pinnacle

Not by much, but enough.

That — the success formula for Concourse Sports Chalet — worked again Saturday night in the Paddock Classic Traveling League.

The Sports won another close one, ending up 22 pins better but a 5-2 victor over Morton Pontiac at Beverly Lanes. It continued a surprising story in the PCTL: though only Tom Kouros of their ranks is in the top 15 of the league's bowlers, and though as a team they rank with the lowest in best series and game, the Sports still have the enviable position in the PCTL.

They are first, now, by six points over Bill Cook Buick. The Buick men slipped a point in beating City Welding Sales and Service 4-3, as the Welders saw their best effort of the season go almost to waste.

Jeffery Lanes was the night's big winner, whipping Karlsen Pharmacy 7-0 and moving up to fourth, not far behind Brim's Pioneer Lanes. The Pioneers gained no ground, falling to The Brass Rail 4-3, the third straight win for the resurgent Railers.

SPORTS CHALET achieved its latest triumph without a man going over 600, washing out a good Morton effort in the process. Ray Neumann led the victors with 223-204-170—597. But it was consistency that paid off for Chalet, as Tom Kouros added 589, Mike Wagner, 579, Tony Sasso 566 and Dave Catherwood 561.

Morton's worst game, a 937 in the third, gave the team its only points as Chalet dipped to 882. The losers were led by Les Zikes Jr., who used the hottest hand in the league to roll out a 660 and push him past teammate Bob Glaser for the individual average lead. He had games of 215, 241 and 204, and Glaser ended with a 594 series.

City Welding had the misfortune of bowling a 2961 team series and still losing the match. The Welders, led by Bob Hurwitz and Bill Smith, started with a 1034, their best game of the year, and added 920 and 1007. But Bill Cook Buick came back with 925 and 1036, getting four points and leaving the point for total pins to the Welders.

HURWITZ WAS high in the match with a 655 effort, and Smith had 639. For Bill Cook, Paul Borvig was the dominant force with 644, including a splendid 258 third game.

Jeffery Lanes won its first game by only six pins over Karlsen Pharmacy, then moved on to a convincing triumph. Jeffery received its best from Don Christensen with 602, Whitey Hefferan with 586 and Hec Healey with 581. For Karlsen, Ed Freihage had 548.

The Brass Rail—getting a little unexpected help from Warren Walter—continued bouncing back from its disastrous second round beginning. Walter—on furlough from the army—teamed with Ted Zimmerman with 575 series to help the Railers to the 4-3 finish over Pioneer.

The Railers came very close to making it 5-2, but Pioneer claimed the total pinfall point by three pins. For the losers, Bob Krisch was high with 568.

If the Brass Rail can continue the resurgence, it will be bad news for Sports Chalet, for the two meet this Saturday at River Rand Bowl. Bill Cook Buick will be at Jeffery Lanes, Brim's Pioneer will host Morton and City Welding will bowl Karlsen Pharmacy at Striking Lanes.

Gals' Leaders Clobber Foes

Holy tenpins!!

That's what Robin, the Boy Wonder, would have said about Saturday night's action in the Paddock Women's Classic Traveling League.

Lattof Chevrolet and Steve's Restaurant, locked in a tight struggle for PWCTL supremacy, both rolled out thunderous performances and remained within a point of each other. The rest of the pack, not far removed the week before, suddenly found itself in a position to scramble or perish.

Lattof, in smiting third place Rolling Meadows Bowl 4-0, ran up the biggest series of the season and the second biggest game. Steve's, in vanquishing River Rand Bowl 4-0, did it the other way: second biggest series, biggest game.

JOANNE CHRISTENSEN
Crashes 679

Down in the pack, Morton Pontiac threatened to move up with a 3-1 decision over Striking Lanes.

At evening's end, Lattof remained in first with 26 points. Steve's was right behind with 25, and Rolling Meadows Bowl remained with its 19 in third.

THE LATTOF spectacular was a 2919 team effort, a gigantic outpouring that included a 679 from Joanne Christensen, also a season's best. Joanne — averaging 168 pins a game — soared with a 203-232-244. Her teammates pitched in thusly: Peggy Harris, 586; Rose Kraft, 553; Donna Reinhardt, 552; and Vi Douglas, 549. Lattof started with a team game of 1011, its best of the year, and added 958 and 950.

Rolling Meadows Bowl, hosting the evening's action, never had a chance. Even though Harriet Fuchs had a 580 and Esther Hugo a 566, Lattof was too much.

As mighty as the leader's performance was, Steve's stayed right behind. The Restaurant gals picked up a pair of 600 series, with Delores Harris' 619 pacing the assault. Bonnie Kuhn added 602, Lou Lass 556, Ann Neumann 547 and Winnie Lohse 527. The most formidable combination in the team's 2851 series was game one, when the ladies pooled for a 1051, the season's best.

River Rand Bowl gained its best from Ethel Juenger, a 520 series.

MORTON PONTIAC, after two weeks in an unfamiliar cellar role, began to pull away with the stopping of Striking Lanes. With a 573 from Ruth Baurhyte and 555 from Joan Lindahl, Morton surrendered only one game to Striking. That was the third game, keyed by Eunice Whitmore's 216. She was high for Striking with a 519 series.

In this Saturday's action at River Rand Bowl, Lattof will seek to break away from Steve's by meeting the host team. Steve's will meet Morton Pontiac, and Rolling Meadows Bowl — trying to get back in the thick of the action — will pick up Striking Lanes.

Just Enough Does It . . .

Sports Triumph 5-2 To Retain Pinnacle

Not by much, but enough.

That — the success formula for Concourse Sports Chalet — worked again Saturday night in the Paddock Classic Traveling League.

The Sports won another close one, ending up 22 pins better but a 5-2 victor over Morton Pontiac at Beverly Lanes. It continued a surprising story in the PCTL: though only Tom Kouros of their ranks is in the top 15 of the league's bowlers, and though as a team they rank with the lowest in best series and game, the Sports still have the enviable position in the PCTL.

They are first, now, by six points over Bill Cook Buick. The Buick men slipped a point in beating City Welding Sales and Service 4-3, as the Welders saw their best effort of the season go almost to waste.

Jeffery Lanes was the night's big winner, whipping Karlsen Pharmacy 7-0 and moving up to fourth, not far behind Brim's Pioneer Lanes. The Pioneers gained no ground, falling to The Brass Rail 4-3, the third straight win for the resurgent Railers.

Brim's Pioneer	37
Jeffery Lanes	32

The Brass Rail	15

SPORTS CHALET achieved its latest triumph without a man going over 600, washing out a good Morton effort in the process. Ray Neumann led the victors with 223-204-170—597. But it was consistency that paid off for Chalet, as Tom Kouros added 589, Mike Wagner, 579, Tony Sasso 566 and Dave Catherwood 561.

Morton's worst game, a 937 in the third, gave the team its only points as Chalet dipped to 882. The losers were led by Les Zikes Jr., who used the hottest hand in the league to roll out a 660 and push him past teammate Bob Glaser for the individual average lead. He had games of 215, 241 and 204, and Glaser ended with a 594 series.

City Welding had the misfortune of bowling a 2961 team series and still losing the match. The Welders, led by Bob Hurwitz and Bill Smith, started with a 1034, their best game of the year, and added 920 and 1007. But Bill Cook Buick came back with 925 and 1036, getting four points and leaving the point for total pins to the Welders.

HURWITZ WAS high in the match with a 655 effort, and Smith had 639. For Bill Cook, Paul Borvig was the dominant force with 644, including a splendid 258 third game.

Jeffery Lanes won its first game by only six pins over Karlsen Pharmacy, then moved on to a convincing triumph. Jeffery received its best from Don Christensen with 602, Whitey Hefferan with 586 and Hec Healey with 581. For Karlsen, Ed Freihage had 548.

The Brass Rail—getting a little unexpected help from Warren Walter—continued bouncing back from its disastrous second round beginning. Walter—on furlough from the army—teamed with Ted Zimmerman with 575 series to help the Railers to the 4-3 finish over Pioneer.

The Railers came very close to making it 5-2, but Pioneer claimed the total pinfall point by three pins. For the losers, Bob Krisch was high with 568.

If the Brass Rail can continue the resurgence, it will be bad news for Sports Chalet, for the two meet this Saturday at River Rand Bowl. Bill Cook Buick will be at Jeffery Lanes, Brim's Pioneer will host Morton and City Welding will bowl Karlsen Pharmacy at Striking Lanes.

In Double Dual . . .

Prospect Thinclads Tied and Defeated

When is a single performance good enough for one tie and one loss? In a double dual, of course.

Prospect took part in a double dual indoor track meet last Saturday. Other contestants were teams from Niles West and Glenbrook North.

When the thinclad action was over the Knights had gained a 50-50 tie with NW but had suffered a 54-45 setback at the hands of GN. Those results set the record of coach Dick Calisch's charges at 2-6-1.

Picking up firsts over both opponents for Prospect were Vaughn Pederson and John Jacobsen.

Pederson ended ahead in both the high and low hurdles against both Niles and Glenbrook. He was clocked in 6.9 for the highs and 6.5 for the lows. Jacobsen was first in the 880, in 2:09.6, and mile, in 4:56, versus NW and in the 880 versus GN.

OTHER Knights' firsts went to Leroy Rateike and Larry Streibinger. Rateike's 19 foot, three-inch broad jump was best against Niles and Streibinger's 11 foot height was tops in the pole vault aganist Glenbrook.

Rateike also took seconds in both meets in the 50 yard dash while Steve Holmes took a second and third in the 880 and mile. Vince Curry was third in the 50 and 440 against Niles while Phil Cordina, in the high jump, was third and second.

Third in the high jump and pole vault against Niles went to Bruce McQuilken.

At lower levels the results were mixed. Prospect's sophs lost 64-34 to Niles West but topped Glenbrook South 52-47 and frosh Knights dropped 79-20 before NW but squashed GN 47-29.

Dan Ducey, Jeff Schneider, Herb Imhoff and Bruce Oswald led the Prospect sophs in their track action.

DUCEY WAS first in the high and low hurdles and third in the high jump versus Niles and second in all three events against Glenbrook. Schneider was best in the shot put, Oswald tops in the mile and Imhoff the pole vault leader against both opponents.

Other first for the soph Knights went to Joe Baker in the 880.

In freshman competition with Niles there were no firsts for Prospect but seven firsts were picked up by Knights over Glenbrook. Ending ahead were Gary Bach, in the mile and 880; Tajima, in the high and low hurdles; Mike Croke, in the pole vault; Hamann, in the shot; and Brauchle, in the 440.

Lundstedt Named to Special Cage Teams

Basketball honors continue to be gathered by Prospect's 6-4 junior center, Tom Lundstedt.

Lundstedt has been named to two more special cage squads. They are the Rockford Morning Star, Register-Republic's all-state teams and the Chicago Daily News' all-Chicago area unit.

The Rockford newspaper chose 40 players on its all-Illinois aggregations. Lundstedt, one of eight underclassmen picked, was on the third team. He was one of two juniors among the 20 best in the area selected by the Daily News.

No other Paddock area player was on either squad though Arlington's Steve Allen was given honorable mention by the Rockford paper.

LUNDSTEDT, OWNER of six Knights scoring records, was previously on three honor cage teams. He was on the Mid-Suburban League team picked by conference coaches, on the the Suburban Press and Radio Association and on Chicago's American all-suburban team.

The all-state teams selected by Chicago's American and the Associated Press also rated Lundstedt a special mention pick.

Others named by the Rockford Morning Star, Register-Republic and Daily News units were:

At Striking Lanes

Hamm's Team Will Meet PCTL Stars

The winningest major bowling lineup in the modern history of Chicago will put its tenpin talent on display for Mount Prospect fans when the famous Hamm's beer team appears in a special exhibition match at Striking Lanes, Routes 83 and 58, on March 19 at 9 p.m.

The team will bowl against the All-Stars from the Paddock Classic Traveling League, with a lineup to be drawn from George Schmidt, Joe Simonis, Al Jordan, Don Christensen, Les Zikes Jr., Ted Zimmerman and Paul Borvig.

The Hamm's squad has a victory string which is one of the greatest sustained performances in the history of the famed Classic League. The team has an unbroken record of having won the traveling division championship five years in a row. This is quite a feat because it means bowling on different lanes on each of 35 weeks of competition. They also have won the home division four of the last five years.

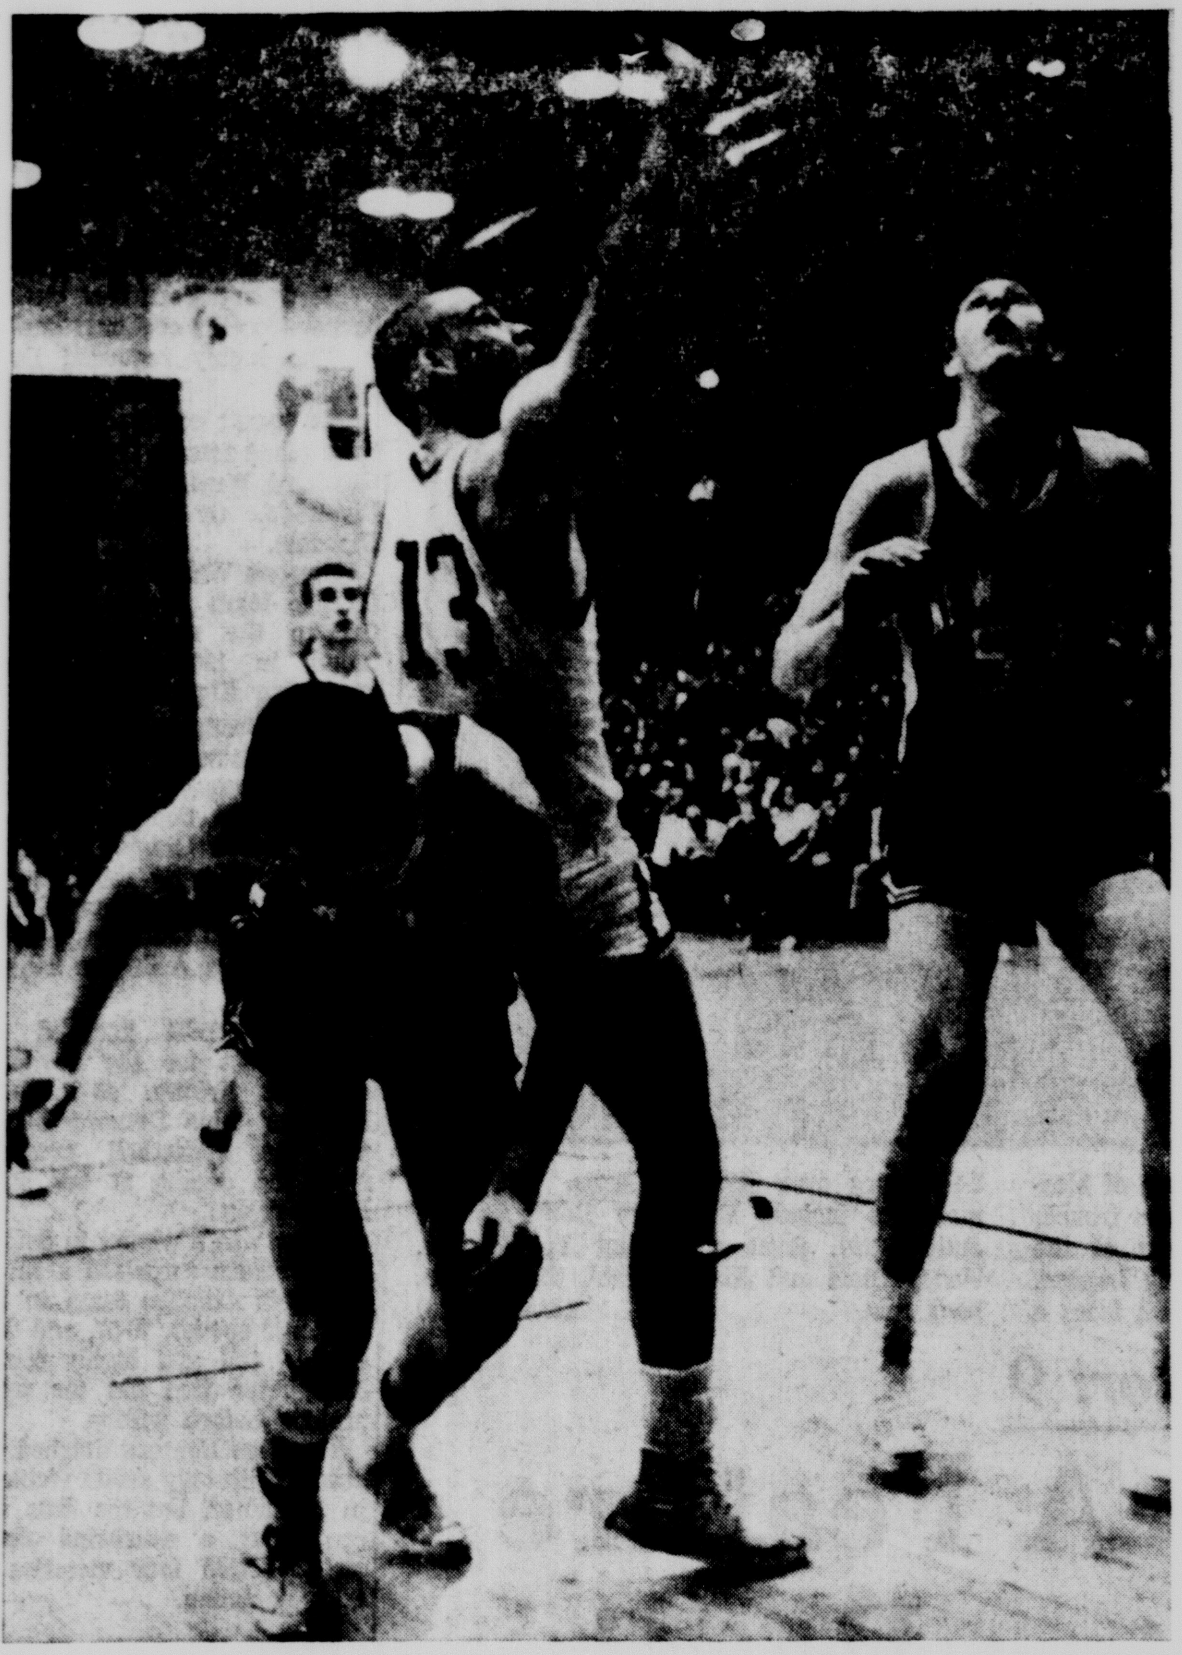
LED BY Captain Art Butler and sponsored by the Theo. Hamm Brewing Co., St. Paul, Minn., this powerful quintet has twice been Chicago City team champions, Illinois State team champions, won the ABC team title in 1954, has been Central States team title holders, and most recently won the BPAA National five-man team championship.

Butler has added another high scorer for this year's team, Al Markle, who though only 24, last year won the traveling division individual title with a lofty 203.8 average.

Holdovers from last year's championship lineup are Chuck Wagner, a 10-year veteran of the Hamm's team; Lou Cioffi, 1963 Illinois State All-Events and Doubles Champion; Andy Rogoznica, twice acclaimed as "King of Bowlers" in Chicago; Jim Stefanich, who was third in the ABC singles last year; and Don McCune, who had a 214 average, the highest in Chicago last season.

During the 10 years under Hamm's Sky Blue banner, the team has appeared in 247 exhibition matches against the strongest available opposition through the Middle West, winning 224 and losing only 23.

The Paddock stars have some gaudy individual records of their own, with Zikes leading the league with a 199 average. Schmidt has 194, Simonis 197, Jordan 188, Christensen 193, Zimmerman 193 and Borvig 195.



TWO FROM 13 resulted as Prospect's Tom Lundstedt pushed the ball toward the basket in a sectional hoop contest with New Trier last Thursday. Lundstedt split the nets on 11 of 23 tries from the floor and ended with 28 points but NT's Larry Rosenzweig (53) put in 36 markers and bending teammate Tom Bieneman added 24 to lead Indians' forces to a 79-63 triumph. York Rules Varsity Teams

Yeazel 2nd in Mile In Conference Meet

The mile run continues to be the primary point-getter for Arlington High School's varsity track squad in the West Suburban Conference indoor headliners.

Last winter John Brunner flashed to a first place finish in the West Suburban meet at Maine East for five of the Cardinals' seven varsity points.

Last Saturday Bob Yeazel took home a second place slot in the conference mile run at Maine East for four of Arlington's five markers.

York's powerful Dukes dominated the varsity events Saturday, rolling up 53 points for a 17½ point margin over runnerup Glenbard West. Hinsdale was third with 33½.

Glenbard West showed its power in frosh-soph ranks with 61 points. York was second with 38.

Arlington High School, not operating on as extensive an indoor season as the other entries, was last in both divisions Saturday.

YEAZEL, Arlington's senior distance standout, was operating under a handicap in the conference run by running in the slow heat.

Yeazel's best time this season heading into the conference was 4:42.

"Bob won his heat easily," head coach Bruce Samoore pointed out, "but knew he had to carry the race to finish with the leaders. As it turned out, Riverside's Press (Jim) won the race but was disqualified. I'm pretty sure Yeazel could have beaten the eventual winner (Bob Kinny of Glenbard) if he had been in the same heat."

Kinny was clocked in 4:29.9 and Yeazel, running ahead of the pack in the slow heat, had a creditable 4:30.8.

ARLINGTON SCORED one other point in the varsity meet with the four-lap relay unit of Larry Malcolmson, Jim Kussow, Dave Heisig, and Dewey Worsley coming in fifth. The Cards had a 1:18.1 clocking. LaGrange was the winner in 1:15.9.

Three records were broken in the varsity competition.

Al Janulis of York, who won the 1965 indoor meet in :51.1, turned in a swift :50.6 last Saturday to snap his own conference mark. He also bettered the Maine East fieldhouse mark set by Larry Kelley of Maine in 1964.

TOM TEETER of Glenbard West turned in the state's top high jump of the indoor campaign with an impressive 6-4 leap. Teeter was second indoors and fourth outdoors in the 1965 season.

Lou Drinka of York, an all-conference football player for two seasons, established the third mark with a 54-8¾ effort in the shot put. Drinka had won the 1965 meet with a record 53-11¾.

Arlington scored 2½ points in the frosh-soph meet with Terry Pitts gaining a tie for third in the 440 yard dash. Pitts was clocked in :56.3. Pierce of York set a new record with a :53.4 effort.

Rory Cassidy was disqualified after running a 4:44.3 mile, good for third place.

Colt Naming Contest Open Until April 4th

Northwest suburban area residents, frequent contributors to the popular Kentucky Club Derby Day Contests, have less than one month remaining to submit their entries in the 1966 contest.

NAME THE BABY. This handsome, well-bred two-year-old race horse needs a name. Sired by Globemaster, possessor of a new track record for a mile in winning the Arlington Classic, the colt is first prize in the 13th annual Kentucky Club Derby Day Contest. The person who comes up with the best name for the bay colt will be presented with him at the Kentucky Derby. The competition ends April 4th.

A handsome, well-bred son of the famed Globemaster, who earned more than $355,000 during a brilliant racing career, will be given away as the first prize in this year's Kentucky Club contest.

The colt, now a two-year-old, will go to the person who comes up with the winning name for him in the 13th renewal of the competition that has become an integral part of America's sports scene.

THANKS TO Kelso, Round Table, Nashua and other equine millionaires, the desire to own a racehorse has influenced literally millions of Americans to try their hand at this horse-naming contest.

The Kentucky Club prize horse has been won in the past by college professors, teenagers, doctors, railroad clerks, postmen and even elderly widows. Most winners usually sell their valuable gift but some have raced them.

Three Paddock area residents received fifth place prizes in the Kentucky Club Derby Day Contest for 1965. They were Evert Skoglund of Arlington Heights and Marvin Johnson and Kris Tarrant of Mount Prospect.

One contest horse, Aurecolt, earned more than $60,000 and still owns an American track record for 7½ furlongs.

Experts rate Globemaster with an excellent chance of becoming an outstanding sire.

THE CONTEST colt is from his first crop of two-year-olds. Globemaster was by Heliopolis-No Strings and won 10 stakes during his career. He set a new track record for a mile in winning the Arlington Classic and holds the distinction of being the only high-priced yearling (he was purchased for $80,000) to ever achieve turf stardom.

"No name's" dam is Orienne, by the famed Bimelech out of Golden Legend, and is a half sister to the stakes-winner, War Fable.

The contest rules are simple. Any number of names may be submitted as long as each is accompanied by a boxtop from Kentucky Club or one cellophane zip-off top from any of the other nine brands of Kentucky Club Pipe Tobacco.

SEND ENTRIES to Kentucky Club Derby Day Contest, P.O. Box 9K, Mt. Vernon, New York, 10559.

The contest ends midnight, April 4.

A new Jockey Club ruling now permits up to 18 letters and spaces instead of 16 in a horse's name.

The contest colt, plus $1,000, two box seats at the Kentucky Derby, hotel rooms in Louisville and all training expenses until July 1, 1966 go to the winner. The colt will be presented to its new owner during Derby Week at Churchill Downs in May.

More than 650 prizes will be awarded in the 1966 contest. General Electric Color TV sets will be given to ten second place winners and Kodak Instamatic Picture-Taking outfits will be presented for 150 third place awards.

Tobacconists in the Northwest Suburban area may be contacted for further details.

'Cat Thinclads Triumph, Tie

Exactly at .500—that's where Wheeling's indoor track team stands after meets held last week.

Wildcats thinclads held West Leyden to a 50-50 tie on Thursday and came back to whip Glenbrook South 57-43 on Saturday. Coach Jim Hoffman's squad thus set their record at 3-3-1.

In the tie with Leyden, Bill Lytle and Bob Bromley paced Wheeling efforts.

Lytle won the 60 yard dash with a time of 6.7. He followed up with a clocking of 54.7 in the 440 which put him first there also. Lytle has ended ahead in seven straight 440's this season. Bromley took the high and low hurdles in 8.1 and 7.7.

Other firsts for the 'Cats against WL went to Tony Stoik, Steve Zasadny and Doug Steinman. Stoik was best in the shot with a heave of 44 feet, 11½ inches and Zasadny won the pole vault with the bar at 11 feet, six inches. A time of 4:44.5 put Steinman ahead in the mile run.

LYTLE, Zasadny and Steinman repeated their first place showings against Glenbrook.

A 54.7 clocking gave Lytle his 440 specialty while Zasadny vaulted 12 feet and Steinman covered the mile in 4:42.2. Jim Lisafeld, with a 5.7 in the 50 yard dash, Paul Fiegen, timed at 2:04.5 in the 880, Jim Stockton, at 17 feet, 11 inches in the broad jump, and the 12 lap relay team also took firsts for Wheeling.

Other frosh firsts went to Tom Nelson in the pole vault and Coe Meyer in the high jump.

Wheeling sophomores now have won six straight meets and are 6-1 for the season. A 2-3 record was the result of the 'Cats lowest level triumph over Glenbrook.

Wildcats Top Pirates On Lower Level Track

A pair of triumphs on a pair of levels were gained by Wheeling's indoor track team in competition with Palatine last Friday.

Action came at both soph and frosh levels. The 'Cats sophomores won 61-39 while a 55-45 tally sent Pirates frosh to defeat.

LEADING WHEELING sophs to victory was Tom Johann. He was first in the high hurdles in 8.5, first in the low hurdles in 8.1 and first in the 50 yard dash in 6.0.

Five other top spots went to the winners. Scott Poklen took the 440 in 57.9, Len Maczko the shot with a heave of 38 feet, 8½ inches, and Bob Maslin the pole vault with the bar at 10 feet, six inches. The Wildcats four and 12 lap relay teams were best in 1:15.3 and 4:38.8 respectively.

In Double Dual . . .

Prospect Thinclads Tied and Defeated

When is a single performance good enough for one tie and one loss? In a double dual, of course.

Prospect took part in a double dual indoor track meet last Saturday. Other contestants were teams from Niles West and Glenbrook North.

When the thinclad action was over the Knights had gained a 50-50 tie with NW but had suffered a 54-45 setback at the hands of GN. Those results set the record of coach Dick Calisch's charges at 2-6-1.

Picking up firsts over both opponents for Prospect were Vaughn Pederson and John Jacobsen.

Pederson ended ahead in both the high and low hurdles against both Niles and Glenbrook. He was clocked in 6.9 for the highs and 6.5 for the lows. Jacobsen was first in the 880, in 2:09.6, and mile, in 4:56, versus NW and in the 880 versus GN.

OTHER Knights' firsts went to Leroy Rateike and Larry Streibinger. Rateike's 19 foot, three-inch broad jump was best against Niles and Streibinger's 11 foot height was tops in the pole vault aganist Glenbrook.

Rateike also took seconds in both meets in the 50 yard dash while Steve Holmes took a second and third in the 880 and mile. Vince Curry was third in the 50 and 440 against Niles while Phil Cordina, in the high jump, was third and second.

Third in the high jump and pole vault against Niles went to Bruce McQuilken.

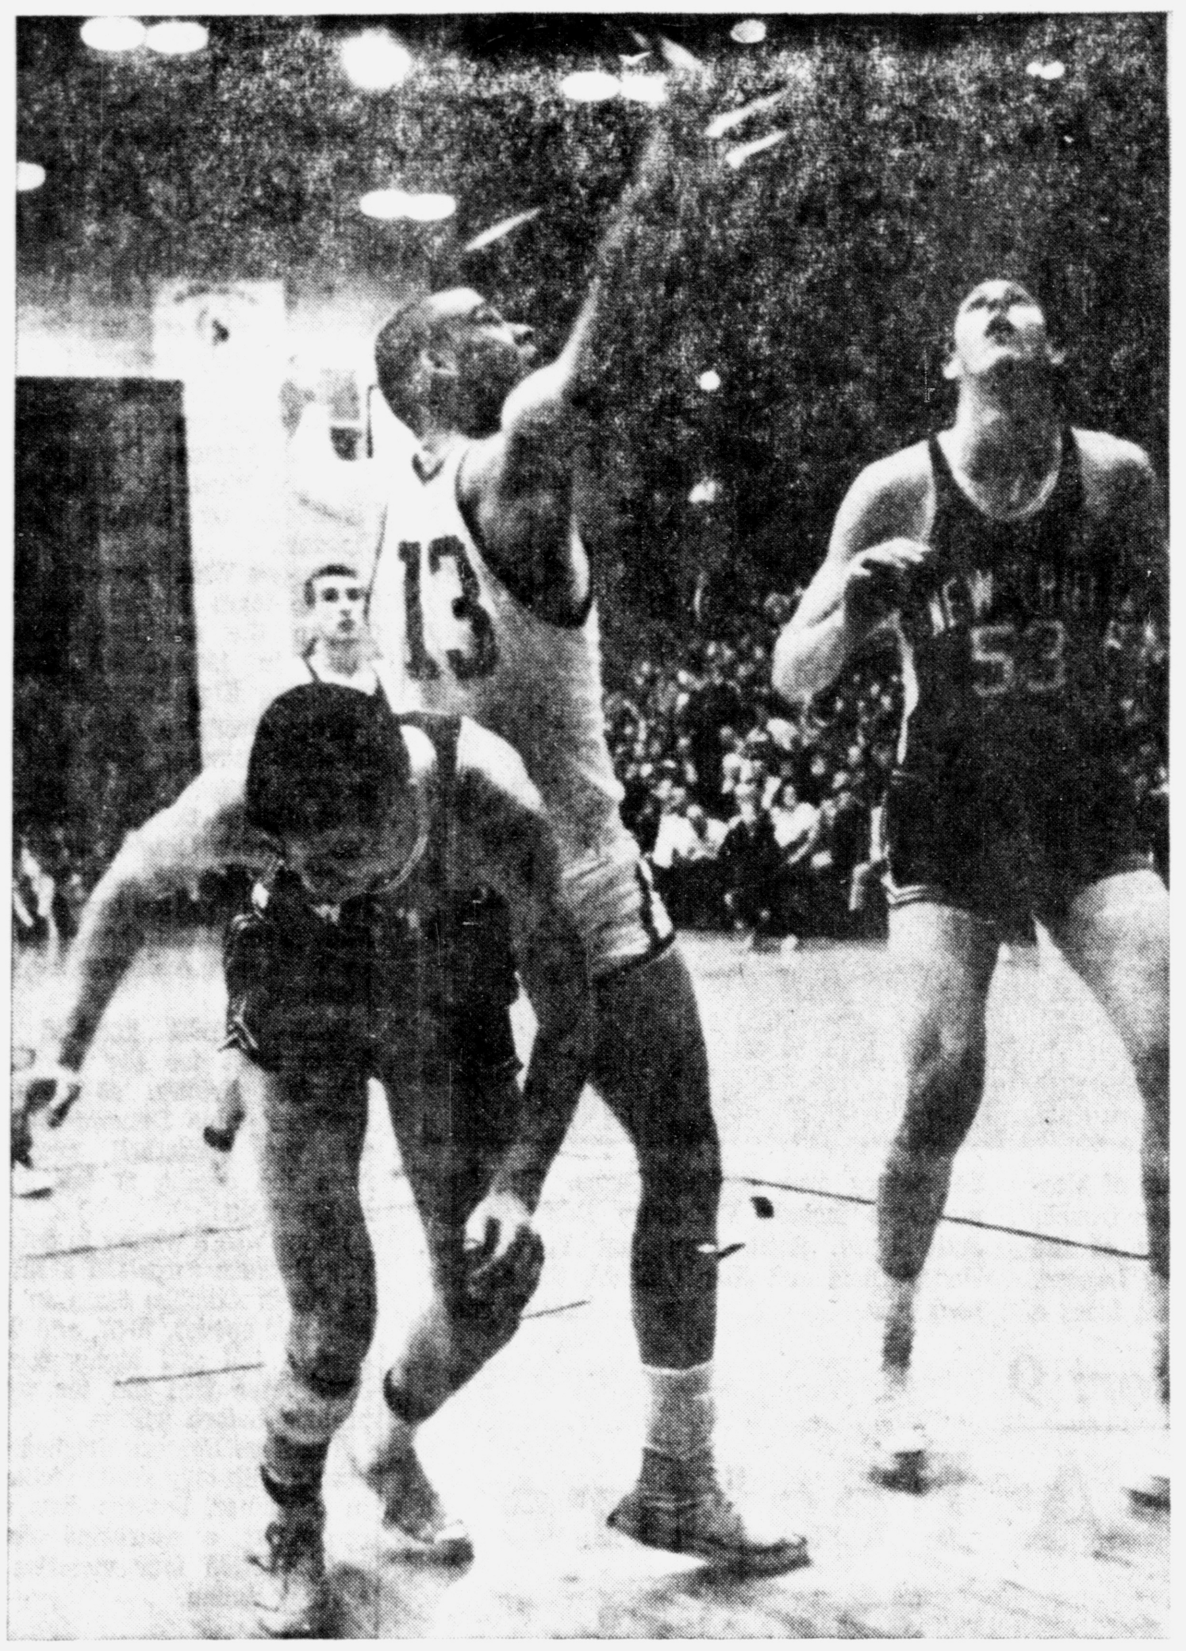
At lower levels the results were mixed. Prospect's sophs lost 64-34 to Niles West but topped Glenbrook South 52-47 and frosh Knights dropped 79-20 before NW but squashed GN 47-29.

Dan Ducey, Jeff Schneider, Herb Imhoff and Bruce Oswald led the Prospect sophs in their track action.

DUCEY WAS first in the high and low hurdles and third in the high jump versus Niles and second in all three events against Glenbrook. Schneider was best in the shot put, Oswald tops in the mile and Imhoff the pole vault leader against both opponents.

Other first for the soph Knights went to Joe Baker in the 880.

In freshman competition with Niles there were no firsts for Prospect but seven firsts were picked up by Knights over Glenbrook. Ending ahead were Gary Bach, in the mile and 880; Tajima, in the high and low hurdles; Mike Croke, in the pole vault; Hamann, in the shot; and Brauchle, in the 440.



TWO FROM 13 resulted as Prospect's Tom Lundstedt pushed the ball toward the basket in a sectional hoop contest with New Trier last Thursday. Lundstedt split the nets on 11 of 23 tries from the floor and ended with 28 points but NT's Larry Rosenzweig (53) put in 36 markers and bending teammate Tom Bieneman added 24 to lead Indians' forces to a 79-63 triumph. Lundstedt Named to Special Cage Teams

Basketball honors continue to be gathered by Prospect's 6-4 junior center, Tom Lundstedt.

Lundstedt has been named to two more special cage squads. They are the Rockford Morning Star, Register-Republic's all-state teams and the Chicago Daily News' all-Chicago area unit.

The Rockford newspaper chose 40 players on its all-Illinois aggregations. Lundstedt, one of eight underclassmen picked, was on the third team. He was one of two juniors among the 20 best in the area selected by the Daily News.

No other Paddock area player was on either squad though Arlington's Steve Allen was given honorable mention by the Rockford paper.

LUNDSTEDT, OWNER of six Knights scoring records, was previously on three honor cage teams. He was on the Mid-Suburban League team picked by conference coaches, on the the Suburban Press and Radio Association and on Chicago's American all-suburban team.

The all-state teams selected by Chicago's American and the Associated Press also rated Lundstedt a special mention pick.

Others named by the Rockford Morning Star, Register-Republic and Daily News units were:

At Striking Lanes

Hamm's Team Will Meet PCTL Stars

The winningest major bowling lineup in the modern history of Chicago will put its tenpin talent on display for Mount Prospect fans when the famous Hamm's beer team appears in a special exhibition match at Striking Lanes, Routes 83 and 58, on March 19 at 9 p.m.

The team will bowl against the All-Stars from the Paddock Classic Traveling League, with a lineup to be drawn from George Schmidt, Joe Simonis, Al Jordan, Don Christensen, Les Zikes Jr., Ted Zimmerman and Paul Borvig.

The Hamm's squad has a victory string which is one of the greatest sustained performances in the history of the famed Classic League. The team has an unbroken record of having won the traveling division championship five years in a row. This is quite a feat because it means bowling on different lanes on each of 35 weeks of competition. They also have won the home division four of the last five years.

LED BY Captain Art Butler and sponsored by the Theo. Hamm Brewing Co., St. Paul, Minn., this powerful quintet has twice been Chicago City team champions, Illinois State team champions, won the ABC team title in 1954, has been Central States team title holders, and most recently won the BPAA National five-man team championship.

Butler has added another high scorer for this year's team, Al Markle, who though only 24, last year won the traveling division individual title with a lofty 203.8 average.

Holdovers from last year's championship lineup are Chuck Wagner, a 10-year veteran of the Hamm's team; Lou Cioffi, 1963 Illinois State All-Events and Doubles Champion; Andy Rogoznica, twice acclaimed as "King of Bowlers" in Chicago; Jim Stefanich, who was third in the ABC singles last year; and Don McCune, who had a 214 average, the highest in Chicago last season.

During the 10 years under Hamm's Sky Blue banner, the team has appeared in 247 exhibition matches against the strongest available opposition through the Middle West, winning 224 and losing only 23.

The Paddock stars have some gaudy individual records of their own, with Zikes leading the league with a 199 average. Schmidt has 194, Simonis 197, Jordan 188, Christensen 193, Zimmerman 193 and Borvig 195.

York Rules Varsity Teams

Yeazel 2nd in Mile In Conference Meet

The mile run continues to be the primary point-getter for Arlington High School's varsity track squad in the West Suburban Conference indoor headliners.

Last winter John Brunner flashed to a first place finish in the West Suburban meet at Maine East for five of the Cardinals' seven varsity points.

Last Saturday Bob Yeazel took home a second place slot in the conference mile run at Maine East for four of Arlington's five markers.

York's powerful Dukes dominated the varsity events Saturday, rolling up 53 points for a 17½ point margin over runnerup Glenbard West. Hinsdale was third with 33½.

Glenbard West showed its power in frosh-soph ranks with 61 points. York was second with 38.

Arlington High School, not operating on as extensive an indoor season as the other entries, was last in both divisions Saturday.

YEAZEL, Arlington's senior distance standout, was operating under a handicap in the conference run by running in the slow heat.

Yeazel's best time this season heading into the conference was 4:42.

"Bob won his heat easily," head coach Bruce Samoore pointed out, "but knew he had to carry the race to finish with the leaders. As it turned out, Riverside's Press (Jim) won the race but was disqualified. I'm pretty sure Yeazel could have beaten the eventual winner (Bob Kinny of Glenbard) if he had been in the same heat."

Kinny was clocked in 4:29.9 and Yeazel, running ahead of the pack in the slow heat, had a creditable 4:30.8.

ARLINGTON SCORED one other point in the varsity meet with the four-lap relay unit of Larry Malcolmson, Jim Kussow, Dave Heisig, and Dewey Worsley coming in fifth. The Cards had a 1:18.1 clocking. LaGrange was the winner in 1:15.9.

Three records were broken in the varsity competition.

Al Janulis of York, who won the 1965 indoor meet in :51.1, turned in a swift :50.6 last Saturday to snap his own conference mark. He also bettered the Maine East fieldhouse mark set by Larry Kelley of Maine in 1964.

TOM TEETER of Glenbard West turned in the state's top high jump of the indoor campaign with an impressive 6-4 leap. Teeter was second indoors and fourth outdoors in the 1965 season.

Lou Drinka of York, an all-conference football player for two seasons, established the third mark with a 54-8¾ effort in the shot put. Drinka had won the 1965 meet with a record 53-11¾.

Arlington scored 2½ points in the frosh-soph meet with Terry Pitts gaining a tie for third in the 440 yard dash. Pitts was clocked in :56.3. Pierce of York set a new record with a :53.4 effort.

Rory Cassidy was disqualified after running a 4:44.3 mile, good for third place.

Other frosh-soph winners were Daboll of Glenbard West in the 50 yard high hurdles (6.8), Bleich of Maine East in the 50 yard dash (5.9), Hallaron of LaGrange in the 880 yard run (2:04.3), Glenbard West in the four-lap relay (1:17.5), Snyder of Glenbard in the 50 yard low hurdles (6.5), Popejoy of York in the mile run (4:39.3), Riverside in the mile relay (3:46.6), Grandy of Hinsdale in the broad jump (19-7½), Faulds of LaGrange in the high jump (5-10), Ellis of Glenbard West in the pole vault (11-8¾), and Rohde of York in the shot put (46-7¾).

Lytle won the 60 yard dash with a time of 6.7. He followed up with a clocking of 54.7 in the 440 which put him first there also. Lytle has ended ahead in seven straight 440's this season. Bromley took the high and low hurdles in 8.1 and 7.7.

Other firsts for the 'Cats against WL went to Tony Stoik, Steve Zasadny and Doug Steinman. Stoik was best in the shot with a heave of 44 feet, 11½ inches and Zasadny won the pole vault with the bar at 11 feet, six inches. A time of 4:44.5 put Steinman ahead in the mile run.

LYTLE, Zasadny and Steinman repeated their first place showings against Glenbrook.

A 54.7 clocking gave Lytle his 440 specialty while Zasadny vaulted 12 feet and Steinman covered the mile in 4:42.2. Jim Lisafeld, with a 5.7 in the 50 yard dash, Paul Fiegen, timed at 2:04.5 in the 880, Jim Stockton, at 17 feet, 11 inches in the broad jump, and the 12 lap relay team also took firsts for Wheeling.

At the lower levels there was nothing but victory for the Wildcats last week. The sophs beat West Leyden 74-25 and Glenbrook South 71-26 and the frosh took their only meet 69-26 from GS.

For Wheeling sophomores versus Leyden the leader was Tom Johann. He took firsts in the high and low hurdles and the 60 yard dash. Also winning were Mike Mitchell in the high jump, Al Eilts in the 880, Scott Poklen in the 440 and Andy Black in the mile. Tom Nelson and Ted Milbratz tied for honors in the pole vault.

AGAINST Glenbrook the 'Cat sophs picked up eight top spots. Dave Hendren and Mike Sonnerschein took the 880 and 440 as John Lytle finished ahead of the mile. All field events also went to Wheeling as Bill Carlander won the shot, Mike McGinn the broad jump, Bib Schiffmann the pole vault and Dick Davis the high jump.

The Wildcats 12 lap relay team also defeated GS.

In freshman competition with Glenbrook, Johann and Bill Martin paced their team. Johann captured three more firsts with best performances in the high and low hurdles and broad jump while Martin won the 880 and mile.

Other frosh firsts went to Tom Nelson in the pole vault and Coe Meyer in the high jump.

Wheeling sophomores now have won six straight meets and are 6-1 for the season. A 2-3 record was the result of the 'Cats lowest level triumph over Glenbrook.

Action came at both soph and frosh levels. The 'Cats sophomores won 61-39 while a 55-45 tally sent Pirates frosh to defeat.

LEADING WHEELING sophs to victory was Tom Johann. He was first in the high hurdles in 8.5, first in the low hurdles in 8.1 and first in the 50 yard dash in 6.0.

Five other top spots went to the winners. Scott Poklen took the 440 in 57.9, Len Maczko the shot with a heave of 38 feet, 8½ inches, and Bob Maslin the pole vault with the bar at 10 feet, six inches. The Wildcats four and 12 lap relay teams were best in 1:15.3 and 4:38.8 respectively.

Springer Specialty—

The Great Lakes English Springer Spaniel Breeders Assn. will hold its 23rd annual specialty show Friday, April 1, and will also take part in the International Kennel Club show to be held April 2 and 3. The Springer show will be held at 817 W. Exchange Ave., just north of the International location at the Amphitheatre. Conformation judge will be Maurice L. Baker of Minneapolis and futurity judge will be Newton L. Compere from Lake Forest.

In past years the GLESSBA show has been held in late summer at other locations, however, it was felt by club officers and members that the change in date and location would take advantage of the large entry usually had at the two-day International show. Because of this, the club expects entries from California, New York, Texas and Florida, as well as many from nearby states and our local area.

Officers of the association include: Becher Hungerford of Barrington, president; Mrs. Christine Kumbera, club and show secretary, Wheeling, and Mrs. Alice MacKinney, Elgin, treasurer. Members include Mr. and Mrs. Albert Herwig of Elk Grove Village and Elk Grove Kennels, who are considered among the best Springer fanciers. Official veterinarian for the specialty, and also be on call at the International, will be Dr. Ian W. Taylor, North Shore Animal Hospital of Wheeling.

GLESSBA will again be host at the annual dinner to be held the night of April 2 in the Founders Room of the Saddle and Sirloin Club at the Stock Yards Inn. For more information, contact John A. McGregor of Addison, 543-7771

Weimaraner Awards Banquet—

Installed for her second three-year term as governor when the Weimaraner Club of America, Midwest Region 11, held the annual installation and awards banquet on Feb. 25, was Mrs. Dee Muster of Bensenville. Past regional president, Lee Elkin, Northbrook, served as installing officer. Other officers installed were: Anthony Tadin, Park Ridge, president; Nelson Murphy, Villa Park, vice president; Mrs. Francis J. Smith, Elmhurst, secretary; and Mrs. Joseph Paradiso, La Grange, treasurer.

The group meets monthly in the conference room of the Reserve Savings and Loan, Elmhurst, and area residents interested in the breed or the club are invited to attend as guests the first Friday of each month. Additional information can be had from any officer or member of the club.

International Show—

With the entry closing last Tuesday, it will be of interest to see what the final total of entries will be for the International Kennel Club show, April 2 and 3. Ranking first among the more than 900 dog shows held in the United States last year, with an entry of 2,982 dogs of 111 different breeds, the forthcoming show, the 26th under sponsorship of the International Kennel Club of Chicago, will occupy a large part of the 10-acre area of the International Amphitheatre.

Show officials report 29 different breed specialty shows will be held in Chicago during the weekend of the International. Fifteen are scheduled Friday, April 1, the day before the International, and 14 others with the show.

Barks & Bays—

Thinking in terms of conformation judging, can you come up with a breed of dog that must have two dewclaws on each hind leg? Such a breed can't be given a prize if he does not. Jot your answer on a card and send it to me.

Falcons Athletes Honored Tonight

Forest View High School's winter sports award banquet will be held tonight (Thursday).

Site of the "pot-luck" affair will be the FV cafeteria. The dinner is scheduled to begin at 6:30 p.m.

Only varsity athletes and managers will receive their awards tonight. Lower level squads, including those representing Elk Grove, will be honored at a separate affair next Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

Coaches in each winter sport will hand out the awards at each gathering. Tonight varsity headmen Ken Arneson, basketball; Hal Henson, wrestling; Gay Hughes, gymnastics; and Keith North, swimming, will make the presentations.

It's about that time!

Meet The Sponsor: 9

Service A Feature At Morton Pontiac

(This is the ninth in a series of articles on the sponsors in the Paddock Classic bowling leagues for men and women.)

The working man who owns a tiger has a friend in Arlington Heights.

The friend—several friends, actually—can be found at 666 E. Northwest Highway. That's the address of tiger country in Arlington: Morton Pontiac.

And it's where the working man can find a feature rare at best at an auto dealership: evening service hours for tending to the tigers, or other cars purchased from Morton.

If you're among those who fret over getting your car repaired, checked or routinely maintained on that Saturday morning when you're not using it for work, you'd rejoice at the Morton solution. Five nights a week — six to nine p.m. Monday through Friday — Morton has a staff of service men on call, ready to handle just those problem jobs.

IT'S PART OF the availability to the public that's become a watchword at the Pontiac outlet. There is, of course, the regular Monday-through-Friday daytime service, beginning at 7:30 a.m. But Morton is also open seven days a week for its principal business: selling cars.

Morton Pontiac is equally immersed in an after-hours pursuit: bowling. The company is sponsor again of two teams, the entries bearing its name in the Paddock Classic Traveling League and the Paddock Women's Classic Traveling League. The relationship is an established one, as established as is Morton Pontiac in Arlington.

The dealership began dispensing Pontiacs in Arlington in January of 1956, when the business opened on an Evergreen Avenue location. There followed the familiar pattern in Northwest suburbia of moving and enlarging in a moving and enlarging community.

"AS THE TOWNS of this area — towns like Arlington and Elk Grove — grow, so does our business," reported Robert Schaeffer, office manager at Morton. "They grow together."

Evergreen Avenue couldn't hold Morton for long, and in 1958 the company transferred operations to 710 E. Northwest Highway. And in February of last year, the company moved again, hopping down the street to 666 East. There, with considerably enlarged facilities, Morton can display nine cars at a time in its showroom and can service two dozen at a time in the shop. To help meet the demands of a major auto dealership in a large community, the property at 710 has been retained for extra work.

The complex makes Morton one of the most important Pontiac agencies in the area, and the sales and service effort is designed to keep it that way. The company, Schaeffer said, is especially proud of the night servicing feature, and the customers doubtless appreciate it.

BUT THE COMPANY could also be proud of its bowling teams, because they've provided some of the biggest moments in the PCTL and PWCTL. Both call Arlington's Beverly Lanes home.

A Morton team entered the men's loop in the 1962-63 season, and a year later won the first round crown, only to lose in the season end roll-off. The current team, after a sixth place finish in the first half, is now in fifth, a point out of fourth, six out of third.

The team includes the league's number one and number two individual average men in Les Zikes Jr. (199.30), who's also president of the PCTL; and Bob Glaser (197.52). The other regulars include John Miller and George White with 186 averages, and Ernie Koche with a 185 standard.

Morton started its relationship with the newspaper chain by sponsoring the women's team, and it picked up all the riches in the 1961-62 season. The team came very close to another title last season, finishing 4½ points out of first in the first round and a half-point back in the second. There was a second place tie in this season's first round, and the team now rests fifth in the second round, two points out of fourth.

The ladies bowling in the name of Morton include Nancy Dietz, second in the PWCTL with a 176 average; Joan Lindahl, a 175-average bowler instrumental in formation of the league; Ruth Baurhyte, averaging 174; Vi Herman, averaging 158; and Judy Reed, averaging 154.

Though neither team is at the moment ruling a league, the potential is there. For in bowling as in cars, Morton Pontiac has some tigers going for it.

Gossard Girls Win BPAA Team Title

The Gossard Girls of Chicago became winners of the 10th Annual National Women's Team Bowling Championship sponsored by the Bowling Proprietors' Association of America recently at Sunset Bowl in Waukesha, Wis. Their 12 game total was 11,210.

The star-studded Gossard Quintet, captained by Flo Krumske, moved into 7th place after the first round, into 2nd after the 2nd, took the lead after three rounds, and continued a steady pace to the championship. The winning line-up included 1965 Woman Bowler of the Year Betty Kuczynski in the lead-off spot, Flo Krumske and Jean Winsch alternating in the second, Joan Holm third, Bobbie Shaler fourth, and 1966 BPAA All-Star Champion Joy Abel in the anchor position.

Joy appears weekly at the Thunderbird Bowl, 821 E. Rand Rd. in Mount Prospect, to give free bowling instruction. She is available for women and men students from 12:30 to 4:30 p.m. on Tuesdays and Wednesdays. '

This marked the second straight triumph for the Chicagoans, who won their first crown a year ago at Strike 'N Spare Bowl in Independence, Mo. For their championship the Gossard's collected $1,000 in prize money, championship trophies, and automatic qualification into the 1967 BPAA All-Star Tournament.

The 32 teams entered in this year's event bowled 4 three game blocks, two on Saturday and two on Sunday, with the Championship decided on the basis of total pinfall for the 12 games.

New Trier Captures Sectional Cage Title

BRUCE BROTHERS

It wasn't York that carried the West Suburban Conference banner into the sectional basketball tournament last week.

The highly regarded Dukes couldn't survive the regional firing.

It wasn't conference runnerup Arlington either. Or the two third place teams, Downers Grove and LaGrange. Or fifth place Glenbard West. Or sixth place Riverside. Or seventh place Hinsdale.

Only one West Suburban Conference team kicked up any fuss in the sectional tournaments in 1966—Maine East's surprising Blue Demons.

Bruce Brothers, an old hand at state tourney play after leading Quincy to a second place finish behind Hebron's famed Green Giants, was in a coaching capacity this time as Maine, eighth place team in the WSC, reached the championship game of the Arlington High Sectional.

NEW TRIER knocked off Maine East for the sectional title last Friday, 63-47, but Brothers' Blue Demons helped pull the basketball program from the depths at the Park Ridge school.

Maine was a winner in defeat. The Demons surprised a favored North Chicago team in the sectional opener, 70-57, and then gave a tall and highly touted New Trier five fits for three periods before wilting.

The Blue Demons finished the season with only seven victories in 26 games, but the fans will remember a whirlwind finish which netted four victories in tourney action.

MAINE REACHED sectional status with regional triumphs over Notre Dame (47-45), Maine West (52-51), and Maine South (46-45) . . .three victories by a total of four points.

Folks were still laughing at Brothers' surprising club last week (Wednesday) when they took the floor against a strong North Chicago team.

They weren't laughing when the final buzzer sounded.

Maine ripped open a tight game with a 27-point fourth quarter as it belted the favored Warhawks by 13 points, 70-57.

THE DEMONS marched along their merry way against a disorganized North Chicago team. The game was tight for three periods, but Maine jumped on top 49-37 early in the final stanza and coasted in with the victory.

Bob Leesley, who showed some deadly outside shooting at Arlington, topped the winners with 22 points. Rufus Woods, a sharpshooting junior, threw in some long bombs and finished with a game-high of 31 points for North Chicago.

Maine wasn't supposed to beat New Trier in the championship game Friday and they didn't, but Demon fans had something to shout about for three quarters.

THE TOWERING Indians of the Suburban League held a 39-32 lead after three stanzas and then turned on the power over the final eight minutes.

Maine was within two points with 2:30 remaining in the third quarter and Brothers was calling for one shot. But his players didn't hear or see the signal because of the crowd noise.

A shot went off, New Trier controlled the ball and scored, and the Indians then proceeded to pad their advantage with some last-minute fireworks.

LARRY ROSENWEIG, who scored 36 points in New Trier's 79-63 victory over Prospect on Thursday evening, was checked with seven markers over the first half by a sagging Maine East defense, but the big senior replied with 17 in the final two periods.

Tom Anderson, a 6-3 senior, helped out with some long-range work that produced eight baskets and 20 points.

Maine East featured a two-man attack with Leesley firing in 23 points and Craig MacGregor 20. Only one other Blue Demon scored.

New Trier operated without regular John Holmes (6-3) in both tourney games. Holmes, the second high scorer on the Indian quintet, was shelved with illness.

'Cats Relays Next Friday

Second annual version of the Wildcat Relays will be staged next Friday (March 25) at Wheeling.

Taking part in the relays will be entries from Arlington, Conant, Forest View, Glenbrook North and South, Prospect, Palatine and the host school.

Competition will take place on both the varsity and frosh-soph levels. Last year the Knights took varsity honors by a wide margin over second place GS. First in frosh-soph action was GS with Conant second. The Cards were third at both levels.

Four field events, shot, high and broad jump and pole vault, will start the meet at 4:30 p.m. At 5:00 p.m. preliminaries and semi-finals will be staged in high and low hurdles, the 50, 440 and 880 yard dashes, the mile and four and 12 lap relays. Finals will start at 7:00 p.m.

Mount Prospect Sign-Up Slated For This Friday

A special registration for the Mount Prospect Baseball Association for Boys will be held Friday, March 18, from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Mount Prospect Community Center (formerly Mount Prospect Country Club).

All boys between the ages of nine and 16 are eligible to play in the Mount Prospect program. Birth date must fall on or after Aug. 1, 1949 and before Aug. 1, 1957.

New boys in the program must bring their birth certificates to the registration.

Third Straight Title

Cards' Frosh Win Again in Tourney

Champions for the third straight year.

That's Arlington High School's frosh 'A' basketball team.

The young Cardinals ripped McHenry last week (Wednesday), 50-40, in the title game of the Barrington freshman basketball tournament.

Arlington had advanced into the title bout with victories over Conant and Prospect.

The championship was the third straight for Arlington entries in Barrington tourney play. Ted Ecker guided an unbeaten Cardinal team to the 1964 title, and Tom Pitchford was at the helm when Arlington won the 1965 crown.

Pitchford's Cards finished the 1965-66 season with a 12-7 record after sweeping to the tourney crown. The 1964-65 unit had an identical mark.

Dean Schmelzer paced the Cardinal plebes to the 10-point win over McHenry as he dialed 22 points to finish with 48 in three tourney games.

Jim Baumgartner followed Schmelzer against McHenry and for the tourney. The frosh guard had 11 against McHenry and 41 in three tourney outings.

Arlington pulled away from McHenry with a snappy 15-1 advantage in the second period. The Cardinals held a 40-23 lead heading into the concluding segment.

Arlington didn't score a basket in the final quarter but cashed in with ten free throws.

Members of the victorious Arlington frosh team were Schmelzer, Baumgartner, Bill Harris, Scott Walker, Al Feldman, Bill Stelling, David Steele, Tom White, Ken Jorgensen, Somers, Mike McGann, Chris Buttenob, and Steve Lee.

SCORE BY QUARTERS:

Arlington	12	15	13	10—50
McHenry	12	1	10	17—40

The group meets monthly in the conference room of the Reserve Savings and Loan, Elmhurst, and area residents interested in the breed or the club are invited to attend as guests the first Friday of each month. Additional information can be had from any officer or member of the club.

International Show—

With the entry closing last Tuesday, it will be of interest to see what the final total of entries will be for the International Kennel Club show, April 2 and 3. Ranking first among the more than 900 dog shows held in the United States last year, with an entry of 2,982 dogs of 111 different breeds, the forthcoming show, the 26th under sponsorship of the International Kennel Club of Chicago, will occupy a large part of the 10-acre area of the International Amphitheatre.

Show officials report 29 different breed specialty shows will be held in Chicago during the weekend of the International. Fifteen are scheduled Friday, April 1, the day before the International, and 14 others with the show.

And in February of last year, the company moved again, hopping down the street to 666 East. There, with considerably enlarged facilities, Morton can display nine cars at a time in its showroom and can service two dozen at a time in the shop. To help meet the demands of a major auto dealership in a large community, the property at 710 has been retained for extra work.

The complex makes Morton one of the most important Pontiac agencies in the area, and the sales and service effort is designed to keep it that way. The company, Schaeffer said, is especially proud of the night servicing feature, and the customers doubtless appreciate it.

BUT THE COMPANY could also be proud of its bowling teams, because they've provided some of the biggest moments in the PCTL and PWCTL. Both call Arlington's Beverly Lanes home.

A Morton team entered the men's loop in the 1962-63 season, and a year later won the first round crown, only to lose in the season end roll-off. The current team, after a sixth place finish in the first half, is now in fifth, a point out of fourth, six out of third.

The team includes the league's number one and number two individual average men in Les Zikes Jr. (199.30), who's also president of the PCTL; and Bob Glaser (197.52). The other regulars include John Miller and George White with 186 averages, and Ernie Koche with a 185 standard.

Morton started its relationship with the newspaper chain by sponsoring the women's team, and it picked up all the riches in the 1961-62 season. The team came very close to another title last season, finishing 4½ points out of first in the first round and a half-point back in the second. There was a second place tie in this season's first round, and the team now rests fifth in the second round, two points out of fourth.

The ladies bowling in the name of Morton include Nancy Dietz, second in the PWCTL with a 176 average; Joan Lindahl, a 175-average bowler instrumental in formation of the league; Ruth Baurhyte, averaging 174; Vi Herman, averaging 158; and Judy Reed, averaging 154.

Though neither team is at the moment ruling a league, the potential is there. For in bowling as in cars, Morton Pontiac has some tigers going for it.

New Trier Captures Sectional Cage Title

It wasn't York that carried the West Suburban Conference banner into the sectional basketball tournament last week.

The highly regarded Dukes couldn't survive the regional firing.

It wasn't conference runnerup Arlington either. Or the two third place teams, Downers Grove and LaGrange. Or fifth place Glenbard West. Or sixth place Riverside. Or seventh place Hinsdale.

Only one West Suburban Conference team kicked up any fuss in the sectional tournaments in 1966—Maine East's surprising Blue Demons.

Bruce Brothers, an old hand at state tourney play after leading Quincy to a second place finish behind Hebron's famed Green Giants, was in a coaching capacity this time as Maine, eighth place team in the WSC, reached the championship game of the Arlington High Sectional.

NEW TRIER knocked off Maine East for the sectional title last Friday, 63-47, but Brothers' Blue Demons helped pull the basketball program from the depths at the Park Ridge school.

Maine was a winner in defeat. The Demons surprised a favored North Chicago team in the sectional opener, 70-57, and then gave a tall and highly touted New Trier five fits for three periods before wilting.

The Blue Demons finished the season with only seven victories in 26 games, but the fans will remember a whirlwind finish which netted four victories in tourney action.

MAINE REACHED sectional status with regional triumphs over Notre Dame (47-45), Maine West (52-51), and Maine South (46-45) . . .three victories by a total of four points.

Folks were still laughing at Brothers' surprising club last week (Wednesday) when they took the floor against a strong North Chicago team.

They weren't laughing when the final buzzer sounded.

Maine ripped open a tight game with a 27-point fourth quarter as it belted the favored Warhawks by 13 points, 70-57.

THE DEMONS marched along their merry way against a disorganized North Chicago team. The game was tight for three periods, but Maine jumped on top 49-37 early in the final stanza and coasted in with the victory.

Bob Leesley, who showed some deadly outside shooting at Arlington, topped the winners with 22 points. Rufus Woods, a sharpshooting junior, threw in some long bombs and finished with a game-high of 31 points for North Chicago.

Maine wasn't supposed to beat New Trier in the championship game Friday and they didn't, but Demon fans had something to shout about for three quarters.

THE TOWERING Indians of the Suburban League held a 39-32 lead after three stanzas and then turned on the power over the final eight minutes.

Maine was within two points with 2:30 remaining in the third quarter and Brothers was calling for one shot. But his players didn't hear or see the signal because of the crowd noise.

A shot went off, New Trier controlled the ball and scored, and the Indians then proceeded to pad their advantage with some last-minute fireworks.

LARRY ROSENWEIG, who scored 36 points in New Trier's 79-63 victory over Prospect on Thursday evening, was checked with seven markers over the first half by a sagging Maine East defense, but the big senior replied with 17 in the final two periods.

Tom Anderson, a 6-3 senior, helped out with some long-range work that produced eight baskets and 20 points.

Maine East featured a two-man attack with Leesley firing in 23 points and Craig MacGregor 20. Only one other Blue Demon scored.

New Trier operated without regular John Holmes (6-3) in both tourney games. Holmes, the second high scorer on the Indian quintet, was shelved with illness.

Cards' Frosh Win Again in Tourney

Champions for the third straight year.

That's Arlington High School's frosh 'A' basketball team.

The young Cardinals ripped McHenry last week (Wednesday), 50-40, in the title game of the Barrington freshman basketball tournament.

Arlington had advanced into the title bout with victories over Conant and Prospect.

The championship was the third straight for Arlington entries in Barrington tourney play. Ted Ecker guided an unbeaten Cardinal team to the 1964 title, and Tom Pitchford was at the helm when Arlington won the 1965 crown.

Pitchford's Cards finished the 1965-66 season with a 12-7 record after sweeping to the tourney crown. The 1964-65 unit had an identical mark.

Dean Schmelzer paced the Cardinal plebes to the 10-point win over McHenry as he dialed 22 points to finish with 48 in three tourney games.

Jim Baumgartner followed Schmelzer against McHenry and for the tourney. The frosh guard had 11 against McHenry and 41 in three tourney outings.

Arlington pulled away from McHenry with a snappy 15-1 advantage in the second period. The Cardinals held a 40-23 lead heading into the concluding segment.

Arlington didn't score a basket in the final quarter but cashed in with ten free throws.

Members of the victorious Arlington frosh team were Schmelzer, Baumgartner, Bill Harris, Scott Walker, Al Feldman, Bill Stelling, David Steele, Tom White, Ken Jorgensen, Somers, Mike McGann, Chris Buttenob, and Steve Lee.

SCORE BY QUARTERS:

Arlington	12	15	13	10—50
McHenry	12	1	10	17—40

Tells Reasons for Resigning From Gregory School PTA Board

Enclosed find a copy of my resignation to the President of Gregory PTA. I have been real active at Gregory School this past year.

My purpose in working has been to serve the school and for no other reason.

I do not wish to oppose the superintendent or the school board. I feel they are qualified to administer school policy.

"Dear Mrs. Ferguson:

"After the School Board meeting, I came home and gave serious thought to what has been happening at Gregory School between the PTA board and other members of the school body.

"I accepted the chairmanship of the Ways and Means Committee with the understanding that a good relationship between school and parents was the goal of the PTA.

"Being a newcomer to Gregory School and to Mount Prospect, I was interested in meeting people and making friends. I have enjoyed working with the parents and hope my committee has served in the best interest of the school.

"Since there is some doubt in my mind as to the goal of PTA, I wish to resign from the PTA board and my chairmanship as of March 8, 1966.

"I do not want to partake in this dispute with the school board and Dr. Sahlberg. These men appear to me to be very capable to administer school policy. I feel this is an issue between Mr. Haney and the school board."

Bill Griffith Praised as 'Best Friend'

Somewhat belatedly I became concerned with the recent developments and decisions of the school board of High School District 214. Since my sons will soon enter high school, I felt that it was high time that I took the time to learn of the proposals and form an opinion.

Last summer and fall, the administration of High School 214 submitted to the board of education numerous programs involving use of federal funds. They included a $1,500,000 cultural center, $70,000 for a planetarium, plus a ceramics center and Neighborhood Youth Corps.

Since then the name of school board member Bill Griffith has been frequently mentioned in the press as having questioned the school district's federal aid proposals. His questioning of such requests is sometimes reported in the press in a manner which depicts him as the anti-federal aid villain.

Like Bill Griffith, I grew up in Arlington Heights and I know him. I feel that those local citizens who have been following this controversy and do not know him personally should get to know a little of his background.

Mr. Griffith has the distinction of being the one member of the current board who received his elementary and high-school education in the local schools. While a student at Arlington High School in the early 1940's he was twice elected class president. During his high school era he was a spirited competitor on the baseball and football athletic field. In football Griffith earned a starting berth at center and a team co-captaincy despite weighing only 140 pounds.

After high school he enlisted in the Army Air Corps for a two-year stint. Continuing to display a competitive zeal, Bill began his quest for a college education after receiving his service discharge. This quest required a period of working during the day and attending college classes at night. It required a period of dropping out of school for a year and working two jobs in order to earn enough money to finish his schooling at Albion College in Albion, Mich.

Twelve years ago he started his own business in the local area. During this period he also has found time to devote to church work and civic functions with the American Legion, Chamber of Commerce, Youth Commission, and several of the local fund drives.

Bill Griffith respects the heritage of this district. He realizes that the area is constantly changing, but also believes that these changes should not necessarily mean a sacrifice of certain fundamental principles inherent in this community. One of the principles is the local responsibility of the citizens in the field of education.

So there you have it. I've also found that although Bill appears to stand alone on the school board and is subject to much abuse, he represents the thinking of most of the people of Arlington Heights. It is my personal opinion that Bill and Ruth Griffith are two of the best friends Arlington has.

Dislikes School Board's Scoffing At Proposal

When I first read the article, "School District 211 Scoffs at Federal Proposal," I thought that Paddock should not have published the article. After thinking about it for a few minutes, I not only feel Paddock should have published it, but the citizens in the area of Paddock owe a great deal of thanks for the article. It is the responsibility of the press to inform the citizens of the school boards that represent the people.

We elect school boards and give them the responsibility of determining the educational program of our children. To say the least, we expect them to act as prudent and rational people.

Our 211 school board laughed at a serious proposal developed by school district 15. It does not matter whether or not they like, accept, or reject the proposal, but it does matter that instead of reading and going over it carefully, they laughed and scoffed at it. Is this acting rationally or prudently?

One of the members referred to Virgil Bass as a "stuffed shirt." I don't know about the stuffiness, but I do know that he has been the sustaining factor in the Northwest Council for Migrant Aid; is one of the founders of Norwesco; and has been the unifying force in the medical and dental clinic for the indigent members of our community, not to mention many other community services. Is this the mark of a prudent and rational board.?

Norwesco, according to one of the 211 board members, is a bunch of "do-gooders." Also they admit they really don't know much about it. Another example of a prudent and rational board?

The actions of the 211 board will not affect nor hurt School District 15, Virgil Bass, or Norwesco. They have done a most adequate job in telling us the kind of people who are responsible for our children's education. Thank you Paddock for letting us know.

Reader Supports Dr. Sahlberg, School Board

I wish to state my support for Dr. Sahlberg and Mr. Hanna and the other members of District 57 school board.

I have no doubt in my mind that the children's education and welfare are their principal concern when making decisions concerning personnel. Only quality education for our children is the real concern. Emotional parents do not always have all the facts at hand regarding these decisions. I have confidence in their ability.

Viet Children's Eyes Sparkled On Getting Toys

(Capt. Donald Krober of Arlington Heights, whose letter in the Fencepost spurred a Viet Nam toy collection drive among Wheeling Township Republican organizations, has been transferred from the Can Gio province to Saigon. Colonel Reidenbaugh completed distribution of the toys collected here.)

The 87th American Advisory Team is deeply indebted to those of you who contributed financially and physically to the toy donation for Can Gio Subsector, Viet Nam. Can Gio Subsector has been absorbed by elements of this Advisory Team, thus the packages were received by us for distribution to Vietnamese children.

Toys have been distributed to children in Tan Uyen in the province of Bien Hoa. Tan Uyen lies in a bend of the Dong Ngai River, the far bank of which is in Viet Cong hands, while the near bank is crowded with refugees and their children. Most of these children have never had a toy in their entire childhood. The sparkle that comes in their eyes and the grin on their faces as they clutch, and clutch is the only adequate term, the toy pays for all your time and trouble in providing these gifts.

Distribution was also made in Xuan Loc, the main provincial village of Long Khanh Sector. Most of the population of Xuan Loc is Christian and many are refugees from Viet Cong terrorism in the highlands. These children, even less fortunate than the settled peasant child, were almost speechless at first and then the air was filled with what you would call war whoops. Piping, shrill, little voices screaming "come on, come on" which is Vietnamese for "thank you, thank you."

Our attempts to explain the source of the toys were always met by "Amerika, Amerika." So you see, my fellow Americans, although the children do not understand the term Illinois, or even a street name, they do understand the name of a generous, kind people in a land 8,000 miles to the West. This then is your reward for your kindness, and to those of us who serve as your representatives in Viet Nam it is a glowing deserved reward. America, America — we, your fellow Americans of the 87th Advisory Team, thank you in the name of the Vietnamese children who benefited from your generosity.

Should Village Run Its Own Rubbish Service?

The privately owned scavenger service that provides refuse collection service to Arlington Heights has informed the Village that it cannot continue to operate at present contract prices, and has asked for relief.

Rather than allow them at this time to determine what price is required to allow them a reasonable profit, and increase the cost of the service to this amount, why not release them from the present contract, and open the service contract to competitive bidding again.

Arlington Heights does have another choice, of course. Now that we are on the verge of expansion to a community of almost 100,000 population in the next ten years, why not consider the possibility of operating this service as a Village department. The present contractor indicates that at current billing rates he operates in the black, but not at a reasonable profit; by eliminating the middleman at this point, the Village could take over this service on a self supporting basis, with the prospect of a profitable operation within the near future.

Since few larger communities find it feasible to employ private contractors for this service, this might be the time to make the change.

'Shock of My Life' Reported By Veteran Precinct Captain

This is too good. I can't take it and sit still.

Last night I filled in by proxy for an old time Republican precinct captain of Prospect Heights at a regular meeting of the captains at the Prospect Plaza headquarters.

Did I get the shock of my life. You can just darn bet I did. After 20 odd years in this township, I thought I had seen about everything, but this "railroad" was different.

By canvassing the new captains, relatively uninformed men, before the meeting to a plurality, they rigged the meeting so no motion would be presented unless it would go their way. Then they put the motion and what do you know - it passed 55 to 1, with some 20 odd smart guys passing.

There was quite a spell of "speaking on the motion," because (1) it was in the bag and (2) some of the fellows smelled something but couldn't pin it down. They knew they lacked unity, they knew this action was not supposed to take place until a future date, but without being organized they participated in a beautiful "railroad" that I hope wakes the sleeping Republicans in Wheeling Township and stops the "Liberals" from taking over.

As a past president of the Prospect Heights Improvement Assoc., I am well aware of the lack of representation our group gets, but if this kind of politics keeps up, none of us will be represented.

'Spring Fever' Hits Again

Once again we seem to be in the throes of "Mount Prospect Spring Fever." The fever breaks immediately after school board elections in April.

This year the excitement also involves two principals in our school system. Regardless of our personal regard for our own principal, the fact remains that Dr. Sahlberg has recommended these changes only after thorough assessment of their qualifications.

The school board has backed his recommendations, also after careful study and long conferences. This is legal according to Illinois law.

We have an excellent, well-qualified administrator. I suggest we allow him to administrate-

Sports Staff Praised for Excellent Job

As secretary of the Mid-Suburban athletic directors and on behalf of this group and our winter sports coaches, we extend our sincerest gratitude and appreciation to you and your staff for the fine coverage Paddock Publications has given to our athletic programs. Our attempts to explain the source of the toys were always met by "Amerika, Amerika." So you see, my fellow Americans, although the children do not understand the term Illinois, or even a street name, they do understand the name of a generous, kind people in a land 8,000 miles to the West. This then is your reward for your kindness, and to those of us who serve as your representatives in Viet Nam it is a glowing deserved reward. America, America — we, your fellow Americans of the 87th Advisory Team, thank you in the name of the Vietnamese children who benefited from your generosity.

Should Village Run Its Own Rubbish Service?

The privately owned scavenger service that provides refuse collection service to Arlington Heights has informed the Village that it cannot continue to operate at present contract prices, and has asked for relief.

Rather than allow them at this time to determine what price is required to allow them a reasonable profit, and increase the cost of the service to this amount, why not release them from the present contract, and open the service contract to competitive bidding again.

Arlington Heights does have another choice, of course. Now that we are on the verge of expansion to a community of almost 100,000 population in the next ten years, why not consider the possibility of operating this service as a Village department. The present contractor indicates that at current billing rates he operates in the black, but not at a reasonable profit; by eliminating the middleman at this point, the Village could take over this service on a self supporting basis, with the prospect of a profitable operation within the near future.

Since few larger communities find it feasible to employ private contractors for this service, this might be the time to make the change.

'Shock of My Life' Reported By Veteran Precinct Captain

This is too good. I can't take it and sit still.

Last night I filled in by proxy for an old time Republican precinct captain of Prospect Heights at a regular meeting of the captains at the Prospect Plaza headquarters.

Did I get the shock of my life. You can just darn bet I did. After 20 odd years in this township, I thought I had seen about everything, but this "railroad" was different.

By canvassing the new captains, relatively uninformed men, before the meeting to a plurality, they rigged the meeting so no motion would be presented unless it would go their way. Then they put the motion and what do you know - it passed 55 to 1, with some 20 odd smart guys passing.

There was quite a spell of "speaking on the motion," because (1) it was in the bag and (2) some of the fellows smelled something but couldn't pin it down. They knew they lacked unity, they knew this action was not supposed to take place until a future date, but without being organized they participated in a beautiful "railroad" that I hope wakes the sleeping Republicans in Wheeling Township and stops the "Liberals" from taking over.

As a past president of the Prospect Heights Improvement Assoc., I am well aware of the lack of representation our group gets, but if this kind of politics keeps up, none of us will be represented.

'Spring Fever' Hits Again

Once again we seem to be in the throes of "Mount Prospect Spring Fever." The fever breaks immediately after school board elections in April.

This year the excitement also involves two principals in our school system. Regardless of our personal regard for our own principal, the fact remains that Dr. Sahlberg has recommended these changes only after thorough assessment of their qualifications.

The school board has backed his recommendations, also after careful study and long conferences. This is legal according to Illinois law.

We have an excellent, well-qualified administrator. I suggest we allow him to administrate-

Sports Staff Praised for Excellent Job

As secretary of the Mid-Suburban athletic directors and on behalf of this group and our winter sports coaches, we extend our sincerest gratitude and appreciation to you and your staff for the fine coverage Paddock Publications has given to our athletic programs. We are indeed fortunate to have a newspaper in our area which is so willing to take the approach toward the importance of athletics that your paper does.

There has never been any doubt in my mind or anyone else's that Paddock Publications is very fortunate to have such a fine sports editor and sports staff as they have.

Again, thanks, and may our relations always be as outstanding as it has been in the past.

The Way We See It

Law Enforcement Needs Investment

Many citizens were jolted recently by the headline "Crime Rate Up in Suburbs." The story beneath was about an FBI report of an 8 per cent increase in suburban crime rates in 1965—an increase that paced the nation's crime rise.

Queried about the cause, many suburban police chiefs noted rapid suburban population growth and pointed out that criminals can join the exodus from the cities, too.

It is a delusion to assume that booming suburbs automatically will retain the placid village character they had a decade or so ago. Crime goes where people go, unless communities are prepared to prevent its intrusion.

It is also a delusion to think that actual or potential suburban crime problems can be solved without an investment in manpower and equipment.

This is not to say suburban police forces are marking time while crime grows. Most police forces we know have made striking progress since their communities ceased being sleepy country towns.

These police forces boast well-trained men, who know and use the newest law enforcement methods. They have been freed from most political influences. They operate as professionals, take pride in their work, and enjoy the respect of the citizenry.

However, even the best departments find it increasingly difficult to cope with the demands made upon them.

Burglaries are on the rise, as thieves search out the more affluent suburban homes. Traffic problems increase and the manpower isn't there to patrol all the streets where speeding is a problem or to direct traffic at intersections where cars are jammed up.

To make matters worse, resignations of experienced, trained policemen are not uncommon because it becomes too difficult to support a family on a policeman's pay.

Municipal boards and councils are in the midst of making up budgets for the next fiscal year. Now is the time for each town to conduct a concrete examination of its own law enforcement situation. Has crime increased? If not, why not? Is pay adequate for the time and skill required? Do police have the equipment they need?

If the answers indicate existence of problems, the budgets should reflect an effort to solve them. Delay would make solutions doubly difficult.

Taxpayers who have moved to pleasant suburban communities will support the expenditures needed to maintain them as safe, law-abiding communities.

Helene Bristol Fund

Local educators' efforts to honor the late Helene Bristol with a scholarship fund may lead to an even bigger plan to aid deserving scholars. Mrs. Bristol served as education editor of Paddock Publications before her death December 31.

In determining the criteria for awarding the scholarships, the committee pointed out that there was great need for funds to help area students fight the rising costs of college attendance. It was suggested that the Helene Bristol Memorial Fund might stimulate local industry, business, and civic organizations to donate money to a fund which would administer grants to graduates of Districts 214 and 211.

Many organizations presently sponsor scholarships of varying amounts. Other groups or businessmen have been hesitant since the amounts they could contribute would hardly put a student through college. A central fund could organize and combine contributions while giving recognition to the contributors. Whether this fund would grow out of the Helene Bristol Memorial Scholarships or whether the Helene Bristol scholarships would be a part of the larger fund has not been determined. However, either possibility would be just recognition of the role Mrs. Bristol played in the interest of local schools.

The recipient of a Helene Bristol Scholarship 20 years from now will know little of the person for whom the stipend is named. The scholarship not only will remind the recipient and others of the esteem enjoyed by the education writer but will emphasize that one need not be a nationally known figure in order to earn his fellows' appreciation. Each community has its challenge, and here, in our own suburbs, each cause has its need for Helene Bristols.

An Ideal Choice

President Johnson's message of Feb. 23 on conservation and pollution included a call for a Clean Rivers Demonstration Program which might very well be applied to the Des Plaines River basin.

Certainly the Des Plaines River is polluted and cleaning it up is of immediate importance to a great many people.

The proposed Clean Rivers Demonstration Program has four requirements:

1—Adoption of water quality standards.

2—Comprehensive, long-range, practical planning by states and communities.

3—Formation of a river basin organization to carry out the plan.

4—Financial participation by local communities.

Of course, the federal contribution would cover a large part of the cost of any particular project.

Although the President's ultimate goal is to clean all America's rivers, the immediate aim is a few pilot projects. He asked $50 million to begin the program.

The Des Plaines River basin could be the ideal choice as a beginning project for several reasons:

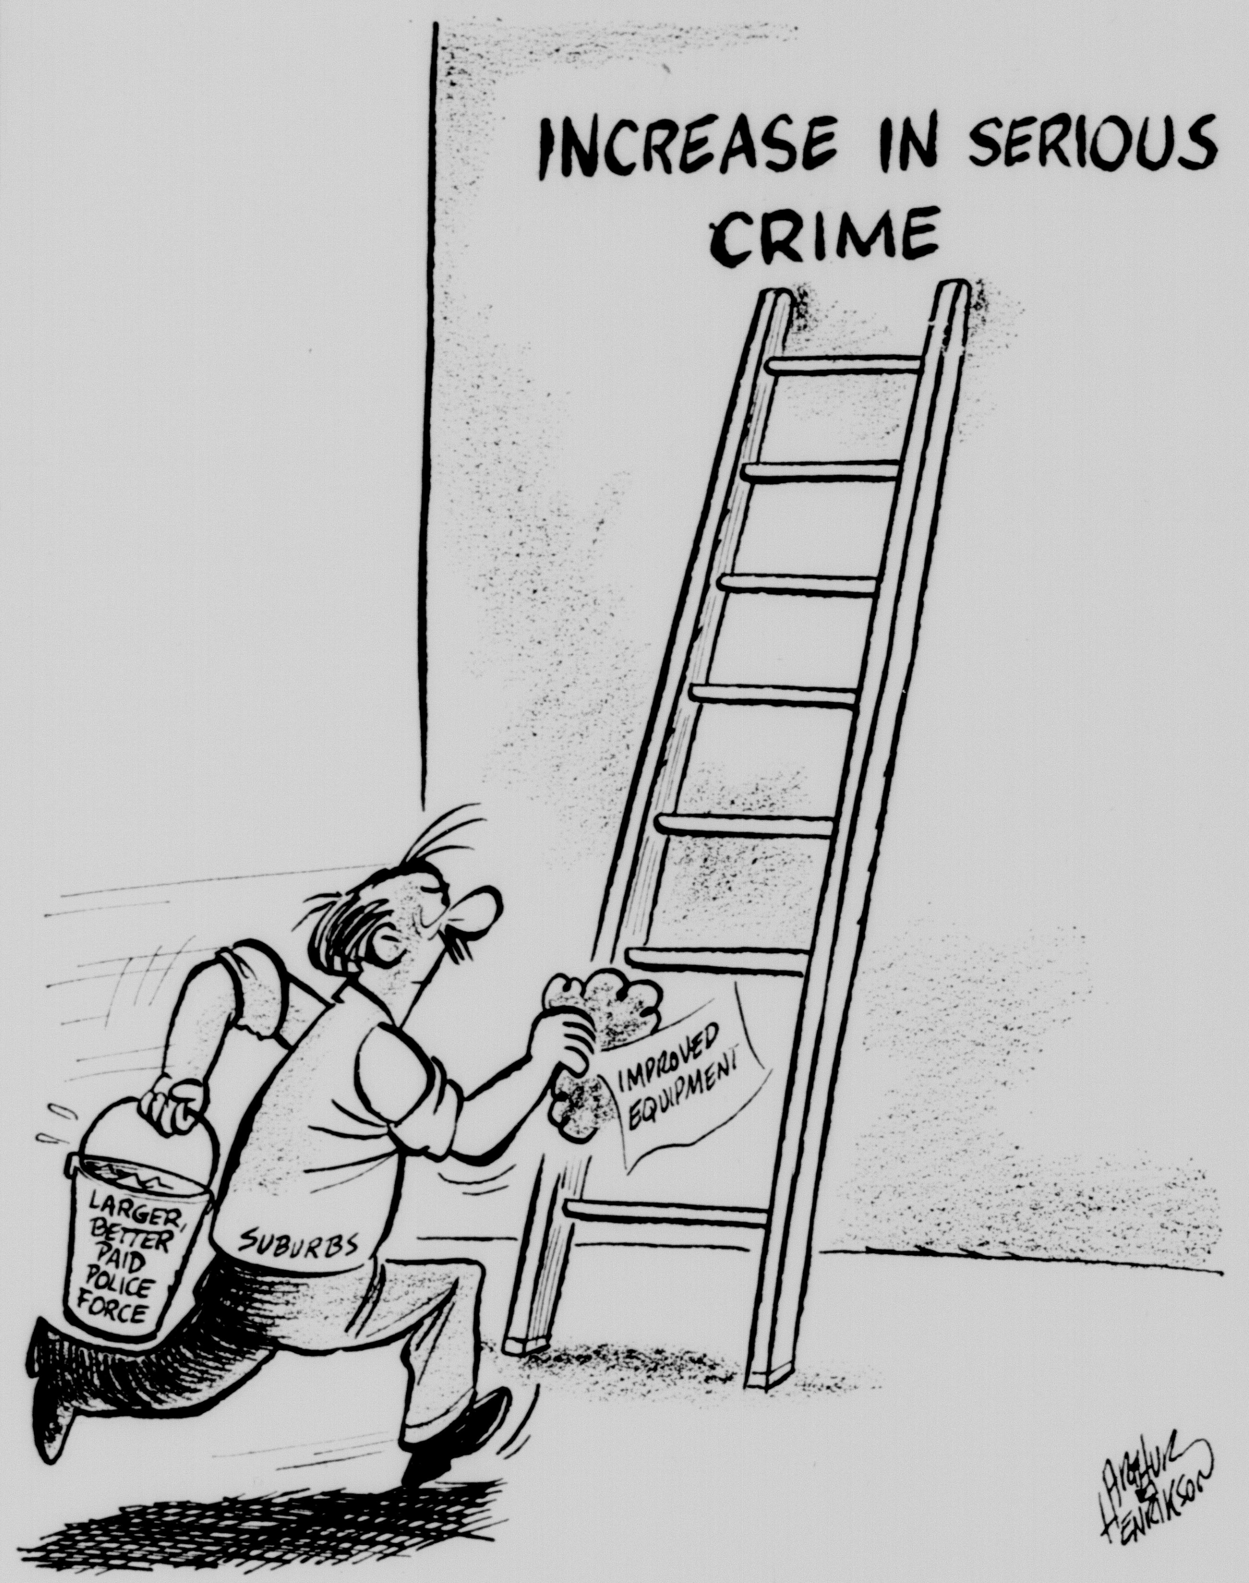
—It is a small river.

—It flows in a well-populated metropolitan area.

—A joint Illinois-Wisconsin study commission on pollution and flooding is already in operation.

Inclusion of the Des Plaines River in the demonstration deserves prompt investigation by members of the Illinois-Wisconsin commission, by the area's legislators, and by municipal officials.

Let's Wipe It Out!



Behind the Headlines

Drainage Dilemma

By DAVID HANKS
Staff Writer

Building development and the natural drainage concept sometimes clash in fast growing areas such as the northwest suburbs.

The Illinois Drainage law, which is derived from ancient civil law, says "surface water must drain off in a natural depression or channel."

In effect, this means property owners on lower land must receive water flowing naturally from property at a higher level.

HANKS

Village attorneys contend this has caused some problems and controversies in the past. Developers have interfered with the natural drainage pattern. But village boards, seeing the problems this causes, have adopted ordinances which prevent builders from interfering with natural drainage.

Drainage plans must also be submitted to most villages, along with building plans, when a development is proposed, Arlington Heights Village Atty. Jack Siegel said.

Penalties or fines are usually among the punishments prescribed for violators. These fines are generally imposed daily until the situation is corrected.

The Illinois Supreme court adopted the law of natural drainage even before the legislature acted upon it. In a historic decision in 1869 the high court said, "no other rule (except natural drainage) was equitable and easily applied."

THE PROBLEM created when developments are constructed is that sometimes buildings and grading of the area diverts surface water to lands which do not naturally receive drainage. Land which normally would not have water drained on to it then becomes flooded.

Lawyers say that in cases of this nature the person being flooded can file a suit against the person diverting the water asking that he halt the alteration of natural drainage.

A legal battle may be shaping up in the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove area. Richard Brown, developer of Cambridge Countryside development in Buffalo Grove, said recently he plans to construct storm sewers which will surface near the Wheeling limits.

THIS WOULD, in effect, dump water into Wheeling's Westbrook Farms and Babiarz subdivisions.

Brown claims that "the natural flow of water" is toward the east through Wheeling. But Wheeling contends that by construction of the homes in the subdivision, Brown is altering the natural flow of water, thus causing drainage toward the east which would not be there if the development wasn't.

If Brown does change the natural flow of surface water, residents in the two Wheeling subdivisions could file suits asking that he be prohibited from building.

Wheeling Atty. Paul Hamer said it is not likely that the village itself would file against Brown.

Although a property owner cannot alter the natural drain of water this does not preclude him from making certain changes which enhance the value of his property.

HERE ARE some of the things he can do: 1) widen, deepen, or clean natural depressions carrying his surface water; 2) straighten out channels on his property to accelerate the movement of surface water; 3) drain ponds in the direction they would overflow; 4) construct grass waterways, check dams, terraces or other soil conservation structures that DO NOT alter the natural drainage of water.

Many times an owner of lowland areas wants to prevent water from coming to his land.

But most of what he would plan is prohibited by the Illinois Natural Drainage law. For example he cannot 1) obstruct water from coming from higher lands by a dam; change the point of entry of surface water needlessly with malicious intent to the material damage of the land below his.

Over the years there have been some enlargements of rules of natural drainage.

For instance a property owner may extend a natural drain across the property of others when it is necessary to secure a property outlet. However, when this is done he must follow certain requirements in state statutes.

One also may connect to drains along public highways with the consent of highway commissions.

Merchandising Academe

The president of an Iowa college has jarred the academic world with his program for putting college on a business basis.

Under his regime, the halls of ivy must pay their way.

He recruits professors with as much ardor as a supermarket chain recruiting butchers. Students pay full fare. And courses which don't attract an enrollment are dropped from the catalogue summarily.

CUMMINS

This puts the faculty on their toes. Those who teach English composition or American history are fairly safe. But professors of poetry or Portuguese are in quite precarious positions.

Listen, then judge for yourself:

PRESIDENT: Prof. Baffsope, I've called you in to discuss your course in 17th Century Alsatian Drama. You are aware, I presume, that so far only three students have enrolled?

PROFESSOR: Yes, sir. Terrible, isn't it, the way interest in the classic theatre of Alsace seems to be declining? I hope we can keep the torch burning here in Iowa, however.

PRESIDENT: Baffsope, I must tell you that the torch is beginning to flicker.

PROFESSOR: Oh, no, sir. Don't say it. Please. Oh, what can I do?

PRESIDENT: Do what Prof. Clamfork did when enrollment lagged in Ancient Roman Band Instruments. Use modern merchandising methods. You saw his ads. "Clip This Coupon!! It Entitles You to a Passing Grade on the Mid-semester Exam!" Baffsope, that ad had such wonderful pulling power that today Iowa is the acknowledged center of ancient Roman band instrument study. Clamfork had to turn them away.

My informant reports that Prof. Baffsope has outdone Prof. Clamfork, if that is possible, with a superb merchandising campaign on behalf of the 17th Century Alsatian Drama.

First, he had dozens of cartons of matchbooks printed up with the legend "The 17th Century Alsatian Drama is the hottest course on campus." He passed these out in the favorite student hangouts.

Then he bought 10-second spot announcements on the Mal Bellairs show for one week.

He followed this up with a big one-cent sale. "Sign up for the 17th Century Alsatian Drama at full price and get the 18th Century Alsatian Drama for only one cent more!"

HE WORKED out a wonderful stamp deal whereby all students who signed up for Alsatian Drama before Homecoming got 500 extra Plaid stamps.

He ran a fantastic queen contest, whereby everyone who enrolled in 17th Century Alsatian Drama got to cast 10 votes for Campus Queen.

Soon his success was so enormous that he had to send distress calls to Harvard to ship out teaching fellows to handle the Alsatian Drama load.

At the start of the second semester, Alsatian Drama became such a big business that he thought it should be publicly owned, and so he incorporated it and listed its stock on the Midwest Exchange.

Market analysts, ever on the alert for hot growth possibilities, began touting it.

IN THEIR market bulletins, they wrote, "If you had bought one share of General Motors in 1911, you would be a millionaire today. Will the same thing happen to 17th Century Alsatian Drama?"

Yes, its a fabulous story of free enterprise at its best. I don't dare predict how far Prof. Baffsope may go. He's already on the board of two or three big banks. Along with professors of paleontology, comparative linguistics, and crustacean physiology.

Look to the colleges for tomorrow's economic giants!

Critic's Corner

Governmental Job Protests

by JACK NEUKOM
Staff Writer

Why is it that protest groups are immediately organized whenever a governmental body discharges or demotes one of its employes?

Are teachers, building inspectors, city managers, clerks, policemen, firemen, and all the other millions employed by taxing bodies throughout the country immune from being disciplined or fired?

Grocery stores do it. Manufacturers do it. Contractors do it. Even men in the Teamsters union or members of the United Auto Workers are released from their jobs when they don't stack up to the work involved.

A next door neighbor can be fired from his sales position, or let loose after 20 years with the "foundry" and all that's said is: "Poor Joe. I wonder where he'll get a job at his age."

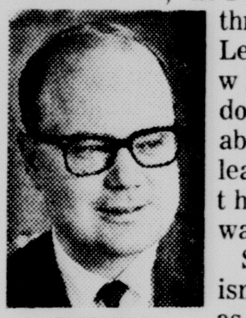
BUT IS "Poor Joe" any different than a person employed by a city, township, county, state or Federal government? Is he any different than someone working for a school district, sanitary district, park district, public library or other such employer?

We should "march on city hall" for all persons who lose jobs. We should "carry placards" and "demonstrate" our interest in the affairs of all businesses where a "gross injustice" has taken place. We should set up "special meetings" with boards of directors of any company releasing an employe, no matter what the reason. What's right for one group is equally right for another.

After putting our trust in certain individuals by electing them to membership on school boards or city councils, it seems only natural that they should have our backing when it comes to hiring and firing personnel.

BUT NO. In this day and age of "protest marches," "protest sit-ins," "protest stand-ins," "protest, protest, protest. . . ," every little change is "rumored" into a full-blown incident.

"They had no right getting rid of ——, he's been there three years. Let's find out what he's done to bring about his release." And that's the way it starts.



NEUKOM

Simple, isnt it? And as taxpayers, these citizens do have a right to "know." They have a right to meet with public officials; to inquire into a matter they think has been handled wrong. But they don't have the right to go about it in a way that makes it look like something "shady" is going on. Do these citizens expect a public announcement on all dismissals? Do they expect billboards announcing disciplinary actions taken against a wayward public employe?

Governmental agencies have the right to be secretive on matters concerning personnel and land acquisition. They meet behind closed doors because open discussion could prove detrimental to a man and his family; or it could cause the price of a parcel of land to mysteriously rise.

Night after night, these same public officials sit virtually "alone" at their weekly or monthly "public" meetings. They're forgotten men after the election. They can spend thousands of dollars in a minute's time. They can buy, build, borrow, boost or bicker and nary a word is said in contradiction.

THEN ONE WEEK the rumor mill begins spitting out the "word" on the upcoming firing of "Pete, who works in the water department." That week, the board meeting has more people in attendance than the total attending all meetings the previous months.

Or if they don't attend the meeting, then the behind the scenes campaign begins to bring up the "shock troops." It's the old, familiar scheme to "shock" the elected officials into righting a wrong—no matter what is wrong.

If only these people would go about it in a little less flamboyant manner. Perhaps a committee of three or four persons could be appointed to meet with board members. It could be discussed quietly, and then if the committee deemed it necessary, a public hearing could be held. But only as a last resort.

I'M NOT advocating taking away a person's right to a hearing when dismissal from a governmental job comes about. This is essential. But I am saying we should leave it up to that same individual on whether or not he (or she) wants to bring into the open the cause of dismissal.

And if the machinist at the local "plant" is fired, let's protest that, too. I'm sure the chairman of the board would be only too happy to sit down and explain the reasons for the dismissal. His work schedule isn't that busy.

At the start of the second semester, Alsatian Drama became such a big business that he thought it should be publicly owned, and so he incorporated it and listed its stock on the Midwest Exchange.

Market analysts, ever on the alert for hot growth possibilities, began touting it.

IN THEIR market bulletins, they wrote, "If you had bought one share of General Motors in 1911, you would be a millionaire today. Will the same thing happen to 17th Century Alsatian Drama?"

Yes, its a fabulous story of free enterprise at its best. I don't dare predict how far Prof. Baffsope may go. He's already on the board of two or three big banks. Along with professors of paleontology, comparative linguistics, and crustacean physiology.

Look to the colleges for tomorrow's economic giants!

Critic's Corner

Governmental Job Protests

by JACK NEUKOM
Staff Writer

Why is it that protest groups are immediately organized whenever a governmental body discharges or demotes one of its employes?

Are teachers, building inspectors, city managers, clerks, policemen, firemen, and all the other millions employed by taxing bodies throughout the country immune from being disciplined or fired?

Grocery stores do it. Manufacturers do it. Contractors do it. Even men in the Teamsters union or members of the United Auto Workers are released from their jobs when they don't stack up to the work involved.

A next door neighbor can be fired from his sales position, or let loose after 20 years with the "foundry" and all that's said is: "Poor Joe. I wonder where he'll get a job at his age."

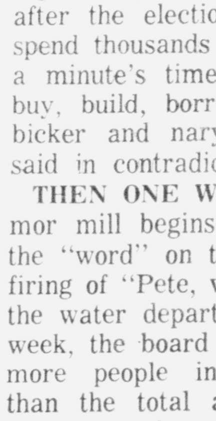
BUT IS "Poor Joe" any different than a person employed by a city, township, county, state or Federal government? Is he any different than someone working for a school district, sanitary district, park district, public library or other such employer?

We should "march on city hall" for all persons who lose jobs. We should "carry placards" and "demonstrate" our interest in the affairs of all businesses where a "gross injustice" has taken place. We should set up "special meetings" with boards of directors of any company releasing an employe, no matter what the reason. What's right for one group is equally right for another.

After putting our trust in certain individuals by electing them to membership on school boards or city councils, it seems only natural that they should have our backing when it comes to hiring and firing personnel.

BUT NO. In this day and age of "protest marches," "protest sit-ins," "protest stand-ins," "protest, protest, protest . . . ," every little change is "rumored" into a full-blown incident.

"They had no right getting rid of ——, he's been there three years. Let's find out what he's done to bring about his release." And that's the way it starts. Simple, isnt it? And as taxpayers, these citizens do have a right to "know." They have a right to meet with public officials; to inquire into a matter they think has been handled wrong. But they don't have the right to go about it in a way that makes it look like something "shady" is going on. Do these citizens expect a public announcement on all dismissals? Do they expect billboards announcing disciplinary actions taken against a wayward public employe?



NEUKOM

Governmental agencies have the right to be secretive on matters concerning personnel and land acquisition. They meet behind closed doors because open discussion could prove detrimental to a man and his family; or it could cause the price of a parcel of land to mysteriously rise.

Night after night, these same public officials sit virtually "alone" at their weekly or monthly "public" meetings. They're forgotten men after the election. They can spend thousands of dollars in a minute's time. They can buy, build, borrow, boost or bicker and nary a word is said in contradiction.

THEN ONE WEEK the rumor mill begins spitting out the "word" on the upcoming firing of "Pete, who works in the water department." That week, the board meeting has more people in attendance than the total attending all meetings the previous months.

Or if they don't attend the meeting, then the behind the scenes campaign begins to bring up the "shock troops." It's the old, familiar scheme to "shock" the elected officials into righting a wrong—no matter what is wrong.

If only these people would go about it in a little less flamboyant manner. Perhaps a committee of three or four persons could be appointed to meet with board members. It could be discussed quietly, and then if the committee deemed it necessary, a public hearing could be held. But only as a last resort.

I'M NOT advocating taking away a person's right to a hearing when dismissal from a governmental job comes about. This is essential. But I am saying we should leave it up to that same individual on whether or not he (or she) wants to bring into the open the cause of dismissal.

And if the machinist at the local "plant" is fired, let's protest that, too. I'm sure the chairman of the board would be only too happy to sit down and explain the reasons for the dismissal. His work schedule isn't that busy.

Chicago Firm Leads In School Building

An 8-year-old Chicago architectural firm is rapidly coming up as one of the leaders in the school building field. Fridstein & Fitch, 351 E. Ohio, has completed more than $12 million of school design and has another $33 million on the drawing boards.

A full time educational planner Erie Jones, was added to the staff in 1964. Jones, a former school principal and assistant superintendent, has extensive experience and training in construction and engineering. A civic leader and educational advisor, he was recently named Chairman of the newly formed Committee on Scholarships and Financial Aids for the Illinois State Board of Higher Education. He lives at 262 N. Linden, Palatine.

AS EDUCATIONAL programmer, Jones meets with school boards, superintendents, principals and other staff professionals to determine the needs of the schools. After the initial research, Jones works with the architects translating these needs into plans.

The spectrum of educational construction commissioned by the firm ranges from local district administrative centers to complete college campuses. says Marvin Fitch, partner of Fridstein & Fitch.

Completed schools include the John Crerar Elementary School at 84th and Kolin in Chicago and the James B. Conant High School in Hoffman Estates. The Conant school was one of the first air conditioned schools in northern Illinois. Ground-breaking for its addition is scheduled for this Spring.

A Spring ground-breaking is also planned for South Shore High School in Chicago, lauded for its pace-setting design. One of the unique features of the school is the flexible cluster of hexagonal teaching stations which makes possible a variety of teaching arrangements.

THE FIRST PHASE of the Oliver Wendell Holmes Junior High School in Wheeling will start construction soon for a September 1 opening. The new McHenry High School is being designed by the firm for occupancy in December, 1967. This library-centered school will contain a theater and swimming pool for school and community usage.

Work on college campuses includes Rall Hall, a women's residence hall for 142 at North Central College in Naperville. A separate dining hall is being completed as part of the dormitory complex.

Preliminary drawings for a polyscience building on the North Central campus are on the drawing boards, says Fitch.

An addition to the Fremd school in Palatine, an administration center for School District 211, and a residence hall for Northern Illinois at DeKalb are also in the drawing stage.

RECENTLY completed was the study done for Rock Valley College in Rockford, Ill., for an experimental "Instant Campus." This was designed to accommodate the increase in student population by providing temporary "relocatable" buildings.

The firm was also commissioned, along with Caudill, Rowlett and Scott of Texas, to design the Community College in District 301. The district includes Wheeling, Elk Grove, Palatine and Schaumburg Townships. (BB

Home Buyers Urged To Check Flooding

Home buyers were sharply warned to beware of purchasing or building in low lying areas subject to floods by Valentine Janicki, Flood Control Committee Chairman, and Trustee of the Metropolitan Sanitary District of Greater Chicago.

"Do not buy a house unless the contract, real estate agent, and municipality in which the property is located assure you with a jointly signed statement your property is 'floodsafe,'" Janicki said.

"The prospectus for purchasing a home and safeguarding your investment must include flood control in the area as well as four checkpoints:

1) the foundation of the building is above the known flood plain for the area;

2) the municipality has adopted and enforced a Flood Plain Plan which effectively controls storm water overflow;

3) the sewer line from the house leading into the sewer line of the municipality is connected to an interceptor which will effectively carry away all sewage;

4) the contract will issue a guarantee in writing to the house buyer that he shall be held financially responsible for any damage caused to the property by flooding," Janicki continued. "Finally, prospective buyers should talk to the homeowners in the area about their flooding conditions."

"ALTHOUGH THE Sanitary District has jurisdiction and responsibility for the main drainage system, local government has the responsibility for zoning to control construction in flood plains (i.e., areas known to flood)," Janicki added. "It is the primary responsibility of the municipalities to adopt effective ordinances to eliminate flooding and pollution. Prospective home buyers should investigate the municipality's policy and operations regarding floods. Know what and where you are buying." (RE

Home buyers were sharply warned to beware of purchasing or building in low lying areas subject to floods by Valentine Janicki, Flood Control Committee Chairman, and Trustee of the Metropolitan Sanitary District of Greater Chicago.

"Do not buy a house unless the contract, real estate agent, and municipality in which the property is located assure you with a jointly signed statement your property is 'floodsafe,'" Janicki said.

"The prospectus for purchasing a home and safeguarding your investment must include flood control in the area as well as four checkpoints:

1) the foundation of the building is above the known flood plain for the area;

2) the municipality has adopted and enforced a Flood Plain Plan which effectively controls storm water overflow;

3) the sewer line from the house leading into the sewer line of the municipality is connected to an interceptor which will effectively carry away all sewage;

4) the contract will issue a guarantee in writing to the house buyer that he shall be held financially responsible for any damage caused to the property by flooding," Janicki continued. "Finally, prospective buyers should talk to the homeowners in the area about their flooding conditions."

"ALTHOUGH THE Sanitary District has jurisdiction and responsibility for the main drainage system, local government has the responsibility for zoning to control construction in flood plains (i.e., areas known to flood)," Janicki added. "It is the primary responsibility of the municipalities to adopt effective ordinances to eliminate flooding and pollution. Prospective home buyers should investigate the municipality's policy and operations regarding floods. Know what and where you are buying." (RE

Builder Research Lab Boosts Values

by GEORGE ARQUILLA JR.
President, Home Builders Association of Chicagoland

Can you picture a businessman scrubbing a bathtub 20,000 times to see if it's good enough to install in your new home?

Home builders have done that, and they're doing more.

They are smashing wall panels with sandbags to determine the strongest materials and most efficient methods of installation. They also lash exterior finishes with alternate rain and broiling sun, then carefully study the results.

THE INDIVIDUAL builder can hardly afford the cost of such tests, nor the time (and aching back) involved in scrubbing a bathtub 20,000 times.

Instead, tests are conducted for him by the Research Foundation of the National Association of Home Builders (NAHB) in Washington, D. C., of which the Home Builders Association of Chicagoland is the local affiliate. The Research Foundation's laboratory is in Rockville, Md., outside Washington.

Rising costs of land, labor and materials have made home builders more aware of the need for efficient and economical construction. To do something about it, NAHB's Research Laboratory conducts extensive field tests as well as work inside the laboratory.

The Research Lab also constructs complete Research Houses with the aid of major manufacturers. New products and methods aimed at today's housing market undergo rugged testing in these houses and at the lab.

A VISITOR AT the lab might cringe as a powerful machine slowly tears apart two pieces of wood connected by a metal plate. A dial records the strain at which the break comes. Both the wood and the metal plate, used in roof trusses, are being tested for precisely the right combination of strength and efficiency.

In another part of the laboratory, is a weather machine. Inside the machine ultraviolet lights sear test samples of a new bathtub material, inflicting the equivalent of months of sunlight on them. Other samples are dunked in boiling water for 100 hours. Still another machine fills in for the home builder as it gives a bathtub 20,000 vigorous scrubbings.

One of the lab's projects - a study of bridging in residential floor construction - already is saving money for many home buyers. Bridging is the cross pieces, usually wood or steel, placed between floor joists. It has always been used; the floor was thought to be reinforced by it.

BUT IN 510 laboratory tests and 68 field tests the NAHB research staff proved to the satisfaction of the Federal Housing Administration and most major building code groups that bridging is entirely unnecessary in a well-designed floor.

The lab's growing reputation for such studies as this brings it more and more work - and new homes built by members of the Home Builders Association of Chicagoland will increasingly reflect the results of housing research. (RE

Money Alone Cannot Bridge Gap in Local Initiative

A gap in local initiative cannot be bridged by money alone, a spokesman for the National Association of Real Estate Boards warned last week in testimony before members of the Housing Subcommittee of the House Banking and Currency Committee.

Questioning the whole concept of the Administration's "Demonstration City" proposal, Alan L. Emlen, Philadelphia, chairman of the Realtors' Washington Committee, added: "We respectfully suggest that it is time to stop attempting to spoon feed the Congress and the people in the area of federal assistance to urban communities."

CITIES WHICH failed to use federal funds for the purposes they were granted in the past would be eligible for more money to achieve the same goals should the proposed Demonstration Cities Act of 1966 (H.R. 12341) be enacted, Emlen explained in testimony covering pending urban development and housing legislation.

"The fundamental weakness in the bill is that it seeks solely by means of increased federal grants to induce the cities to do that which they should have been doing in the years when they prevailed upon the federal government to execute billions of dollars in binding contracts for urban renewal — including urban planning, community renewal planning, and general neighborhood renewal planning, community renewal planning, and general neighborhood renewal planning," Emlen continued.

"The proposal would have some validity if the Congress had been remiss in the past in supplying funds for urban planning," said Emlen, pointing out that as of Dec. 31, there were 4,231 urban planning projects approved, involving $183.3 million.

"For more detailed planning the Congress has provided for financial assistance under Community Renewal Programs and General Neighborhood Renewal Planning," he added. "A total number of 146 CRP's have been approved involving approximately $23 million, and 232 GNRP's have been approved involving $128 million."

"The Department of Housing and Urban Development is now saying that past programs are insufficient and that something dramatic — a bold new course of action — is needed, Emlen stated. "The antidote," we are told, "is more money — this time an additional $400 million per year over each of the next six years."

ALTHOUGH A statement filed by HUD with the Subcommittee advises this $2.3 billion will provide for "massive additions to the supply of decent, low- and moderate-income housing," the facts indicate otherwise, the RWC chairman said.

None of the basic housing statutes authorizing specific levels of low- and moderate-income housing is amended by this bill, and no additional public housing can be provided by it because Congress last year fixed the annual rate of unit authorizations, Emlen said.

The spokesman for 82,000 Realtors said the Association reiterates its opposition to two provisions of The Urban Development Act (H.R. 12946) — Section 201, which would expand Title X of the National Housing Act to conform to the "new town" proposals made in 1964 and 1965, and Section 208, providing loans to state land development agencies for the advance acquisition of land.

He reminded the Subcommittee that both proposals had been rejected by the Congress in 1964 and again last year.

NAREB OPPOSES these proposals, Emlen explained, because "they represent an unwarranted intrusion of government in the control of the future use of land, and they would lead ultimately to the federalization of the nation's communities. Under the proposed amendments to FHA Title X, the Secretary of HUD would have the power to force his standard of every aspect of community life onto the plan for the new community."

He said H. R. 12946 would encourage any incorporated community to acquire land in the path of urban expansion and parcel it out at some future date to developers and builders who will develop the land in accordance with plans previously approved by HUD.

No evidence has been submitted by the Secretary of HUD that private enterprise is unable to control the future use of land, Emlen said. "On the other hand, the preponderance of the evidence points to the impressive record of private enterprise in this area, accomplished without federal criteria to determine whether the plans for the new community are appropriate, and without federal financial assistance in the assembly of the land and its site improvement."

TWO PROPOSED changes to the rent certificate program for low-income families — (H.R. 13064, The Housing and Urban Development Amendments of 1966) — are opposed by NAREB as unnecessary and unwise, Mr. Emlen said.

The first of the two amendments, Section 104, would permit local housing authorities to lease dwellings without regard to the one- to three-year lease limitation provision where the housing is needed for low-income families displaced by governmental action.

"A long-term lease makes the housing for all practical purposes publicly owned," Emlen pointed out.

The second amendment, Section 105, would change so-called "Section 23 housing" from one limited to the leasing of existing houses to one which would be available for the leasing of both existing and new housing, he remarked. "Of the 60,000 public housing units per year authorized by the 1965 Act, the Public Housing Administration advises that 10,000 units would be available for Section 23 housing.

"If this amendment is approved, all of this allocation could be directed to new construction, thereby negating the purpose and intent of the Congress in enacting Section 23," he added, pointing out that the program was designed to tap the supply of privately owned existing housing as a supplement to the baisc program of new construction. Money Alone Cannot Bridge Gap in Local Initiative

A gap in local initiative cannot be bridged by money alone, a spokesman for the National Association of Real Estate Boards warned last week in testimony before members of the Housing Subcommittee of the House Banking and Currency Committee.

Questioning the whole concept of the Administration's "Demonstration City" proposal, Alan L. Emlen, Philadelphia, chairman of the Realtors' Washington Committee, added: "We respectfully suggest that it is time to stop attempting to spoon feed the Congress and the people in the area of federal assistance to urban communities."

CITIES WHICH failed to use federal funds for the purposes they were granted in the past would be eligible for more money to achieve the same goals should the proposed Demonstration Cities Act of 1966 (H.R. 12341) be enacted, Emlen explained in testimony covering pending urban development and housing legislation.

"The fundamental weakness in the bill is that it seeks solely by means of increased federal grants to induce the cities to do that which they should have been doing in the years when they prevailed upon the federal government to execute billions of dollars in binding contracts for urban renewal — including urban planning, community renewal planning, and general neighborhood renewal planning, community renewal planning, and general neighborhood renewal planning," Emlen continued.

"The proposal would have some validity if the Congress had been remiss in the past in supplying funds for urban planning," said Emlen, pointing out that as of Dec. 31, there were 4,231 urban planning projects approved, involving $183.3 million.

"For more detailed planning the Congress has provided for financial assistance under Community Renewal Programs and General Neighborhood Renewal Planning," he added. "A total number of 146 CRP's have been approved involving approximately $23 million, and 232 GNRP's have been approved involving $128 million."

"The Department of Housing and Urban Development is now saying that past programs are insufficient and that something dramatic — a bold new course of action — is needed, Emlen stated. "The antidote," we are told, "is more money — this time an additional $400 million per year over each of the next six years."

ALTHOUGH A statement filed by HUD with the Subcommittee advises this $2.3 billion will provide for "massive additions to the supply of decent, low- and moderate-income housing," the facts indicate otherwise, the RWC chairman said.

None of the basic housing statutes authorizing specific levels of low- and moderate-income housing is amended by this bill, and no additional public housing can be provided by it because Congress last year fixed the annual rate of unit authorizations, Emlen said.

The spokesman for 82,000 Realtors said the Association reiterates its opposition to two provisions of The Urban Development Act (H.R. 12946) — Section 201, which would expand Title X of the National Housing Act to conform to the "new town" proposals made in 1964 and 1965, and Section 208, providing loans to state land development agencies for the advance acquisition of land.

He reminded the Subcommittee that both proposals had been rejected by the Congress in 1964 and again last year.

NAREB OPPOSES these proposals, Emlen explained, because "they represent an unwarranted intrusion of government in the control of the future use of land, and they would lead ultimately to the federalization of the nation's communities. Under the proposed amendments to FHA Title X, the Secretary of HUD would have the power to force his standard of every aspect of community life onto the plan for the new community."

He said H. R. 12946 would encourage any incorporated community to acquire land in the path of urban expansion and parcel it out at some future date to developers and builders who will develop the land in accordance with plans previously approved by HUD.

No evidence has been submitted by the Secretary of HUD that private enterprise is unable to control the future use of land, Emlen said. "On the other hand, the preponderance of the evidence points to the impressive record of private enterprise in this area, accomplished without federal criteria to determine whether the plans for the new community are appropriate, and without federal financial assistance in the assembly of the land and its site improvement."

TWO PROPOSED changes to the rent certificate program for low-income families — (H.R. 13064, The Housing and Urban Development Amendments of 1966) — are opposed by NAREB as unnecessary and unwise, Mr. Emlen said.

The first of the two amendments, Section 104, would permit local housing authorities to lease dwellings without regard to the one- to three-year lease limitation provision where the housing is needed for low-income families displaced by governmental action.

"A long-term lease makes the housing for all practical purposes publicly owned," Emlen pointed out.

The second amendment, Section 105, would change so-called "Section 23 housing" from one limited to the leasing of existing houses to one which would be available for the leasing of both existing and new housing, he remarked. "Of the 60,000 public housing units per year authorized by the 1965 Act, the Public Housing Administration advises that 10,000 units would be available for Section 23 housing.

"If this amendment is approved, all of this allocation could be directed to new construction, thereby negating the purpose and intent of the Congress in enacting Section 23," he added, pointing out that the program was designed to tap the supply of privately owned existing housing as a supplement to the baisc program of new construction. Towns Must Fight to Stay Healthy, Realtor Advises

Small communities cannot stop the trend toward metropolitanism, but they can and must fight back to remain healthy for the preservation of the nation, according to Boyd T. Barnard, Philadelphia, 1966 president of the American Society of Real Estate Counselors.

And it is everybody's job to help solve the problems necessary to accomplish this, said the president of the Society, an affiliate of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

Barnard, who recently took over the helm of the Society, has one of the most distinguished records in real estate. He has been president of three other national organizations in the field—NAREB, the American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers, and the Urban Land Institute. Moreover, he is the only U. S. citizen to be accorded the distinction of being named an honorary member of The Royal Institute of Chartered Surveyors of Great Britain.

THE JOB OF the real estate counselor is largely one of interpretation for people who are involved in other business, but to whom real estate is important. It is the counselor's profession to advise people of the effect of real estate economics upon their enterprises and of the real estate implications of proposed steps, programs, or undertakings. He is retained for a specified fee and so is not monetarily concerned with the eventual outcome of the situation, since he receives no commission or percentage payment.

"The great assets of these small communities are the people," Mr. Barnard continued. Many of our business and professional leaders were raised in small towns or on the farms, he said. "Small communities give to their citizens a proper mix of American life at all levels—business intellectual, racial, and cultural."

Small towns have no ghettos and rarely integration problems, he stated, while large cities must combat such problems as school busing, water shortages and pollution, race riots, organized gangs, increasing crime, juvenile delinquency, hoodlums, labor racketeers, dope peddlers, strikes, Communism, and political corruption.

"THOSE OF you who live and work in the smaller communities do not face many such problems except to a minimum degree," he added.

To fight the trend toward metropolitanism and to stop or reverse a downward trend in the economy of small communities, Barnard urged the formation of strong citizens' groups for joint promotion.

"Next comes long-range planning and attention to the securing of various new types of light industry; also changing the physical appearance of the central business district streets; provision for adequate parking, and a look at the possibilities of help through urban renewal; also a close look at the usually obvious assets such as schools, colleges, and cultural opportunities."

Barnard remarked that the Urban Land Institute had found that many smaller communities are ripe for clean-up, paint-up, fix-up campaigns.

"OUR PANELS have found an astonishing record of success for new office buildings and apartments in communities that presumed that because they did not have them, they would not go. It is difficult to enthuse about promoting an office building where the rent must be twice the prevailing rent in existing structures. However, when it is tried, it works. We are in an era of prosperity where people are willing to upgrade if they have the opportunity . . .

"I know of a community of 10,000 people where a fireproof hotel which had limped along for years was finally closed, creating a dead spot at the edge of the retail area. It was sold and converted into a modern apartment house. There were enough widows in the community to fill it promptly."

He pointed out also that the Build America Better Committee of NAREB upon request of the city government and local board of Realtors sends advisory teams to analyze and make recommendations for the areas and that the committee has served 36 large and small communities in this way.

A recognized expert on urban renewal, Barnard has served as a consultant to 35 cities who wished to be advised on the subject.

COMMENTING that the better mouse trap story still prevails, he said the better mouse trap for the small town merchant is service, attention, courtesy, and customer understanding. "Merchandising in the large community tends to be impersonal. We all like personal attentin. This can always be present in the small community."

A bright future was depicted for the college town, described as a good place to live in at any time, and especially in retirement. These college towns are beginning to appreciate some of their strengths, Barnard said and are realizing the asset they have in the educational institution's value to the economy and amenities of the community.

Referring to England's efforts following World War II to decentralize its major cities by creating new towns and moving industries into existing smaller towns, Barnard said the spread of metropolitanism here may necessitate a similar kind of decentralization. Perhaps this is the form that the next phase of our growth pattern will take, he added.

MOST OF OUR problems are human problems, Barnard said. "History tends to prove that the growth, the strength, or decline of cities and communities is primarily the result of strong or weak leadership."

He urged Realtors to provide this leadership and said they must be the spark plug in the growth and development of their respective communities.

Tews Reports State Farm Assets Exceed $1 Billion

State Farm Mutual, world's largest automobile insurer, barely managed the break-even point on its 1965 insurance business as it recorded sales of $828,873,227. Assets of the company topped the billion dollar mark for the first time.

After dividends to policyholders were paid, the company showed a profit for the year on insurance operations of $599,687—less than one-tenth of one per cent of sales. The net figure represented a gross underwriting return of $9,681,129, less policyholder dividends of $9,081,442.

George P. Tews, who represents State Farm in Roselle and has his office at 105 E. Irving Park Rd. said that though the margin was thin, the picture was better than 1964 when a similar figure showed a loss of over $33 million.

Investment income in 1965 totaled $37,590,739 (compared to $33,013,972 a year earlier). After federal income taxes and other miscellaneous items, the firm showed a net gain on all operations of $37,807,757. This compared to a $433,648 loss in 1964.

PRESIDENT Edward B. Rust said it was the first time in three years that the company's auto insurance operation had climbed into the black. He doubted, however, that the thin thread of profit indicated a turn in the underwriting trend which has been steadily worsening in recent years.

"It's an extremely spotty situation," Rust said. "Losses continue had in some states, are improving in others. Despite substantial rate increases last year our projections show that we can't expect 1966 to be as good as 1965 was. In other words, we anticipate we'll have red ink again this year."

Rust said inflationary trends in "everything the insurance dollar buys," coupled with a sharp increase in the number of autos on the road and steadily rising accident tolls, were major concerns of the auto insurance industry.

The $828.8 million in earned premiums and membership fees reported by State Farm Mutual in 1965 bested the $727,785,070 figure of a year earlier and kept the company No. 1 auto insurer for the 24th straight year.

ASSETS totaled $1,076,162,217 at year end, up from $950,655,878 a year earlier. The company spent $654,666,404 settling claims—a jump from $595,315,219 in 1964.

Tews also listed brief summaries for the other companies in the State Farm Group.

State Farm Life, one of four wholly-owned affiliates of State Farm Mutual, passed the $4 billion insurance in force mark at the close of 1965, with $4,009,949,008 on the books. This compared to $3,290,867,197 a year earlier.

Total life insurance sales in State Farm Life increased from $898,229,062 in 1964 to $1,035,964,753. Net gain from operations (after dividends and federal income tax) was $9,801,094—up from $7,116,055 a year earlier.

State Farm Fire and Casualty, largest writer of the homeowners package policy, reported direct written and assumed premiums of $128,552,792—nearly $20 million above the $108,626,241 figure of 1964. On that business the company reported profit of $1,022,024—compared to an $839,220 profit a year earlier.

HOMEOWNERS premiums comprised $73,546,244 of the total—up from $61,840,167 in 1964. The company spent $66,573,821 settling claims (a sharp increase over the $55,604,459 spent in 1964). Of the 1965 figure, $12,663,114 was charged off to "disaster" losses such as hurricanes and tornados. Half of that amount was chalked up to Hurricane Betsy.

State Farm Life and Accident Assurance Company, doing business only in New York and Wisconsin, increased its insurance in force total by $40 million during the year to $142,766,647. Individual insurance sales totaled $64,671,736—down slightly from the $65,338,358 figure of 1964.

State Farm General, three-year-old affiliate which writes fire insurance on low-value properties, reported direct written and assumed premiums of $3,717,071—up from $2,289,661 in 1964. An underwriting loss of $284,193 was reported on that business—compared to 1964's loss of $199,792. Claims paid totaled $1,069,235—up from $631,224 in 1964. (BB

HINTS TO HOMEOWNERS

by Richard H. DeLano, Associate Farm Advisor

ALERT HOMEOWNERS DIAL DAILY 392-3060

According to the latest thinking in lawn maintenance practices, seed applied to an established lawn is wasted. Unless a lawn has bare spots over four to six inches in diameter, broadcasting of seed is ineffective in lawn improvement.

These bare spots, if in sun, can be spot seeded with chewings or creeping red fescue. Avoid mixtures. For best results rough up the soil surface before applying the seed. This creates conditions for a good bed. If the spots are kept well watered, green sprouts will start to appear in a week.

For thin, over-all poor quality lawns, a different procedure is in order. A thorough raking either by hand or power rake can be the first step. However, a word of caution. If the lawn is shallow rooted in a heavy thatch, power raking can on rare occasions cause temporary damage.

After raking, examine the lawn for frost ridges or bumps. If present, they can be leveled by a lightweight partially filled roller. It is important that this rolling be kept to a minimum as it can cause a tight compact soil which will limit root growth.

Although raking and rolling are helpful in improving a thin, weedy lawn, proper fertilizing is the most important step.

A heavy application of a high nitrogen fertilizer in March will cause a thin lawn to thicken and small bare spots to quickly knit together. A suggested rate is twenty pounds per thousand square feet of a 10-6-4 or ten pounds of a 20-10-10 or similar grade fertilizer. The numbers which are on a fertilizer bag represent the active ingredients in the fertilizer. The first number stands for the nitrogen . . . the second for phosphorus, and the last potassium.

To receive the fastest mending of a sick lawn, followup applications of fertilizer should be made at half the March rate. These followup applications should be made in May, June, July and September.

Should weeds be a problem, they can also be controlled now . . . before they come up. Effective pre-emergent crabgrass control chemicals include azak, betasan, tupersan, dacthal, bandane and zytron.

Broadleaved weeds can be economically controlled by spraying with a hose-on sprayer attachment. Materials of choice include a host of brand names that include 2-4-D, 2-4-5TP (silvex) or a mixture of the two. It should be pointed out that dandelions are resistant to all weed killers while in bloom. Therefore, spray them either before or after bloom. If your lawn is thin, fertilize and apply weed killers. Roll and rake if necessary. However, except in special cases, reserve seed only for large bare spots or new lawns. (BB

Do You Have the Economic Sense of a Vegetable Farmer?

Has anyone ever asked you this question? Well, perhaps your wife, while driving through a new subdivision, has asked you something like—why didn't we buy farm land a few years ago around Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, Mt. Prospect or some place that seemed far out then but is now filled with shopping centers, industrial parks, or $40,000 homes on ⅓ acre lots. You know, many an acre that once grew fine tomatoes now costs plenty of "potatoes."

But you need not be defensive. Expanding population keeps expanding — exceedingly so in metropolitan areas. You can still buy outlying farm land that in a few years will be needed for more shopping centers, industrial sites, and residential developments. And, more grade schools will be built on land purchased for thousands of dollars an acre from someone using vegetable-farmer economics who paid only hundreds of dollars an acre.

We have such farms for sale now. There is, for example, a 160 acre farm located right across the street from village sewer and water in a northwest suburban town within commuting distance of Chicago and centrally located in relation to Barrington, Elgin and Crystal Lake. The house on this farm has 4 bedrooms, 2 big baths. It's not "Winnetka," but with some new decorating and modest remodeling, an ambitious young family might enjoy farm living as well as the farm investment. But if you are finicky about getting richer, just rent the house and lease the land to a grain farmer or keep it in the government's soil bank. Two quite elderly men own this 160 acre farm and they do not wish to wait around 5 or 10 years. They wish to sell now at a present day bargain price.

Of course, if you have a high annual income and could use more tax benefits, there is a much larger farm that will soon become available. This farm has a good residence, with fine big barns and most important, it is located on a principal highway on the edge of one of the finest, fastest growing northwest suburban cities, with excellent schools and 22 Chicago and North Western trains daily to Chicago.

Our real estate firm specializes in close-in farm land that should mature into much higher uses within 5 to 10 years. We will be glad to supply details on selected properties. Simply write or phone, or drive out on a week-end and see us and the farms.

Bruning Copier Aids Spectators At Golf Tourney

Spectators have a quick reference to all nine-hole tallies during the Florida Citrus Open Golf Tournament, March 14-20, at the Rio Pinar Country Club, Orlando, Fla., Wayne Miller, Bruning's Orlando branch manager, reported.

The firm installed a Bruning 2000 electrostatic copier in front of the club's pro shop. As contestants finish the 9th and 18th holes, their score cards are quickly copied on the Bruning machine and the copies posted for viewing by spectators. Bruning, a division of Addressograph Multigraph Corp., is one of the Gold Sponsors of the tournament.

Miller pointed out that the 2000 copier makes 10 copies per minute so the tournament cannot be delayed by this innovation. He said a second 2000 copier is presently being used in the tournament office in the Cherry Plaza Hotel in Orlando.

Tews Reports State Farm Assets Exceed $1 Billion

State Farm Mutual, world's largest automobile insurer, barely managed the break-even point on its 1965 insurance business as it recorded sales of $828,873,227. Assets of the company topped the billion dollar mark for the first time.

After dividends to policyholders were paid, the company showed a profit for the year on insurance operations of $599,687—less than one-tenth of one per cent of sales. The net figure represented a gross underwriting return of $9,681,129, less policyholder dividends of $9,081,442.

George P. Tews, who represents State Farm in Roselle and has his office at 105 E. Irving Park Rd. said that though the margin was thin, the picture was better than 1964 when a similar figure showed a loss of over $33 million.

Investment income in 1965 totaled $37,590,739 (compared to $33,013,972 a year earlier). After federal income taxes and other miscellaneous items, the firm showed a net gain on all operations of $37,807,757. This compared to a $433,648 loss in 1964.

PRESIDENT Edward B. Rust said it was the first time in three years that the company's auto insurance operation had climbed into the black. He doubted, however, that the thin thread of profit indicated a turn in the underwriting trend which has been steadily worsening in recent years.

"It's an extremely spotty situation," Rust said. "Losses continue had in some states, are improving in others. Despite substantial rate increases last year our projections show that we can't expect 1966 to be as good as 1965 was. In other words, we anticipate we'll have red ink again this year."

Rust said inflationary trends in "everything the insurance dollar buys," coupled with a sharp increase in the number of autos on the road and steadily rising accident tolls, were major concerns of the auto insurance industry.

The $828.8 million in earned premiums and membership fees reported by State Farm Mutual in 1965 bested the $727,785,070 figure of a year earlier and kept the company No. 1 auto insurer for the 24th straight year.

ASSETS totaled $1,076,162,217 at year end, up from $950,655,878 a year earlier. The company spent $654,666,404 settling claims —a jump from $595,315,219 in 1964.

Tews also listed brief summaries for the other companies in the State Farm Group.

State Farm Life, one of four wholly-owned affiliates of State Farm Mutual, passed the $4 billion insurance in force mark at the close of 1965, with $4,009,949,008 on the books. This compared to $3,290,867,197 a year earlier.

State Farm Fire and Casualty, largest writer of the homeowners package policy, reported direct written and assumed premiums of $128,552,792—nearly $20 million above the $108,626,241 figure of 1964. On that business the company reported profit of $1,022,024—compared to an $839,220 profit a year earlier.

REGENT PARK'S construction superintendent, Elmer Hamning (left) and Tom Bodnar, carpenter foreman, plan the next stage of construction in the United Development Co. cluster plan of homes, condominiums and town and garden homes.

Winter Fails to Halt Work at Regent Park

Even bitter Old Man Winter can't put housing construction and sales in the deep-freeze in the exclusive Regent Park subdivision in Arlington Heights.

The builder, United Development Co. of Chicago beat Mr. Winter to the punch last fall and early last winter by anticipating the needs for early home deliveries in 1966.

This forward-looking thinking has benefitted the would-be homeowner who wants to "move right in."

Three single-family homes are ready for immediate occupancy, according to Fred Peterman, Director of Sales, and, he says, work on other models will be started in early this spring.

OTHER HOME sites in Regent Park include condominiums and town and garden homes. Peterman indicates these, too, will soon have new units available.

"Our condominium construction is always completely speculative," Peterman stated. "We started three buildings which include 39 apartments — last fall, and we have three apartments in these, with two and three bedrooms, which we will be able to deliver within five weeks. We can also deliver up to eighteen apartments by the end of June. The others were sold in the interim.

According to Peterman, "sales are going so well we intend to start two new buildings immediately in the spring."

Peterman adds that the spring schedule for work on town and garden homes is "heavy." He said a total of 46 units were started last fall, with 15 available for delivery as early as May. All the rest have been sold in brisk winter sales.

WHILE THE TREND to year-around home building and selling is speculative, it is based on sound sales experience, emphasizes Peterman. "Time was," he says, "when the home construction business was frozen solid in the winter and didn't come out of hibernation until the spring thaws."

Now Peterman indicates the industry is "leveling off the seasons. Now we anticipate our spring needs in the fall and excavate and pour concrete foundations in the fall or early winter when the weather still is relatively mild."

Once the foundations are in, Peterman asserts, the big problems are whipped. He said lean-tos can be erected for any necessary outside work, and, once a home is enclosed, a furnace can be installed and the interior work proceed normally.

THE REGENT Park project, on Foundry Road about a half-mile west of the Randhurst shopping center, is on a 45 acre tract which includes its own seven-acre springfed lake, swimming pool, tennis courts, and other recreational facilities.

Single-family homes range from $34,800 to $37,250; town and garden homes from $26,200 to $29,500, and condominiums from $26,900 to $34,000.

There's an added attraction for town and garden and condominium owners. They can enjoy a complete maintenance program — including grass-cutting, tree and shrub trimming, exterior home painting, and snow plowing of walks and driveways — for a small monthly charge. (REL

Gas Company Sets New Record in '65

A highly successful year, in which new peaks were reached in almost every area, was the record of Northern Illinois Gas Company in 1965, according to the utility's annual report now being mailed to its 102,000 stockholders.

Among the milestones the company passed were the 900,000 customer mark and therm sales of 2.6 billion — sales which were more than double those of 12 years ago when the company was formed. The 2.6 billion therms distributed to NI-Gas customers represented 1½ times as much energy as all the electricity distributed in Illinois last year.

Other new highs in 1965 included earnings per share of $2.23, compaed with $2.08 for 1965, and the annual dividend rate, which was raised from $1.24 to $1.32 a share. This was the seventh consecutive year dividends have been increased.

RECORD REVENUES of $199,072,000 were five per cent higher than those of 1964. The report also stated that charges to NI-Gas customers for gas service have been reduced by more than $27 million on a yearly basis since January 1, 1962.

NI-Gas president Marvin Chandler told stockholders that the company brought gas service in 1965 to an additional 36 communities and added 34,000 customers of all kinds. It also is seeking regulatory approval to serve in 1966 about 50 communities along the Mississippi River. The most spectacular growth was made in the industrial and commercial areas, he noted, with industrial revenues for firm, year-around service rising 38 per cent and commercial revenues up nine per cent.

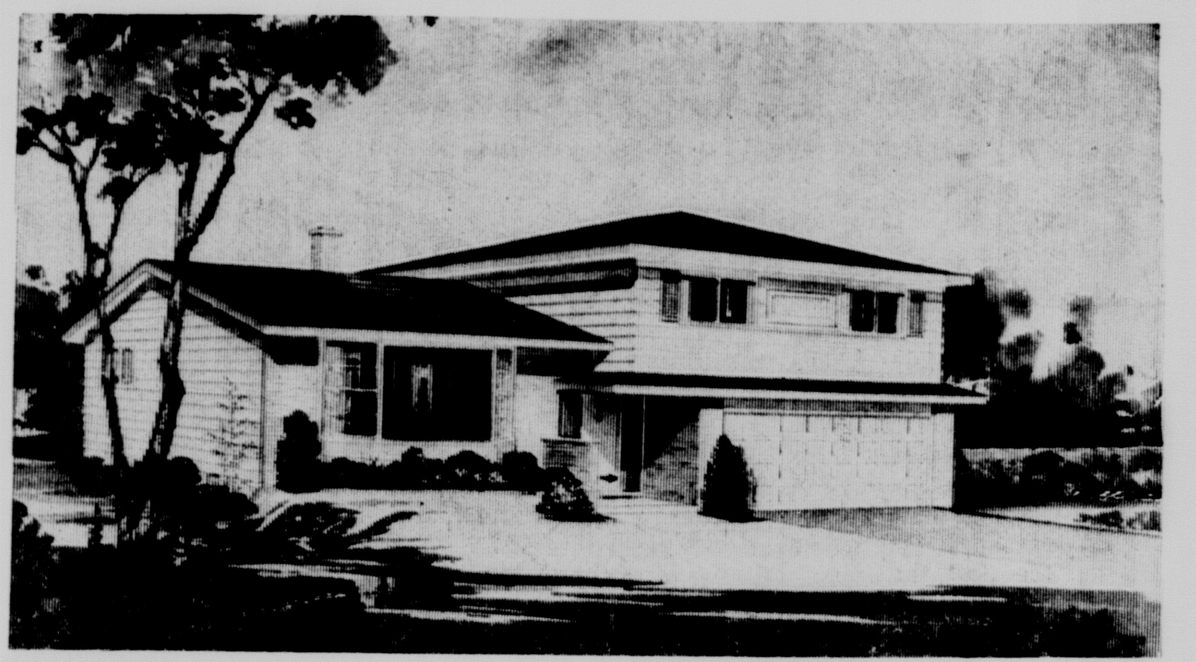
Other highlights of the report revealed that the popularity of natural gas air conditioning and natural gas Total Energy continued their strong upward trends in 1965.

Chandler said that capital expenditures for 1965 totaled more than $60 million, with approximately $17 million being spent to complete work for Apple River Chemical Company, a wholly-owned NI-Gas subsidiary, which began producing anhydrous ammonia in December. The ammonia plant, located at East Dubuque, Illinois, has a production capacity of 200,000 tons a year. Most of the balance of the $60 million was used to expand and improve the utility's distribution system and underground storage facilities.

IN 1966, NI-Gas plans to spend about $46 million on utility construction. Over the five-year period 1966-70, the company proposes expenditures of $205 million.

"Our multi-million dollar construction program," Chandler said in commenting on the report, "will enable us to keep pace with the rapid growth of all kinds that is taking place in NI-Gas service territory. And it also reflects our confidence in the dynamic future of northern Illinois as a place to live and to do business."

Northern Illinois Gas Company is currently distributing natural gas to 908,000 customers in 416 communities spread over a 14,500 square mile area of northern Illinois outside Chicago. (BB



DISTINCTIVE Early American accents blend harmoniously with the contemporary design of the "Congress," new 3-bedroom split-level home now featured in Fidelity Builders' Capitol Hill development located on Camp McDonald Rd., just west of River Rd., in Prospect Heights. Spacious wood-paneled family room, 2½ baths and year-round air conditioning are included in the $32,950 price.

Capitol Hill Homes Offer Gift Package

An unusual housewarming gift of $6,600 worth of additional deluxe home features awaits every family who purchases a new home in Fidelity Builders' Capitol Hill residential development in Prospect Heights.

The "gift package" items are designated as "Blue Ribbon" luxury extras as an indication of their custom quality and operational or decorative excellence. They include a wide and impressive array of outstanding home features that are among those highest in demand by today's homeseekers.

The home buyer in Capitol Hill will have, for example, a Frigidaire automatic washer and dryer, 13-cubic-foot refrigerator-freezer, built-in double oven and burners, and a dishwasher and disposal.

ALSO INCLUDED among the "Blue Ribbon" luxury items offered by Fidelity Builders in each Capitol Hill home are Mueller Climatrol Air Conditioning, Georgia-Pacific wood-paneled family room, a choice of 100% wool or nylon carpeting, and professional N.S.I.D. decorating consultant service. Other housewarming gifts include Arcadia insulated patio doors, Sager screens, aluminum storm windows and screens, and removable wood and double-hung and slider windows. Of special appeal to the lady of the house are the cultured marble vanity tops and plate glass mirrors in the bathrooms. To round out the attractive "package" of luxury extras, the 65x145 foot lot is landscaped complete with two trees, a distinctive gas coach light, a two-car garage with full concrete drive and an electric garage-door opener.

Aside from these many extras, the Capitol Hill home buyer can also enjoy a great number of other highly desirable features which are included in the purchase price, thus giving him an exceptional per-dollar home value.

Kitchens are equipped with Nu-Tone carved wood cabinets, and Formica-topped counters. Bathrooms have American Olean ceramic tile and American-Standard colored fixtures. An A. O. Smith hot water tank and Mueller furnace are also standard items in each Capitol Hill home. Ornamental iron is used generously throughout as a decorative accent.

FIDELITY VICE president Joseph Shuchter explains, "We wanted to offer families a real home buy, and make the true value clearly evident to them. With our $6,600 Housewarming Gift Package of 'Blue Ribbon' luxury extras, the home buyer can see exactly how much he is saving by receiving features which might otherwise be offered to him elsewhere as optional. Most important to remember is that there has been no sacrifice in the quality of materials or construction in any of these homes."

Shuchter adds, "Even the features which must obviously be included in the purchase price represent a tremendous value in return for the Capitol Hill home buyer's investment."

THERE ARE NOW five basic home designs available in Capitol Hill, including two new models which have just been introduced by Fidelity Builders. All of these homes include the "Blue Ribbon" luxury extras, plus many other important home features.

The Congress, a 3-bedroom, 2½ bath split-level, is priced at $32,950, while the Diplomat, a split-level with 4 bedrooms and 2½ baths, is priced at $33,950.

Furnished model homes in Capitol Hill are located on Camp McDonald Road (One mile north of Lake-Euclid Road) just west of River Road in Prospect Heights, and are open for inspection daily until dusk.

Winter Fails to Halt Work at Regent Park

Even bitter Old Man Winter can't put housing construction and sales in the deep-freeze in the exclusive Regent Park subdivision in Arlington Heights.

The builder, United Development Co. of Chicago beat Mr. Winter to the punch last fall and early last winter by anticipating the needs for early home deliveries in 1966.

This forward-looking thinking has benefitted the would-be homeowner who wants to "move right in."

Three single-family homes are ready for immediate occupancy, according to Fred Peterman, Director of Sales, and, he says, work on other models will be started in early this spring.

OTHER HOME sites in Regent Park include condominiums and town and garden homes. Peterman indicates these, too, will soon have new units available.

"Our condominium construction is always completely speculative," Peterman stated. "We started three buildings which include 39 apartments — last fall, and we have three apartments in these, with two and three bedrooms, which we will be able to deliver within five weeks. We can also deliver up to eighteen apartments by the end of June. The others were sold in the interim.

According to Peterman, "sales are going so well we intend to start two new buildings immediately in the spring."

Peterman adds that the spring schedule for work on town and garden homes is "heavy." He said a total of 46 units were started last fall, with 15 available for delivery as early as May. All the rest have been sold in brisk winter sales.

WHILE THE TREND to year-around home building and selling is speculative, it is based on sound sales experience, emphasizes Peterman. "Time was," he says, "when the home construction business was frozen solid in the winter and didn't come out of hibernation until the spring thaws."

Now Peterman indicates the industry is "leveling off the seasons. Now we anticipate our spring needs in the fall and excavate and pour concrete foundations in the fall or early winter when the weather still is relatively mild."

Once the foundations are in, Peterman asserts, the big problems are whipped. He said lean-tos can be erected for any necessary outside work, and, once a home is enclosed, a furnace can be installed and the interior work proceed normally.

THE REGENT Park project, on Foundry Road about a half-mile west of the Randhurst shopping center, is on a 45 acre tract which includes its own seven-acre springfed lake, swimming pool, tennis courts, and other recreational facilities.

AT RAMLIN ROSE NORTH — new apartment-home community located at Route 53 and Algonquin Road (Rte 62) just north of the Northwest Tollway, in Rolling Meadows—visitors are especially attracted by the space and well-planned layout of the apartments. 1-, 2- and 3-bedroom models are offered. Photo shows living room, entry and informal dining area of 1-bedroom unit, which rents for $140 per month.

Space, Good Layout Most Wanted Items

Plenty of room and a well-planned interior, with a practical traffic pattern, top the several features which are "most wanted" by today's apartment-home seekers.

This is indicated in a continuing survey of residents and visitors at Ramlin Rose North, new rental apartment community located at Routes 53 and 62, just north of the Northwest Tollway, in Rolling Meadows.

Jack Tomlinson, sales director of Kassuba & Pancotto Developers, said, "For those who prefer a modern rental apartment, in an open suburban location, comfortable living space and logical, convenient room arrangement are particularly desirable features. That's because, we feel, apartment dwellers generally are busy with a wide variety of interests and activities — and they appreciate an apartment which is really 'right' for them, and planned to fit in with their way of life."

TOMLINSON pointed out that the no-crowding, space-and-comfort approach to Ramlin Rose apartment-home planning is suggested immediately to visitors by the broad, landscaped lawn areas separating the two-story buildings of the community. 302 units — of 1-2-, and 3-bedroom size — are now renting in the first group of nine buildings. Rentals start at $140 per month.

The suggestion of spaciousness is continued in the design of each building's main entrance. Here, in a fully modern concept, a broad expanse of glass — divided by stained wooden beams — surrounds the door and sweeps upward the full two stories, from ground to roof. Inside, the same dramatic theme is continued, with accents of rough-sawn cedar and a broad, rustic stairway to the second story.

In the model apartments, emphasis is placed upon good layout and inviting spaciousness.

The planning of the one-bedroom apartment is typical. Here, the large entryway extends deep into the apartment, to serve as the natural traffic center and distributing corridor for the home. Moving past a double guest closet with louvred folding doors, the visitor moved through a wide, open doorway into the living room, or into the paneled dining-kitchen area. The bathroom, with modern softlighting and color-toned fixtures, is placed immediately off the entry corridor.

WALL-TO-WALL carpeting is a feature of all Ramlin Rose apartments, as is baseboard heating and wide double windows. From the living room, sliding glass doors open out to a highly usable balcony, or patio area. The complete, carefully-planned kitchens are in eye-catching Italian Provincial decor, with matching cabinets, double sink, oven, range, disposal and refrigerator. Flooring, here, is the modern, easy-to-clean vinyl tiling.

All residents enjoy year-'round maintenance of building exterior and grounds, and are provided individual storage lockers, laundry facilities and private off-street parking space.

Model apartments at Ramlin Rose North are open to public inspection daily (except Thursday) from noon to 8 p.m. — from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday.

Insurance Agent Back from Meeting

Robert Schofield, State Farm Mutual representative in the Elk Grove Village area, recently returned from a three-day convention for outstanding State Farm insurance agents at the Sheraton Hotel, Cleveland, Ohio.

ROBERT SCHOFIELD

An eight-year State Farm employe, Schofield was appointed an agent after three years in the claims department and as an injury adjuster. He formerly operated out of his home, but recently moved into new offices at Arlington Heights Road and Clearmont Drive, Elk Grove Village.

STATE FARM agents from Illinois, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana and even Canada attended the convention, accompanied by their wives.

State Farm president, Edward B. Rust, in an address at the convention, reported the company barely managed the break-even point on its 1965 recorded sales of $828,873,227, but said it was the first time in three years that the firm's auto insurance operation had climbed into the black. It also was the first time company assets topped the billion dollar mark, he said.

He doubted, however, that the "thin thread of profit indicated a turn in the underwriting trend which has been steadily worsening in recent years."

Schofield, on returning from the convention-meeting, said that though "the margin was thin, the picture was better than 1964 when a similar figure showed a loss of over $33 million.

BOTH Schofield and his wife, Pat, are former Chicagoans who have moved to the suburbs. The family, including five children, lives at 223 Crest Ave., Elk Grove Village.

Schofield, a 1952 graduate of DePaul University with a bachelor of arts degree, is an agent for a 45 year old company that has been the world's largest automobile insurer since 1942. State Farm is also considered the fastest growing life insurance company in the top 50, Schofield said. (BB

Walgreen Ice Cream Now in New Cartons

Homemakers can take a tip on the powerful role of eye-appeal in stimulating dining-table appetites from the success of Walgreens' new ice cream cartons.

Smart women have long understood the importance of visual appeal in foods, whether it's a strategic placement of a sprig of parsley or a sprinkling of paprika on mashed potatoes. But those who've felt that good home cooking needs no such sprucing up may well consider the effect of Walgreens' "spruced up" and newly-designed carry-out ice cream cartons on customers.

MANY CUSTOMERS have commented that Walgreens' "new" ice cream tastes better, complimenting the new "recipe." Yet, Walgreen officials point out that the firm's recipe has not changed. "We feel that we have a quality time-proven product that should not be tampered with," they say, "only the cartons have changed."

And just as a homemaker wisely employs visual appeal in her dishes to intrigue appetites, Walgreens feels its new cartons will intrigue shoppers in further boosting its ice cream sales.

Ultra-lifelike photography, appealing not only to the appetite for ice cream, but to the whole sense of flavor, appears on a total of twenty new Walgreen pint and twelve half-gallon-sized cartons.

Strawberry, for example, pictures a heaping ice cream serving plus dew-fresh berries spilling from a garden box. Chocolate ice cream is surrounded by chunks of rich chocolate candy. Luscious fruits and natural flavorings and flavor symbols, including jugs of syrup and vanilla beans in apothecary jars, are pictured on other cartons. All of the photographs continue around the box to give a three-dimensional effect.

PACKAGING CORP. of America, Evanston, produced the new cartons with artwork and photography done by GJ Design, Chicago.

The half-gallon cartons feature a convenient zip-tape for easy opening.

A leading producer of ice cream, Walgreens is one of the first in the nation to so fully employ this graphic flavor approach on its packaging. And the company stands alone in number of flavors portrayed in this fashion.

Last year Walgreens sold more than 3¼ million gallons of packaged ice cream across the nation and sales have increased 61 per cent within the past ten years. (BB

Wins Prize For Market Prediction

Conrad Gregory, 1360 Anderson Drive, Palatine, was one of the 10 people whose predictions came closest to the closing Dow Jones Average for Friday, Feb. 25.

The predictions were made during opening ceremonies at the new office of E. F. Hutton and Company Inc., located at the Gateway Center, 10 S. Riverside Plaza. The 10 winners will have their choice of a month's commuter train ticket or a $25 savings bond.

During Hutton's open house, a time capsule, containing 10-year financial predictions by Chicago's business leaders, was buried in the new office.

E. F. HUTTON and Company Inc. is the first borkerage house to move west of the Chicago River. Managed by Homer Hargrave Jr., and staffed by 25 account executives, the office will have an extensive research library, which will be open to anyone interested in market information.

E. F. Hutton and Company Inc. opened its first office 62 years ago, and today is one of the five largest investment firms in the country with offices from coast to coast. (BB

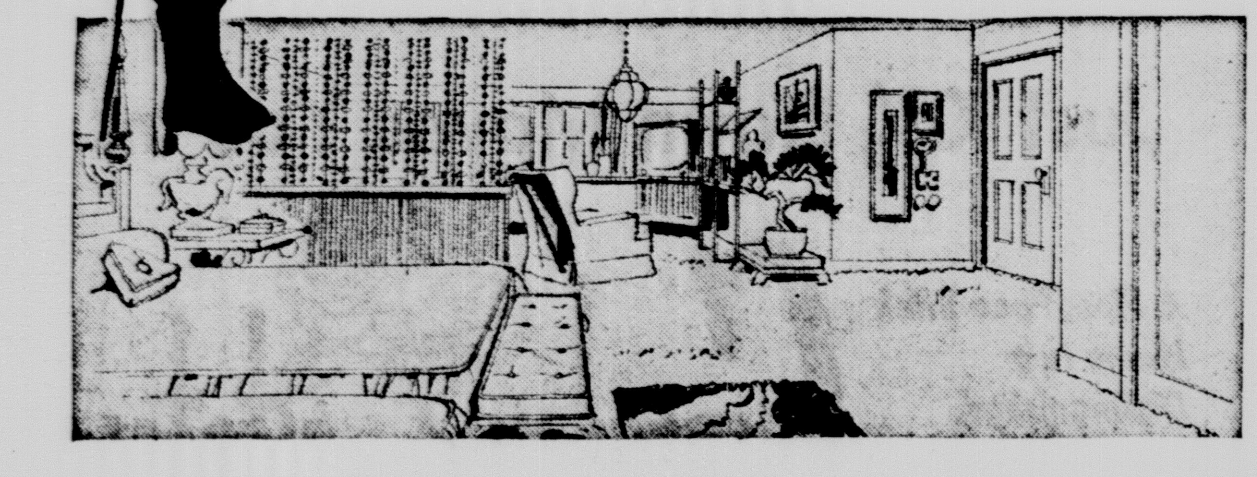
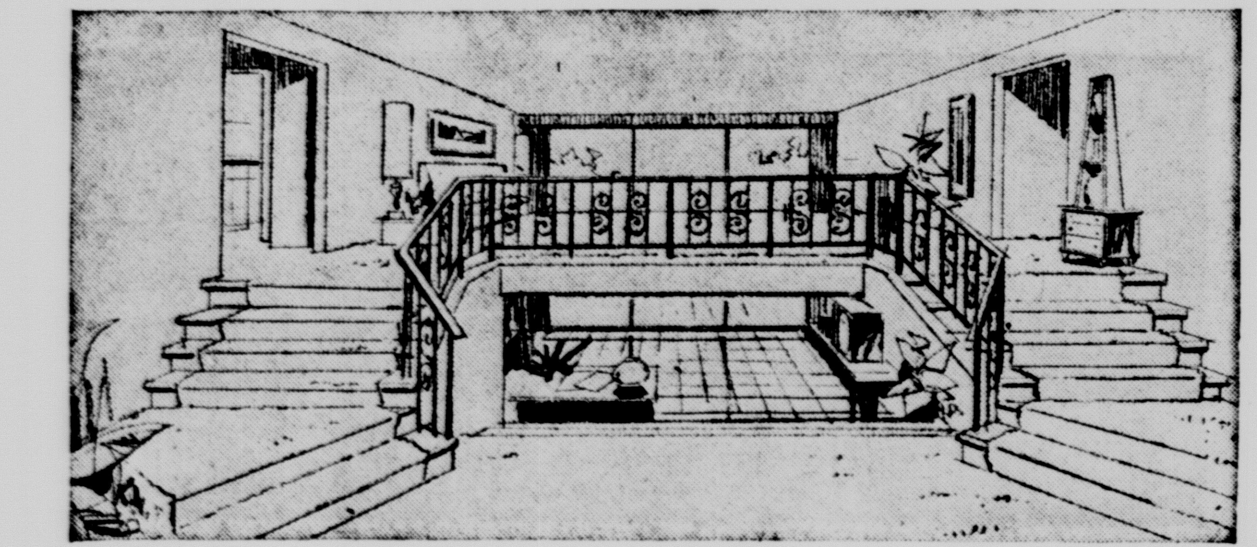
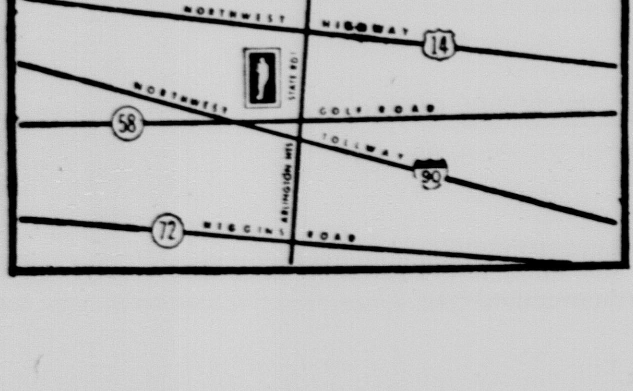
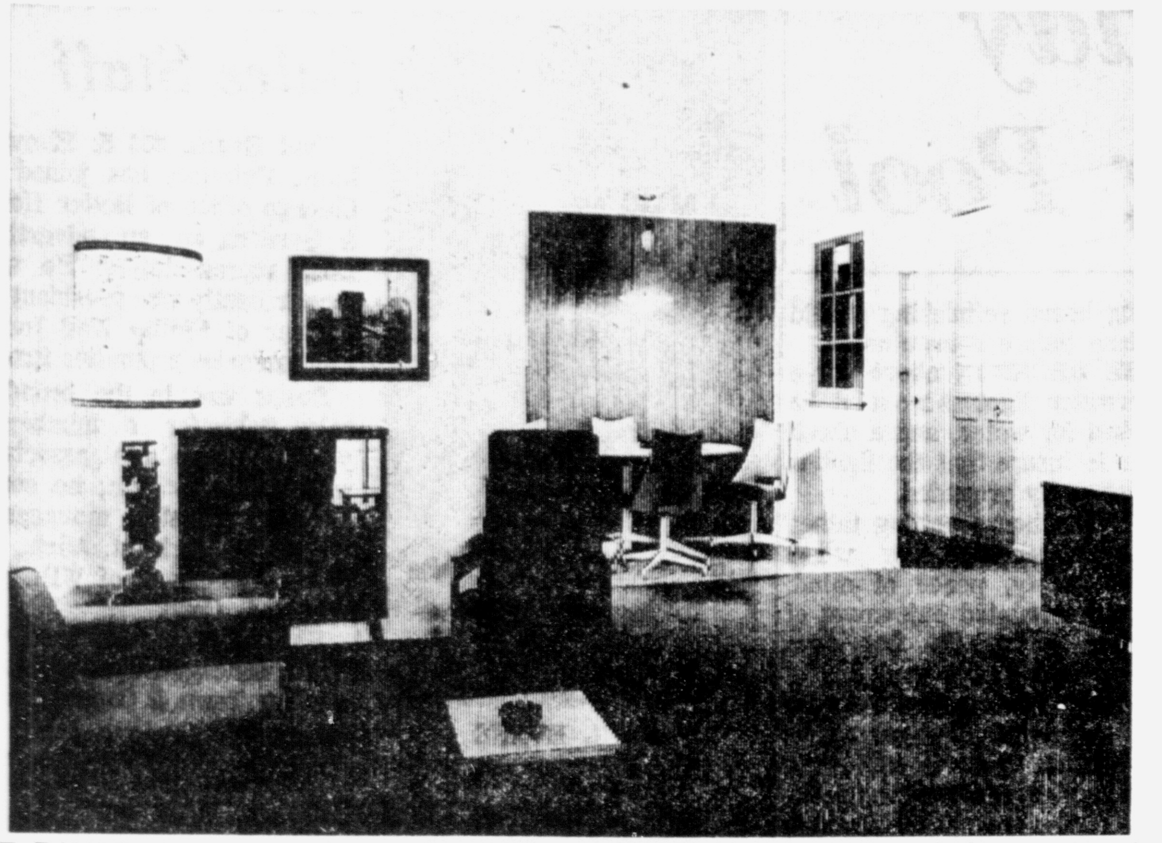
Another total living community by REALCOA









AT RAMLIN ROSE NORTH — new apartment-home community located at Route 53 and Algonquin Road (Rte 62) just north of the Northwest Tollway, in Rolling Meadows—visitors are especially attracted by the space and well-planned layout of the apartments. 1-, 2- and 3-bedroom models are offered. Photo shows living room, entry and informal dining area of 1-bedroom unit, which rents for $140 per month.

Space, Good Layout Most Wanted Items

Plenty of room and a well-planned interior, with a practical traffic pattern, top the several features which are "most wanted" by today's apartment-home seekers.

This is indicated in a continuing survey of residents and visitors at Ramlin Rose North, new rental apartment community located at Routes 53 and 62, just north of the Northwest Tollway, in Rolling Meadows.

Jack Tomlinson, sales director of Kassuba & Pancotto Developers, said, "For those who prefer a modern rental apartment, in an open suburban location, comfortable living space and logical, convenient room arrangement are particularly desirable features. That's because, we feel, apartment dwellers generally are busy with a wide variety of interests and activities — and they appreciate an apartment which is really 'right' for them, and planned to fit in with their way of life."

TOMLINSON pointed out that the no-crowding, space-and-comfort approach to Ramlin Rose apartment-home planning is suggested immediately to visitors by the broad, landscaped lawn areas separating the two-story buildings of the community. 302 units — of 1-2-, and 3-bedroom size — are now renting in the first group of nine buildings. Rentals start at $140 per month.

The suggestion of spaciousness is continued in the design of each building's main entrance. Here, in a fully modern concept, a broad expanse of glass — divided by stained wooden beams — surrounds the door and sweeps upward the full two stories, from ground to roof. Inside, the same dramatic theme is continued, with accents of rough-sawn cedar and a broad, rustic stairway to the second story.

In the model apartments, emphasis is placed upon good layout and inviting spaciousness.

The planning of the one-bedroom apartment is typical. Here, the large entryway extends deep into the apartment, to serve as the natural traffic center and distributing corridor for the home. Moving past a double guest closet with louvred folding doors, the visitor moved through a wide, open doorway into the living room, or into the paneled dining-kitchen area. The bathroom, with modern softlighting and color-toned fixtures, is placed immediately off the entry corridor.

WALL-TO-WALL carpeting is a feature of all Ramlin Rose apartments, as is baseboard heating and wide double windows. From the living room, sliding glass doors open out to a highly usable balcony, or patio area. The complete, carefully-planned kitchens are in eye-catching Italian Provincial decor, with matching cabinets, double sink, oven, range, disposal and refrigerator. Flooring, here, is the modern, easy-to-clean vinyl tiling.

All residents enjoy year-'round maintenance of building exterior and grounds, and are provided individual storage lockers, laundry facilities and private off-street parking space.

Model apartments at Ramlin Rose North are open to public inspection daily (except Thursday) from noon to 8 p.m. — from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday.

Insurance Agent Back from Meeting

ROBERT SCHOFIELD

Robert Schofield, State Farm Mutual representative in the Elk Grove Village area, recently returned from a three-day convention for outstanding State Farm insurance agents at the Sheraton Hotel, Cleveland, Ohio.

An eight-year State Farm employe, Schofield was appointed an agent after three years in the claims department and as an injury adjuster. He formerly operated out of his home, but recently moved into new offices at Arlington Heights Road and Clearmont Drive, Elk Grove Village.

STATE FARM agents from Illinois, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana and even Canada attended the convention, accompanied by their wives.

State Farm president, Edward B. Rust, in an address at the convention, reported the company barely managed the break-even point on its 1965 recorded sales of $828,873,227, but said it was the first time in three years that the firm's auto insurance operation had climbed into the black. It also was the first time company assets topped the billion dollar mark, he said.

He doubted, however, that the "thin thread of profit indicated a turn in the underwriting trend which has been steadily worsening in recent years."

Schofield, on returning from the convention-meeting, said that though "the margin was thin, the picture was better than 1964 when a similar figure showed a loss of over $33 million.

BOTH Schofield and his wife, Pat, are former Chicagoans who have moved to the suburbs. The family, including five children, lives at 223 Crest Ave., Elk Grove Village.

Schofield, a 1952 graduate of DePaul University with a bachelor of arts degree, is an agent for a 45 year old company that has been the world's largest automobile insurer since 1942. State Farm is also considered the fastest growing life insurance company in the top 50, Schofield said. (BB

Walgreen Ice Cream Now in New Cartons

Homemakers can take a tip on the powerful role of eye-appeal in stimulating dining-table appetites from the success of Walgreens' new ice cream cartons.

Smart women have long understood the importance of visual appeal in foods, whether it's a strategic placement of a sprig of parsley or a sprinkling of paprika on mashed potatoes. But those who've felt that good home cooking needs no such sprucing up may well consider the effect of Walgreens' "spruced up" and newly-designed carry-out ice cream cartons on customers.

MANY CUSTOMERS have commented that Walgreens' "new" ice cream tastes better, complimenting the new "recipe." Yet, Walgreen officials point out that the firm's recipe has not changed. "We feel that we have a quality time-proven product that should not be tampered with," they say, "only the cartons have changed."

And just as a homemaker wisely employs visual appeal in her dishes to intrigue appetites, Walgreens feels its new cartons will intrigue shoppers in further boosting its ice cream sales.

Ultra-lifelike photography, appealing not only to the appetite for ice cream, but to the whole sense of flavor, appears on a total of twenty new Walgreen pint and twelve half-gallon-sized cartons.

Strawberry, for example, pictures a heaping ice cream serving plus dew-fresh berries spilling from a garden box. Chocolate ice cream is surrounded by chunks of rich chocolate candy. Luscious fruits and natural flavorings and flavor symbols, including jugs of syrup and vanilla beans in apothecary jars, are pictured on other cartons. All of the photographs continue around the box to give a three-dimensional effect.

PACKAGING CORP. of America, Evanston, produced the new cartons with artwork and photography done by GJ Design, Chicago.

The half-gallon cartons feature a convenient zip-tape for easy opening.

A leading producer of ice cream, Walgreens is one of the first in the nation to so fully employ this graphic flavor approach on its packaging. And the company stands alone in number of flavors portrayed in this fashion.

Last year Walgreens sold more than 3¼ million gallons of packaged ice cream across the nation and sales have increased 61 per cent within the past ten years. (BB

Wins Prize For Market Prediction

Conrad Gregory, 1360 Anderson Drive, Palatine, was one of the 10 people whose predictions came closest to the closing Dow Jones Average for Friday, Feb. 25.

The predictions were made during opening ceremonies at the new office of E. F. Hutton and Company Inc., located at the Gateway Center, 10 S. Riverside Plaza. The 10 winners will have their choice of a month's commuter train ticket or a $25 savings bond.

During Hutton's open house, a time capsule, containing 10-year financial predictions by Chicago's business leaders, was buried in the new office.

E. F. HUTTON and Company Inc. is the first borkerage house to move west of the Chicago River. Managed by Homer Hargrave Jr., and staffed by 25 account executives, the office will have an extensive research library, which will be open to anyone interested in market information.

E. F. Hutton and Company Inc. opened its first office 62 years ago, and today is one of the five largest investment firms in the country with offices from coast to coast. (BB

Inventors Honored at Ceremonies

D. D. Theobald, 728 Milbeck Court, Elk Grove Village, and R. M. Rovnyak, 1641 Linden, Hanover Pk., Ontarioville, were among a group of 56 Automatic Electric Company inventors who were honored March 10.

The date marked the 75th anniversary of the patent issued to the company's founder, Almon B. Strowger, for his invention of the first automatic (dial) telephone.

At ceremonies in the O'Hare Inn, Des Plaines, patent award certificates were presented to the scientists by Automatic Electric President, D. H. Deaver, on behalf of the parent company, General Telephone & Electronics Corporation.

GUEST SPEAKER, Dr. Lee L. Davenport, president, General Telephone & Electronics Laboratories, Inc., saluted the inventors for carrying on in the tradition of Strowger.

Stressing that Automatic Electric engineers have always pioneered in telephone developments, he singled out for mention a few of their contributions over the years such as the pay-station telephone, handset telephones, color phones, and direct distance dialing. (BB

It's Time to Ready Your Swimming Pool

The first warm days have residential swimming pool owner—and especially their youngsters—dreaming of summer dips.

And that means taking proper steps now for a season of relaxed, trouble-free enjoyment of clear, sparkling water.

Jere Gottschalk, president of Recreation Supply Co., Arlington Heights, and a member of the National Swimming Pool Institute, offers a check list of steps to be taken now to eliminate trouble later.

"Pool maintenance, thanks to new chemicals, methods and equipment, is easier than ever," Mr. Gottschalk said, "but a pool still requires a spring tune-up just like the family car."

STEP ONE is to remove the protective winter cover or, if water has been left in the pool, drain it. A word of warning; underground water pressure may push an empty pool upward. To avoid this, many pool builders install hydrostatic relief valves which allow ground water to enter the pool and relieve any pressure. If there is any question, contact a professional pool service firm or builder, who will be able to make recommendations.

Next, sweep the inside of the pool while it is still moist, and sweep the deck area free of leaves, dirt, and other debris.

Then inspect the surface for cracks in the walls or floor and also decide whether painting or refinishing is needed.

Repairing of cracks and painting should be done by—or under the direction of—a professional pool service firm or a builder who offers this service.

Exposed valves, controls, and pipes should be examined for obvious deterioration, and for leakage when the water is turned on. Minor seepage from exposed valves and joints probably will stop when dried packing and gaskets absorb water. A turn of a wrench may be needed to stop seepage. But if major leaks occur, Mr. Gottschalk suggests calling in a professional, depending upon how adept the man of the house is with tools.

THOSE WITH pool water heaters—and their number is growing every year — should check them before relighting. "A simple cleaning job, removing scale buildup on heater tubes, may prevent a burnout later," Gottschalk cautioned.

He added that inspecton of the heater vent pipe may disclose leaves or an unexpected birds' nest.

As the pool is filling, DE filter elements or sand filter bed should be examined for wear and tear, and replaced, if necessary. The same is true of the sacrifical anodes that protect from corrosion and electrolysis.

When the pump is lubricated, listen for noisy operation that may indicate worn bearings. A pool builder or service company can replace them. Follow all other steps outlined by the filter manufacturer to put the equipment into use.

The hair and lint strainer will need cleaning, possibly replacement, particularly if the trap has rusted enough to permit small pieces of stone to pass through the pump impeller.

All ladders and grab rails should be hand tested to be sure they are still firmly anchored.

Diving board refinishing should be done before reinstallation.

THE DECKBOX above the underwater light should be checked for water, and a check made to insure that the light is still securely grounded.

"A few hours putting things in tip-top condition now will assure safety, peace of mind, and uninterrupted enjoyment of the pool during the hot days ahead," Gottschalk said.

He added that unless the owner is a versatile do-it-yourselfer, it would be best to call in a pool service company or builder.

Most such firms, he said, charge a reasonable, flat rate for a thorough examination and "spring tune-up," adding only the cost of replacement materials and labor for extensive repair or replacement. (BB

"Pool maintenance, thanks to new chemicals, methods and equipment, is easier than ever," Mr. Gottschalk said, "but a pool still requires a spring tune-up just like the family car."

STEP ONE is to remove the protective winter cover or, if water has been left in the pool, drain it. A word of warning; underground water pressure may push an empty pool upward. To avoid this, many pool builders install hydrostatic relief valves which allow ground water to enter the pool and relieve any pressure. If there is any question, contact a professional pool service firm or builder, who will be able to make recommendations.

Next, sweep the inside of the pool while it is still moist, and sweep the deck area free of leaves, dirt, and other debris.

Then inspect the surface for cracks in the walls or floor and also decide whether painting or refinishing is needed.

Repairing of cracks and painting should be done by—or under the direction of—a professional pool service firm or a builder who offers this service.

Exposed valves, controls, and pipes should be examined for obvious deterioration, and for leakage when the water is turned on. Minor seepage from exposed valves and joints probably will stop when dried packing and gaskets absorb water. A turn of a wrench may be needed to stop seepage. But if major leaks occur, Mr. Gottschalk suggests calling in a professional, depending upon how adept the man of the house is with tools.

THOSE WITH pool water heaters—and their number is growing every year — should check them before relighting. "A simple cleaning job, removing scale buildup on heater tubes, may prevent a burnout later," Gottschalk cautioned.

He added that inspecton of the heater vent pipe may disclose leaves or an unexpected birds' nest.

As the pool is filling, DE filter elements or sand filter bed should be examined for wear and tear, and replaced, if necessary. The same is true of the sacrifical anodes that protect from corrosion and electrolysis.

When the pump is lubricated, listen for noisy operation that may indicate worn bearings. A pool builder or service company can replace them. Follow all other steps outlined by the filter manufacturer to put the equipment into use.

The hair and lint strainer will need cleaning, possibly replacement, particularly if the trap has rusted enough to permit small pieces of stone to pass through the pump impeller.

All ladders and grab rails should be hand tested to be sure they are still firmly anchored.

Diving board refinishing should be done before reinstallation.

THE DECKBOX above the underwater light should be checked for water, and a check made to insure that the light is still securely grounded.

"A few hours putting things in tip-top condition now will assure safety, peace of mind, and uninterrupted enjoyment of the pool during the hot days ahead," Gottschalk said.

He added that unless the owner is a versatile do-it-yourselfer, it would be best to call in a pool service company or builder.

Most such firms, he said, charge a reasonable, flat rate for a thorough examination and "spring tune-up," adding only the cost of replacement materials and labor for extensive repair or replacement. (BB

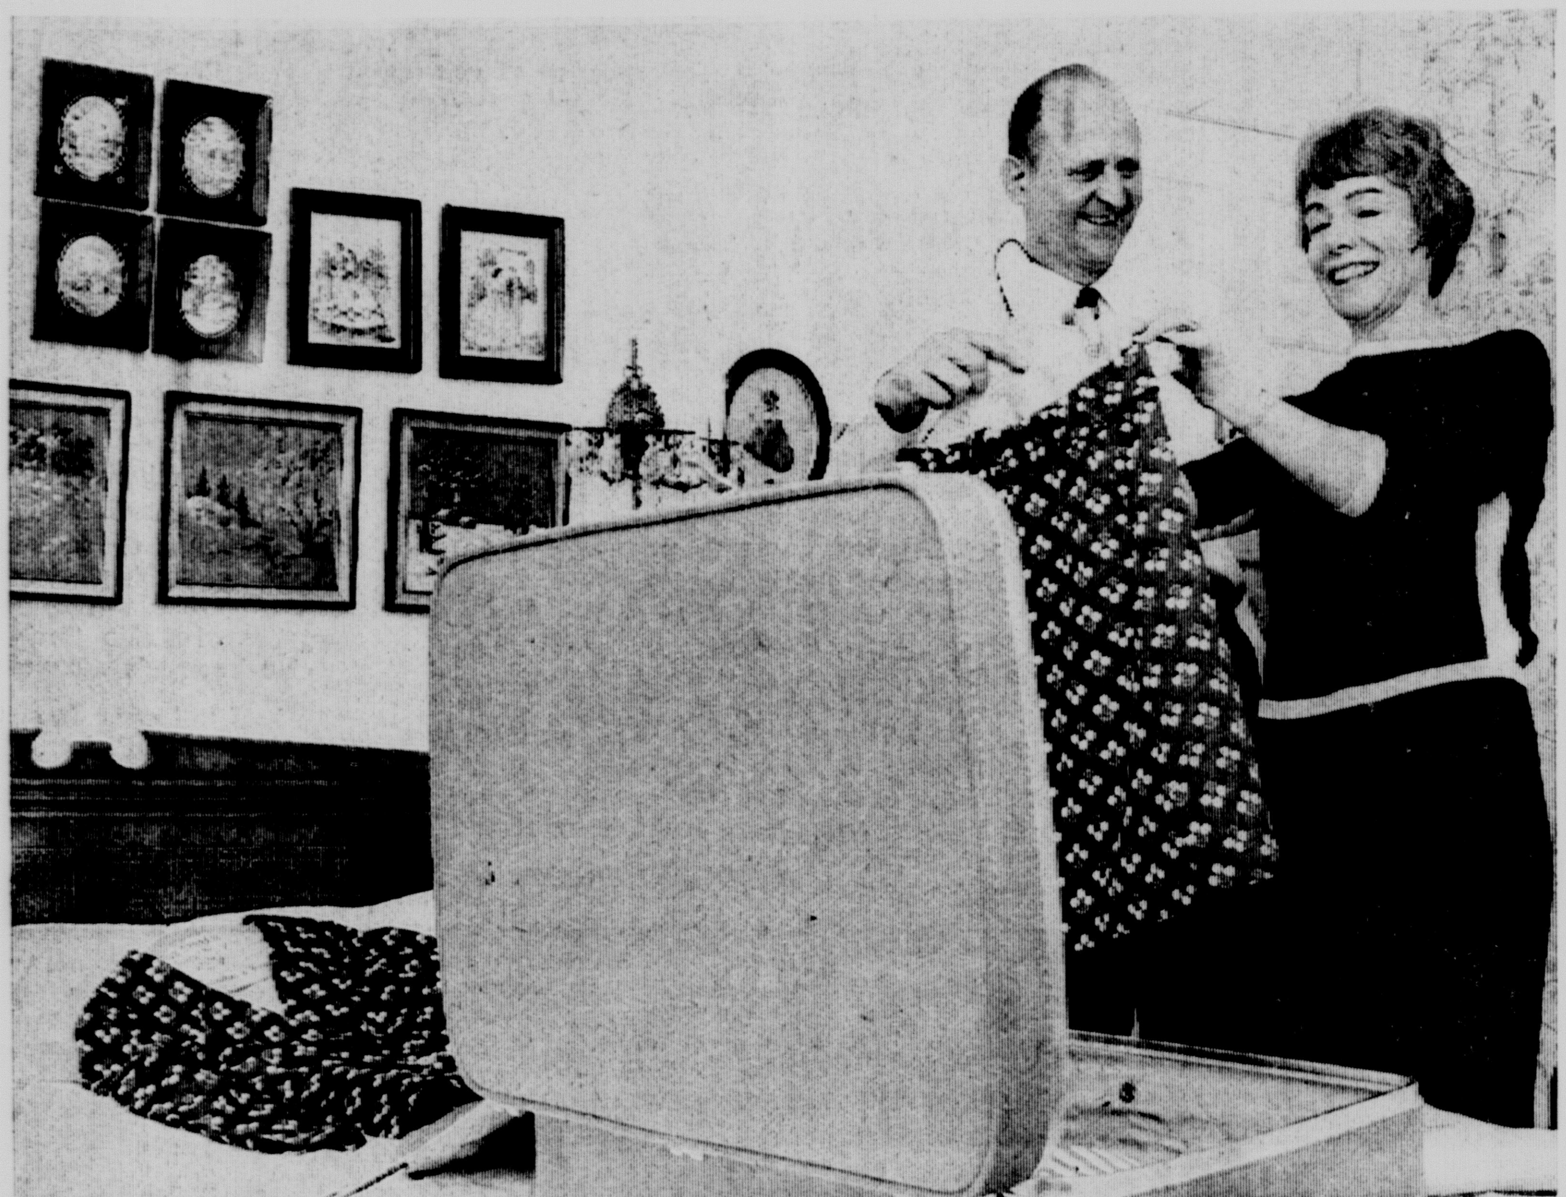
Especially for Women

PART A THURS., MAR. 17, 1966



WHAT TO WEAR, woman's perennial problem, is one for Mrs. Howard Benysh of Roselle as she gets the family packed for their vacation trip to Mobile, Ala., where daughter Kathy will be vying with 49 other Junior Misses for the title of 1966 America's Junior Miss. Kathy's father gives his wife a helping hand. As Alabama weather is somewhat unpredictable in March, the Benyshes have to take along clothes for every eventuality. (Staff photo)

A Dixieland Vacation

They're Alabama-Bound

by PAT ADAM
Suburban Living Editor

Although the Howard Benysh's of Roselle have been accustomed to taking an early spring vacation for several years now, this year's will be something extra special.

They'll be heading for the deep southland—to Mobile, Ala., specifically — where daughter Kathryn will be competing in America's Junior Miss pageant.

Preparations for this exciting event have been under way almost since the night last December when Kathy, an honor student at Lake Park High School, was crowned as Illinois Junior Miss at the climax of a nearly week-long pageant in the plush Drury Lane Theatre in Evergreen Park.

KATHY ADMITS she still has to pinch herself to believe it's all true.

For women, vacations and travel mean new clothes, and the three Benysh women, Kathy, her mother and sister Debra, a Lake Park freshman, are no exception.

Two of the most important items of apparel for the Junior Miss candidate—and two of the hardest to find—are the formals needed for the Mobile pageant.

"Cotton formals aren't easy to find in winter," laughed Kathy's mother.

AFTER MANY shopping tours they decided on a white frock with simple lines, in contrast to the lacy one Kathy wore in the Illinois pageant, and a gay daffodil yellow one with wide-brimmed yellow hat to match, sure to transform the dark-eyed, dark-haired northern miss into a southern belle.

Just about as difficult to locate in mid-winter was the kind of shorts stipulated for the Junior Misses. The girls wear shorts during their numerous rehearsals, and these are supopsed to be just above the knees. The only ones available in January and February were too long.

While in Mobile, Kathy will be staying with a doctor and his family named Goldfarb.

"We thought it was a joke when we first heard the name, but that's it," said Mrs. Benysh.

THE GOLDFARBS have a daughter at the University of Illinois, and Kathy and her roommate, another Junior Miss from Iowa, will share the daughter's room during their pageant stay. The Goldfarbs also will be the girls' official chaperones.

The rest of the Benysh's won't be seeing much of Kathy during the 10 days in Mobile, but their time is well planned with a round of tours through the azalea-famous city, parties, luncheons, dinners and other affairs.

"I think we have only one free afternoon the whole time," commented Mrs. Benysh.

Kathy's family is looking forward to their first real vacation in the southland—they've been to Florida, but that's all—and also to the flight down to Alabama.

THEY FEEL fortunate to have obtained seating on the same plane as Kathy and 20 other Junior Misses departing from Chicago's O'Hare Field tomorrow (Friday) for their rendezvous with other candidates in Atlanta, Ga., where they'll all board one plane bound for Mobile. Otherwise the Benysh family would have missed the exciting arrival of that plane in Mobile where brass bands, military cadets and others will give the visiting Junior Misses their first taste of that renowned southern hospitality.

"Everything's going to be real cool!" declared Debbie.

"I hope not," retorted her father good-naturedly.

"Well, fab, then!" Debbie corrected.

Meantime, the only problem remaining between now and take-off time tomorrow is to find room in the suitcases for all the clothes the family will need in Mobile's not altogether dependable March weather. Luckily, the two formal gowns have been mailed ahead.

Grandmothers Meet Friday

The monthly meeting of Mount Prospect Grandmothers' Club is scheduled for Friday, March 18, at 1 p.m. at Mount Prospect Country Club.

All area grandmothers are welcome.

Final plans will be made for the club's annual card party, slated this year for April 29. Details are available from Mrs. Fay Carlson, president, at 437-4690.

EGV Nurse Club Offers Scholarship

Applications are now being accepted for the first annual nursing scholarship granted by the Elk Grove Village Nurses Club. The scholarship grant, in the amount of $250, is available to any graduating senior residing in Elk Grove or the surrounding unincorporated area.

The award will be granted on the basis of information received on the application form and a personal interview with the scholarship committee. Mrs. Sandra Reddinger, 1245 Hemlock Drive, is chairman of the scholarship committee and has announced an April 15 deadline for completed application forms.

Tickets are now on sale for the club's April 16 luncheon-fashion show to be held at Landers Hyatt Chalet, Elk Grove Village. Fashions will be from the Lorraine-Anne Shop of Arlington Heights. Proceeds will go to club philanthropies including the scholarship fund and the lending closet.

Protect Your Family! Read That Label

Able to read a label? That's not all you need to do to protect your family against poisoning accidents. But reading a label is a mighty important first step.

Take a look at the cleaners, waxes, polishes that you have in your kitchen or bathroom right now and at the solvents, paint thinners and removers and the like which your husband stocks on his basement work table. On how many of them does a label carry words like "Caution," "Warning," "Danger" or "Vapor Harmful?" Do any of them bear the symbol of skull and crossbones? Do the labels warn, "Keep Out of the Reach of Children?"

If these products are labeled in any of these ways, it's because the Federal Hazardous Substances Labeling Act, a law passed by the Food and Drug Administration, U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, requires such labeling.

THIS ACT specifies that any household product must carry information to protect users and to warn against possible hazards if it's toxic, corrosive, flammable, irritating to the skin or eye or generates dangerous pressure through heat, decomposition or other means. That last phrase is directed at your aerosol cans, among other products. In addition, the act provides that certain products which produce allergic reactions upon a repetition of use must also carry information and warnings.

The week of March 20-26, designated by the President as National Poison Prevention Week, is an excellent time to take stock of the chemical household aids you have on your shelves. Decide where is the safest place to store them out of reach of your children and what precautions to observe when you use these products.

The first step in protecting your family against poisoning from hazardous household chemical aids is to read the label. But knowing what is on the label is not enough. More important is to heed the label. Observe the warnings. Keep out of the reach of children.

Ladies Aid Elects Two New Officers

Mrs. Otto Matthies was named president and Mrs. Ed Schulz, secretary, of the Ladies Aid of St. Paul Lutheran Church in Addison at the March 3 meeting of the group.

Mrs. Matthies succeeds Mrs. Erwin Plass, and Mrs. Schulz replaces Mrs. Arthur Frey, who have served as president and secretary, respectively, for the past two years.

Mrs. Fred Wren and Mrs. LeRoy Hernamsen are the current vice president and treasurer, whose terms of office will continue for another year.

The Ladies Aid will hold its next meeting Thursday, March 31, a week early, to avoid a meeting on Maundy Thursday.

Illinois' Junior Miss

Destination: Mobile

A delightful 17 year-old from Roselle embarks on another adventure tomorrow (Friday) at O'Hare International Airport.

Kathryn Benysh, Illinois' Junior Miss of 1966, departs fo Atlanta, Ga.. a rendezvous with 49 other state winners, and then Mobile, Ala., and America's Junior Miss Pageant.

"It's been something like a three-act play," explains Kathy, valedictorian of the senior class at Lake Park High School. "I became Roselle's Junior Miss in October at a community pageant sponsored by Paddock Publications. And what a surprise!

"THEN I was selected Illinois' Junior Miss at the state pageant in December," sponsored by Chicago's American and the Chevrolet Division, General Motors Corp., at the Drury Lane Theatre, Evergreen Park.

"And now the trip to Mobile and the national competition. My parents are still in shock, sort of."

Kathy and her family (Mr. and Mrs. Howard Benysh and sister Debra) need not have been surprised. Annually more than 40,000 Junior Miss contestants throughout the nation are judged in scholastic achievement, mental alertness, poise and appearance, youth fitness and creative and performing arts. Those who succeed at the community level are advanced to state pageants, after which 50 winners travel to Mobile in March.

ILLINOIS' "first lady of youth" is a straight-A student, fluent in three languages, a cheerleader, active in extra-curricular, civic and religious activities and a talented folksinger. As one observer said recently, "High school seniors with credentials like that usually do well."

Kathy's week begins tomorrow evening with a spirited airport ceremony at Mobile for the 50 visiting Junior Misses. A parade through the city on Saturday is to be followed by the mayor's reception. Sunday and Monday are devoted to rehearsals and personal interviews with judges; Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday to preliminary performances at Mobile's mammoth Municipal Auditorium and Saturday, March 26, to the final performance and selection of America's Junior Miss of 1966, before a capacity audience of 14,000 and a nation watching on NBC-TV.

National sponsors have provided more than $40,000 in college scholarship grants to be awarded to the winner, runners-up and preliminary winners. Donors are: Chevrolet Division, General Motors Corp; Eastman-Kodak Co; Scott Paper Co. and John Breck Co.

KATHY was awarded a $2,500 college scholarship on her selection as Illinois' Junior Miss, which she will use in September at Northwestern University.

How does a 17 year-old prepare for an adventure of this magnitude?

"First and foremost by planning ahead," answers Kathy. "Since I'll be away from school for nearly two weeks, I've had to complete all of my assignments in advance. And that's an undertaking in itself.

"Second, by rehearsing. I've been practicing for two months with a choreographer, a guitar teacher and a voice coach, trying to pack a year's lessons into 60 days or so.

"Third, by shopping—and my mother's been most helpful here. I needed two formal gowns, among other things."

DID MR. Benysh complain when the bills arrived?

"Not a bit," Kathy reports. "But, as I said, he's still in shock."

And finally, how does she view the prospect of becoming America's Junior Miss of 1966?

"Certainly every contestant to the national pageant thinks about winning. I know I have. But winning isn't everything. One of us will win, 49 of us won't. I just hope to represent the teenagers of Illinois as proudly as I can."

Illinois is in good hands.

Pre-Marital Counseling May Stem Teen Marriage Trend

Teenage marriages have increased greatly in the past 20 years with "disastrous consequences," Dr. Harold I. Lief reported to physicians attending the American Medical Association's recent 62nd annual Congress on Medical Education.

The Tulane University psychiatrist noted that more than 40 per cent of U. S. brides are teenagers, that in a recent year more than 600,000 babies were born to mothers between the ages of 14 and 19, that one out of every three high school brides is pregnant when she marries (and one out of six brides generally) and that approximately half the teenage marriages end in divorce. Dr. Lief urged more active and intensive counseling of young people to head off the "individual waste, pain, and lives irreversibly scarred or wrecked."

Giant strides will be made to halt family breakdown, Dr. Lief observed, when physicians and other adults assume responsibility for a broadened concept of family planning. Young people must be guided not only in contraception, but in such matters as when to marry, when to have the first child, child spacing and the desired size of the family.

HE NOTED that the general marital and sexual adjustment of parents must be among the prime concerns of physicians and others interested in the health of the community as well as of individuals.

The physician said that while not all teenage marriages are poor risks, many young people are motivated to get married for such essentially unsound reasons as the search of illusory security, to achieve status or sexual pleasure, or to make a pregnancy legal. Sometimes such marriages represent a rebellion against parental wishes, an effort to overcome loneliness and to become one of the crowd, or a wish to attain independence before being emotionally ready for it.

While many of these motivations occur later in life as well, by that time the individual has usually developed certain firm values and beliefs that are less likely to change. An older person is also likely to have a sense of certainty about who he is, Dr. Lief said. The personalities of adolescents, on the other hand, are in the process of change, and adolescent husbands and wives may grow at different rates and in different directions and in a few short years become imcompatible.

WHAT CAN the physician and other adults do to help young people through the trying period of adolescence?

Dr. Lief believes that every effort should be made to get young people to postpone marriage for a few years and that meaningful pre-marital counseling is a must. Such counseling should include not only a bood test for venereal disease, a complete physical examination, and contraceptive advice, but also the following:

Sound information about sex to overcome fears that can interfere with a healthy relationship.

Consideration of the timing of the first child. Postponing the arrival of the baby until the bride is in her early 20's will give the couple a chance to see if the marriage is solid enough to sustain a child.

CHILD SPACING. Dr. Lief notes that "sowing the seeds too rapidly may sow the seeds for eventual family disorganization." He points out that children coming in quick succession can be emotionally and economically burdensome for the parents, leading to emotional problems in the children. Child spacing should be discussed before marriage, during pregnancy, and six weeks after delivery when a woman's motivation for contraception is high.

Number of children. While no one can say for certain what the ideal family size should be, physicians and others can at least clarify for young people what the population explosion will mean to them personally in terms of higher taxes, overcrowded cities, diminishing open spaces for relaxation, air pollution, joblessness.

Such counseling, the physician believes, will help reduce illegitimacy, abortion, individual and family breakdown—and will thus contribute to the health of the entire nation.

Elk Grove Junior Women Model Their Own Sewing Creations

Sharing the program spotlight at the recent March meeting of Elk Grove Juniors Woman's Club were a members' fashion show and a talk on parliamentary procedure by Mrs. Louis Imbers, parliamentary advisor for Seventh District IFWC.

Ten ensembles created by the Junior seamstresses were modeled for the club, fashions ranging from an at-home hostess gown through daytime suits and into after-five wear.

MEMBERS who modeled their own ensembles, in order of appearance, were Mrs. Edward Kenna, Mrs. R. Craig Sallenback, Mrs. Harold Greaves, Mrs. Roger Kantola, Mrs. Alvin Kiehl, Mrs. Norman Jacobs and Mrs. Donald Varney.

Mrs. Harold Thompson, program chairman, was commentator.

FIRST PRIZE winners in each of two categories, daytime and evening, will take part in the Seventh District sewing contest later this month. Mrs. Donald Varney, sewing chairman, awarded a $10 gift certificate from Fishman's Fabrics in Chicago to Mrs. Harold Greaves for daytime wear and a certificate to Mrs. Roger Kantola for evening wear, both first prize winners in the Elk Grove Junior Woman's contest.

Darlene Greaves' buttonless, rolled collar gray wool suit was combined with a blouse and hat created from a fabric of silk and rayon blend. Alyce Kantola modeled an evening dress with a high bias collar ring, with free falling front and back panels of black crepe.

Second prize of a gift certificate from Hangenbring's was presented to Mrs. Norman Jacobs for daytime wear and a certificate for an accessory from Muriel Mundy's to Mrs. Dave Clifton for evening wear.

IN HER talk on orderly procedure for transacting business, Mrs. Imbers said, "Think of yourselves as a whole, with each individual member cooperatively working for the good of the club."

"The authority of each chairman's job is not in the person but in the office," she pointed out. "Members have a duty to each other—cooperation. If you have a difference of opinion, speak out, but you don't have to disagree disagreeably!"

She encouraged members to speak at discussion times and not wait until after meetings to express opinions "over the back fence."

Parliamentary procedure was defined by her as the good use of common sense with the unwritten laws of courtesy, cooperation, kindness and fairness. (S

Hamburger Quality Is Checked

Why is hamburger so popular with the school-age set? You can be sure it's no ancident because hamburger is no better than the meat it's made from.

The School Lunch Division of the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Services safeguards the quality of hamburger served to school children.

In 1953 the USDA began buying hamburger for school lunches to reduce a beef surplus and provide improved lunches for millions of the nation's school children. Hamburger proved so popular that now schools spend 37 per cent of their meat dollar for ground beef.

THE BEEF WHICH goes into hamburger is examined by C&MS personnel, usually a federal grader, ror freshness and grade of beef. Only certain parts of the beef may be used and the fat content for each lot must stay within a relatively narrow range.

The ground beef must be packaged, frozen and shipped in accord with requirements designed to maintain quality and freshness. Random samples and chemical tests also help keep quality high for school lunch hamburger.

So it's no wonder school kids love hamburger. For several years it has remained one of the most popular items on school lunch menus. (S

Her Oyster Tarts Are Scrumptious Eating

Spices in Pie Crust Complement Filling

by LOIS SEILER

If a pearl is to be associated with oysters, then surely it is the recipe from which the oyster tarts featured today are made. For this recipe is a gem, especially if your husband likes oysters, and what man doesn't?

It has been shared with readers by Mrs. Peter De Vries of Hoffman Estates, and is definitely one of her husband's favorites.

"This was among a group of foreign recipes which I sent for several years ago," said Mrs. DeVries. "It is French in origin and is not difficult to make, yet is quite different and delicious."

In this recipe, sauteed oysters and mushrooms are combined in a rich cheese sauce and baked in pastry crusts. Tiny muffin-size tins can be used if the tarts are to be served as hors d' oeuvres. Otherwise, small individual pie shells (4-inch size) or large 8-inch shells may be used if the tarts are served as the main course for dinner. Parmesan cheese may be sprinkled over the baked tarts.

"BECAUSE THIS is a rich dish, a tossed salad is all that is needed as an accompaniment," Mrs. DeVries commented. "Rice may also be served, if desired."

She prefers a light dessert, such as fruit or gelatine.

However, for a ladies' gathering in the afternoon or evening a rich dessert is in order, and for such an occasion this good cook's choice is a luscious Chocolate Pie.

Frances DeVries uses a graham cracker crust for this pie, which is flavored with several spices. The filling consists of butter, sugar, eggs and chocolate. Its light texture depends on a thorough beating of the ingredients. Chilled for several hours, the pie can be topped with whipped cream, but is just as good served plain.

THE SPICES IN the crust complement the chocolate filling and result in an interesting and appealing flavor combination.

"This dessert doesn't take long to prepare, yet is always a success," Mrs. DeVries said.

The DeVries family moved from Pittsburgh to their home at 137 Carthage Lane in Hoffman Estates a year and a half ago. They have two children, Derek, 5, and Sonne Marie, 3 years old.

Mrs. DeVries is secretary of Beta Sigma Phi sorority, chairman of the gourmet cooking group of the Hoffman Estates Woman's Club and belongs to a neighborhood knitting club.

WHAT MAN (or woman, for that matter!) could resist the elegant Oyster Tarts prepared by Mrs. Peter De Vries of Hoffman Estates? She sprinkles parmesan cheese over the appealing baked tarts and serves them with a tossed salad. The rich and delicious Chocolate Pie (lower left-hand corner) is one of her favorites for a ladies gathering.

¼ cup butter
1 can frozen oysters (12 ounces)
2 teaspoons seasoned salt

3 tablespoons flour

Blend in flour. Slowly add cream, stirring constantly until it boils and thickens. Reduce heat; add cheese and stir until it melts. Remove from heat and stir in lemon juice.

Pour into unbaked pie shells; for hors d' oeuvres use 24 small tart size, and for dinner use 6 small 4-inch pie shells or two 8-inch-pie-shells.

Place in a 425-degree oven for about 25 minutes or until crust is golden brown. Serve warm. Parmesan cheese may be sprinkled over the top.

Her Oyster Tarts Are Scrumptious Eating

Spices in Pie Crust Complement Filling

by LOIS SEILER

If a pearl is to be associated with oysters, then surely it is the recipe from which the oyster tarts featured today are made. For this recipe is a gem, especially if your husband likes oysters, and what man doesn't?

It has been shared with readers by Mrs. Peter De Vries of Hoffman Estates, and is definitely one of her husband's favorites.

"This was among a group of foreign recipes which I sent for several years ago," said Mrs. DeVries. "It is French in origin and is not difficult to make, yet is quite different and delicious."

In this recipe, sauteed oysters and mushrooms are combined in a rich cheese sauce and baked in pastry crusts. Tiny muffin-size tins can be used if the tarts are to be served as hors d' oeuvres. Otherwise, small individual pie shells (4-inch size) or large 8-inch shells may be used if the tarts are served as the main course for dinner. Parmesan cheese may be sprinkled over the baked tarts.

"BECAUSE THIS is a rich dish, a tossed salad is all that is needed as an accompaniment," Mrs. DeVries commented. "Rice may also be served, if desired."

She prefers a light dessert, such as fruit or gelatine.

However, for a ladies' gathering in the afternoon or evening a rich dessert is in order, and for such an occasion this good cook's choice is a luscious Chocolate Pie.

Frances DeVries uses a graham cracker crust for this pie, which is flavored with several spices. The filling consists of butter, sugar, eggs and chocolate. Safety Experts Say: Discard That Junk

Safety experts agree that good housekeeping is the best deterrent against fire and accidents in the home.

Unfortunately though, with many people, good housekeeping practices stop at the kitchen door. They don't extend to the basement, attic or garage — major breeding grounds for fires and accidents in the home.

The most serious threat to home safety is the accumulation of articles of little or no value. More specifically, junk.

Homeowners regularly should discard all articles that have outlived their usefulness or pose a threat to the safety of the home.

PROPER fire-resistant metal trash containers should be placed in the garage and basement to encourage and remind members of the family to get rid of accumulated junk.

Wood scraps and other flammable materials that collect in the workshop area should be placed in a galvanized steel trash container until hauled out for removal by local refuse collectors.

Be sure that the container has a cover made of the same fireproof material. Keep the cover in place on the container to guard against the start of a fire from a lighted match or other heat source.

Covered metal containers also are ideally suited for the safe and dry storage of household articles in the basement and attic.

IN THE GARAGE or backyard area, metal containers are recommended for the storage of grass clippings, leaves, broken branches, scraps of paper and other backyard debris. Because these items are subject to spontaneous combustion under some conditions, keep the containers covered when unattended.

Storing flammable materials in bushel baskets, wooden crates, cardboard boxes and other combustible containers represents a very definite fire hazard. These combustible containers and their contents can easily be ignited by a carelessly discarded cigaret, a lighted match or even a spark from the exhaust of an automobile. Anything short of a metal receptacle is unable to contain a fire should it happen to start. (S

Ideas Offered

Need fence and deck ideas? Write to the Western Wood Products Assn., Yeon Building, Portland, Oregon. Address fence inquiries to Dept. 514-P, and deck inquiries to Dept. 502-P. Enclose 10 cents for each to cover mailing.

Spindles Serve To Cover Glass

If your front door is flanked by full-height glass panels that allow too much view into the house, cover the glass with a grille made of stock spindles or balusters.

The spindles are available at any retail lumber yard. Mount the spindles vertically in a frame of 1x4-inch pine boards using as many tiers as needed to cover the height of the glass.

The grilles are effective used either indoors or outside. If used outside, paint them to match the house siding or trim. Indoors, coordinate them with the entrance hall decor. (S

WELCOME WAGON

Safety Experts Say: Discard That Junk

Safety experts agree that good housekeeping is the best deterrent against fire and accidents in the home.

Unfortunately though, with many people, good housekeeping practices stop at the kitchen door. They don't extend to the basement, attic or garage — major breeding grounds for fires and accidents in the home.

The most serious threat to home safety is the accumulation of articles of little or no value. More specifically, junk.

Homeowners regularly should discard all articles that have outlived their usefulness or pose a threat to the safety of the home.

PROPER fire-resistant metal trash containers should be placed in the garage and basement to encourage and remind members of the family to get rid of accumulated junk.

Wood scraps and other flammable materials that collect in the workshop area should be placed in a galvanized steel trash container until hauled out for removal by local refuse collectors.

Be sure that the container has a cover made of the same fireproof material. Keep the cover in place on the container to guard against the start of a fire from a lighted match or other heat source.

Covered metal containers also are ideally suited for the safe and dry storage of household articles in the basement and attic.

IN THE GARAGE or backyard area, metal containers are recommended for the storage of grass clippings, leaves, broken branches, scraps of paper and other backyard debris. Because these items are subject to spontaneous combustion under some conditions, keep the containers covered when unattended.

Storing flammable materials in bushel baskets, wooden crates, cardboard boxes and other combustible containers represents a very definite fire hazard. These combustible containers and their contents can easily be ignited by a carelessly discarded cigaret, a lighted match or even a spark from the exhaust of an automobile. Anything short of a metal receptacle is unable to contain a fire should it happen to start. (S

If your front door is flanked by full-height glass panels that allow too much view into the house, cover the glass with a grille made of stock spindles or balusters.

The spindles are available at any retail lumber yard. Mount the spindles vertically in a frame of 1x4-inch pine boards using as many tiers as needed to cover the height of the glass.

The grilles are effective used either indoors or outside. If used outside, paint them to match the house siding or trim. Indoors, coordinate them with the entrance hall decor. (S

Mothers Club Issues Dessert Recipe Book

If you're looking for some new dessert recipes to try when you entertain, you can find more than 500 different but simple to make ones in a new cookbook put out by the Mothers Club of Carmel High School in Mundelein.

The recipes are favorites of the mothers of Carmel students, some of whom live in Wheeling and Buffalo Grove. The book is called "Cream of Carmel," and copies may be obtained from Mrs. Warren Mallette, 13 Crestview Terr., Buffalo Grove, 634-3043.

Mrs. Mallette's recipe for Dobosh Torte (Hungarian) is one of the recipes in the book. Here it is:

DOBOSH TORTE HUNGARIAN)

Cake:

12 egg yolks
3 cups sugar
4 teaspoon baking powder
1 standard glass of ice cold water (8-10 oz.)
3 cups flour sifted three times

Cream sugar and egg yolks until a light creamy color. Then add flour, baking powder and water. Mix batter well or until bubbles start forming. Fold in egg whites, beaten stiff. Bake 10 to 12 minutes at 350 degrees F.

This is a 12-layer cake. Use 9-inch low pans. Bake four layers at a time for three times. Cake should not get real brown.

Have pans greased with butter and sprinkled with flour. Put about ½ cup to ¾ cup of batter in each pan for 12 layers.

Filling:

1 pound sweet butter
1 tablespoon Hershey cocoa
1½ cup sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla

Cream butter and sugar together. Put 1 tablespoon Hershey cocoa into a small pan with a little water and cook over heat until thick, then cool. When cold, add this to the creamed butter and sugar, add vanilla and mix well.

Spread frosting on each layer until you have spread all 12 layers, then frost sides and top. Put into refrigerator to chill.

Use one-half the ingredients for a 6-layer torte.

Mrs. Marjorie Walz of Wheeling has some recipes in the Carmel cookbook, too. One is for Henrici Coffee Cake. Here it is:

HENRICI COFFEE CAKE

1 cup margarine
1½ cup sugar
Pinch of salt
3 eggs
1 cup milk
3 cups flour
3 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon nutmeg

Cream sugar and margarine well. Add vanilla and nutmeg. Add eggs, one at a time and beat well. Sift flour, baking powder and salt and add to batter alternately with milk, ending with flour. Grease 9-inch tube pan and flour. Sprinkle bottom of pan with chopped walnuts. Pour in batter and bake at 350 degrees F. for one (1) hour. When cool, invert cake and sprinkle with powdered sugar.

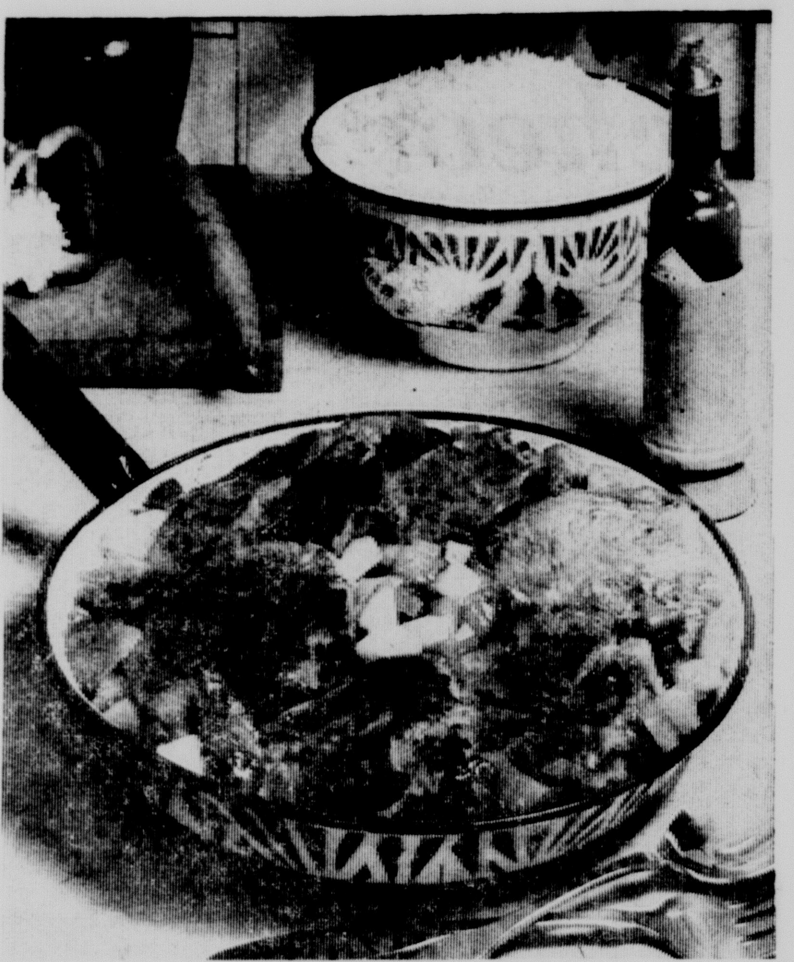
Gourmet Snack

Place one pound of pretzels in a shallow baking dish. Mix one-quarter cup butter, one-quarter cup crumbled blue cheese and one teaspoon garlic powder. Dot the cheese mixture over pretzels. Bake at 325 degrees for ten to fifteen minutes. Shake pan often to coat all pretzels. Cool. Store blue cheese pretzels in air-tight containers.

Scotch Pancakes

Combine 2 cups ground leftover meat, 2 cups cooked oatmeal, 2 beaten eggs with salt and pepper to taste. Mix thoroughly. Fry the cakes, using approximately 1 tablespoon of the mixture for each, in a small amount of lard or drippings. Serve with hot syrup or warm applesauce.

Pork Chops, Sweet and Sour!



In addition to pork's economy relative to other meat choices at this time, its adaptability makes it a good choice for the budget-minded housewife with a flair for distinctive cooking. The popular meat's rich flavor blends well with a variety of vegetables, fruits and seasonings—as savored in this recipe for sweet-and-sour pork chops.

Liquid Tabasco sauce mixes smoothly with cider vinegar, brown sugar and soy sauce for the sweet-and-sour gravy that makes this dish uniquely delicious. Fresh onion, green pepper and carrot lend additional flavor and texture to the piquant gravy.

This skillet dish is a meal in itself, wonderful for a simple Saturday night supper. Just serve it with a bowl of hot rice, and watch everything disappear in no time!

PORKERS SWEET AND SOUR

6 loin pork chops
1 medium onion, chopped
1 medium pepper, chopped
1 medium carrot, sliced
1 teapoon salt
½ cup water
⅓ cup cedar vinegar
¼ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
¼ cup chopped apple
1 tablespoon soy sauce
½ teaspoon Tabasco
1 tablespoon cornstarch

Brown chops on both sides in large skillet. Push chops to one side of pan. Add onion, pepper, carrot and salt; let saute about 5 minutes. Rearrange chops in pan with vegetables. Add water, vinegar, sugar, apple, soy sauce and Tabasco. Cover; let simmer until chops are tender, about 1½ hours. Remove chops from skillet. Combine cornstarch with a small amount of water. Stir slowly into gravy in pan. Bring to boil, stirring constantly. Pour gravy over chops. Yield: 4 to 6 servings. (SH

Brighten Spirits With Cherry Pie

Bright, juicy cherry pie lifts the spirits anytime. Since the color is the charm of this dessert, thicken the cherry and pear filling with quick-cooking tapioca. This versatile ingredient will keep both fruit and juice clear and sparkling — it can be stirred right into the fruit without premixing with a liquid.

CHERRY-PEAR CRISSCROSS PIE

1 can (1 lb. 1 oz.) water-packed pitted red sour cherries
1 can (1 lb.) pear halves
4 teaspoons quick-cooking tapioca
1 cup sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
6 drops red food coloring
¼ teaspoon almond extract (optional)
Pastry for two-crust 9-inch pie
1 tablespoon butter

Drain the cherries, reserving ½ cup of the syrup. Drain the pear halves and dice. Combine tapioca, sugar, salt, cherries, cherry syrup, pears, food coloring, and almond extract. Mix thoroughly and let stand about 15 minutes.

Meanwhile, roll half of the pastry less than ⅛ inch thick. Line a 9-inch pie pan and trim pastry at edge of rim. Roll remaining pastry less than ⅛ inch thick and cut into ½-inch strips. Fill pie shell with cherry mixture. Dot with butter. Moisten edge of bottom crust. Arrange pastry strips to form lattice across top of pie, pressing ends to edge of bottom crust. Flute edge. Bake at 425 degrees for 50 minutes, or until crust is golden brown and filling bubbles near center. (SH

Cheese and Tuna Team in Casserole

Rousing good meals without meat put a feather in any cook's cap. With cheese, mainstay of such meatless menus, it's an accomplishment within the reach of all. In this Scalloped Cheese 'N' Tuna, American cheese teams with eggs, tuna and, for the smooth creamy sauce, nonfat dry milk. Complement with a vegetable, green salad, and flaky butter crescents.

SCALLOPED CHEESE 'N TUNA

(Makes 5 to 6 servings)

½ cup butter or new Danish margarine
½ cup chopped green papper
1 tablespoon dehydrated minced onion
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup flour
2/3 cup nonfat dry milk
1¾ cups water
2 cups (¼ of 2-pound loaf) processed American cheese, shredded
3 (7-oz.) cans flaked tuna
6 hard-cooked eggs, sliced

In a medium-size saucepan, over medium heat, melt butter. Add green pepper, onion and salt; saute until tender. Blend in flour. Sprinkle nonfat dry milk over water; stir to blend. Gradually stir milk into vegetable-flour mixture. Stir constantly and cook until thickened and smooth. Add cheese; stir until melted.

In a 12 x 7½ x 2-inch baking dish, make a layer of tuna fish, hard-cooked egg slices and cheese sauce; repeat to make second layer. Bake in a moderate (350 degrees F.) oven for 20 minutes, or until light golden brown. If desired, one or two egg yolks may be reserved and used to sieve over top of finished casserole as a garnish.

Mothers Club Issues Dessert Recipe Book

If you're looking for some new dessert recipes to try when you entertain, you can find more than 500 different but simple to make ones in a new cookbook put out by the Mothers Club of Carmel High School in Mundelein.

The recipes are favorites of the mothers of Carmel students, some of whom live in Wheeling and Buffalo Grove. The book is called "Cream of Carmel," and copies may be obtained from Mrs. Warren Mallette, 13 Crestview Terr., Buffalo Grove, 634-3043.

Mrs. Mallette's recipe for Dobosh Torte (Hungarian) is one of the recipes in the book. Here it is:

DOBOSH TORTE HUNGARIAN)

Cake:

12 egg yolks
3 cups sugar
4 teaspoon baking powder
1 standard glass of ice cold water (8-10 oz.)
3 cups flour sifted three times

Cream sugar and egg yolks until a light creamy color. Then add flour, baking powder and water. Mix batter well or until bubbles start forming. Fold in egg whites, beaten stiff. Bake 10 to 12 minutes at 350 degrees F.

This is a 12-layer cake. Use 9-inch low pans. Bake four layers at a time for three times. Cake should not get real brown.

Have pans greased with butter and sprinkled with flour. Put about ½ cup to ¾ cup of batter in each pan for 12 layers.

Filling:

1 pound sweet butter
1 tablespoon Hershey cocoa
1½ cup sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla

Cream butter and sugar together. Put 1 tablespoon Hershey cocoa into a small pan with a little water and cook over heat until thick, then cool. When cold, add this to the creamed butter and sugar, add vanilla and mix well.

Spread frosting on each layer until you have spread all 12 layers, then frost sides and top. Put into refrigerator to chill.

Use one-half the ingredients for a 6-layer torte.

Mrs. Marjorie Walz of Wheeling has some recipes in the Carmel cookbook, too. One is for Henrici Coffee Cake. Here it is:

HENRICI COFFEE CAKE

1 cup margarine
1½ cup sugar
Pinch of salt
3 eggs
1 cup milk
3 cups flour
3 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon nutmeg

Cream sugar and margarine well. Add vanilla and nutmeg. Add eggs, one at a time and beat well. Sift flour, baking powder and salt and add to batter alternately with milk, ending with flour. Grease 9-inch tube pan and flour. Sprinkle bottom of pan with chopped walnuts. Pour in batter and bake at 350 degrees F. for one (1) hour. When cool, invert cake and sprinkle with powdered sugar.

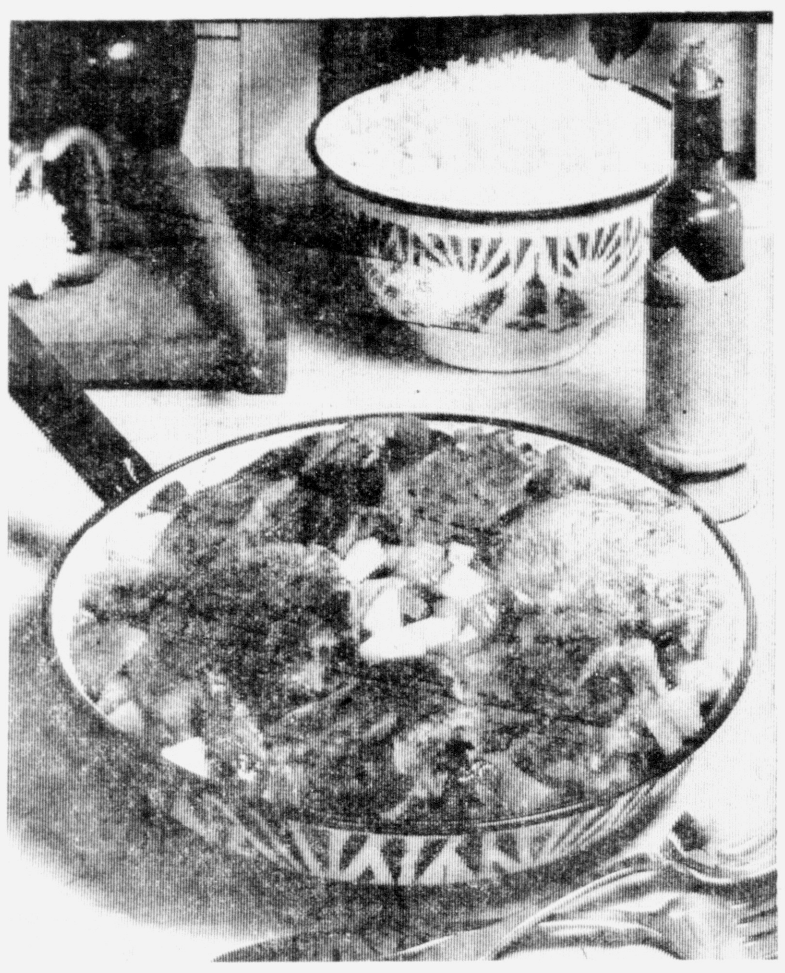
Scotch Pancakes

Combine 2 cups ground leftover meat, 2 cups cooked oatmeal, 2 beaten eggs with salt and pepper to taste. Mix thoroughly. Fry the cakes, using approximately 1 tablespoon of the mixture for each, in a small amount of lard or drippings. Serve with hot syrup or warm applesauce.

Gourmet Snack

Place one pound of pretzels in a shallow baking dish. Mix one-quarter cup butter, one-quarter cup crumbled blue cheese and one teaspoon garlic powder. Dot the cheese mixture over pretzels. Bake at 325 degrees for ten to fifteen minutes. Shake pan often to coat all pretzels. Cool. Store blue cheese pretzels in air-tight containers.

Pork Chops, Sweet and Sour!



In addition to pork's economy relative to other meat choices at this time, its adaptability makes it a good choice for the budget-minded housewife with a flair for distinctive cooking. The popular meat's rich flavor blends well with a variety of vegetables, fruits and seasonings—as savored in this recipe for sweet-and-sour pork chops.

Liquid Tabasco sauce mixes smoothly with cider vinegar, brown sugar and soy sauce for the sweet-and-sour gravy that makes this dish uniquely delicious. Fresh onion, green pepper and carrot lend additional flavor and texture to the piquant gravy.

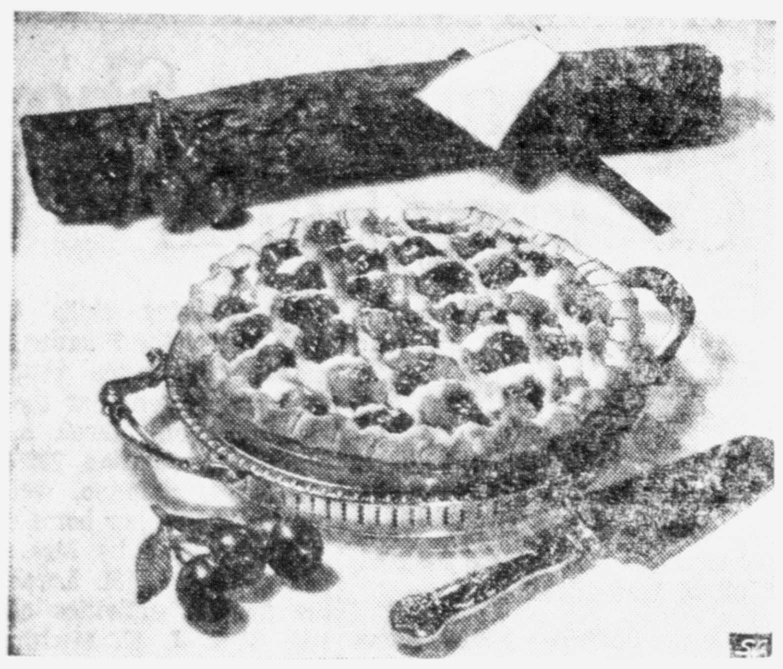
This skillet dish is a meal in itself, wonderful for a simple Saturday night supper. Just serve it with a bowl of hot rice, and watch everything disappear in no time!

PORKERS SWEET AND SOUR

6 loin pork chops
1 medium onion, chopped
1 medium pepper, chopped
1 medium carrot, sliced
1 teapoon salt
½ cup water
⅓ cup cedar vinegar
¼ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
¼ cup chopped apple
1 tablespoon soy sauce
½ teaspoon Tabasco
1 tablespoon cornstarch

Brown chops on both sides in large skillet. Push chops to one side of pan. Add onion, pepper, carrot and salt; let saute about 5 minutes. Rearrange chops in pan with vegetables. Add water, vinegar, sugar, apple, soy sauce and Tabasco. Cover; let simmer until chops are tender, about 1½ hours. Remove chops from skillet. Combine cornstarch with a small amount of water. Stir slowly into gravy in pan. Bring to boil, stirring constantly. Pour gravy over chops. Yield: 4 to 6 servings. (SH

Brighten Spirits With Cherry Pie



Bright, juicy cherry pie lifts the spirits anytime. Since the color is the charm of this dessert, thicken the cherry and pear filling with quick-cooking tapioca. This versatile ingredient will keep both fruit and juice clear and sparkling — it can be stirred right into the fruit without premixing with a liquid.

CHERRY-PEAR
CRISSCROSS PIE

1 can (1 lb. 1 oz.) water-packed pitted red sour cherries
1 can (1 lb.) pear halves
4 teaspoons quick-cooking tapioca
1 cup sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
6 drops red food coloring
¼ teaspoon almond extract (optional)
Pastry for two-crust 9-inch pie
1 tablespoon butter

Drain the cherries, reserving ½ cup of the syrup. Drain the pear halves and dice. Combine tapioca, sugar, salt, cherries, cherry syrup, pears, food coloring, and almond extract. Mix thoroughly and let stand about 15 minutes.

Meanwhile, roll half of the pastry less than ⅛ inch thick. Line a 9-inch pie pan and trim pastry at edge of rim. Roll remaining pastry less than ⅛ inch thick and cut into ½-inch strips. Fill pie shell with cherry mixture. Dot with butter. Moisten edge of bottom crust. Arrange pastry strips to form lattice across top of pie, pressing ends to edge of bottom crust. Flute edge. Bake at 425 degrees for 50 minutes, or until crust is golden brown and filling bubbles near center. (SH

Mrs. Ralph T. Lidge Will Head Auxiliary's Luncheon-Show

MID-MORNING KICK-OFF meeting for the eighth annual luncheon and fashion show benefit sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary of Northwest Community Hospital was well received by Mrs. Richard A. Wulfert of Mount Prospect, secretary and fashion coordinator, Mrs. Ralph T. Lidge of Arlington Heights, chairman, and Mrs. A. F. O'Neil, Arlington Heights, co-chairman. Bonwit Teller will furnish the fashions. (S

Mrs. Ralph T. Lidge of Arlington Heights has been named chairman of one of the largest and most outstanding fashion shows in the area, the Northwest Community Hospital Auxiliary's eighth annual luncheon and show. The announcement came from Mrs. A. J. Daley, president of the Auxiliary. Attendance at last year's luncheon was in excess of 1000 and net profit was $12,000.

The benefit has been set for Tuesday, Sept. 13, in the Turfside Room at Arlington Park.

Assisting Mrs. Lidge as co-chairman will be Mrs. A. F. O'Neil of Palatine. Advisory chairman will be the previous year's chairman, Mrs. Daley of Mount Prospect.

Other committee chairmen appointed are: Mrs. Richard A. Wulfert, Mount Prospect, fashion coordinator and secretary; Mrs. Robert W. Alfini, Mount Prospect, reservations; Mrs. D. C. Jensen, Mount Prospect, decorations; Mrs. Allen E. Grady, Palatine, program; Mrs. Robert Lockwood, Palatine, printing; Mrs. T. J. Waldron Jr., of Rolling Meadows, publicity.

Others serving from Arlington Heights are: Mrs. Carleton Heiberger, invitations; Mrs. Daniel E. Kain, prizes; Mrs. R. C. Kloempken, hostesses; Mrs. William C. Tobin, treasurer; Mrs. Nat Burfeind, cocktails; Mrs. Charles H. Baker, gifts, assisted by Mrs. Edwin Bruning of Inverness and Mrs. Kenneth Retzke of Rolling Meadows.

Chairman Mrs. Lidge wishes to remind everyone that this fashion show and luncheon benefit is open to the public, but because of the large seating capacity, invitations for reservations are mailed several months in advance. Women who have not previously received an invitation and would like to be on the mailing list or make a reservation are asked to contact Mrs. Heiberger, 710 S. Beverly Lane, Arlington Heights. (S

Flipped and fried were a record 2,200 pancakes and 200 pounds of sausage when the Women's Auxiliary of Buffalo Grove Volunteer Fire Department held its fourth annual pancake breakfast. The pancakes and sausages were served to an estimated 800 persons with proceeds going toward equipment for the firemen.

The figures were revealed March 9 when the group held its March meeting. Also discussed was the July picnic and the joint sponsorship with Buffalo Grove Woman's Club of the Tuberculosis Mobile X-ray unit in September.

All women of the community are invited to join the group. Next meeting is scheduled for April in the home of Mrs. Robert Guenther. (S

Make Collegian's Room into Den Or Home Office

When a child goes off to college, his bedroom usually becomes wasted space in the house. But not if it's redesigned to serve as a needed home office and den.

It's not hard to get away from the bedroom look. First, treat the bed as sitting space, removing head and foot board, pushing the bed against a wall and adding a tailored cover and back bolsters.

NEXT, REDO walls with a prestige solid lumber paneling like resawn cedar or silky smooth hemlock. At the same time, add built-ins for office and den use—a desk, cabinets for stationery supplies and book shelving.

Windows can be given a more tailored look with matchstick blinds, fabric-covered shades or louvered shutters, and a fresh color scheme can be introduced with the bed cover, a carpet and accessories.

Completed, the room functions year-long, but also welcomes the college child home for vacations. (S

'Sixpence in Her Shoe'

Topic Departure for AAUW Study

"Sixpence in Her Shoe" by Phyllis McGinley has been chosen by the Literature Study Group of the American Association of University Women's Arlington Heights branch as the subject of the group's March 21 meeting, which will be held at 8:15 in the home of Mrs. Donald Novario, 716 S. Dryden Place, Arlington Heights. Leading the discussion, in which all members of the group will participate, will be Mrs. Edward Doherty.

One of the branch's oldest and strongest study groups, the Literature group sustains a loyal nucleus of members who continue to join year after year, and this year averages an attendan of 14 to 16 participants at each monthly meeting.

According to Mrs. Donald Dierson, chairman of the Literature Study Group, the March 21 program represents a departure in topic emphasis and is the first of two just-for-fun readings for the group. The April program will focus on the works of Mary Stewart, with concentration on either "Airs Above the Ground" or "The Moonspinners".

IN THE main, however, the group has been directing its attentions to the AAUW Program Topic "Education—An Antidote to Poverty." Thus its fall and winter discussions included reviews of "The Other America" by Michael Harrington, "The Affluent Society" by John Galbraith, and "A Long and Happy Life" by Reynolds Price, concluding the study of poverty in various forms as revealed in vcontemporary literature w "The Invisible Man" by Ralph Ellison.

The introduction of a play, Lorraine Hansberry's "A Raisin in the Sun," at the January meeting represented a novel and stimulating shift in literary form and study techniques for the drama were reviewed by Mrs. R. Murray Campbell, with members of the group taking the various roles for the reading of the last two acts.

THE FINAL meeting for the year will provide members with the opportunity of hearing a recording of "In White America," a play concerning the history of the Negro in the United States, by Martin Duberman. The May meeting will also include a session for planning the 1966-1967 reading program which will continue under the "Education—An Antidote to Poverty" program topic.

High point of the year for the Literature Study Group will be a dinner-theater party, late in May, to include both members and their husbands, for a performance of "The Odd Couple."

"QUEEN ELIZABETH sat in this chair" learned Mrs. Earle D. Strehlow of Arlington Heights as she joined the Lord Mayor of Montego Bay just following an official visit of the queen and Prince Phillip on March 6. The Strehlows, who were vacationing in Jamaica, were among the guests sitting in the reserve section during the reception.

Drama Group to Entertain Presbyterian Women Mar. 23

Another drama by the Presbyterian Players will be presented to the Presbyterian Women's Association Wednesday, March 23, in the sanctuary of First Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights. The play, under the idrection of Mrs. Robert Tindall, will be presented following a 12:30 luncheon.

The public is invited to make reservations at the church office, CL 3-0492, by Monday, March 21.

THE DRAMA, "Cry Dawn in Dark Babylon," is a dramatic meditation by P. W. Turner, an Angelican priest. The drama, with none of the usual theatrical aids, presents questions that have always bothered man.

The 4-year-old Presbyterian Players is a group of five women with extensive knowledge of dramatics. Members are Mrs. Robert Hawley, Mrs. Bass Watkins, Mrs. Fredrick Brooks, Mrs. Melvin Freeman and Mrs. James Smith. Their director has participated in establishing four community theatre groups, including one in Copenhagen. For seven years she was an active member of Arlington Heights Village Theatre. (S

St. Edna Women Hear Slide Talk

In keeping with the holy season of Lent, St. Edna's Women's Club, Arlington Heights, heard an illustrated talk Wednesday evening on "The Holy Land Today." Speaker was Allen Janusch who contrasted present customs and rituals with those of long ago.

Topping the list of coming events for the club is the April 20 meeting in St. James Hall, Arlington Heights when members will entertain their husbands and friends with "Way Off Broadway Presents," a comedy enacted by the St. Edna Players. According to Mrs. Samuel D. Hutcheson, Jr., president of the club, the newly-organized St. Edna Chorus will also entertain with selections from Broadway shows and old time melodies. (S

Antiques Draw Hundreds to Area Show

CIVIL WAR DRUM caught the eye of 5-year-old Roberta Warehan, one of the younger browsers at Mount Prospect Woman's Club's annual antique show and sale. Roberta, daughter of the Robert Warehans, 119 S. William, Mount Prospect, was also intrigued with the old wooden rocker. The 3-day show was held in Mount Prospect Country Club where hundreds of area women explored the wares of dealers from Illinois and neighboring states.

75-YEAR-OLD DECOY GOOSE, known as a Canadian klunker intrigued Mrs. Richard Wistor and Mrs. Meyer Grant, who were among the hundreds of visitors at Mount Prospect Woman's Club's annual antique show and sale. Hand-carved of pine wood, the decoy was used by hunters to attract geese to the corn fields.

MODELING SOME OF THE recent handwork of Arlington Heights Junior Woman's Club members are Mrs. Robert Nilsen and Mrs. Larry Hogrefe. The social service committee of the Juniors made four dozen bikini scarves for teens of the American Indian Center in Chicago. The center, a special project of the Indian Affairs Division of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, aids American Indians in finding jobs and helps them adjust to their new environments.

'Spring Training' Is Offered Homemakers

A spring training program for the women of Arlington Heights is being sponsored by the Arlington Heights Park District.

A 9-week series of lectures and demonstrations will be presented beginning March 30 at Recreation Park Field House.

This Wednesday afternoon activity from 1 to 3 will offer hints on what housewives can do to enhance their appearance, their homes and their surroundings. Representatives from local businesses and community organizations will be providing informative procedures on such topics as spring planting, hair styles, home furnishings and interior decorating, antiques, make-up, using art in the home and flower arranging.

Housewives may attend any or all of the spring training sessions. The program is offered free to Arlington Heights residents. More complete details and dates may be obtained by contacting Demmaree Sunkel at the park district office, CL 3-0620. (S

Garden Club Workshop Is March 21st

"Home Decor and Flowers" is the title of the program to be given by Mrs. W. J. Harris, with the assistance of interior designer Olga Kittler at the Arlington Heights Garden Club's artistic workshop. Set for Monday March 21, at 7:30 p.m. the workshop will be held in Pioneer Park Field House.

Mrs. Harris, a nationally accredited flower show judge, takes her audience on an imaginery tour of a 7-room house. Using backdrops of wall colors and drapery fabrics provided by Mrs. Kittler, she demonstrates, room by room, how flowers enhance and complement the decor of every area in the home.

Arlington Heights Garden Club invites women in the area to come and bring a neighbor. There will be a nominal guest fee. For further information readers may call Mrs. Joseph Koenen at CL 9-4514. (S

Mad Hatters Go Wild with Imagination

MAD, MAD, MAD, MAD HATTERS named winners of the Mad Hatter contest last week were Mrs. Louis Runge, funniest, Mrs. Robert Fernstrom Jr., prettiest, and Mrs. Jack Coyle, most original. A turquoise bonnet resplendent with almost-real vegetables won for Mrs. Runge, while a ruffled net cap with yellow roses earned the title for Mrs. Fernstrom. Mrs. Coyle, corresponding secretary of Arlington Newcomers, sponsors of the contest, created a green mimeograph machine for her winning entry.

HONORABLE MENTION in Arlington Newcomers' Mad Hatter contest went to Mrs. Fred Bauer for her assortment of kitchen utensils arranged on a plastic dog dish for the funniest, to Mrs. Warren Clements for her huge purple crepe paper hat as prettiest and to Mrs. Damon C. Borders for her sequinned mermaid on a real sand beach, complete with shells, most original. The contest is an annual affair of the club members who meet for luncheon in Old Orchard Country Club.

ROSES BLOOM ON lacy swim caps for the opening number of the Mermaid Mamas' synchronized swim show to be staged March 26-27 at Northwest Suburban YMCA. Three of the Mamas are Mrs. Claude Dotson of Mount Prospect, Mrs. Allen Mason of Arlington Heights and Mrs. Harry McIntyre of Palatine. The Saturday performance begins at 8:30 p.m., Sunday at 7:30. The theme, "If I Had the Time," weaves a picture of things to do, places to go and all the things we put off because we don't have the time or money. Tickets can be purchased at the YMCA. IT WILL BE FUN and informative when Joseph Schneller of Schneller Furniture Co., Arlington Heights, gives tips on interior decorating at tonight's meeting of Palatine Newcomers' Club. Already intrigued with some of his unusual home accessories are Mrs. Roger Haugen and Mrs. Donald Mosack, both of Palatine, who recently went to Schneller's for a preview. This program is just one of many timely topics slated by the newcomers in their short year and a half of existence. (Staff photo)

For And About Teenagers

HE KNOWS THAT I LIKE HIM VERY MUCH...

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "I am a girl in the eighth grade. I am 13½. And my friends consider me cute. I happen to like a particular boy. I have liked him for a year. But, he doesn't seem to like me. He knows that I like him very much. I try to be nice to him, but I am afraid that sometimes I start to "show off". Being nice to him doesn't help, so what should I do? I could get another boyfriend if I tried, but I want him! What should I do? He doesn't have a girlfriend."

OUR REPLY: If this boy is chances are that he likes you but not interested in another girl, he is not, as yet, interested in having a girlfriend. He might become interested tomorrow, next week, or maybe not for a long time.

He will like you, if you like him, unless you go overboard with the "show off" routine. The average boy does not like a girl who is a "show off", who is "loud" or too aggressive. This does not mean a girl has to be a stick-in-the-mud. Being friendly in a quiet way is more the order of the day.

Once you have established the fact that you like the boy it is not necessary to prove it over and over again. Begin to play it cool. Continue to be friendly, always speak. But, let him begin to wonder if you still like him.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, COMMUNITY AND SUBURBAN PRESS SERVICE, FRANKFORT, KY.

Wash-and-Wear Need Proper Care

Like the idea of wash-and-wear or "easy care" clothes, but think they don't live up to their promise? They really do if you select them with care and treat them properly.

There are three basic types of wash-and-wear materials — synthetic fibers, blends of synthetic and natural fibers, and natural fabrics that have been chemically treated.

With so many different fabrics available, it is frequently impossible to tell one from another. Fortunately, the 1960 Textile Labeling act has solved this problem.

THIS FEDERAL law requires that garment labels show the generic names of the fibers used in a fabric — not just the brand names. This identifies the family of synthetics and, since generally the family or type is laundered in the same way, you don't have to remember how to handle each of the myriad of brand names — merely the few different families or generic types.

For instance, the most commonly used synthetics come from the "polyester" family— such as Dacron, Kodel, Fortrel or Vycron — or the "acrylic" family — such as Acrilan, Orlon, Creslan or Zefran.

Blending fibers often adds durability, wrinkle resistance, comfort and beauty to fabrics. Generally a fabric assumes the major properties of its predominant fiber.

THE BEST blends are those in which the various fibers are in balance so that optimum wash - and - wear benefits are achieved. For example, experience has shown that a Dacron-cotton blend performs best when the ratio is 65 per cent Dacron and 35 per cent cotton. With other polyesters, the ratio may vary.

Treated cottons also are popular and new developments are further enhancing their wash-and - wear characteristics.

The construction of a wash-and-wear garment is equally important. It is best to avoid garments with top stitching. In laundering, the threads in such stitching can shrink and cause puckering. If the seams are puckered when the garment is new, that's a good indication of poor wash-and-wear performance.

CHECK THE inside seams, also. Seam allowances should be generous — usually five-eighths of an inch. They should also be finished — either by pinking, overcasting or hemming. For firm fabrics, such as treated percales, a pinked edge is adequate.

However, for loosely woven, sheer or 100 per cent synthetic fabrics, a bound or hemmed seam may be required to prevent fraying.

Even the best wash-and-wear garments won't really be "easy care" if you don't treat them properly.

AVOID HOT water in laundering synthetics, since most soften when heated and, if flexed in this condition, hard-to-remove wrinkles will result. However, dryer-drying at the wash-and-wear setting will remove these wrinkles, so you need take no special precautions if you have a dryer.

Cold - water washing will preserve colors, so it usually is desirable unless the garment is heavily soiled, particularly with oil-based soils, in which case warm water is better for greater soil removal.

White synthetics will maintain whiteness better if chlorine bleach is used, always during the wash phase of the cycle.

A BLEND should be laundered by the method recommended for the predominant fiber in the fabric. For example, a 65 per cent polyester, 35 per cent cotton blend should be washed as though it were 100 per cent polyester.

When drying, use the wash-and-wear setting on the dryer. This is designed not only to dry but also to relax wear wrinkles right out of the fabric. Thus, the most wrinkle-free results are achieved by dryer drying all types of wash-and-wear.

Strange as it may seem, an extremely important element in obtaining good wash-and-wear results is to remove the items from the dryer immediately after it stops. If they are allowed to be in the bottom of the warm dryer, new wrinkles are sure to appear.

THIS FEDERAL law requires that garment labels show the generic names of the fibers used in a fabric — not just the brand names. This identifies the family of synthetics and, since generally the family or type is laundered in the same way, you don't have to remember how to handle each of the myriad of brand names — merely the few different families or generic types.

For instance, the most commonly used synthetics come from the "polyester" family—such as Dacron, Kodel, Fortrel or Vycron — or the "acrylic" family — such as Acrilan, Orlon, Creslan or Zefran.

Blending fibers often adds durability, wrinkle resistance, comfort and beauty to fabrics. Generally a fabric assumes the major properties of its predominant fiber.

THE BEST blends are those in which the various fibers are in balance so that optimum wash - and - wear benefits are achieved. For example, experience has shown that a Dacron-cotton blend performs best when the ratio is 65 per cent Dacron and 35 per cent cotton. With other polyesters, the ratio may vary.

Treated cottons also are popular and new developments are further enhancing their wash-and - wear characteristics.

The construction of a wash-and-wear garment is equally important. It is best to avoid garments with top stitching. In laundering, the threads in such stitching can shrink and cause puckering. If the seams are puckered when the garment is new, that's a good indication of poor wash-and-wear performance.

CHECK THE inside seams, also. Seam allowances should be generous — usually five-eights of an inch. They should also be finished — either by pinking, overcasting or hemming. For firm fabrics, such as treated percales, a pinked edge is adequate.

However, for loosely woven, sheer or 100 per cent synthetic fabrics, a bound or hemmed seam may be required to prevent fraying.

Even the best wash-and-wear garments won't really be "easy care" if you don't treat them properly.

AVOID HOT water in laundering synthetics, since most soften when heated and, if flexed in this condition, hard-to-remove wrinkles will result. However, dryer-drying at the wash-and-wear setting will remove these wrinkles, so you need take no special precautions if you have a dryer.

Cold - water washing will preserve colors, so it usually is desirable unless the garment is heavily soiled, particularly with oil-based soils, in which case warm water is better for greater soil removal.

White synthetics will maintain whiteness better if chlorine bleach is used, always during the wash phase of the cycle.

A BLEND should be laundered by the method recommended for the predominant fiber in the fabric. For example, a 65 per cent polyester, 35 per cent cotton blend should be washed as though it were 100 per cent polyester.

When drying, use the wash-and-wear setting on the dryer. This is designed not only to dry but also to relax wear wrinkles right out of the fabric. Thus, the most wrinkle-free results are achieved by dryer drying all types of wash-and-wear.

Strange as it may seem, an extremely important element in obtaining good wash-and-wear results is to remove the items from the dryer immediately after it stops. If they are allowed to be in the bottom of the warm dryer, new wrinkles are sure to appear. (S

Music-On-Stage's 'Wildcat'

Couples Get Show on Road

The Music-On-Stage spring production, "Wildcat," uses 18 husband-wife teams to help get its show on the road March 26, 27 and April 1 and 2 at Prospect High School Little Theatre, 801 W. Kensington Road, Mount Prospect.

Lou and David Lindemann are one of five Arlington Heights couples in this musical tale of oil wildcatting in the Southwest. Both are dancers and have held office in MOS in former years—Lou as secretary and Dave as a past president.

Mr. and Mrs. William Thrasher are found backstage—Amelia serving coffee between scenes after fulfilling her duty as make-up artist and Bill as a stage hand.

THE RAY Blakemans are old timers with MOS. This year Anne is not only a member of the chorus, but is ticket chairman, and her husband Ray is box office chairman. Their Arlington High freshman daughter, June, is "runner" for the properties committee.

Newcomers from Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. Grigsen joined the musical group this year and quickly found a niche as chorus member for Iris and the part of Corky for Al.

In the past the Moderhacks have served on stage and off. This show both are backstage —Betty as member of properties and Dick on scenery crew.

MR. AND MRS. Charles Knodel, Barrington residents, are lending a helping hand off-stage as well as backstage. Gaye is seen working with make-up while Chuck is chief "curtain puller."

Bensenville has Marie Murawski active on make-up crew and John, her husband, set designer in previous years, working backstage.

Des Plaines residents Hattie and Harold Daniels give of their time as board members. Mrs. Daniels is secretary, chorus member and make-up assistant. Harold sees his duty as assistant to the publicity chairman and performs as second vice president. Their son Harold Jr. has a small speaking part in the show.

ELK GROVE Village sends a couple formerly before the footlights; but this show finds Eileen Moderhack helping with properties and her mate Don works on scenery.

The opportunist Sheriff Sam Gore in the oilfield saga is Frank Randall of Lake Zurich, who brings his wife Norma to sing in the chorus and help with costumes. Norma is past secretary, a post she held for two years.

ASSISTANT DIRECTOR Mrs. Jack Wassmer of Palatine, director Jerry Epperson, of Niles and Jack Wassmer, production coordinator, confer before a technical run-through of the Music-On-Stage musical, "Wildcat," to be staged March 26, 27 and April 1 and 2 at the Prospect High School Little Theatre, 801 W. Kensington Road, Mount Prospect. Reserved ticket information may be obtained by calling the Wassmers, 358-1250, or the box office chairman, Mrs. Ray Blakeman, 259-4179.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hecker, Mount Prospect, see backstage action for "Wildcat." Jo Anne is assistant to properties chairman, and Earl is a stagehand.

MUNDELEIN LENDS Irene Francis for make-up and costumes. Her mate, Stan, handles the stage manager's job with Ed Sacco, assisting. Ed, who also has a speaking part in the show, is the husband of Pat, costume chairman and dancer in this musical.

Carole Heisler appears as Jane, the slightly crippled sister of Wildcat Jackson, the oilfield hellion. Jim Heisler, Carole's talented spouse, plays trumpet in the show's orchestra.

Pat Chropkowski shares her husband's interest in MOS, but is backstage working on make-up while Don is singing "Tall Hope" on stage as Tattoo, an oil rigger.

FROM PALATINE come the Wassmers, charter members of Music-On-Stage. Alice is serving as assistant director and publicity chairman. Jack is MOS president, production coordinator for "Wildcat," and plays Oney, an oil rigger who does a song and dance.

The Ray Dietrich team hails from Prospect Heights. Marguerite is a charter member of MOS, a chorus member and program chiarman this year. Ray, Arlington Heights village treasurer, is alos treasurer for the group and helps with box office.

Wheeling lends Beth Vandenboom, choreographer 8 dancer and costume designer along with Hank, her husband, who plays Sookie, the crotchety old bum on whose land oil is discovered in this fast-paced comedy.

The curtain rises for Friday and Saturday night shows at 8:15 p.m., Sunday night performance curtain time is 7:30 p.m. Tickets may be obtained from any MOS member or the box office chairman, Mrs. Ray Blakeman, 259-4179. (Bill

Lyric to Give Preview of American Opera 'Susanna'

The Northwest Chapter of Lyric Opera has responded to the opportunity the Metropolitan Opera's National Company has presented by offering a new and American opera, "Susanna," to Chicagoland listeners.

The local chapter, with one of its own most popular performers, Winifred Nelson, will give an "introduction" to this opera Sunday afternoon, March 27.

"Susanna," the third opera written by the living American composer, Carlisle Floyd, is based on the Apocryphal story of Susannah and the Elders and transposed to the town of New Hope Valley in the Tennessee Mountains. Floyd wrote the libretto in 10 days in 1953 and completed the score in the spring of 1954. The world premiere was at Florida State University in 1956.

The Met performance will open April 18.

"WHILE THE story might be regarded as a contemporary morality play, it does not have the sterility of most of them," said Mrs. Nelson, a resident of Inverness. "It is vital and emotionally alive. Howard Taubman, music critic for the New York Times, has written that . . . the hot blood of life beats through it, and what it has to say is realized in terms of music and drama.' "

Mrs. Nelson was responsible for the Northwest chapter's operalogue on "La Boheme," in which she sang the role of Mimi. She was Desdemona in its presentation of "Othello," and last fall she sang the arias in one of the most successful programs of the season, "L'Heure Espagnol."

Mrs. Nelson commented, "While the music is definitely contemporary and American, it is also very melodic. The melody is reminiscent of folk music, and performers and listeners alike will feel comfortable with traditional patterns or rhythm and metre."

WINIFRED NELSON

THE AFTERNOON program will begin at 4 o'clock at the Knights of Columbus Hall on Kelsey Road. Because of the physical structure of the hall and particularly because of the central lighting arrangement, Mrs. Nelson has chosen to do the whole performance in the round.

Guests are welcome. After the program there will be a cocktail hour. (Bill

DPTG Has Hit In 'Streetcar'

BY JIM PHILLIPS
Paddock Drama Critic

You don't direct Tennessee Williams. You launch him. And Friday evening, Des Plaines Theatre Guild launched "Streetcar Named Desire." Williams' ode to a torn T-shirt will still be floating at the dock this weekend and next at the Guild Playhouse on Lee Street. I urge you to climb on board because it happens to be the best thing I've seen on DPTG's stage in many a year—and that includes the Guild's almost-impossible-for-community-theater production of "Rashomon."

To say that there weren't a few weaknesses here and there would be hedging a bit, but those few were so minor they need only slight mention: Jim Curren's "Young Collector," though excellent, needed more projection from Jim; I would challenge the use of "Autumn Leaves," "Good Night Sweetheart" and "Canadian Sunset" as music-bridge vehicles for Act 3, simply because you lose the accurate continuity already established by dixieland music. Also under scrutiny: is the music background absolutely necessary during Blanche's Act 2 monologue? And if it is, when do you effectively fade it out? Friday evening, it seemed to district from Blanche's lines.

"DESIRE'S" success has to be shared by DPTG's director, Tom Ventriss, his capable and energetic cast and one of the most talented backstage troupes in the Paddockland community theater business. Ventriss whipped the play into top shape, refused to let the first act grind to a screeching halt pace-wise, blocked with expertness on a small stage (the physical conflict scenes were realistic and exciting). Director Ventriss also prevented the brief scene between Blanche and the young collector from becoming a meaningless "bit" in a very meaningful play.

Ellen Rukin, Ron Rogers, Merton Staley and Barb Crippen performed well in brief parts. Phyl MacCowan and Bert Englund (Eunice and Steve) performed with confidence. They were well-chosen for their roles. Howard Huntley, as the tragic Mitch, wisely interpreted his character as a quiet young man merely looking for love in its most simple, unselfish form and not as some affection-starved mama's boy.

THANKS to the hard work of Nan Prince and Gerald Castillo, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Kowalski burst with life, and the audience breathed heavily with them. Miss Prince and Castillo ran the Tennessee track of emotions without looking like a pair of soap opera dropouts. And shades of method acting—we weren't Marlon Branded! Castillo gave what he had and not what he thought the audience would be looking for.

Offering a role like Blanche DuBois is like giving a condemned woman a choice of execution. Phyllis Halperin refused to be sacrificed by long monologues, drastic turnabouts in characterization, sharp change in pace and line-delivery volume. In short, Miss Halperin was a rewarding Blanche. A standout in the production.

"Streetcars," however, don't run just because there are paying passengers and a good conductor. You must have competent mechanics. DPTG has some of the best.

SET DECOR and design were cleverly thought out in terms of the Guild's stage, and in perfect keeping with the Williams format. Under a faded burnt orange haze, created by a lighting team which knew its business, the general on-and-off-the-street effect was Kowalski New Orleans. Sound was well-controlled and precise, for the most part. Make-up and wardrobe continue to be categories you seldom worry about when attending a DPTG show.

The Guild can take pride in its issue of the Tennessee Williams agony almanac. And the players shouldn't be disturbed when an occasional yuk-yuk echoes from the audience during a seriously-dramatic moment. It is this critic's opinion that some of Tennessee's material (especially his early works) has now become "Camp" to some theater audiences. The Guild's patrons were an example Friday night.

"The "ape monologue" in Act 1, the touching collector scene in Act 2 both received a smattering of laughter. Back in 1947, when "Streetcar Named Desire" was first produced, it was a dramatic outburst. The audience reeled under the impact of certain emotions which, up to that time, had not been experienced. Truly, "Streetcar" was the "Virginia Woolf" of its day. It's easy to see why certain theatre-going pseudo-sophisticates might chuckle here and there. The last years have made many of us grow too old too fast.

We should be happy to have an organization like Des Plaines Theatre Guild around to so effectively stunt that growth—and entertain at the same time.

Dinner-Theatre Play Has Unusual Aspects

"If a heartfelt sigh of relief is heard at the conclusion of our opening night performance, it will be coming not only from the actors on the stage but from the many behind-the-scenes workers, who will have completed at least part of their diverse responsibilities—successfully, they hope."

So says Jim Spahr, producer for the Elk Grove Masque and Staff production of "Mary, Mary," set to open a run of nine performances at Bensenville's Green Tree Inn tomorrow (Friday) evening.

"The crew for this play has been doing a terrific job," Spahr said. "The dinner-theater format presents unusual problems not always encountered in a conventional theater, and these problems sometimes make difficult production details even more difficult.

"RESERVATIONS, for example, being handled by Diane Sanders, require not only bookkeeping skills but geometry skills as well in seeing that guests are seated at tables providing an adequate view of the stage action," he explained.

"Hostesses, not usually required for an auditorium play, are also needed for the restaurant production, and Lois McKelvey has been doing a fine job in lining up these ladies.

"And programs, always a difficult job, are complicated here by having to include details of the menu. Lois Gotha deserves our deep thanks for handling this chore," Spahr said.

OTHER members of the production crew complimented by Spahr for their excellent work were Earl Marshall and Bonnie Casey, set construction and set design; Loretta Tomaselli, stage manager; Ro Dunning and Diane Calkins, lights and sound; Yvonne Bowman, properties, and Carol Greenfield, publicity.

The Jean Kerr comedy, the fourth dinner-and-play production staged by Masque and Staff, is scheduled for the evenings of March 18, 19, 20 and 25, 27, and April 1, 2, and 3. Dinner, included in the price of admission and featuring choice of entrees, will be served beginning at 7 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays and at 6 p.m. on Sundays.

The Green Tree Inn is located at 800 W. Irving Park Road in Bensenville. Reservations may be made by calling HE 9-7971.

All Saturday performances are sold out, according to Spahr, but seating is still available for all Friday and Sunday shows.

Curt Frankenstein Is Art Guild Guest

Curt Frankenstein, prominent Chicago artist, will give a demonstration entitled "Still Life with Impressionistic Approach" at today's (Thursday) meeting of the Elmhurst Artist's Guild. The meeting will be held at the Elmhurst Youth Center, 407 W. St. Charles Road, Elmhurst. Members and guests are invited.

Frankenstein, born in Germany, fled the Nazi regime and lived in China, working as a newspaper artist, from 1939 to 1947. He then came to Chicago to study at the American Academy on a scholarship, later studying at the Art Institute of Chicago and the Los Angeles Art Institute.

HE HAS WORKED almost exclusively in acrylic polymer — called liquitex — for the last several years and will work in that medium at today's meeting. Last year he won many honors, including the $1,000 First Purchase Award in the Union League Art Club competition, third prize at South Shore Community Art League, an $800 First Purchase Award at "Old Capital" Art Fair in Springfield and first prize in oils at Winnetka Art Fair.

Frankenstein has been accepted in many national and regional exhibitions, among them the Art Institute of Chicago, 1963 and 1964; Illinois State Museum, 1963 and 1965, and Allied Artists of America National Academy in New York, 1963.

Jan August At Embers

Jan August, currently appearing at the Embers Northwest in Arlington Heights, has been in retirement for the past five years. This engagement at the Embers is the beginning of his second road tour since returning to night clubs.

August played the Embers last year. He will be at the Embers Northwest, Euclid and Rand, through March.

During the past five years Jan and his wife Betty have devoted their time to opera and the writing of a home study book for piano.

A popular recording artist, August has sold 18 million records to date, and his arrangements of "Malaguena," "Intermezzo," "Claire De Lune," "Dark Eyes" and "Jalousie" have taken their place as standard record hits. (Bill

Jean Kerr Hit Playing Now at Country Club

'Mary, Mary,' which enjoyed a 45-month run in New York in the early 60's, is now playing at the Country Club Theatre at Old Orchard Country Club in Mount Prospect.

Patricia Ferris will play the central role of Mary, Jean Kerr's heroine who nearly ruins her life by an irrepressible flow of jokes. Frank Loverde will be seen as her somewhat fatuous but attractive husband, and Maureen Lee is cast as the diet-faddist he almost marries on the rebound.

Others in the cast are Norman Rice, who almost detaches Mary for good from her ego-wounded mate, and Kent More as an ironic lawyer whose efforts to untangle the hero's tax problems lead to re-entangling him with his wife.

Will Haas is staging the comedy, and Norman Rice is providing the scenic background.

Golf Mill Holds 'The Great Race'

Held over for a third week, "The Great Race" continues its engagement at the Golf Mill Theatre.

The feature, starring Tony Curtis, Jack Lemmon and Natalie Wood, brings these top movie personalities into competition with an automobile race from New York to Paris in 1908. Basically a slapstick comedy, "The Great Race," also stars Keenan Wynn and Peter Falk.

DPTG Has Hit In 'Streetcar'

BY JIM PHILLIPS
Paddock Drama Critic

You don't direct Tennessee Williams. You launch him. And Friday evening, Des Plaines Theatre Guild launched "Streetcar Named Desire." Williams' ode to a torn T-shirt will still be floating at the dock this weekend and next at the Guild Playhouse on Lee Street. I urge you to climb on board because it happens to be the best thing I've seen on DPTG's stage in many a year—and that includes the Guild's almost-impossible-for-community-theater production of "Rashomon."

To say that there weren't a few weaknesses here and there would be hedging a bit, but those few were so minor they need only slight mention: Jim Curren's "Young Collector," though excellent, needed more projection from Jim; I would challenge the use of "Autumn Leaves," "Good Night Sweetheart" and "Canadian Sunset" as music-bridge vehicles for Act 3, simply because you lose the accurate continuity already established by dixieland music. Also under scrutiny: is the music background absolutely necessary during Blanche's Act 2 monologue? And if it is, when do you effectively fade it out? Friday evening, it seemed to district from Blanche's lines.

"DESIRE'S" success has to be shared by DPTG's director, Tom Ventriss, his capable and energetic cast and one of the most talented backstage troupes in the Paddockland community theater business. Ventriss whipped the play into top shape, refused to let the first act grind to a screeching halt pace-wise, blocked with expertness on a small stage (the physical conflict scenes were realistic and exciting). Director Ventriss also prevented the brief scene between Blanche and the young collector from becoming a meaningless "bit" in a very meaningful play.

Ellen Rukin, Ron Rogers, Merton Staley and Barb Crippen performed well in brief parts. Phyl MacCowan and Bert Englund (Eunice and Steve) performed with confidence. They were well-chosen for their roles. Howard Huntley, as the tragic Mitch, wisely interpreted his character as a quiet young man merely looking for love in its most simple, unselfish form and not as some affection-starved mama's boy.

THANKS to the hard work of Nan Prince and Gerald Castillo, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Kowalski burst with life, and the audience breathed heavily with them. Miss Prince and Castillo ran the Tennessee track of emotions without looking like a pair of soap opera dropouts. And shades of method acting—we weren't Marlon Branded! Castillo gave what he had and not what he thought the audience would be looking for.

Offering a role like Blanche DuBois is like giving a condemned woman a choice of execution. Phyllis Halperin refused to be sacrificed by long monologues, drastic turnabouts in characterization, sharp change in pace and line-delivery volume. In short, Miss Halperin was a rewarding Blanche. A standout in the production.

"Streetcars," however, don't run just because there are paying passengers and a good conductor. You must have competent mechanics. DPTG has some of the best.

And the players shouldn't be disturbed when an occasional yuk-yuk echoes from the audience during a seriously-dramatic moment.
